Chapter 1631

"No wonder it's been so peaceful lately. I was just wondering why they've been quiet after Gods' Promise was broken. Someone is acting as the mastermind behind the scenes."

Finally, the question that had been in their mind had been answered.

Bruce nodded. "That's right. We were the ones planning for this. We've contacted the best people as quickly as possible to make sure they stay low. All they have to do is to wait for the formation of the army. Erudia is wary too. I've heard that they've been preparing for a battle. But I'm sure they'll never expect an army full of warriors. Will they be able to stop us? Hahaha!"

"I'm on board!"

"Same!"

Everyone began chortling in joy.

They had all joined the army.

In fact, they were starting to imagine the future where they had a piece of Erudia to themselves.

All of them were certain that Erudia would be defeated.

After all, Erudia was going up against the rest of the world.

It was a situation of all against one.

Similar sights of recruitment like what Bruce had just done was happening across the world.

They were truly gathering the best to go up against Erudia.

As more and more members were recruited for the army, a crisis slowly crept upon Erudia.

Helios and his gang were just thinking of how they should lure Levi to a remote area to teach him a lesson.

Yet, the fish had swum into the net itself.

As they walked, wide, maniacal grins grew on their faces.

I can't believe there are idiots like him!

In the meantime, Zoey and Mia had hurried over, hoping to stop them.

"This is between us. Don't stick your nose into this. Moreover, he's the one who came to us. He's the one who taunted us!"

Helios then shot Zoey a glare.

"What now? Do we go and look for the governor?"

Overwhelmed by anxiety, Zoey stomped her foot.

"Don't worry. Nothing will happen. Regardless of everything, Levi is still Evie's father. Helios and the rest know their limits; they won't do anything bad to him."

Mia nodded. “True. Even the governor can’t do anything about him, let alone Helios and his gang. Zoey, I’d say you shouldn’t intervene in this anymore. You might make things worse.”

Someone beside them chimed in, “Yes, yes. Moreover, Levi was the unreasonable one in this. He’s the one who revealed the secret to Shadow Order but tried to pin the blame on them. I’d say he deserves to be taught a lesson.”

Zoey worried her lips before huffing. “Levi, you never listen to me! This thing should’ve ended ages ago, but you refuse to let it go. You’ll have to face the consequences for it then!”

Daxton's landing made a hole in the ground.

The shockwave of the force crushed all of the trees around them.

Helios and the other two were dumbfounded.

Did he just beat a supreme class fighter with a punch?

What...

He's no average joe!

"He..."

Right as Helios was about to voice a reminder, Levi abruptly closed the distance between them and appeared right in front of him.

Pow!

The incoming punch covered Helios' vision in less than a second.

He did not even have the time to react.

"What happened?"
"Why were they beaten up instead?"
Everyone looked on in disbelief.
Logically speaking, Levi should have been the one to be beaten.
However, Helios and his comrades ended up getting hurt instead.
The strange phenomenon intrigued everyone.
"What's going on?"
"Where's Levi?" Zoey asked at once.
Something must have either happened to Levi or he isn't just an ordinary person.

The thought that there was more to Levi and the fact that he could beat up those guys caused Zoey's expression to drastically change.

Helios ignored them and went to see Avery instead.

Soon, Avery had gathered the citizens of Wildefield at a plaza as Helios had requested him to do so.

However, he was curious as to what Helios intentions were.

"Governor, something's wrong. Just now, they went to the old governor's grave! It looked as if the old governor had razed the area with his power!"

At that moment, the guard responsible for guarding the forbidden area shouted as he ran up to them.

He went on to describe the frightening scene.

It was obvious that the devastation was caused by a Rank Six Supreme class warrior.

Avery furrowed his eyebrows.

"Did you go near the old governor's grave?"

Helios nodded.

"Insolence! That place is forbidden! How dare you go there?" Avery roared.

"I understand now. It must be the old governor who beat them up and made them confess," Alfred remarked suddenly.

Everyone shared his view as to them. After all, Levi was just someone ordinary.

Evidently, Byron, the cyborg was Bruce's younger brother.

"Why did he go? Get him to return at once! It's too dangerous!" Bruce yelled.

"Master, Byron has gone for a long time. Furthermore, no one can stop him once he has set his heart upon something."

The group of men knelt on the floor, trembling.

Bruce sighed. "Damn it, he is messing up the plan. By going to Erudia, he might not only arouse their suspicions but also put himself in grave danger."

"In that case, what shall we do, Master? He should arrive in Erudia by now!"

"Should we send some of our elites to bring him back?"

Bruce shook his head at once. "No! Once we make any major movements, Erudia will notice, which will cause our plan for the allied army to fail. Hence, we can only pray that he returns in one piece."

"If he gets caught, it's not the end of the world. We'll just get Zarain to pressure Erudia for his return."

"Understood! We will then get in touch with Zarain's leaders."

Meanwhile, Levi had returned to North Hampton from Wildefield.

In the outskirts of North Hampton, he ran into Byron, who had just arrived in Erudia, by accident.

Byron was surprised by the appearance of five Supreme class warriors.

Behind them were many more fake Supreme class warriors.

"Get him!"

At Levi's command, Floyd and his men sprang to action.

Even though Byron was strong, he was quickly overwhelmed and apprehended.

"How dare you steal from Erudia?" Levi sneered.

"Pfft, you slaves! Release me, or all of you will die!" Byron roared.

Slap!

Levi smacked Byron on his face.

Boom!

Byron was stunned by how powerful the slap was as it tore into his flesh.

Having used his systems to analyze Levi, he concluded that Levi was just an ordinary human being.

Where did such power come from?

"Master, what shall we do with him?" Floyd asked.

Soon, news of Byron's capture spread quickly.

Bruce smashed the table in front of him. "I told him not to cause any trouble. And now, his life is in danger!"

"Master, our priority is to rescue him first," his servants suggested.

"Quickly, inform Zarain and get them to pressure Erudia into releasing Byron," Bruce instructed.

"Understood. We'll get right on it!"

Soon, his subordinates located Byron.

“Master, Byron is being imprisoned by Levi in North Hampton!”

Bruce sprang to his feet. “What? Levi? Isn’t he a civilian without any positions now? What right does he have to lock up my brother?”

The next moment, a smile broke out on his face. “This is actually to our advantage. It would be a lot more troublesome if he was captured by the Dragonites. However, given that he is locked up by a civilian, we can not only rescue him but also demand an apology and compensation from them.”

“That’s right! We’ll execute the plan at once!”

Levi yelled at Floyd and his men, "Do you want a reason? He has stolen from Erudia's museum and broken the law here. That's the reason! Given the sufficient evidence, I have the right to lock him up!"

Shocked by Levi's rant, no one dare to do anything.

"Get out now!" Levi yelled in frustration.

Watching Floyd and his men leave, Byron began to worry.

"Hey, don't leave me here. Let me out!"

Clang! Clang! Clang!

Byron rattled the cage forcefully.

The loud sound stopped Floyd in his tracks.

Meanwhile, Levi, who was feeding the dogs stood up suddenly and opened the cage.

Bam!

Byron was struck to the ground with a punch.

Pinning him to the floor, Levi unleashed a barrage of punches on him.

Raising his voice, Levi sent a chill down everyone's spine.

Especially Severus and Rico, whose legs trembled in fear.

Rico quickly retracted his hand from the key.

Although the key was right in front of them, they could only stare at it. They didn't have the courage to go for it.

That was how intimidating Levi's presence was.

No one dared to disobey his order even though he was just a civilian.

"L-Levi, what's the meaning of this? Why are you interfering in the Dragonites' business?" Severus asked with a trembling voice.

"Does this only relate to the Dragonites? This matter relates to Erudia and involves every single citizen!"

"You should just leave. I won't release him. If you're not willing to stand up for Erudia, I will!"

"Erudians are not afraid of anyone. Any foreigner that commits a crime here will have to suffer the consequences!"

Levi stated his stand clearly.

"Levi, you're crazy!"

"I don't believe it. I'm going to unlock the cage and let him go. Let's see what you're going to do about it!"

Steeling his resolve, Severus grabbed the key and walked toward the cage.
