Chapter 1771

Levi wanted to know what was so special about Kieran's family background that enabled him to return to Erudia.

"Who I am? Hahaha... you will find out in a few minutes!" Kieran laughed arrogantly, like a confident predator who had cornered his prey.

"Fine! I will wait!" Levi was glad he did not have to waste time to track down the family that gave this youth his arrogance.

A few minutes later, a convoy of more than a hundred black cars appeared outside the cemetery. By a rough estimate, there would be almost a thousand people there, as there were bodyguards and escorts traveling among the convoy.

The family was obviously rich and influential, and they looked like they were there for a family memorial service.

They were the Tate family, the richest family in Fairlake City.

When Erudia fell into a crisis, they defected and fled to Raysonia when the battle got close to the East.

“Hurry up and apologize. You were clearly in the wrong. Erudia is a respectable country, and these are the brave heroes of Erudia. How could you insult them?” the Raysonia samurai urged.

Solomon also made the same demand, so Kieran had no choice but to apologize again.

“I am sorry...”

After that, the attitude of the Tate family changed completely. Not only did they apologize profusely, but they also offered to leave the country immediately so as not to flout Levi’s restraining order.

Their unusual reaction made Levi even more suspicious. He could tell they were hiding something from him and wanted to leave as soon as possible to avoid further scrutiny from him.

“Forget it. Since you are back, you can stay on so long as you don’t get into any mischief. Since they have already apologized, I consider this case closed.” Levi softened his stance and did not insist on probing further into their mistakes. He wanted to find out what sinister plans they had in mind.

The Tate family did their memorial service hastily and left the cemetery as soon as they could.

“Keep an eye on them, especially the Raysonians! Monitor their movement closely!” Levi instructed West Sky Lord.

Levi had an uneasy feeling after meeting them. He was particularly concerned with the reaction of those Raysonia samurai when they saw Forlevia.

In the hollow compartment, he found three ancient manuals, a piece of torn sheepskin, and a black token.

He was positive his mentor had left those items for him.

Levi lifted the antique books and the sheepskin with trembling hands.

The torn sheepskin looked like a map, but was incomplete and torn at many places. From the material and the wear and tear of the skin, it was also another piece of antique.

Levi had no clue what that black token was for, but his eyes lit up when he flipped through the three books.

They were very valuable books!

Although his mentor had never acknowledged him as his disciple, he had allowed Levi to inherit his valuable knowledge and possessions.

I hope we will meet again somewhere!

Levi took away his mentor's possessions and cleared off all evidence of their visit to the prison.

When he arrived home with Forlevia, he received a solid scolding from the family.

"How could you run around with Evie during this dangerous time? Are you asking for trouble?"

Her colleagues shook their heads and were puzzled by Wynona's question.

"No, I don't find anything wrong with him. It is common for geniuses to have a more arrogant look in their eyes! After all, Jared had done nine ground-breaking experiments in this short period of time!"

"I agree. Geniuses usually appear to be weird or aloof, so there is nothing wrong with Schmidt. The crazed look in his eyes is due to his devotion to science..."

Her colleagues' rebuttals made Wynona wonder if she had indeed read too much into it. She massaged her head and said to herself, "Was it really unnecessary worry on my part? No! I have to keep an eye on him!"

She ran through the data from Jared's recent experiments and got worried.

"What if something goes wrong during tomorrow's experiment? I have to make sure nothing goes awry! How can I ensure that? Argh...!" A name suddenly popped into her mind as she was contemplating her possible moves.

Back at North Hampton, Levi received a call from Wynona.

"I just have a feeling something is not right with Jared. There might be a problem with the experiment he scheduled for tomorrow. Is it possible for you to make a trip here?" She did not waste time beating around the bush and made her request directly.

"Sure! I will rush over. Keep me posted of any updates!"

Levi readily agreed as he had always felt that Jared was a ticking timebomb. He got worried when Wynona shared her concern, so he immediately made plans to head over to Gamma Tech's training base.

He was not too concerned about Forlevia's safety as he had already made suitable arrangements. He knew Forlevia had certain skills to be able to defend herself. Moreover, he had his Team Of Secret Warriors on standby to protect her. In addition, Floyd and his team would also be around to keep her safe.

Jared's eyes had narrowed in excitement as the experiment entered into its crucial stage. His heart was in his mouth as he watched the atoms fuse together.

Boom!

With a low thud, the atomic matters fused together perfectly!

Levi and Wynona's biggest worry was the experiment could blow up the base or create massive destruction. Thankfully, that did not come true, and the experiment was a huge success.

Most importantly, Jared did not exhibit any unusual behavior, and the experiment went smoothly.

Levi and Wynona silently exchanged glances, wondering if they had misread the situation and worried unnecessarily.

The team broke into cheers, celebrating the success of the experiment. This success meant Jared managed to improve on the performance of Deicide, and they would be able to come up with an upgraded version of Deicide.

Levi and Wynona were glad the experiment was a huge success, and that their worries were unfounded. Levi left the base soon after the experiment was over.

Many of the groups were extremely well-established, and it was a rare occasion to see them all gathered at one place.

Some of those powerful parties thought they could easily win the family over and successfully take Forlevia in as their disciple, given their solid track records and reputations.

No one expected a record-breaking seventy-four parties would vie for a little girl.

The decision on which master to pick would be a difficult one for the family.

“Yes, this merit a proper discussion. A prodigy like her would be wasted if she joins a mediocre party. However, we, The Anseri, would be the perfect choice for her. Why don’t the rest of you give up and let us have her?”

“No! The Iris Palace ain’t inferior when compared to you!”

Of course, Levi did not agree to attend the discipleship ceremony in order to select a suitable master for his daughter. His main intention was to tell those people off, to show them they were not qualified to be Forlevia’s master. He was not worried about the confrontations, although it would be a hassle for him, as the number of people he had to deal with would be a little overwhelming.

Initially, he was still a little worried about Jared and the situation at the training base. However, Wynona updated him that everything was fine, so it was a burden off his chest. With Wynona watching over Jared, he was assured Jared could not create any trouble.

Time flew by, and soon, it was the big day for Forlevia.

The discipleship ceremony captured the attention of everyone in Erudia, and it was also closely monitored by the international community.

The Erudian warriors had made public announcements that anyone trying to harm Forlevia would be their common enemy.

When news of that declaration got out, many of the foreigners gave up on their plans to kill Forlevia. After all, she had the backing of the whole martial arts community in Erudia!

The discipleship ceremony was held at Paradise Villa in North Hampton.

Many of the established but low-profile parties started making themselves known.

There were seventy-four parties on hand to defend Forlevia three days ago.

Chapter 1778

All the weaker parties appeared inferior once those with Rank Seven as leaders made their announcements.

They knew even if Forlevia joined them, they may not have the ability to protect her when someone else launched an attack on them.

As such, once those strong parties showed off their Rank Seven leaders, the rest faded away and gave up wooing Forlevia.

After realizing how popular Forlevia was, they knew they would not stand a chance. They had grossly underestimated Forlevia's charm previously.

"These would be the most likely candidates, so why don't you discuss and make a decision?" Levi and his family were given the unenviable task of making that decision. They had to choose one from the handful of parties with Rank Seven leaders to be Forlevia's master.

It was an indisputable fact that by joining a party with a Rank Seven leader, Forlevia's safety and future development would be guaranteed. After all, there were not many warriors capable of rising to a Rank Seven fighter.

When Levi killed five Rank Seven fighters, he got onto the Gem List.

Levi stood by nonchalantly while Zoey and the other family members started their heated discussion.

The hundreds of parties and thousands of people in the crowd were all shocked into silence upon hearing Levi's announcement.

Not qualified?

His words echoed in everyone's mind and triggered an explosive reaction from the hundred parties present, especially the thirteen Rank Seven fighters.

The combined prowess of those present at the discipleship ceremony was more impressive than what the mysterious warrior had to face at that spectacular battle in Zarain. Yet, Levi belittled those present by saying they were not qualified to be a little girl's master!

Only a truly formidable person had the right to make such an arrogant comment, so the crowd took him as a clown and laughed at him instead.

"Hahaha..." they laughed at Levi.

"Rascal, I don't care who you are. If I hear those words from you again, I would not spare you, even if you are the father of this kid!" the leader of Team Ciel sternly warned.

All the other leaders shared the same sentiments.

How dare he say we are not qualified? Who would be, if not us?

"My daughter's talent is out of your league! You are too weak. So we shall make a move, and please do not covet my daughter again in the future!" Levi turned to leave with Forlevia after saying that.

Everyone was dumbstruck by his words and action.

Leaving? Is he crazy? Did he just look down on more than a hundred established parties, including thirteen Rank Seven fighters?

It was a stunning feat that became headline news worldwide when Zarain managed to gather five Rank Seven fighters for their battle.

"So who took Forlevia in as a disciple?" The family crowded around with an eager look, clamoring for an answer from Levi.

"No one. No one accepted her as a disciple!" Levi shook his head and replied.

"Huh?"

"What?"

The family looked at the two of them in puzzlement.

"What happened? Why did they not accept her?" they asked, bewildered.

"They felt they were not worthy of being her master, so they did not dare to take up the responsibility." Levi gave them a big smile and told them so.

Of course, the family would not believe his words, so one of them went back into Paradise Villa to find out the truth.

Soon, he came back and reported to the family.

"It is true! They said Evie is too talented and out of their league. None of the leaders felt they were worthy of taking her in as a disciple!"

The finding stunned the family, and they stared at Forlevia with a shocked look in their eyes!
