Chapter 1791

It was truly a parade of champions.

Each force was bigger than the last and each force was more ancient than its predecessor.

Most people had never even heard of them before.

Most importantly, all of the forces were absolutely terrifying, especially because half of Erudia's Gem List warriors had arrived.

The CalaMaster himself was already so scary, and yet there were people here who ranked above him.

How powerful could they possibly be?

After another half an hour, everyone finally arrived.

The disciple selection ceremony was about to begin.

Forlevia was the only one who was being offered as a disciple, which was clearly part of the Raysonian samurais' plan.

They hadn't shown what exactly that plan was, but it was obvious they had one.

After all, Forlevia was extremely skilled.

She was known as a genius, truly one in a million of her kind.

Even the warriors on the Gem List wanted her as their disciple so she could truly lay down the stepping stones for their future.

That's the sole reason why so many Gem List fighters attended once they saw Forlevia's name on the invitation.

"It's in the Eastford islands! Right about here," the West Sky Lord said as she marked it on a map.

"Let's go immediately. Get me the fastest mode of transportation available!" Levi wanted nothing more than to teleport straight to the island.

Sadly, he wasn't at that level of power yet.

Soon enough, the West Sky Lord arranged for a supersonic jet to send Levi to that Eastford island.

The moment Levi moved, the Four Powermen immediately were on high alert.

"Quick, find where Levi's gone! We have to follow him! Also, inform The Cardinal Hall and Eragon warriors to follow us!"

The Cardinal Hall's men instantly chased after Levi.

After all, Levi's destination wasn't exactly a secret.

The measures they had taken to get that information weren't exactly discreet.

Wherever Levi went, they followed.

Levi had one goal in mind: reach the island and save Forlevia.

The discipleship ceremony had finally begun.

All of the forces were bringing out their most valuable items.

After looking around at the crowd, the disciple said, "The Thunderous Seal contains a strike of heavenly lightning that could start a chain reaction. Even Rank Seven fighters can't properly control it."

The moment he said that, everyone started clamoring about the seal.

That Thunderous Seal was much stronger than Zarain's God of Thunder.

His lightning had been man-made and was purely artificial.

However, the Thunderous Seal contained Heavenly Thunder, which was on a totally different level.

The crowd felt their hearts skip a beat at the sight of the Thunderous Seal.

The disciple's words basically meant that the Thunderous Seal was capable of killing most present there.

If it was in the hands of someone capable enough, such as Einar, they could risk getting killed.

Even if it was only in the hands of a Rank Seven fighter, they could easily challenge a Gem List warrior.

They could even challenge Einar himself.

Who wouldn't want such a gift?

The crowd started staring at the Thunderous Seal with hungry eyes.

How powerful would I be if that were mine?

They went to all this trouble to kidnap Forlevia and congregate all the important organizations of Erudia and its surrounding areas for one reason only: to use Levi’s hand to destroy Erudia and the other countries’ martial arts communities.

Their detailed plan had to be commended.

After all, they did successfully fool everyone there.

For example, Einar, who was sitting and waiting for his disciple patiently on his seat.

The news that the West Sky Lord had ‘found’ had also been craftily leaked by them.

They wanted Levi and the likes of Einar to finally meet so a war would break out.

Then, they could truly guarantee everyone’s downfall!

If Levi died in battle, the Raysonian samurais would get rid of anyone who was still there.

Of course, it would be best if Levi didn’t die.

They could scripture Levi into a demon of their very own design.

After getting Levi to battle against the other fighters from Erudia, they would truly make an impact on Erudia’s martial arts community!

A few minutes passed.

The Raysonian had already scurried off.

Only Einar's men, the other fighters, and Forlevia, who was drenched in blood, were left.

A voice struck down upon them.

It shook their eardrums and caused their ears to ring.

The weaker individuals among the crowd even started coughing up blood from the sheer intensity.

Everyone stood still in shock, including the top nine fighters on the Gem List.

It was as if everyone had been stunned silent.

Snap!

Boom!

Bang!

A figure shot down from above and landed through the roof of the auction hall.

The earth itself shook with the force of his landing.

The crowd shook on their feet.

After he landed, the first thing that Levi did was to pick up Forlevia.

He started checking on her and only sighed in relief after making sure she wasn't injured.

Despite feeling relieved, he was trying hard to hold back the tears in his eyes.

Levi's subordinates arrived in quick pursuit.

"Watch her!"

Even though Levi had been nearly out of his mind with anger, he still went easy on his opponents.

He had only heavily wounded them, but he hadn't murdered them in cold blood.

After all, he still had to ask about the true culprit behind Forlevia's kidnapping.

"Masters, you all have to defeat him! He's practically unbeatable!" the crowd on the floor started to call out.

Their hopes were all on these Gem List fighters' shoulders now.

Of course, they were under the impression that as strong as Levi was, he couldn't beat the top nine fighters on the Gem List.

Despite everything, he was still ranked at the very bottom.

No matter how strong he was, the likes of Hadeon and Eidan would definitely defeat him.

This was The Cardinal Hall's official ranking and not just any random list!

It was at least ninety-nine percent accurate.

"I can kill him on my own!" Callan stood up.

"I'm ranked in front of him after all. He won't beat me no matter what!"

"Don't for-"

Before Einar could finish his sentence, Callan had already rushed forward.

After all, magic was different from martial arts.
It could kill a man invisibly.
Besides, Einar was the strongest out of all of them.
Just one ranking could make a huge difference.
That’s why Einar was the most reliable.
He could practically feel the weight of everyone’s hope on his shoulders.
However, he remained calm as he glanced at Levi.
“If you leave now, I will let you go,” Einar said, deciding to give Levi a chance.
The Raysonian samurais had been secretly observing everything this whole time.
They were disguised so that no one could spot them.
After all, they had to kill everyone later.
“How terrifying!”
“I thought Levi wouldn’t hold a candle to them, but look at what he’s done!”
The samurais were all stunned at the sight of Levi’s powers.
“That’s good! The stronger Levi is, the more our plan will be perfect and the more realistic it all will be!”

As everyone stared at the gloomy figure that had suddenly appeared, they felt a chill wrack through their bones.

It was like they were all sheep waiting to be slaughtered.

"Levi? I thought you left. What are you doing back here?" Einar couldn't help but ask.

“That’s not Levi!” Hadeon suddenly shouted.

The crowd quickly sensed that this person’s aura wasn’t the same as Levi’s at all.

“We have to run! Let’s go!” the crowd started yelling as they tried to escape.

After the battle with Levi, however, all of them were heavily injured.

They couldn’t run anywhere.

“I think all of you are going to be staying here forever,” the person said as his eyes glinted evilly.

He started killing everyone on the island indiscriminately.

After just a few minutes, the island floor was littered with corpses.

Not even those on the Gem List survived the attack, and the island sunk even deeper.

It was about to be flooded very soon.

After killing everyone, the killer took out a white handkerchief and habitually started cleaning off the blood on his hands before leaving.

Just one minute after he left, The Cardinal Hall’s fighters finally arrived.

The timing was perfect.

Levi was being falsely accused.
He was extremely dangerous at that moment, so much so that Erudia's safety was being threatened.
"If we don't get rid of Levi, he's going to be the greatest disaster to ever occur in Erudia!"
Gerald glared at them as he said, "You shouldn't have stopped me in the beginning then. You should have let me kill him."
"But are you sure that you can kill him?" everyone else asked.
Gerald was full of confidence before this happened.
However, he witnessed such a shocking scene earlier.
Those in the Gem List of Erudia weren't his match at all.
Besides, countless Rank Seven fighters had died.
How could I fight him?
He's just too powerful!

"Master, the person had obviously planned everything out. They're trying to turn you into a big demon!"

“The Cardinal Hall’s men always arrive right after you leave. They manage to grasp the timing perfectly.”

“This would obviously lead to The Cardinal Hall and Eragon having to deal with you. They even caused a huge rift between you and the martial arts world, weakening the martial arts world in the process.”

A few of his subordinates started to analyze their current situation, and Levi nodded along as he listened.

They’re right.

Wait, no!

Something’s wrong!

A question surfaced Levi’s mind right then.

Being able to kill all the Rank Seven warriors on the island was not an easy feat, even if they were all injured.

Moreover, to kill so many powerful warriors, and leave the place before The Cardinal Hall’s men arrived was not something that could be achieved easily.

Besides, there were no trails left behind at all.

This meant that it wasn’t a group of powerful fighters who had killed the warriors. Instead, it was just a few people, or maybe it was just one person who did it.
