Chapter 2021

Ryker contacted Bruce immediately after receiving news about the updated terms.

Money wasn't a big deal to Cryptic Stream Corporation, so they weren't concerned about the hundred billion upsurges in the cost of the lands.

What mattered to them was the change in the duration of their rights to use the lands. They struggled to conform from permanent rights to five-year rights.

Hence, Ryker had to discuss with Bruce regarding the reformed terms.

Bruce grinned and said, "They're limiting our access to the lands to five years and doubling the price? That's exactly what I'm expecting from those materialistic Erudians! I'll be far more distressed if things go too smoothly. It appears more genuine if they request more in return!

"Although five years seems like a short period, our experts estimate we could mine all the sunstone in two years if our equipment is ready.

"These conditions are acceptable. Sign the contracts now. We'll proceed with importing the equipment and technical staff to begin mining as soon as we get the rights to use the lands!"

Ryker nodded after receiving Bruce's orders. "Got it!"

It wasn't clear if Jefferson was just traumatized by Levi, or he was too afraid to be beaten up by the latter again.

He was paranoid and would feel a wave of fear consume him whenever he detected any movements around him.

It was as if he was delusional.

Now, Jefferson felt uneasy and cold when he looked around and saw only darkness surrounding him.

His anxious expression caught everyone's attention. "What's wrong?" they asked.

"I feel like someone's watching us! Did you make sure all safety precautions were engaged properly?" Jefferson was frantic.

"Look at you. I knew you were traumatized by Levi. Now you are even afraid of the dark! Don't worry, Jefferson. I'll send our people to check around again." Ryker reassured Jefferson and ordered the others to inspect the grounds.

They discovered nothing wrong around the site. "See? I told you it's all right! You're overthinking," Ryker said, then instructed a few men to come to his side. "The few of you should protect him!"

Followed by Ryker's order, the experts from the Lab of Gods kept their eyes on Jefferson and never left his side.

As soon as the sunstones were mined, their energy would slowly diminish.

If the skill of the miners or equipment weren't matured enough, the loss of energy in the sunstone would be significant. Not to mention that the spread of energy might cause a disaster.

The equipment provided by the Lab of Gods, however, was able to reduce the level of energy loss nearly to zero.

It was astonishing, yet frightening.

The final equipment used to store the sunstones was the scariest of them all, as it could preserve the sunstones' energy completely.

...

The Lab of Gods was frightening indeed!

After a night of observing the mining process, Levi had a clear vision of the procedures, including the repository and transportation of the sunstones.

Now, all they have to do was wait for the transportation to begin in three days.

Bruce analyzed and estimated The Cardinal Hall would also send their men to escort their transportation process in secret.

After all, The Cardinal Hall would be embarrassed in front of the entire world if anything went wrong within the area under their governance.

Erudia's reputation was important too.

Everything went according to Bruce's interpretation of the situation.

The Cardinal Hall sent their men to watch over the transportation team to ensure their safety in Erudia.

The image of Erudia and The Cardinal Hall was of utmost importance.

The transportation team successfully moved the stones from the six major mining sites to the port.

Throughout their way to the port, no one interfered, and they didn't encounter even a single hiccup. Everything was progressing smoothly, just as Bruce expected.

Ryker, Jefferson, and the others escorted the sunstones to the port and kept their eyes locked on the sunstones when they were being loaded onto the ship.

As soon as all the sunstones were transferred onto the ship, they let out sighs of relief.

They believe they would be safe everywhere else as long as they leave Erudia.

Marcus and Vanderson were struck dumb by the commotion they witnessed. "Goodness gracious! Do these people want to die?" they exclaimed.

Boom! Boom!

...

From below, a swarm of dark shadows leaped onto the ship, then the ship was surrounded by a small army of boats.

"Someone's attacking us! We must protect the sunstones at all costs!" Vanderson gathered the aces to prepare for defense.

However, as soon as Vanderson stepped out of his cabin, he noticed a man standing on the ship's stern. With his hands behind him, the man stood still overlooking the devastation he had caused on the ship as if he were a god.

“End them! No one shall take away anything that belonged to Erudia!”

At the end of Levi’s command, the massacre began.

...

Bruce appeared to be quite anxious for some reason.

“Understood!”

His subordinate immediately contacted Marcus but couldn't get any reply because there was no signal.

What was more frightening was that the ship seemed to have vanished into thin air.

“Mr. Johnston, we have bad news!”

“The Golden Warship disappeared! We cannot get contact with anyone on the ship at all!”

Bruce and the others were shocked upon hearing the news.

“What? The Golden Warship has disappeared?”

“How can it be?”

Bruce's face was full of disbelief.

Could anyone have dared to lay a finger on the sunstones?

“According to the information we gathered just now, we have lost track of The Golden Warship since last night. However, no one thought it was a big deal and the problem was left unattended!”

Ryker almost passed out from the shock.

"How can this happen? Who has the nerve to do this?"

"We don't know who's behind this. Listen to me carefully, Ryker. You have to keep mining as fast as possible! Time is running out! Keep an eye on the miners and make sure that nothing goes wrong!"
Bruce reminded Ryker repeatedly.

Ryker immediately put on his clothes and told Jefferson and the Four Heirs the news.

Although they were partying all night and hadn't slept much, the news was scary enough to jolt them awake.

The Four Heirs knew what was being transported last night.

They were on the side of Cryptic Stream Corporation in terms of interests.

The news of the disappearance of the sunstones was alarming to them.

"Get moving and keep an eye on the miners!" Ryker ordered.

Having received Bruce's orders, they went to supervise the mining process at once for they could not risk the second batch of sunstones getting lost again.

Everyone turned to Bruce and stared at him.

Bruce had a serious look on his face. “Right now all we can do is to wait for them to attack again!”

“We don’t have any leads currently and we would only come to a dead-end if we continued searching. Whoever behind all this must be very powerful to leave no trail behind.”

“Of course! If they can steal the sunstones from right under our nose without alerting us, they must be very capable,” the others agreed.

Bruce continued, “Unless we search every corner in the world, which we don’t have the resources to do so, it is impossible to recover the sunstones!”

“All we can do right now is to wait for them to show themselves and pick up the trails that they leave behind.”

Pausing to clear his throat, Bruce then carried on, “I have arranged for Ryker to mine the next batch of sunstones. We will heavily guard the transportation a day later and set up traps along the way. Let’s see if they still have the audacity to steal from us!”

Everyone agreed with Bruce’s plan. “Excellent plan! Let’s see if they will steal from us again. When they expose themselves, we will destroy them!”

The whole world was watching to see if the mysterious force will strike again.

Everyone in Erudia hoped for the mysterious force to intercept the sunstones because they didn't want their resources to be taken away by others, but Bruce was the one who yearned most for the appearance of the mysterious force so that he could catch them once and for all.

Bruce was indeed sly.

Instead of fully guarding the ships, he purposely ordered his men to leave a few spots out for the mysterious force to attack them.

If their defense was too strong, the mysterious force might not strike and the plan would have failed.

Once they tried to steal the sunstones, they could seize the chance and capture the thieves.

On the other hand, Levi received news that the transportation team had started their journey.

"Alright, let's begin!" he ordered.

"I still don't think it's a good idea, boss. We'll be ambushed if we strike."

A few of Levi's subordinates disagreed with Levi's plan because they thought they would be caught.

Levi laughed. "Do you think I've never thought this through carefully? Once we started our mission, there's no going back. It's only going to get harder, and I'm ready for that."

The sudden news had everyone shocked.

Bruce, on the other hand, stood up abruptly.

“What happened?” Bruce demanded in a loud voice.

“Mr. Johnston, we just lost the signal from the No.18 monitoring station,” someone in the control room informed the news.

“What? Someone get back to me what’s happening!”

At that moment, Bruce instantly had a bad premonition.

“No! We lost signal from the No.19 monitoring station too!”

“No.20 monitoring station’s signal is gone!”

“We have just lost No.17 too!”

“No.16 is gone!”

“No.15 and No.14 are gone too!”

The next second, multiple alarms in the control room started blazing.
