Chapter 2031

As of now, Bruce had no idea what he should do next, and everyone else was stupefied by such a situation too.

Though they were the Lab of Gods, they could only freeze in place as they had never experienced such tremendous losses.

Bruce honestly thought that the arrangements he made were flawless. He had made sure that he didn't give the perpetrator any chances to steal the stones.

He had arranged for escort teams, ambush teams, and even backup teams.

All necessary arrangements were in place to trap the perpetrators, yet everything Bruce had planned was destroyed in a blink of an eye. No one expected that.

It was horrifying for Bruce. He couldn't understand how that perpetrator managed to find out about all the arrangements.

It was understandable that the person managed to wipe out the transportation teams and the monitoring stations along the way as they could be easily spotted.

However, Bruce was confused as to how that person managed to locate the eighteen Super Battle Squads, the underwater drones, and the seven islands which functioned as backups.

His second question was on how the attacks could happen simultaneously.

It was terrifying. After all, not many people were capable of organizing such big scale attacks.

Bruce and the Lab of Gods were truly devastated by the attacks.

Not only did they lose the sunstones, but the Lab of Gods had also lost its reputation as well, a second time at that!

"Master has no idea as well. But he did say that the mastermind might not necessarily be from Erudia," the man informed Bruce.

"What?" Such a remark had surprised Bruce.

"Master said that there's a lot of terrifying organizations out there, for example, the Sacred Organization or the Kings."

"The Sacred Organization?" Bruce was alarmed.

He had heard of the mysterious organization before.

The Dark Emperor and the Eighteen Dark Angels under the organization were powerful and capable.

As for the Kings, not many people heard of them. Those who knew about the organization referred to them as the Lab of Gods' rival.

Same as the Lab of Gods, the Kings' primary focus was on technology. In Adrune, they were an organization most advanced in technology.

However, the Lab of Gods never viewed the Kings as a threat. For them, the Kings' technology level was the same as that of Cryptic Stream Corporation. They had no ability to become the Lab of Gods' rival.

Hence, the lab never considered them as the suspect of the attacks.

Now with the man's reminder, Bruce realized that there was a possibility that the Kings was involved.

understand! Now we have a direction to direct our strength. It would only mean that he won't let us go easily. There will be direction. "By the way, Master asked me to inform you that you could start your investigation with the sunstones. Though that person's attack was swift, he can't ship all the sunstones far in such a short words, Bruce's eyes right! The quantity of the sunstones is large! Even if that person managed to ship them everyone to search for and his men finally a clue and a direction, even though the third the casualty this time around was too high. "Where are the Dragon Warriors? Have them to see me now!" Levi ordered.

Soon later, the entire Dragon Warrior team gathered in front of Levi.

Having received Levi's instructions, they all left to carry out their mission. However, except for them and Levi, no one knew the specifics of their missions.

Phoenix and the others were curious. He then asked Levi, "Boss, what mission have you given them?"

"You all will find out about it soon. For now, it's a secret." Levi smiled in reply.

"Boss, won't it be harder for us to snatch the sunstone? Bruce would use everything he has to protect those stones."

"That's right! No one, including Bruce, would be willing to lose for the third time."

"What should we do this time, boss?"

Everyone was worried.

Levi merely smiled after seeing their worries. "Don't worry. Just wait and see!"

Ryker and Jefferson, who were in Erudia, were shocked upon receiving the news of Lab of Gods' defeat. It was rare that someone would manage to defeat Lab of Gods twice. Not to mention that the second attack had caused the lab to suffer a significant loss.

Chapter 2034

For the five days, workers digging up sunstones from the six mining sites were buzzing like bees.

They never stopped extracting the precious stones from the ground since they got hold of the areas.

The mining went on and on...

Nine days of intense labor had definitely put a heavy toll on everyone's body.

Even the warriors in charge of protecting the area were on the verge of collapsing mentally.

They were still doing fine corporeally but losing two batches of unearthed sunstones devastated them.

Everyone was going through immense psychological pressure, yet, none of them took a break. Sleeping wasn't an option at this point in time.

Like the rest, Ryker and Jefferson kept their eyes wide open to make sure everything was in order.

The men at the sunstone mining sites were bone-weary, and some fainted amid their work.

It was a sight of utter debilitation at all sites.

Jefferson yawned, "Darn it! What's gotten into me? I'm can barely hang on to my consciousness!"

"Right? I wonder why I'm feeling so drained. Something's fishy somewhere."

Chapter 2035

Why aren't they here yet?

There wasn't the slightest ruffle detected throughout the ship, which was unusual.

Their previous looting sprees started around seven to eight hours into the journey, as it was the golden hour for their scheme.

Now it was past that period, and from how fast the ship was cruising, it'd be only a few hours before they'd arrive at the agreed location that was within Zarain's territory.

In other words, the sunstones would be safe.

"Mr. Johnston, do you think that our opponents are scared? I mean, look at the size of our troops. Anyone would quiver in fear!"

"He's right! I bet they've calculated the risks and concluded that it's not worth it this time. Maybe that's why they gave up?"

"That's very probable. If they were in to rob us, they would've struck hours ago!"

Bruce's men started giving their two cents, and he did share the same sentiments.

"Regardless, we still aren't out of the woods yet as long as we haven't set foot in Zarain. Do not let your guards down!" again, he reminded them.

A few seconds later, Fiery Demon reported his situation—there was nothing out of the ordinary.

Meanwhile, Levi was with Phoenix and her men somewhere outside Erudia.

He was chilling and sipping his tea, a behavior that stirred disbelief among his subordinates.

Bruce wanted to capture the mysterious faction, once and for all!

He was actually looking forward to clashing head-on with them.

What a shame. They didn’t dare to show themselves in the end. Bruce shook his head in disgruntlement.

“Come on. Let’s have a look at the sunstones.” He went to check the stones that had arrived safe and sound.

“Yes, Mr. Johnston!”

The rest followed.

The load from five days of mining was enormous.

Every corner of the training base was filled with trunks of sunstones.

“Open it up! Don’t forget to put on your protective equipment!” Bruce reminded his men.

All the men present had their protective gear on whereas Bruce wore a uniquely-made armor to protect themselves from possible harm by the sunstones' energy.

One of the trunks was unlatched and everyone took a few steps back out of caution.

"Hmm?"

Confusion filled the room as none of the men felt blood-curdling energy waves emanating from the container.

The smallest shard of sunstone would release vigorous radiation, and now with a truckload of it, they expected to see people flying and tumbling.

Yet, they didn't feel a tinge of energy wave.

It was impossible to make a swap in the middle of the trip.

Not only was Bruce meticulous, but he was keeping a close eye on them.

There was no way any loopholes would present itself.

Moreover, the amount after five days of mining was a large one; swapping was simply impossible.

Therefore, the only time possible was when the things were getting loaded at the port...

That was not right either.

Bruce had already assigned a capable transportation team to watch over the items, so nothing could have gone wrong.

How could so many sunstones be swapped in the blink of an eye?

There was only one way left—it was swapped at the mining site.

That meant that the sunstones were not the ones packaged at all; they had always been ordinary stones all along.

As the devices used by the transportation team ensured the isolation of energy fluctuations, no one would know whether they were transporting sunstones or ordinary stones.

Levi had assigned the Dragon Warriors to carry out the task.

Levi had learned everything he could about the six major mining sites.

It was to the point he even knew each and every employee’s sleeping habits.

The Dragon Warriors had long snuck into the area.

After nine days of intense working, the miners were all exhausted.

A hoarse voice came from the other end. "It's very likely that this batch of sunstone is still in Erudia. It hasn't been transported out at all. My men are watching The Cardinal Hall and Erudia, but there isn't anything going on there. That means that the sunstones are still in Erudia. They've never been transported at all. You can also do an investigation of your own in Erudia to look for their whereabouts."

"Huh?"

The moment Bruce heard it, he froze. However, he was quick to come back to his senses.

The entire time, he had been contemplating when the sunstones had been swapped out.

Yet, he never thought that they would have been swapped out when they were in Erudia.

Subconsciously, he had thought of that place as the safest place; he had thought that nothing would go wrong at Erudia.

Moreover, Cyrus suggested that the Sacred Organization could be behind it.

Hence, Bruce began focusing his search on the various forces excluding Erudia's.

He never once suspected Erudia.

Cyrus' latest news made him come to his senses right away.

Erudia was definitely the place where the sunstones had been swapped, which meant that the sunstones were surely still in Erudia.

It was impossible for the sunstones to be far from Erudia.

After all, The Cardinal Hall in Erudia was keeping an eye on it.

Once they found out about the sunstones, they would surely make a move to get them.

Right then, more news traveled into his ears.

The missing third batch of the sunstones had been found in Erudia.

The moment they heard about it, Bruce and the others leaped in joy.

“Where did you find it?” Bruce asked, his eyes bright with delight.

After a moment of hesitation, the man who came bearing good news said, “As it turns out, the sunstones were not transported out at all. They’re still at the mining sites!”

Boom!

The reply was like a bolt from the blue for Bruce.

He had been searching everywhere like a madman, but it turned out that the sunstones never left the mining sites from the start.

Bruce finally understood what it meant by the most dangerous place was the safest.

The mysterious force had only wanted to stop the sunstones from leaving Erudia; they never robbed them at all.

They had swapped out the sunstones with ordinary stones at the mining sites, so what they had transported had been normal stones.

They had been fooled.

Realizing that, Bruce’s eyes turned red as his expression turned as dark as night.

After all those efforts in searching for the sunstones, they turned out to be at the mining site all along. They were never lost; they had always been in the hands of his own men.

“Something else happened?”

We just decided on transporting the sunstones out of Erudia!

We haven’t even done anything yet!

Why are there more troubles now?

Everyone at the meeting turned to look at the one who had yelled a second ago.

“This is horrible news. We’ve just received word that the sunstone mining sites at Adrune, Salinsburgh, and the thirteen islands at Beshya Sea have been looted. All of the sites have been destroyed!”

Boom!

It was shocking news to hear, and when Bruce and the others did, their eyes grew impossibly wide.

He and the Lab of Gods were all too focused on Erudia’s mining sites and the mysterious force, so they had been neglecting everything else.

Bruce had even put Jared’s experiment aside to focus on the missing sunstones.

To their shock, someone had made a move on the other sunstone mining sites while they were preoccupied with the search for the missing sunstones.

In the past few years, the Lab of Gods had been building labs at various spots across the globe.

One of the labs had the goal of researching the use of sunstone’s energy.

Soon, that lab found out that there were many other places in the world that had sunstones.
