Chapter 2841 The Survivors

Even though the world was already devastated, the energy storm in the super-spiritual ley line still raged on in the sky, blocking the sun.

That was the reason why the world was covered in total darkness.

Due to the significant change in the global environment, abnormal phenomena like seawater intrusion began to occur.

However, because of the darkness, nobody noticed them.

Those in space began to despair as they wondered what they should do after such a catastrophe.

We might have survived, but where can we go next? Are we to spend the rest of our lives in space? Impossible! Sooner or later, we're going to run out of food and resources, so we can't stay here forever. What should we do then? This is hopeless!

Some were so depressed that they collapsed to the ground, while others wandered around like zombies.

To the survivors, there was nothing worse than witnessing their home being destroyed.

They thought they would be overjoyed to have escaped the catastrophe, but it was not so.

Not only did some fail to find any joy in their survival, but they also started to have regrets.

The people then began to discuss among themselves.

“We’ll just have to wait a little longer. We can’t go out just yet. What if it’s dangerous there?”

“If the energy storm is still rampaging outside, the Shelter will be destroyed if there’s even a small opening!”

“Heck, the storm might’ve already made the outside world completely uninhabitable! Maybe it’ll take a ridiculously long time before we can safely go outside.”

“If we go now, it’s very likely that we’ll get ourselves killed, so we have to be really careful here.”

“Maybe we’ll have a better chance if we wait for a while.”

Meanwhile, Defenders of the Galaxy had also survived because their equipment was activated in the nick of time.

However, like those in the Shelter of Erudia, they were also knocked unconscious.

Fortunately, the equipment had generated a transparent barrier to cover Zarain entirely.

They could clearly see that the equipment had sustained severe damage after withstanding the energy storm, which meant they were very close to getting obliterated by it.

“Quickly! Repair it now! At this rate, the equipment won’t last for more than a few days, and that energy storm doesn’t look like it’s going to go away anytime soon,” ordered Niel, a high-rank official of Defenders of the Galaxy.

"What is it?" Everyone else gathered around and looked down through the window.
The second they did, their jaws dropped in shock.
That was because the world they knew was undergoing a massive change.
The world, which was initially shrouded in darkness, had been illuminated by colorful pillars of light.
Those pillars of light descended from the sky, enveloping the entire world uniformly.
They saw mists enshrouding the world, and all life seemed to have returned with plentiful energy.
It had took on an entirely new look.
Is this really destruction? This is more like a revamp of the whole world! Everything looks so beautiful!
It's like the world has been reborn!
Countless questions crossed their minds as they looked into the distance.
"The energy levels are still off the charts, so we still can't confirm anything! However, these pillars of light seem to have a radiative-like effect! Humans and animals that come into contact with it are able to

They then shifted their gaze back toward the world. Indeed, it had undergone major transformations, looking far better than before with plants everywhere.

However, the prettier it seemed on the surface, the eerier it felt.

They could not help but feel that something was hidden behind those lush and vibrant vegetations.

It was no longer the same world they were familiar with.

Instead, to them, it was a completely foreign planet.

Nobody knew for sure if it would be safe for them to return rashly.

At that moment, someone piped up, "Look at how much the plants have changed! I bet the people and animals have undergone some transformations too! This is a dangerous and alien planet to us now! We can't go back!"

"Yeah! For all we know, those mutated plants might just eat us up!"

The crowd shuddered at the mere thought of that.

Defenders of the Galaxy had been observing the changes in the world throughout the past few days.

Chapter 2845 Huge Decision From Zarain

A lot had changed throughout those ten days.
The pillars of light had all disappeared, and the sky had returned to its usual form—blue sky and white clouds.
However, the environment looked at least a hundred times better than it used to.
It was as if the world had been cleansed entirely.
The abnormal phenomena slowly vanished, and the magnetic field stabilized as well.
The energy from the eruption had become stable, spreading across every corner of the world and nurturing the life forms it came into contact with.

The oasis that formed from the desert had increased in size and density over the course of ten days.

Not only did the flowers and plants multiply in size and numbers, but the lingering spiritual energy that surrounded the world made it look like heaven.

Nobody had expected the eruption to reinvent the world entirely instead of destroying human civilization.

The plants in Zarain became visibly lush after the land had been cleansed.

Stalks sprouted from seeds instantly, and plants began to flower on the spot.

Although those changes were not as extreme as the ones outside of the country, they were still significant enough to be visible to the naked eye.

It was the first time anything like that had ever happened.

“I get it now! The energy from the super-spiritual ley line has been dispersed all over the world and is nurturing every corner of it! The environment is at least hundreds if not thousands of times better than before. The world is enveloped in spiritual energy. We’re actually breathing in the spiritual energy of ultra-high purity. Hence, a single breath is enough to rid our bodies of diseases and boost them to optimum conditions!” someone explained.

“Does that mean we can make use of this spiritual energy, then? Now that it can be found all over the world, we can just extract it as we wish, right?”

Smythe came up with that idea immediately.

Chapter 2847 Way Too Quiet

After another ten days, the Erudians hiding in the Shelters decided they had waited long enough.

Their instruments were functional again as the magnetic field, as well as everything else, had stabilized, so they were able to observe the surroundings within a small area outside the Shelters.

Their jaws nearly dropped with surprise when they saw how different things had become—trees as high as skyscrapers and flowers larger than human heads.

The huge variety of changes in the environment had all the Erudians stupefied.

Unlike those from Zarain who could observe the changes outside, they only saw the outside world after nearly a month had passed.

The contrast was so ridiculously huge that they nearly lost their minds trying to make sense of it.

Everyone gasped in shock and disbelief when they saw the footage captured from the monitoring stations.

This is simply unbelievable! What on earth has happened out there? Is this still the same world that we know? How has so much changed in such a short amount of time?

It was a loud roar that resounded through the area.

Rumble...

An even more terrifying sound wave crashed onto them.

Many fighters at the scene spat out blood while the rest appeared to be in anguish, the pain contorting their faces.

Only Daxon remained unharmed.

The unexpected incident had everyone pale with fright.

"This is bad! It sounded like a beast. But what kind of animal can deal such a great blow with a roar?" Daxon muttered, his expression turning grim.

"Please be careful!"

After he exhorted the others to be cautious, his heart sank.

He had left the Shelter with the team for two purposes. One of them was to conduct a better investigation of the environment outside. The other was because he wanted to know if his son, Levi, and the rest were alive.

However, his heart was in his mouth because of the sudden roar.

It was evident that the world had changed drastically, with dangers lurking at every corner.

It took them half a day to have a rough understanding of the changes in the world.

During their expedition, they had also seen plenty of the mutated creatures.

As they had predicted, the new world was full of dangers everywhere.

Still, they had yet to encounter any human.

For a moment, they even suspected that humans had failed to survive the catastrophe and disappeared.

All the expedition teams could only continue with their investigation.

Beep! Beep! Beep!

In the central city of Spaunia, located next to Zarain, the wails of sirens were emitted from the expedition teams led by Black Hawk.

That was the alarm for the energy radiation.

Before that, it had sounded when they encountered mutated beasts.

However, at that moment, the screen of the instrument had flickering red dots everywhere. They were so densely packed that it seemed like there were tens of thousands of them.

Every one of the instruments in each team appeared in the same way.

In fact, they had gathered there slowly.

When the catastrophe happened, they tried every possible way to hide.

Some unlucky ones perished amid the energy storm.

Nonetheless, most of them survived.

Later, when the dark world became full of colors, and those pillars of light appeared, they discovered their bodies had changed drastically, especially after being enveloped by the colorful lights.

"I can understand that your bodies experienced a huge change! But how could only a small fraction of people die from the catastrophe?" Black Hawk felt something was amiss after learning about the situation.

How could such an enormous energy storm cause so few casualties? That doesn't make sense!

Having thousands of survivors was considered a lot for any country since the energy storm was insanely destructive.

However, it was the opposite for a big country like Spauria. They might only have a few thousand casualties, while over ten million citizens were left unharmed and even became stronger!

Black Hawk could not make sense of the outcome at all.
