Chapter 2971

Levi Is Selfish

That was the thought that popped into the head of someone who wielded incredible power and influence.

Instead of beating around the bush like how Hawen did, they planned to steal the resources directly.

Since Levi possessed abundant resources, who wouldn't feel tempted to rob him?

Of course, they probably would not have come up with that idea if they knew what had happened in Hawen.

Despite the advantages of a bounty, it also had its disadvantages.

It exposed the fact about the resources in Levi's possession, causing many to plot against him so that they could take them for their own.

Levi also had no clue that even those in Erudia were after his resources.

Levi grew increasingly puzzled as they continued to rain a barrage of criticism on him.

What did I do? Why are they acting like they've gone crazy and attacking me like this?

Furious, Levi retorted, "What did I do that was so selfish? Please explain what I've done!"

The crowd's leader stepped forward and asked, "Levi Garrison, isn't it true that you have plenty of resources? Don't you have heaps of magical herbs and spiritual energy crystals? Haven't you been giving them away in buckets?"

Levi nodded. "That's true. But this matter has never been kept a secret. Doesn't everyone already know about it? Indeed, I have plenty of resources. Much more than you could ever imagine."

"Don't you think that you should change the way you look at things? There are better ways, you know? You should let your resources strengthen Erudia first. That'll benefit your daughter too, won't it?"

“That makes sense to me. Even though Forlevia’s very important to you, you have to remember that she’s the daughter of the Crown King! She should always be ready to sacrifice herself for the greater good. Isn’t it worth it for Erudia?”

“Of course, we’re not literally sacrificing her. I believe that if you’re willing to give your resources to Erudia, the country and its people will do everything in their power to cure Forlevia.”

“If we’re to be frank, we’d say that you and your daughter owe Erudia. This is the least you can do for this country.”

In response to the people’s clamoring, Levi laughed in derision. What a pile of bullsh*t! This is the worst emotional blackmailing I’ve ever encountered. How dare these people get on their moral high horse to demand me to make such a sacrifice!

“It turns out there are people more despicable than those in Hawen. I’ve lived for a very long time, but I’ve never witnessed this level of shamelessness,” scoffed Dr. Erebus.

Then, the Digital God decided to be straightforward with the insufferable group of people. “You think you lot are enough to represent the entire Erudia? Don’t make me laugh. You’re but only a few hundred people.”

The group immediately got upset when Dr. Erebus and the Digital God chimed in.

“And just who do you think you two are? What gives you the right to speak up?”

“You think you’re all that just because you’re called Erebus Angel and the Angel of Light? You’re not worthy! In case you’ve forgotten, you two tried to destroy the world.”

“Crown King, why would you even side with these two? Have they put a spell on you or something?”

One punch was all it took for Levi to smash the man’s head.

Fresh blood was immediately sprayed onto those near the dead man, shocking them to the core.

The supporters were stunned as they tried to figure out what had happened exactly. Did the Crown King just smash someone’s head in?

On the other hand, Dr. Erebus and the Digital God could not be more relieved to see the intolerable leader dead.

To them, seeing the leader’s head explode was as satisfying as if they had attacked the man themselves.

As Levi demanded coldly, his gaze swept across everyone’s faces.

“I think...” After a moment of silence, someone spoke up.

However, he had just said two words before Levi killed him with a single punch.

Blood splattered across the air.

“I don’t want your opinion. I’m asking if you’ve heard me!” growled Levi coldly.

Everyone returned to their senses and yelled, “We won’t try to steal the resources anymore!”

“You can, but I’ll kill anyone who does. Go back and tell everyone. If anyone wants to snatch my resources, go on! That’s if you aren’t afraid of dying. I’ll kill everyone who’s weaker than me. Of course, if you think that you’re stronger than me, just come at me! I’ll welcome you anytime.”

When Levi said that, the hundreds of people in front of him were so scared that they almost wet their pants.

However, they also understood that they had committed a heinous crime toward Levi.

Hence, he would not hesitate to kill.

Immediately, everyone scuttled away as they were afraid that Levi would go back on his word if they stayed there any longer.

“Don’t be angry, Mr. Garrison. I didn’t expect these scums to be so shameless!” consoled Dr. Erebus and the rest.

The Fraud

After he announced the reward, there were less people who wished to earn the reward from Levi by thinking of solutions to cure Forlevia's poison.

Instead, there were more people who had their eyes set on Levi's resources.

Many forces were already thinking of snatching them away from him.

Even Xyperia and Idrae were keeping a close eye on him.

For Idrae, their method of creating Deities had already proved successful and the first batch of artificially created Deities was ready.

Out of the hundred people who were experimented on, nine of them were successful.

Now that Xyperia had nine more Deities, it created a huge uproar in the rest of the world.

They believed that this must not continue because Xyperia would just become even more powerful.

Theoretically speaking, they could have as many Deities as they wanted!

However, a lot of resources were required for creating Deities, so the price was very high!

They had to use loads of spiritual energy crystals and magical herbs.

Their headquarters was on a small island.

As they gazed at the huge heap of resources, they grinned in delight.

They did not actually have the Ten Millenium Snow Lotus—everything was fabricated so they could lure Levi out.

They quoted an extremely high price to take advantage of Levi's desperation for solutions.

They figured Levi would definitely agree to their request.

After all, he did not lack the resources at all.

Without the actual Ten Millenium Snow Lotus, they could not make an exchange with Levi.

As Levi would definitely want to check the goods during the exchange, they would be exposed and the scam would fall through.

Hence, they asked for a 50% deposit, so Levi could give them half of the resources first.

As that was only the deposit, they would not arouse Levi's suspicion.

However, right from the start, they were only aiming for that deposit—this was their true objective.

The ten tonnes of spiritual energy crystals and one thousand magical herbs were only a distraction.

Does This Look Like A Sword

After opening the box, they saw a tree branch lying inside.

The Ten Millenium Snow Lotus was gone and only a tree branch could be seen.

Levi was boiling with rage and even Dr. Erebus was furious.

Their expressions changed drastically as a menacing glint flashed across their eyes, as if they yearned to rip everything into shreds.

We've been tricked! After that long wait, this isn't the Ten Millenium Snow Lotus at all. It's just a tree branch! How despicable! Da*n it! They actually tricked us like that!

Those opposite Levi were puzzled as well. They had been hired by a mysterious man to deliver the box, so they did not know what was inside it.

They thought that it was just an expensive item.

However, when they noticed Levi and the others' reactions, they went over to take a look subconsciously.

A look of utter disbelief crossed their faces when they saw the tree branch.

The mysterious man spent so much money to make us deliver a tree branch?

"Look! There's something inside," exclaimed one of them when he saw a piece of paper at the bottom.

Levi grabbed the tree branch slowly and took out the piece of paper.

Waving the tree branch in the air lightly, he continued, "I'll stab it into those scammers and pull it out. Blood will pour over the ground..."

Although Levi was grinning brightly, everyone thought that he looked just like the devil.

He was simply too terrifying.

Suddenly, the grin disappeared from Levi's face.

"Investigate who the scammers are and catch them! I'll keep this tree branch. When they're caught, I'll use this tree branch to drain their blood to the last drop," snarled Levi with a vicious expression.

"Got... Got it!" replied Dr. Erebus and Digital God as they gulped.

The others were shivering uncontrollably, feeling like there was a mountain weighing down on them.

Even if people could take Levi's things, they would not be alive to use them.

If they dared to lie to Levi, their only outcome would be death.
