Chapter 3211 Watch Yourself Die

Shit! They became very frightened by the way Levi was oppressing them.

Thump!

Several of them could not take it anymore and get down on their knees.

“Please spare us! We beg of you! Spare our unworthy lives!”

“Please spare us! We are afraid!”

“We only do as we are told. The leaders are the masterminds! It has nothing to do with us!”

Everyone was speechless.

Humans were weak and simply could not withstand the test when faced with adversity.

The six leaders turned around and looked at their loyal subordinates in disbelief.

Their men had sworn an oath to pledge their loyalty. Yet, in order to save their own lives, their men were willing to sell them out.

Mainly, it was because of their fear for Levi.

They had no inkling what Levi would do to finish them off.

The suspense was killing them.

They were so petrified that they were losing it.

That was why they begged for mercy.

Titanius had gone crazy.

He shook his head as he didn't want that at all.

"Just kill me! Give me a swift death! I don't want to die like this!" he begged as dread overwhelmed him.

Levi didn't even spare Titanius a glance at his begging.

Thud!

He lightly smacked Titanius, and a loud thud sounded, followed by the sound of a crack.

"Argh!" Titanius let out a shrill scream.

Everyone at the scene could hear the soul-deep pain from his scream and empathized with him as though they were the ones suffering the traumatizing pain.

Titanius looked at himself with terror.

Other than the terrible pain and horrible pulling sensation as if his body was torn apart, he watched his body slowly disintegrate. It was just as Levi had said.

It started from his chest, then his belly, and his legs were next.

They were all slowly disintegrating under his scrutiny.

Logically, his body should've split right open if there was a crack, but he could watch his body slowly being torn apart at the current rate. It was like someone was controlling it so that he could see it for himself.

"Huh?"

Oedipus was baffled and soon realized Levi's meaning.

Me watching my brain explode? How is that even possible? But this is Levi. Didn't Titanius watch his body disintegrate earlier? That means it is possible for me to watch my brain explode.

"Ah!"

At that thought, Oedipus couldn't suppress his terror and screamed distraughtly.

He had lost his mind.

Blood started flowing out from his every orifice, his organs were failing rapidly, and every inch of his tendons began breaking apart.

He was so terrified that he inflicted damage upon his body.

Levi hadn't even started. He sowed the seed in Oedipus' mind, and it was enough to horrify Oedipus to such an extent.

The pain and torture Oedipus felt were no lesser than Titanius.

In fact, it was even more severe.

The crucial point was Levi hadn't done anything.

He was truly a devil.

How else would they gain so many enemies?

It was from their butchering of the innocents.

Numerous innocent lives had been ruthlessly reaped.

Their clinical testing had caused the death of many people.

In contrast, they had never let even a single drop of poison touch them.

Their bodies were very frail and susceptible to any harm especially poison.

They were different from Venom Fiend and the poison researchers of Erudia.

Their own bodies were the lab rats.

“The bodies of poison makers were constantly being injected with poison. So I’m sure you guys are immune to them.”

Levi smiled. “So I’m going to feed you a poison next. It’s a poison I collected a while ago. It’s named Deity Cry, for even Deities cry at the extreme pain after consuming the poison, and finally, they would die from the pain.

“This poison was also known as the poison that could inflict the most pain. It doesn’t cause death with toxicity, but the pain it inflicts. The pain isn’t sharp and quick. It’s long and dull. It’ll torture you to your limits, then lead to your death.”

Levi took out the poison.

They could cure the poison, but they needed the antidote or other tools or a specific environment.

It would only take them thirty minutes to cure the poison if they could get to their laboratory.

However, they had nothing with them at that moment.

It was despairing that they had the means to cure it but couldn’t.

It was another huge blow to them.

Moreover, they were familiar with the poison's mechanism. So they knew when the first wave of pain would strike, the strength of the second wave, how and when the pain would peak, and the estimate of their time of death.

They knew every aspect of it, yet that only increased their suffering.

"Ah!"

The dread engulfing them was no lesser than Oedipus' and Titanius'.

It was another method of torture for them.

Unfortunately, it was even more horrific!

Furthermore, their knowledge of it merely intensified their suffering.

Everyone hugged each other and cheered.

They were all laughing heartily.

It was a long-awaited moment for them—Idrae was finally wiped out completely.

The dark force that had been in control for a few centuries was finally eliminated.

Thus, everyone, regardless of what background they were from, was thrilled.

It was a matter worth celebrating by everyone.

It felt like the best day of their lives.

"I finally don't feel guilty toward Mr. Garrison and Evie now!" Dr. Erebus was also crying with joy.

On the other hand, Digital God sat on the ground, feeling rather empty deep inside.

He felt as if there was no meaning to life anymore because they had achieved the goal they had been working toward.

Now that it was done, he had no idea what to do next.

"Idrae has been eliminated!"

The news spread like a hurricane. In just a short moment, the whole world had already known about it.

Levi had succeeded in eliminating Idrae, the world's most cancerous tumor, in front of the entire Elterton Union.

Sonja and the others were beginning to lose hope.
Not only were they unable to look for the five men, but it might also be too late, even if they could find them.
If Azure Dragon and the other four were really captured, then their lives would be in danger already.
Perhaps the transplant of spiritual bones were ongoing.
Going out to look for them at that moment was practically useless.

Everyone else was too slow.

Magnus, on the other hand, looked as though he had received shocking news. He could not help but exclaim, "I can't believe this. The spiritual bones of Azure Dragon and the others are actually from the legendary elemental class! Each of their spiritual bone has a special attribute. And when they come together, they become the elemental spiritual bones."

"What? They're the legendary elemental spiritual bones?"

"I finally understand why they appeared now. It's because they're the elemental spiritual bones!"

Sonja and the others exclaimed, finally understanding the situation.

"It's our fault for being not observant enough. I thought the elemental spiritual bones will only appear on one person. I never expected it to be a combination of all five of them," Magnus said in amazement.

"That's right. We should've thought about that long ago. After all, the five of them have such great chemistry. Moreover, they have their own attributes that can be seen. Ah, it's a little too late to say all of this now." Sonja shook her head helplessly.

sighed. "To the others, perhaps capturing the gang of five and digging out their spiritual bone might be useless. At most, only their individual spiritual bones will become more powerful. However, it'll never appear as the elemental spiritual bones. But to the five, if they could really fuse all five of their spiritual bones, they could become the

Chapter 3218 The Esoteric Guild

Levi was too powerful that it made countless people surrender to him in defeat.

Moreover, his prowess had threatened the existence of several forces, such as his foes, especially those who bore grudges against him.

Even so, Levi had settled many of them; so only a few were left.

Of course, that was because Levi had not discovered the identity of those forces—the secret forces who controlled Chad, the heavenly lock, and the secret lock box.

Everyone had witnessed how powerful Levi was, and the whole world feared him.

The remaining forces were beginning to fear him too.

They never expected him to be so powerful. That was why they kept targeting him.

Now that they had witnessed his prowess, they were utterly dumbfounded.

If their identities were to be revealed, they would be in grave danger.

Perhaps their end might not be as terrifying as Idrae's, but they would probably be wiped out by him.

Therefore, they had to make their move before Levi returned to look for them.

Their plan was simple, which was to impede Levi by capturing Forlevia, Zoey, or the others who were related to him.

Thus, they joined the expedition searching for all of them.

Dr. Erebus smiled. "For the past few months, the only thing that was bugging me was Idrae. Now that they're gone, it's time I let go of everything. Actually, I should've died long ago. Well, I guess I'm given a second chance to live. Now that I've learned so many things and solved many puzzles, I feel that I'm not interested in everything.

So, my next plan is to retire and not join anything. I'm going to look for a place of my own and live in seclusion, just like what the other formidable people of Erudia love to do. I'm going to make sure even you people can't find me. So, don't bother me, and I shall not bother you guys. That shall be it until I grow old and die."

Levi patted his shoulder. "Great. I will give you my support. It's time for you to rest. After all, you've been working so hard for a long time."

He shifted his gaze to Digital God and asked, "What about you, Bro?"

Levi liked addressing Digital God as “Bro.”

Everyone knew Digital God was incredibly smart. After spending so much time with him, Levi realized the former was just a simple person.

Moreover, Dr. Erebus and Digital God were actually great people.

“Otherwise, I’m never going to appear again. If nothing happens in the future, I’ll continue living that way. I suppose being able to live ordinary lives with our friends and family should be an amazing thing, too. Oh, I’m really looking forward to it,” Dr. Erebus said.

“Yes. And now, everything is settled! Besides, now that I’ve got the power to control everything, living an ordinary life shouldn’t be a problem,” Levi said with a look of anticipation.

His heart had longed to return to Erudia long ago.

“That sounds great! Perhaps, I’ll want to live a life like that in the future,” Digital God said, grinning.

“Of course. Soon, you’ll definitely have a family of your own.” Levi smiled. When he looked at Dr. Erebus, he recollected himself.

This guy wants to be alone. I guess saying such things will be useless to him.

In the next moment, the trio continued chatting on the highest point of Elterton.

“Okay. I should go back now. Let’s go on our own ways here.”

“Hopefully we’ll meet again in the future!”

Finally, the three of them parted ways.

Dr. Erebus did not have a destination in mind, so he set off in the opposite direction as Levi.
