Chapter 3251 My Punch

“What do you mean by that? That’s impossible!” the Three Sages blurted out in unison.

If Levi was stronger than them, they wouldn’t have come all the way here.

They would be asking to be Levi’s disciples if he was indeed stronger than them instead of the other way around.

That thought had never crossed their minds, so they refused to believe it.

“Look. I shall throw a punch!” Levi declared.

Without hesitation, Levi threw a punch.

To him, the Three Sages were fools, so it was useless to try to persuade them to change their minds.

Levi was at the verge of exploding with rage if they continued being fools.

Thus, he decided to show them how strong he was.

I’m stronger than you! My punch is stronger than your attacks! Do you want to take me as your disciple? Dream on! You aren’t even qualified!

Boom!

Levi’s punch was like a nuclear explosion that could destroy mountains and rivers.

A terrifying force promptly enveloped the area.

Wasting no further time indulging them with idle banter, Levi decidedly let his fists do the talking.

Boom!

Once more, an earth-shattering fist was unleashed to the tandem of an ear-splitting explosion.

An all-encompassing tempest shrouded the air above them while a petrifying tremoring, akin to the wrath of the nine heavens unleashed upon the earth, ripped across through the horizon.

Regardless of speed or strength, this punch exceeded that of the previous a dozen-fold.

Hiss!

The Three Sages of North Pavilion, too, immediately sensed danger abound; that punch was terrifying beyond their wildest expectations, and perhaps, more immense than anything they could have ever anticipated.

Before, they were under the impression that he might be some way from being their equal, but now, it would seem that that might not definitely be the case.

Yet, they were hapless against it.

Getting killed was to be expected, as they should not have sought to cross Levi.

Before the arrival of the sixth wave itself, the aura that it exuded had seemingly begun to tear at their bodies, and the scorching pain that assailed them left them wishing for death.

Very soon, the sixth wave of the attack came roaring in, and like the searing sun itself, it threatened to scour them to ashes.

Already convinced of the certainty of their own demise, the Three Sages had snapped their eyes shut in despair, but the attack halted before it could blast them to smithereens—Levi had surprisingly absorbed it back in its entirety.

“Huh?”

Swiftly sensing something amiss, the trio opened their eyes in time to catch a glimpse of Levi pulling back the final wave of his own attack.

Astonishing! Simply astonishing!

Naturally, they understood the difficulty of drawing back an attack compared to unleashing it, especially when it came to powers that were that immense.

Therein, it was clear that Levi’s true might was beyond the limits of their own comprehension.

Chapter 3255 Difficulty In Investigating The Ecclesiastic Order

The current greatest fear of the Three Sages of North Pavilion was for someone to find out that they were injured.

After all, that would mean an immense underlying danger to North Pavilion.

Being the backbone of North Pavilion, people losing faith in them could mean the extermination of North Pavilion.

If North Pavilion were to be under attack, them being severely injured, albeit temporary, would mean that they would be completely powerless.

Alas, it was as they say: you attract what you fear.

At the moment, the Three Sages had thought that the only one who knew about their injuries was Doran Xenos, the head of North Pavilion.

Never would they have imagined someone else to have witnessed the whole ordeal.

Naturally, the person would also have known about their injuries.

Unfortunately, that shall bring catastrophe onto North Pavilion.

Meanwhile, Levi had Sonja and the rest focused on finding the Bonemasters while he himself investigated the Ecclesiastic Order in hopes of uncovering the culprit.

In fact, due to the lack of manpower, Levi had even asked Black Hawk and Elterton Star for help.

He even prepared many advance devices and facilities as tools to aid the investigation.

Investigating the Ecclesiastic Order proved to be too difficult of a task.

When it came to Erudia, there were not many he could mobilize.

They was simply too inept and too weak for the task!

Sonja and the rest helped Levi full-heartedly.

Before long, they had gotten their hands on a list of thirteen Bonemasters.

However, those were far from all the existing Bonemasters. They still had to continue searching.

Following the search, Levi had another mission to accomplish. He would start finding those Bonemasters one by one and getting them under his influence.

The results yielded by Sonja and her team served as a small piece of relief to Levi.

It would be best if they could uncover who the culprit was.

They could not possibly be expecting Levi to fight the entire Ecclesiastic Order.

Nevertheless, that would be the last resort.

A plan that would only be carried out if the investigation was truly unfruitful.

If that were the case, Levi would not hesitate to fight the whole Ecclesiastic Order and demanded them to hand over the culprit.

I don't care how many factions there will be, nor would I care if they had nothing to do with it.

As long as you claim yourselves as part of the Ecclesiastic Order, I would assume you are one.

And I will force you to hand the culprit over. By hook or by crook.

I would enter the Ecclesiastic Order with my iron fists, demanding you to hand the culprit over. Otherwise, I would make so much blood flow that even rivers can't compare.

Gloria explained, “Right now, they are very wary of all those from the Ecclesiastic Order. This is not the time to reveal our relationship! Don’t do anything that might destroy us!”

After a brief pause, she advised earnestly, “After this whole ordeal is over, I will follow you to meet your Master! It’s too early for that now, and it might potentially ruin our relationship!”

A lump began to form in Floyd’s throat as he sniffed.

Does that mean Gloria has planned to meet my parents someday as well?

The thought made Floyd’s heart warm and fuzzy.

Gloria had chosen to stay by his side through his toughest moments.

Did that not prove that she wanted to be with him?

Plus, she has taken everything into consideration. She has even thought about how she would interact with Master in the future!

"Also let Sonja and her team know that we've gotten these eight other Bonemasters so they won't repeat the same piece of information!" added Levi.

After that, with a bit more effort from Sonja's side, Levi had no doubt that they would have all the Bonemasters at their disposal in no time.

From the looks of it, there seemed to be a high chance of success.

"Great job, Floyd! Not a lot of people could accomplish this mission!" As he was speaking, Levi patted Floyd on the latter's shoulder.

"I received help from friends, Master!" Floyd beamed.

"Still, be careful not to trust anyone blindly. Either way, amazing job!"

Floyd had been praised.

I can finally be of some use.

I can make up for the guilt I felt!

Once again, Floyd was touched by Gloria's actions.

I owe it all to her!

Floyd also gave the magical herbs he had found to Azure Dragon and the other four for their recovery.

Azure Dragon and the rest were looking better as well. Although they were still lying on the hospital beds, they seemed to be recovering quite nicely.

Receiving the magical herbs, they gave Floyd warm smiles, not forgetting to advise him about being careful.

The Heavenly League was shocked when hundreds of people appeared at their doorstep.

The group of formidable-looking people exuded an aura so intense that the Heavenly League felt like they were about to face a horrible calamity.

It even got to the point where the league thought they would collapse under the sheer intensity of the aura.

On top of that, large beasts growled beside the Ecclesiastic Order and were ready to devour any living thing that they could sink their teeth into.

Those creatures were much more powerful than those found in the restricted areas, but still, the order managed to tame them.

Because the order thought they were superior to others, they would gift others with elixirs or some low-grade Art of Consumption if they felt generous, so naturally, many respected them.

However, that was not the case with Levi since he did not feel the same way about the order.

Even after the order had specifically asked Levi to kneel, he only responded by giving them a baffled look, which did not sit right with them.

The Ecclesiastic Order was convinced that Levi was mocking them and would not stand for it. Did he just take us for fools? Unforgivable! Who the heck does he think he is? He's the foolish one for not paying us respects!

"Why the heck are you still sitting there? Are you deaf, Levi?" questioned the order furiously.

"Wait a second. That's... That's an Ancient Divine Sword!" stammered a member suddenly when he noticed the weapon that the Ecclesiastic Order had been searching high and low for. That sword is why we came here today!
