Chapter 3861 King Of Forging

Levi regarded everyone else with a smile. As he expected, their reactions were more or less similar. Quirina's intention was obvious. Dragon stone was an extremely precious forging material, and its rarity far surpassed a regular dragon ley line.

A small dragon ley line could not produce a dragon stone. Even the dragon ley line Levi had snatched previously did not contain any dragon stone.

That was a testament to the rarity and valuableness of a dragon stone. Therefore, ordinary forging techniques would not be sufficient to handle such an exquisite raw material.

To put it bluntly, an average forger could not create a premium ultimate weapon even if they possessed a dragon stone, and that would be a waste of such a prized resource.

The members of Astre Lune Sect were doubting his forging skills. "Let's do this then. Bring me some of the materials available in the sect and lead me to the sect's holy ley line. I'll make some useful weapons for the sect's elders," Levi chirped.

All the elders of Astre Lune Sect felt embarrassed to have their thoughts openly expressed in words. However, they also looked forward to witnessing Levi's forging technique in person.

His confident demeanor fanned the enthusiasm of the elders. It seems like our new leader is genuinely skilled. That thought flashed across everyone's mind.

Their joyous mien was not a facade, as all the high-rank officials of Astre Lune Sect were truly over the moon. All the remaining hint of resentment they harbored toward Levi for seizing control of their sect dissipated for good.

The weapons Levi had casually produced were far superior to their sect's existing strongest ultimate weapons. Disregarding their cultivation techniques, their combat abilities would receive significant boosts from wielding those ultimate weapons alone.

Besides, Levi had made himself very clear that if they could acquire top-tier raw materials in the future, he would smith some premium ultimate weapons for them. "I finally understand why you're so determined to locate high-grade forging materials, Lord Garrison."

"That's right. Aside from those top-tier raw materials, other ordinary substances are too mediocre for your forging technique." "We should change our sect's name to Premium Ultimate Weapon Sect from now on."

"Ah, that's a little immodest, Elder Canfield, but that name sure fits Lord Garrison's outstanding forging technique."

Taking in their delightful demeanor, Levi found their reaction comical. I can't believe they are showering me with so many praises for offering them weapons I regard as rubbish.

Nevertheless, this situation is coincidentally beneficial for me. After all, I can gain better control of Astre Lune Sect by doing them favors and letting them acknowledge my strength. Presently, it seems like the high-rank officials of the sect no longer have any complaints. As long as they have chosen a side, the stability of the sect's circumstances will be cemented.

While the members of Astre Lune Sect were dwelling in that joyous moment, an informant suddenly approached.

Hiss! The sound of others gasping reverberated in the air. The leader of the party dressed in black was among the top five fighters in their group, yet Levi killed him with one hit.

The vast difference in their capabilities caused the other members of Eclipse Academy to be in disbelief. "Be careful, everyone. He's wielding a premium ultimate weapon."

"That's right. Otherwise, there's no way Finley would die." "Let's kill him and snatch away his ultimate weapon. That way, even if we do not locate the mysterious fighter, we can still claim some credit when we return."

Everyone from Eclipse Academy eyed the long sword in Levi's hand passionately. Eagerness glinted in their gazes as if they were starved predators finally laying their eyes upon their prey.

That was because they were aware of the preciousness of an ultimate weapon. "Let's fight him together!" commanded another leader of the group who was dressed in black. Numerous Paladins surged forward fearlessly and surrounded Levi.

"You'll have to be sufficiently capable to take this ultimate weapon away from me. Let me do you all a favor and send you to hell to be reunited with your vice-chancellor!"

Before Levi even finished his words, he had vanished from his spot. The next second, he reappeared in the middle of the Paladins' attack formation. Blood splattered as he waved the long sword in his hand.

A hint of anger rose within Levi. Those few items were crucial to increasing the upper limit of an ultimate weapon's potential.

If he couldn't acquire those materials, the ultimate weapons he forged could never achieve his desired state.

Nonetheless, Levi did not feel like wasting any more time. After all, there were still unaddressed issues pending in the mundane world.

"Lord Garrison, I just received a piece of news. Perhaps we can try our luck at Lightspring," Chierette piped up.

Overjoyed, Levi hastily asked, "Tell me more details."

"Lord Garrison, Lightspring is the largest city in this area, and the most influential force in Lightspring is Prime Association. They possess the largest amount of rare resources. According to the information I obtained, Prime Association has all the top-tier materials you need," Chierette elaborated.

Chapter 3865 In The Heart Of Kenfort

While Levi was immersed in shock, he suddenly heard the sound of something cutting through the air. Jerking his head up, he spotted a gigantic animal-shaped ship whizzing past at lightning speed.

Because of its breakneck speed, even he couldn't manage to catch a glimpse of it in its entirety. Such speed far exceeds any aircraft designed by Digital God!

Sheer surprise inundated him. I wonder what its power source is. But judging from its look, I think it's likely a particular type of manned aircraft. That aside, it's an exclusive mode of transportation in Kenfort. "What was that?" Levi inquired in puzzlement.

"That was a cloudship, Lord Garrison. It's usually designed in the shape of an animal and uses top-notch spiritual energy crystals as fuel. Not only can it be used as a means of transport, but it can also function as a lethal weapon. Only super-powerful sects own such a cloudship, so sects such as Void Sect and Astre Lune Sect can only dream of owning one.

Of course, even if we spend a fortune buying a cloudship, a sect like ours doesn't have sufficient spiritual energy crystals for fuel. Even Eclipse Academy doesn't have a cloudship," Cheriette explained respectfully. In response, Levi flashed her a faint smile of understanding.

Ah, this is the upgraded version of the inability to afford gasoline even if one could afford a car. After all, a sect of Astre Lune Sect's level would rather give any top-notch spiritual energy crystals they have to their Paladins for cultivation. It'd be a great waste of precious resources to use them as fuel for a cloudship.

This is also evidence that Lightspring is indeed extraordinary. Needless to say, there must be plenty of dragon ley lines in the city for it to be capable of supplying spiritual energy crystals for the consumption of cloudships.

When they entered the city, Cheriette noticed Levi quirking an eyebrow imperceptibly. She hastily queried through the transmitter, "What's the matter, Lord Garrison?"

"We're being targeted, but it's okay. Just ignore him."

While saying that, Levi glanced at Larissa meaningfully.

Earlier, both he himself and Cheriette had deliberately suppressed their cultivation.

Larissa, however, didn't do so. In fact, she had even purposefully let out a trace of murderous intent.

It was probably that murderous intent of hers that had caught the inspector general's attention.

Don't tell me she has some trick up her sleeve again now that we're in Lightspring?

Despite his thoughts, he didn't show the slightest hint of anything amiss on his face.

After Cheriette learned that someone was targeting them, apprehension and anxiety brewed within her.

“You can try calling for help!” Levi remarked with a chuckle. His smile, dazzling as it was, resembled a demon’s in Larissa’s eyes.

It made her shudder, and her last hope of screaming for help and escaping dissipated. More importantly, she had completely regained her senses.

She wanted to scream for help out of survival instinct, but after she had calmed down, she sincerely regretted that thought.

Even if the entire Eclipse team attacks Levi at once, it’ll be pointless, given his cultivation level. When I led dozens of Paladins with superior fighting skills back then, didn’t he also take them down effortlessly? Besides, he came here so openly and brazenly, so I can’t gain support from the powerful parties in Lightspring.

Larissa’s mind was in turmoil. Let’s see if I’ll get the chance when Levi gets into a conflict with Prime Association. She secretly made a decision.

“How can you say that, Master? I’ll never call for help. Besides, how can those weaklings ever be your match?” Larissa said respectfully. Levi’s smile grew wider. “Let’s hope you act in accordance with your words.”

Cheriette followed Levi into Prime Association with a mixture of anxiety and apprehension. Contrary to her, Larissa was not nervous at all, wanting nothing more than for Levi to get into a fight with the fighters of the association.

Then and only then could she have a better chance of escaping from his side. When Levi stepped inside Prime Association, he discovered that the interior was even more lavish and resplendent.

Even the tables, chairs, and benches inside were made of thousand-year-old wood. "Go and get hold of someone from this association!" Levi said to Cheriette.

The latter summoned up her courage and went inside. She soon located a person in charge of trading for the association.

Levi stood where he was and waited. After a while, Cheriette and a middleman dressed in a long robe with a sword hanging from his waist came over.

"Mr. Garrison, this lady has already told me what you need. Star metal, spark gold, and dragon stone, are available here. As for divine bone, we know its whereabouts. If you think the price is acceptable, we can trade now."

As soon as his words fell, Cherie and Larissa widened their eyes in shock. This guy is clearly the Fearless Robber of Kenfort!

Larissa was stunned speechless. Oh, Lord Garrison. You should keep these words to yourself. Why must you say it out loud? Cherie also experienced quite a shock.

Prime Association’s forces are scattered all over Kenfort. Provoking such a powerhouse is equivalent to triggering an entire series of chain effects. Even within Lightspring, the association is full of elites and has a close relationship with the City Defense Army. Isn’t he asking for trouble?

Gasps echoed across the hall of Prime Association before everyone burst out laughing. “This guy’s a lunatic, isn’t he?”

“No one sound of mind will say such a thing.”

“I can’t believe he said he wants to rob Prime Association. He truly has a death wish!”

The person in charge of the transaction also wore an icy expression as he ordered loudly, “Guards! Seize these lunatics who came to cause trouble.”

The minute he finished his sentence, dozens of elite guards rushed out from the inner courtyard of Prime Association and surrounded Levi and the others.

When Levi turned in the direction of the sound, he saw an elderly man with red hair and a gruff look.
The stern expression he wore made him look intimidating.

"Mr. Webber!" the guards greeted in unison. The red-haired elderly man waved his hand, causing the guards to straighten their backs and return to glaring at Levi's group.

"Young man, could you lend me your weapon so that I can take a look at it?" the elderly man asked with a slight smile. Confused by the elderly man's words, the others turned to look at him with a frown.

Levi was equally baffled, but he could sense that the elderly man bore no hostility toward him. "Sure," Levi replied before tossing his sword. The red-haired elderly man caught it and studied it for a while.

Then, everyone saw his expression shifting from a look of shock to one of delight. "It really is a premium
