Chapter 4011 In Full Force

The more Nister and the other elders stared at Gloria's torn and bloodied cheeks, the more they felt deeply offended. It was as though Levi had also slapped them and left a stinging sensation on their faces.

There was no doubt Levi was taking it out on the entire Cordierite Association, but despite everyone's outrage, no one dared to utter a word. "Since no one has any objections, I'll take my leave now," Levi said before turning around and striding off.

Of course, I'll let Floyd have the honor of killing Gloria. I only came here today to teach her a lesson, anyway. It's just her luck that I had time on my hands. Ha!

As soon as Levi disappeared from their sight, Nister and the others unleashed their anger. "That b*stard has gone too far! Does he think the Cordierite Association wouldn't retaliate?"

Not to be outdone, the leaders of Battle Tiger Tribe, too, went out in full force. After all, their blood had been awakened, and one could hear a faint tiger's roar with each move they made. In short, their combat power had become truly impressive.

The head of the Divine Blade Sect promptly led his sect's five elders onto the , with complex sword formations appearing above their heads as they walked. From the looks of it, it was clear they had perfected their cultivation in swordsmanship.

Of course, all the other sects had done the same by sending out their elites. How could they not when they shared the common goal of killing the robber to get revenge?

As for Blithe Lord's camp, they had stabilized pretty quickly after their last defeat and elected a new leader.

The new Blithe Lord was just as highly skilled in controlling beasts, so it didn't take long for him to put together a formidable army of thousands of spirit beasts, ten of which were close to achieving King class.

Like an army of well-trained soldiers, they quickly assembled into a line formation and awaited their orders. Meanwhile, Albert stood on the cloudship and surveyed the hundreds of sects gathered below.

Battle flags flew high while troops stood strong and proud. The entire area was filled with an intense, murderous aura.

"Kill the robber! Vengeance will be ours!" Albert thundered, his voice resonating in everyone's ears. "Kill the robber!" "Vengeance will be ours!" "Kill the robber!"

Knowing that the sects Cordierite Association had gathered were unprecedentedly powerful, Sylvan furrowed his brows before turning to his trusted aide.

“Get the elders from Prime Company here immediately. We have important business to discuss.” Not long after, the elders from Prime Company hurried over and quickly noticed something was amiss when they saw the grim-faced Sylvan.

“Mr. Webber, did something happen?” one of the elders asked. Sylvan nodded and told them everything he knew. The elders, too, turned ashen-faced upon realizing the gravity of the situation.

With Cordierite Association sending out such a powerful alliance to retaliate against Levi, not even the entire Prime Company would stand a chance of winning!

“That’s also why I haven’t informed Mr. Garrison. If he finds out about it, I’m sure he’d take the initiative to attack,” Sylvan said with a sigh. “Sadly, I doubt we can do anything to turn the situation around.”

The elders of Prime Company nodded in agreement. After the way Levi had stormed off to Cordierite Association to slap Gloria, everyone knew how reckless he could be.

Just then, a hearty chuckle rang out, causing both Larissa and Cheriette to jump in fright. “What’s there to be afraid of? We’ll take our enemies as they come. No matter how many troops Cordierite Association sends, I’ll slaughter them all with my sword.” To their horror, the person standing behind them was none other than Levi. “Lord Garrison!”

“Master!” Upon seeing how panicked the two women were, Levi burst out laughing. “I already heard about the news that you guys were discussing. It’s not as terrifying as you think. After all, Cordierite Association is nothing to me.”

“Master, Cordierite Association has sent out very powerful sects this time. Their combined power is at least ten times more than what we had experienced before. We can’t underestimate them!”

“That’s right, Lord Garrison. I heard that the Devil’s Chariot armored vehicles were specifically designed by Tenebrous Sky Division to annihilate top elites!”

One thing was for sure—Sylvan’s acting skills were top-notch, and not even Levi had noticed anything amiss. Of course, the main point was that his explanation was sensible and aligned with what Levi wanted to hear.

“Ladies, please come along!” Sylvan exclaimed before a sudden roar nearly made him jump out of his skin. Upon turning around, he came face to face with an angry Thunder Qilin, nostrils spouting flames as though it was trying to ask, “Why aren’t you inviting me along?”

“Ah, I’ve specially prepared a delicious spread for you, Thunder Qilin. I just haven’t had a chance to mention it yet,” Sylvan hastily explained.

Oh, gosh. I’ve witnessed Thunder Qilin’s terrifying combat prowess for myself, and not even I can measure up to it. If I angered this King class spirit beast, it might just go on a rampage and wipe out Lightspring!

Levi sat at the main table without hesitation while Larissa and Cherie sat on either side of him. “A banquet isn’t complete without some entertainment. Get Pristine here to play the harp for us,” Sylvan said to his subordinate.

The latter promptly left the main hall, and it didn’t take long before a young woman in a white dress entered with a harp.

“Greetings, Mr. Garrison and Mr. Webber. My name is Pristine,” she said, her voice so sweet and gentle that it brought a smile to everyone’s faces.

“Mr. Garrison, Pristine is Prime Association’s top musician, and she’s excellent at playing the harp. I hope you’ll enjoy her performance,” Sylvan remarked, still grinning from ear to ear. Levi merely nodded and snuck a glance at the harpist.

Chapter 4017 On Another Level

"How is this happening? The communication device should be working!" Quirina could not figure out why she got no response from the device, as it had worked fine the day before. Levi had even briefly explained the situation in Lightspring.

"How is it going, Lord Morell? Haven't you managed to reach Lord Garrison yet?" "Lord Garrison didn't abandon us, did he?" "The Cordierite Association has amassed an army dozens of times larger this time. I'm afraid not even Lord Garrison will stand a chance."

"I wouldn't depend on the Prime Association. They're businessmen who care about profits only after all. Don't be surprised if they suddenly decide to run away in the face of such a powerful enemy." Many Astre Lune Sect elders were anxious, if not worried or fearful.

Just as concerned as the elders, Quirina let out a sigh. It's every man for himself when trouble comes knocking, and that's especially true for the calculating Prime Association. They'll back out as soon as their losses outweigh their profits.

"Lord Garrison isn't the kind of person to run away at the sight of trouble. Let's not lose our heads." After pausing for a while, Quirina continued, "But of course, we can't just do nothing. Elder Canfield,

Many local fighters in Lightspring discussed among themselves when they saw the frightening sight of large cloudships zooming toward them. Then they all hurried to a hiding place far away.

Rumble! Rumble! Rumble! When the numerous dragon-shaped cloudships flew past them, the fighters of the Prime Association shook in their boots.

However, they dared not make a move without an order. On top of that, the Cordierite Association and their affiliated sects did not seem as if they were bold enough to initiate an attack.

Albert stood in the central control room of the cloudship spearheading the convoy, accompanied by elite fighters who served the Cordierite Association.

At that moment, they were all releasing their energy to search for Levi’s aura in Lightspring.

goal now is to kill the robber. As for the Prime Association, there's no need for direct conflict with them for the time being. Only after murdering the robber will we make them pay for siding with him. They'll regret the day they made that decision. Since the robber's not in Lightspring, we'll head to Astre Lune Sect directly and obliterate that insignificant sect.

Chapter 4019 Wipe Out Astre Lune Sect

Over a hundred cloudships, ferrying more than a thousand expert fighters from various sects, rushed toward Astre Lune Sect like lightning.

Even though Quirina and the council members had received timely reports of the incoming assault, they still panicked like a farmer who saw a cloud of locusts in the sky.

"What in the world should we do, Lord Morell?" "We wouldn't be able to get away even if we started running now. Have you not reached Lord Garrison yet?"

"Our sources reported that the fighters of the Prime Association are only heading our way because they turned Lightspring upside down and still couldn't find any trace of Lord Garrison."

"So Lord Garrison did go into hiding because he wasn't confident about dealing with them?"

Immediately, the council members of Astre Lune Sect were thrown into disarray; their faces turned as grim as a graveyard.

Quirina was overwhelmed by the questions thrown at her. She was filled with anxiety and fear like the others.

They wanted to evade the attack, but they felt as though their legs had frozen like ice. They could not move even an inch. With the palm of the attacker fast approaching, the council members shut their eyes tightly and waited for death to greet them.

No matter how much Quirina wanted to help, she knew she could not because the attacker’s targets were the council members, not her. At that critical moment, a formidable force suddenly struck from the southeast.

“Who is it?” The Cordierite Association fighter suddenly stopped when he noticed an elderly man in a black robe before him. Had he not evaded the old man’s palm strike, he would have been killed on the spot.

Instead of answering the question, the mysterious man shifted his attention to Albert on the dragon-shaped cloudship.
