Logan sighed and said, "Grandma, during this period of time, my father, grandfather, and I have used all the connections we can find and asked them to persuade the Caesar family to let the matter go. However, they are unyielding in their stand, and it didn't matter who went.

They are determined to deal with the Black family! Russell's slap had made Richard very angry, and he vowed to use all the resources of the Caesar family to deal with us!" Logan explained.

"What?"

"The Black family will then cease to exist!"

Everyone in the Black family panicked.

"Grandma, there is no other solution. The Caesar Family has set their hearts to be ruthless this time! Their target is not only the Black Family but the entire South City!" Logan pointed out the facts.

The Black family was just a sacrifice.

"I can't accept this!" Meredith cried out, on the verge of tears.

"Grandma, there is only one way now..." Logan said.

"What is it?" Everyone in the Black family looked over to him.

"Surrender to the Caesar family and give up everything to them!" Logan then glanced at them and whispered, "In addition to that, hand over Russell, Levi, and Zoey to them!"

It was a shocking scene outside the manor.

The guards of the Black family were so scared that they almost knelt on the ground.

Cars arrived one after another.

Soon after that, more than two hundred black sedans surrounded the entire manor.

Clack!

Clack!

Clack!

The doors of the cars opened one by one, and burly men dressed in white alighted from them.

Everyone had the word "Caesar" embroidered in front of their chests on their white clothes.

The men stood neatly in formation around the manor, completely locking down the area.

The Caesar family was serious about this.

The Caesar family launched their first attack by sending eight hundred men from their White Army. They swarmed and completely overwhelmed the few dozen guards from the Black family as they continued their onslaught.

After that, they quickly arrived at the main hall and surrounded it completely.

At that moment, the Black family was scared out of their wits by the sudden incursion.

This never happened before!

Even Meredith and Robert gaped in shock as it was a sight that could only be seen in the military.

Only then, Zoey and her family came to realize how powerful the Caesar family was when they saw the formidable regiment.

"By the way, where's the person who slapped my father?" Patrick Caesar, Richard's son, asked in a cold voice.

When he and his siblings heard that their father was slapped in the face, they almost launched their attack that very day.

After all, this was something completely unacceptable to the Caesar family.

This is absolutely preposterous!

How dare someone slap the Richard Caesar?

Simply unbelievable.

"I did it!"

Russell stepped forward and stared at Patrick bravely.

"Hah! Very well then! An insolent fool like you dares to slap my father?!" Patrick bellowed.

"Indeed, I was the one who slapped him! He asked someone to slap me, so I slapped him back to return the favor! An eye for an eye."

Russell stared at Patrick fearlessly.

At that moment, a resonant voice echoed across the hall.

"Levi!!"

"Darling!!"

"Is that Levi Garrison?"

Abigail, Zoey, and Russell immediately squealed in joy when they heard the familiar voice.

At the same time, the Black family looked in the direction of the voice as well and saw an unmistakable figure.

Levi had an imposing aura that commanded attention, and everyone's gazes were drawn to him as he strode towards the center of the hall.

Timothy's heart sank to a bottomless pit when he made eye contact with Levi, and his right eye inexplicably started to twitch.

He had a very bad feeling about it.

Meanwhile, Richard's temper flared when he saw how Levi was as smug as usual.

The person that slapped me was Russell, but Levi was the mastermind behind all this!

Besides that, he was the one who challenged us to battle as well!

"Haha..."

The Caesar family burst into laughter when they saw Levi making a call because they thought that it was an act of pure stupidity.

Just imagine the Black family's embarrassment right now!

We know Levi way too well!

So what if he calls every single powerful figure in North Hampton?

The Caesar family can crush them with just a flick of the finger.

Besides, Levi isn't powerful enough to do any of that!

On the other hand, Abigail breathed a sigh of relief because Levi finally retaliated.

Meanwhile, Russell felt excited at the prospect of battle.

Richard sat on the chair and mocked, "I am curious to see what kind of reinforcements you called!"

Following that, Patrick commanded, "Tell our brothers outside to let everyone in no matter who they are."

In a matter of a few minutes, numerous luxury vehicles filled the streets.

The few Black family's guards who were apprehended were shocked when they saw that.

Chapter 587

All of Richard's troops' expressions darkened instantly when they heard that, so it was obvious that they heard about the vicious reputation of the Beast of Death before.

"Next up, we have the Wolf King, who had 100 consecutive victories in the Eastern Deathmatches!"

The Wolf King emitted a dangerous aura that made a chill run down everyone's spines.

"I know who he is! He came too?" The bodyguards beside Richard were scared out of their wits.

It wasn't an exaggeration to say that the Beast of Death and the Wolf King could deal with a few dozen of them at once.

"Finally, we have Hades, who broke the record of the Eastern Deathmatches by having a total of 188 consecutive deathmatches undefeated."

When Brock said that, the hall went deathly silent.

The Caesar family had been searching for powerful fighters on the local and international scale over the past few years, so they were familiar with internationally famous combatants like Hades.

They received some news a few days ago saying that Hades was hired by someone else with an astronomical price, but they never expected that Brock was the one who hired him.

Hades emanated a cold and murderous aura honed through countless battles when he stepped into the hall.

The piece of news was just like a bolt from the blue to the Caesar family.
Is someone else coming?
Is this just the start of a nightmare?
Timothy's pupils suddenly constricted as he realized something.
He almost fainted at that realization.
Coming to the South City was a very bad decision!
That person is no ordinary man!
The Black family was taken aback as well.
Is someone else coming?
A few more cars arrived shortly, and their license plates indicated that they were powerful figures from the South City.
After that, a group of people dressed in suits rushed towards the main hall of the manor.
Even the White Army standing guard outside the manor was frightened when they saw those people.
The guards could tell that from their auras that their power was overwhelming.

The implications of his words were visible in the shocked expressions of the Caesar family.
What?
Someone else is coming?
Is this not the end yet?
Oh my God!
How can we even handle this?

Thump!

Timothy seemed to have realized something at that moment. In just a split second, his vision blurred as he fainted and fell to the ground.

However, the other members of the Caesar family were busy worrying about their own safety, so they didn't even pay any attention to him.

Meanwhile, outside the Black family's manor.

There were about four hundred of the Caesar family's men standing on guard here to prevent anyone from the Black family from leaving.

Thud! Thud!

Suddenly, the rhythmic pulsing of a marching army was heard amongst the crowd.

The earth trembled between their feet and made everyone dizzy as dust clouds formed in the air.

At the same time, the few hundred members of the Caesar family knelt down as well.

Even the military is here!

To the people of Erudia, the Iron Brigade was even more powerful, and their responsibilities were even more sacred than that of the military.
