Chapter 651

The moment Macfay spoke, everyone was stunned.

Is that a challenge?

Is he challenging us not to barge in?

Who can resist such a challenge?

“Break down that door!” Landyn couldn’t resist the taunt.

Crack!

Crack!

Boom!

Upon his orders, a few warriors approached and tore down the giant metal gate by force.

“How dare you tear down the door! Do you know what this place is?” Macfay bellowed in rage.

One by one, the captains ordered their respective teams to head for Guardian Mansion.

At a single moment, thirty regiments were mobilized which was an impressive display of strength.

Meanwhile, the Gates family and their strong army of six hundred were all stunned.

One by one, they could be heard gasping.

Even Landyn and Fred were stupefied while Kurt couldn't stop coughing.

Regardless of whether they were lying or not, Macfay and his men definitely made it look intimidating.

Are all sixty men army captains?

In that case, is this place really a restricted military area?

Who is the person inside?

How highly positioned is he to have more than sixty officers protecting him?

The Gates family were stumped.

The Dragon Guards, who were at the vanguard, started to tremble and grew weak in their knees.

What if what they claim is true?

They knew what the consequences would be.

In that situation, ten Gates family combined wouldn't even stand a chance, let alone one.

Just that scene alone caused everyone to stop what they were doing and looked into the sky, dumbfounded.

As it was already nightfall, the helicopter shone a spotlight on the Gates family's men.

All of the Dragon Guards surrounding the mansion were caught in the light.

As the light was extremely bright, everyone had to shield their eyes from being blinded.

The Gates family were all stunned.

"This is a restricted military area, who are you?"

"We are the South Warzone's airborne unit. What are you planning to do?"

A voice from the helicopter blared out through its speakers which shocked the Gates family.

So it's true!

They were telling the truth!

These men are really army officers.

Meredith and everyone else stared at her. “Zoey, don’t tell me you really believe Levi can deal with this issue?”

“The Gates family are going to kill him. Even the three thousand men who protected you will die tragically,” Logan explained the reality of the situation.

“Huh?”

At that moment, Zoey finally understood the gravity of the matter.

“Oh? Is that so? Then why am I still alive?”

At that moment, a voice emanated through the room, causing Logan to drop to his knees in horror.

“It’s a ghost!”

“What f***king ghost are you talking about? I’m still alive and well,” Levi grunted in exasperation.

“Are you really alright?”

Meredith and the others stood up and looked towards Levi.

“What can happen to me?”

“What about the Gates family? Weren’t they looking for you?” Meredith inquired in disbelief.

“Oh, I destroyed them. They no longer exist,” Levi replied casually.

As hundreds of men were shouting, they were all slamming their heads onto the ground, to the extent that blood was oozing out of their foreheads.

What made it more shocking was that they had been kneeling there for three whole days.

Ever since the news of Jacky Lawson's death spread, the men began to gather in front of the villa.

They were all Jacky's fellow disciples of the same master.

Their master does have the intention to head for South City, but it just wasn't the right time yet as he was still in the midst of his solitary meditation.

But now that Jacky was dead, his fellow disciples could wait no longer.

Hence, they were pleading with their master to end his mediation earlier.

Sigh!

Suddenly a loud sigh was heard from within the villa.

The hundreds of disciples who heard it began to feel excited.

Their faces which were previously pale with despair were now glowing brilliantly.

Chapter 656

The old and seemingly feeble man was none other than the leader of the Southern Union, Grover Cooke.

Most of the Southern Union's branches were based along the coast where the economy thrived with many different industries.

There were innumerable martial art experts within the Southern Union. In fact, all of the experts in the south itself originated from the Southern Union.

They were so powerful that the underworlds of all major cities would tremble at the mere mention of the Southern Union.

Even Scott Yates came from the Southern Union but hardly anyone knew about it.

Every year, he had to pay a tribute of five billion to the Southern Union.

No one really knew why he had to live the life of a recluse for thirty years.

The real reason was that his influence had expanded too quickly and clashed with that of the Southern Union.

Hence, if he continued to expand any further, the Southern Union would have to take him down.

Therefore, Scott had no choice but to shun the world to prevent the Southern Union from taking action against him.

Ever since then, the tribute Scott had to pay the Southern Union increased to ten billion.

Only then could he ensure his own safety.

"Johnny is on his way to South City. Once Jacky's body is brought back, I want to hold a funeral for him there," Grover declared.

“Yes, Master. We will definitely give Jacky a grand funeral.”

Turning towards the crowd, Grover ordered, “Next, you will need to investigate and find out who was involved in Jacky’s death. After that, we will bury all of them alive together with Jacky!”

At that moment, Grover’s whole being exuded an icy cold aura, overwhelming the surroundings with a chilly pressure.

Everyone suddenly shivered as the cold spell engulfed them, it felt as if they had fallen into an icy lake.

They could feel the surrounding temperature drop by seven to eight degrees.

It was real and wasn’t an exaggeration at all.

Grover was an elite martial artist who practiced the Ancient Arts of Qi.

The reason he was in solitary meditation was to further enhance the power of his Qi.

“Understood, Master. We will proceed to investigate and leave no stone unturned,” his disciples answered.

All of them trembled at the idea that Grover was going to bury alive a bunch of men together with Jacky.

It was such a terrifying notion to them.

“What do you want?” The moment the guard at the entrance asked, two lightning-fast slashes made quick work of him.

After that, Johnny and his men entered the club.

Inside, the club was as lively as usual.

Johnny went straight to the club’s DJ booth, turned down the music, and switched on all the lights.

Every corner of the club was illuminated as if it was broad daylight.

At that moment, the hundreds of patrons in the club stopped dancing and turned to stare at the DJ booth.

The atmosphere became boisterous as the club’s staff rushed towards the booth.

Picking up the mic, Johnny instructed, “Silence! I have something to say.”

Upon his orders, everyone kept quiet and gave him their attention.

“Let me introduce myself. I am Johnny Lawrence.”

“Huh? Johnny Lawrence? That name sounds familiar.”

“That’s right, where did I hear it before?”

Everyone in the club felt the name sounded familiar.

Johnny continued, “I am from the Southern Union and a subordinate of Grover Cooke.”

Chapter 659

Just then, a voice boomed from behind.

A man with a mask covering half his face appeared.

It was Hades.

As Levi was with Zoey today, Hades didn't need to watch over her and therefore came back early.

What he didn't expect was to find a ruckus in his club.

"Who are you?" Johnny bellowed.

"Johnny, he's Hades! He is the one who killed Jacky and the two Slaves. I saw it with my own eyes!"
Leslie reported.

"That's right, he killed them!" Derek and the others chimed in.

When Johnny realized that the man was his enemy, Hades, he felt especially invigorated and his eyes gleamed with murderous intent.

"Seize him!" Johnny ordered.

More than ten of his men scrambled down from the DJ booth and charged towards Hades.

All of them were formidable warriors who used all kinds of weapons.

White Tiger squinted his eyes and smiled, “I have also heard that the Southern Union is filled with capable warriors. I had the honor of fighting some of them overseas and they have proved themselves to be very skilled. I hope I will meet someone who I can fight without any reservations.”

Azure Dragon sighed, "Isn't there a saying? All the best warriors originate from the Southern Union."

Kirin's eyes glistened, "Unfortunately, they have offended the wrong people. The audacity of them to act with such impunity in front of us is just pure insolence!"

However, Levi smiled to himself deviously as he had a different plan.

Meanwhile.

"He was killed just because he courted a lady?" Johnny asked curiously.

"That's correct. Jacky had repeatedly tried to ask a lady out but was rejected every time. Finally, he was killed instead," Leslie related.

"Who is she?" Johnny's expression darkened immensely.

"Her name is Zoey Lopez, she's the boss of Oriental Star Group. She has the support of the Morris Group."

Johnny sneered coldly, "Damn that Morris Group! We will annihilate them this time!"
