Chapter 781

Clang!

All the members of the Southern Union knelt on the ground abruptly and shouted uniformly, "Good evening, Mr. Garrison!"

Their roaring voices were deafening to the ear, vibrated the chest of everyone at the scene.

Helena, Zoey, Lucas and the rest of the people were left in shock.

Everyone's jaws dropped as they stared at Levi in surprise.

They were in utter disbelief. Everyone thought their eyes were playing tricks on them.

What's going on? Who is he that these people have to kneel before him? Can someone please explain what's actually happening now?

His voice immediately brought them to a standstill as they recalled the pain and horror of being beaten up by Levi in the evening.

Then, they began to tremble.

We'll lose all our faces if we're beaten to a pulp again. In the case, death would be a salvation.

"You're coming and going as you like in my territory! Am I invisible to you?" Levi snapped in an icy tone, sending chills down everyone's spine.

The crowd gasped in shock.

Whoever upsets him is running out of luck!

"Let's forget about it, Levi. You've already beaten them up, and the problem is solved anyway. To err is human, to forgive is divine."

This question put Yadriel in a difficult spot.

Should I tell them? What if the higher-ups put the blame on me? I'll be in deep trouble then!

Just as he was contemplating, a voice could be heard saying, "You're not worthy to know who I am!"

Soon after the voice, a figure slowly emerged.

Yadriel's eyes almost popped out from their sockets after he got a good look at that person.

Did he tail them here? I knew he wasn't planning to let the Prince Gang go! At the end of the day, this is who Mr. Garrison truly is!

Right before he was about to kneel, Levi gestured him to stand aside.

Lucas and the rest on the other hand, were thrown into a panic state after seeing him.

Needless to say, Levi understood the intention of these people. It was so that they could gather enough forces to pay back for what he did.

"You stay back. The rest of you, scram!" Levi pointed at Lucas while commanding.

"Huh? Why are you detaining me?" Lucas was baffled.

Levi nodded, "I don't take innocent lives anymore, so I'm not gonna kill you. But it doesn't mean that you'll escape being punished. You must kneel for three whole days to repent for your ill behaviors. Only after you've done that will I release you."

With a wave of his hand, Azure Dragon, who was on standby, instantly restrained Lucas.

The rest of his friends could only stare helplessly as the scene unfolded.

“You must come to my rescue! Send people to save me!” Lucas cried out at the top of his lungs.

Kneel for three whole days? That’s not happening! Do you think that I, one of the three ringleaders of the Prince Gang, will bow my knees before anyone? How very insulting! But I can only place my hope on the reinforcements now!

It went without saying that the news of Lucas being detained must not reach the ear of Zoey.

For this reason, he was transferred to Guardian Mansion.

“Give the order to everyone! Gather all our forces and we shall head to South City at once!” Jaron commanded.

Once the instruction was given, the other ringleader, who was regarded as an equal to Lucas, Jackson hastened to gather his men right away.

With that, all the Prince Gang’s top fighters were assembled and left for South City together.

It was considered the biggest incident that had ever happened to the Prince Gang over the past decade.

Not only did one of their ringleaders take a beating, but he was also detained.

It was beyond an insult to them.

To them, preserving their honor was more important than their own lives.

If they lost it, they would use every means to get it back.

The Prince Gang was utterly enraged this time that even their notorious Prince had come in person.

Yadriel was stunned when he heard this.

The second Lucas saw the Prince, he knew this issue was as good as resolved.

He was not afraid of Levi's connection with the Southern Union anymore because Jaron was greater than them.

Jaron wouldn't compromise especially when it came to dealing with the issues of the Prince Gang.

Hahahaha... Lucas laughed inwardly.

You screwed up big time, Levi! You're finished!

Thereafter, he was scheming on how to torment Levi, Zoey and Helena.

His mind was filled with scenes of Levi being chopped into pieces and his remains boiled in a pot.

Thud! Thud! Thud! Thud!

In no time, units of bodyguards marched toward the Guardian Mansion and got into their formation.

Everyone was equipped with weapons.

Jaron exhorted coldly, "You'd better let my man go now. I'm running out of patience."

Seeing that the other side didn't respond, he added, "I'll count to three."

Right then, he started the countdown.

"Three!"

"Two!"

"One!"

The Prince Gang became enraged at the fact that Levi and his men were unmoved even after Jaron finished counting.

The next moment, Jaron signaled to his men and ordered ferociously, "Charge! Bring Lucas out!"

If he dares to keep me here, Prince will slaughter everyone in this street. I'd love to see that happen; If he brings me out, I'll get to burn the scene of Levi carrying me out on his knees like a dog into my memories. I'm more than happy to see that, and we get to regain our honor as well.

Levi smirked at his words and patted his cheek, "I will never let you go. You should worry about yourself first. See if you could survive tonight."

"Hahaha! Of course I will! This time round, the city streets would surely be bathed in blood!" Lucas proceeded to laugh like a lunatic.

Dozens of cars were blocking the entrance of the street.

The Prince Gang was waiting over there until the appointed time.

“Prince, it seems like they don’t plan to bring Lucas out!”

A gleam of epiphany flashed across Jaron’s eyes, and he commented, “Looks like we aren’t as famous as we thought.”

Soon, they arrived at the Guardian Mansion.

“Send a few units to keep all the alleys of this area off limits! Kill anyone who tries to escape!”

Jaron’s gaze became cold, and he exuded a murderous aura that sent shivers down everyone’s spine.

Dozens of men immediately guarded the exits of every passageway to stop anyone from passing through.

At this very moment, Lucas was nearly worn out after mustering every single ounce of strength he could find in his body. He was persevering with sheer willpower alone currently.

Nonetheless, he was elated when he saw Jaron charging in with his men.

In the meantime, Levi and the others also emerged from his room.

“Hahahaha...” Lucas burst into laughter right when he saw them.

“Don’t fret, punk! Once you’re dead, I’ll take care of your women! I’ll be sure to torture them with all my might! Hahaha...” Lucas said in a psychopathic tone.

Throughout the entire time being on his knees, the man thought of nothing except the ways to torment Levi and the likes. His twisted mind had already come up with more than a hundred ways to gratify his sadistic pleasure.

There was a dead silence after that.

Everyone was flabbergasted.

W-what...?

Is he the Iron Man?

His skin is impenetrable!

Even the high quality sword is broken?

How terrifying!

“Ah!”

As the muscular man roared, his tank top was ripped into pieces.

The man had a shredded look, with well-developed muscles covering every inch of his skin, and they were hard as steel.
