Chapter 136

They all averted their gaze.

Olivia found herself at a loss and could only look at Noah, saying, "Noah, help me..."

At this moment, Noah was most afraid that Olivia would turn to him for help. It seemed that his fears had come true.

He pretended to be serious. "Olivia, your father has killed my father. You are now the daughter of the enemy who killed my father. What right do you have to ask me for help? Leave, don't stay in this house, you are not worthy."

Olivia felt utterly hopeless. She sarcastically smirked and began to curse loudly, "As expected, you men are all the same! Noah, that's not what you said when you slept with me. You said that no matter what happened in the future, you would stand by my side.

Although we are siblings in name, you would find a way to marry me."

"You only said such nonsense for your own sake!"

Olivia exploded, feeling like she wanted to die at this moment.

As expected, what she said was very surprising.

Ella couldn't believe her ears. "What did you say? What have you two done?"

Olivia broke down. "I said that Noah had slept with me. He didn't even take any precautions and wanted me to get pregnant with his child!"

Ella almost fainted from anger. "You bh!"

She stepped forward and slapped Olivia's face. "Don't you have any shame? He's your brother and you're still seducing him?"

Olivia was stunned. "What do you mean I seduced him?"

"Who doesn't know about that? Everyone saw it at the engagement banquet. I didn't expect you to be shameless enough to seduce your brother who has lived with you for more than 20 years!"

Olivia was stunned for a moment before she suddenly smiled. "Alright, alright. I seduced him. He's innocent!"

"Cut the c r a p and get out!" Ella was livid.

Olivia left without hesitation. Ella glanced at Noah, her heart aching with anger. Noah lowered his head and did not dare to meet Ella's gaze.

Two days later.

Gina walked out of the detention center, and Gabriel was waiting for her at the door.

"Gina," Gabriel called her gently.

元

Gina felt a warm rush in her heart. She smiled and said, "The way you look, it's as if we've been separated for a long time."

It had only been two days since they last met

Gabriel replied. "A day without seeing you feels like an eternity."

"You can come visit me," Gina joked casually.

"Isn't it because you instructed me to take care of things for you?"

"How did the lesson for Lucas and his daughter go?" Gina asked casually.

"I think I've completed it well, Miss Miller. It's a pity you didn't get to see Olivia begging for mercy on her knees. If you wish, I can...

He could bring Olivia in front of Gina and make her kneel and beg for mercy again.

Gina shook her head and deliberately teased him. "No need. Looks like you still haven't thought it through. Didn't you think that you could record at video?"

Gabriel was stunned for a long time before he frowned. "This is indeed my negligence."

Gina laughed. "I'm just kidding."

She was not interested in seeing Olivia kneel down and beg for mercy. A person like Olivia would never sincerely repent at any time. Gina had no interest in watching her act.

"Did Lucas confess?"

"How did he get my fingerprints?" Gina asked curiously.

"He said that on the second day after you returned to the Miller family, he managed to save your fingerprints from your personal belongings. He thought it might come in handy in the future."

Gina sneered. He was really cg.

"By the way, Gina, Lucas is also his fake name. His real name is Cole Yale. The police said he seems to be involved in another big case."

Gina nodded, but she wasn't very concerned about this matter.

Gabriel casually mentioned it.

"Gina, let's go. I'll take you home. Ruby said she's prepared dinner for us at home."

Gabriel reached out to Gina.

Gina felt that her previously solitary apartment had now become a real home. Her old apartment had merely been a place to sleep, not something she could truly call "home." But now she had a family. She had people who cared about her, someone waiting for her at home and someone to take her home. Gina felt that the emptiness she always felt in life had been filled.

Gina nodded. She hesitated for a moment before holding Gabriel's hand.

Gabriel's mood improved greatly. "Gina, I've noticed you've been smiling more lately. Can I assume it's because being with me has made you feel better?"

Gina raised her eyebrows. "I don't know. Maybe."

The smile on Gabriel's face became even more apparent.

Gina got into Gabriel's car. Suddenly, someone knocked on the car window.

HG

Gina looked up and saw Ella.

Ella seemed to be saying something urgently, but the car's soundproofing was so good that Gina couldn't hear anything.

"Would you like to meet her?" Gabriel asked for Gina's opinion.

Gina said expressionlessly, "There's no need."

Gabriel immediately ordered David to drive. Unexpectedly, Ella rushed to the front of the car and was determined to stop them. Fortunately, David was quick to react. He opened the car window and said, "Ma'am, are you trying to get yourself killed? I've never seen anyone try to pull a stunt like this. We're right in front of the police station."

David rolled his eyes.

Ella pleaded, "I want to see my daughter."

David was speechless. He imitated their family's tone and said, "Gina has already signed a severance agreement with the Miller family. She has no relationship with you now. So, who are you calling your daughter? Your daughter is not in this car!"

Upon hearing this familiar sentence, Ella felt a little ashamed. "I know that I've made many mistakes and misunderstood you. I owe you a lot. It's all my fault. But now, Gina, I've deeply realized my mistake. I owe you an apology."

"Actually, in the years you've been missing, I often thought about you and worried about you," Ella said with tears in her eyes.

Gina frowned. "Mrs. Miller, please don't call me Gina. We are not familiar with each other."

Ella looked heartbroken, but then forced a smile and said, "It's okay, I understand. You hold a grudge against me, and I truly have let you down. I haven't fulfilled my duties as a mother. In the future, I will make up for it double,"

"I don't need that," Gina interrupted coldly.

know my mistake. Please give me a chance to change! It was my fault for not seeing clearly in the past."

"Now, we really want you to come back. By the way, I've kicked Olivia out of the house. She admitted to all the lies and schemes against you. Her father even killed Phillip. We have sworn to never forgive her and will take revenge for all the grievances you suffered in the past!" Ella said earnestly.

Gina sat in the car and asked toldly, "Are you looking forward to me coming home?"

"Yes, yes, Gina. I will also get someone to redecorate your room, okay? What style do you like? Tell me. I will..."

After Gina returned home, although she had her own room, it was basically a storage room, Coupled with the fact that the Miller family members insisted she stay there, it was equivalent to not having her own room."

Gina interrupted her, "Are you looking forward to the useless Gina from the countryside returning home, or the one who's the director of Prover Hospital?"

Elia was stunned and speechless.

She couldn't say anything.

Gina sneered, "If I'm really an ignorant and incompetent child who grew up in the countryside, would you suddenly realize your mistakes, apologize to me, and beg me to come home? I don't think so."

"When I was still in the detention center, you even asked Olivia to represent you and ask me to sign the property transfer contract. You're interested in my money, right?"

Ella couldn't argue back. When they first accepted Gina back, everyone showed clear disdain and disgust on their faces,

She continued to make mistakes afterward, uttering harsh words that cut deep, Looking back now, she realized that everyone had feelings. Although Gina never showed it, she must have been deeply hurt inside.

It was her fault, and she admitted all of this. She was serious about wanting to make it up to Gina.

“Leave. I don’t want to have anything to do with the Miller family anymore.”

Gina gestured for David to close the car window. As David wanted to close it, Ella did not give up and anxiously knocked on the window. “Gina, what do you need to forgive us? Tell me, and I’ll find a way to make it happen, okay?”

Ella even reached out, trying to stop the rising window with her hand. David was shocked, worried that Ella’s hand would get caught, so he quickly pressed the control button. “If you keep knocking, you’ll cause trouble with the window. This custom-made car has bulletproof glass, which costs hundreds of thousands of dollars. If you’re willing to pay for it, then go ahead and use more force.”

Ella was stunned by David’s words. She retracted her hand and looked at Gina in the car unwillingly.

The car started, and Ella watched the Rolls Royce drive away. Tears of regret flowed down her face.

If she had known this would happen, why would she have done it earlier?

Jason walked over from the side, and Ella glared at him. “Why were you just hiding just now? Didn’t I tell you to follow me to apologize to your sister?”

Jason felt conflicted. Olivia admitted to the bad things she had done in the past, including poisoning his food, which was all part of her plan to frame Gina. Gina was not only innocent but also had been a great help to him in his career. Now, Jason didn’t know how to face Gina.

Chapter 137

Furthermore, due to the two tweets he had posted while Gina was in the detention center, the truth had now come to light. Public opinion had turned against him, and Jason was in deep trouble

Jason decided to give up “Morn, let’s just forget it. She will never acknowledge us. Let’s just go our separate ways in the future, and not have anything to do with h

Ella glared at him “You heartless person! Don’t you want to repay your sister for all she’s done for you? What about the things you’ve done wrong? Don’t you need to beg for her forgiveness?”

Jasph was Stunned.

When did his mother become so understanding?

Jason complained. “She didn’t say anything when she helped me back then. She probably didn’t want anything in return. I think she wouldn’t mind this matter and hopes we won’t bother her!

“No, she is my biological daughter. I have to let her come back and acknowledge her ancestors

Jason was a bit speechless. “Mam, if you keep bothering her, she’ll just think we’re after her money, right? She must look down on us now.”

Jason felt a bit jealous. Gina was really lucky. When she was young, she was wandering outside and didn’t encounter any trouble. She grew up well and had a successful career. Now, she was even in a relationship with Gabriel. It’s like she’s going from one peak of life to an even higher one. Jason wished he could switch lives with her “Shut up.” Bila said impatiently, None of his words were what she liked to hear.

Gabriel took Gina home.

"You should go back and rest" Gina saw the tired look on Gabriel's face and did not invite him upstairs.

In order to prove Gina's innocence, Gabriel had not slept well for two days and two nights. He was indeed mentally exhausted. He was dozing off in the car but stayed awake because Gina was with him.

He wanted to stay with Gina and have dinner at her place, but he was so sleepy that he was afraid he might doze off at the dining table.

"Then I'll go back."

Gabriel was still a bit reluctant to leave.

"Okay

Gina waved her hand.

When Gina went upstairs and rang the doorbell, Ruby, wearing an apron, came to open the door. The moment she saw Gina, tears welled up. Without saying a word, she tightly hugged Gina

She touched Gina's head, then her face, examining her carefully. She said worriedly,

"It's good that you're back. Did you suffer in there? Did anyone bully you, Gina?"

Gina looked at the dark circles under Ruby's eyes. Ruby probably did not sleep well during the few days she was in the detention center, worrying about her.

"Ruby, I'm fine. Do I look like someone who can be bullied?"

色

Chapter 137

"That's good to hear." Ruby sniffed. "Come on in and eat quickly. I've prepared your favorite dishes. Oh, where's Gabriel? Didn't he go to pick you up! Why didn't he come back with you for dinner?"

"He was too sleepy, so I let him go home to rest."

Ruby chuckled, "Looks like Gabriel really cares about you."

"Gina, what's your relationship with him now?"

Chapter 138

"Friends," Gina said.

Ruby nodded thoughtfully. "It's good to take it slow. After all, for two people to be together and be happy, they need to get along well."

Actually, Gina felt quite relaxed and happy when she was with Gabriel.

However, she still had important matters to handle and didn't want to waste time on dating.

She wanted to investigate the truth behind the massacre of the family who had briefly fostered her years ago.

She would only consider love and relationships after the truth was revealed.

"Let's eat," Ruby took Gina's hand as they walked back to the dining room.

"Gabriel said he was going to pick you up, so I didn't go. I stayed home to prepare dinner for you. Now that I think about it, it wasn't a good decision. I should have gone with Gabriel!" Ruby sighed.

Gina smiled. "It's fine with just one person coming to pick me up."

Gina paused and, unusually, took the initiative to tell Ruby about some matters. "Actually, someone else came to pick me up."

"Who?" Ruby was a bit puzzled.

"Someone from the Miller family."

Ruby's expression changed. She put down her spoon and said, "These shameless people! How could they treat you so badly during the funeral and while you were in the detention center? And now, how dare they come looking for you?"

"Ella said that she hopes I can return to the Miller family."

"Return? Gina, don't return! You're my daughter now. You have nothing to do with the Miller family. I won't allow them to snatch my daughter away!"

Gina was stunned for a moment, then said solemnly, "I think, from now on, I won't call you Ruby anymore. I'll just call you Mom."

Ruby didn't expect Gina to bring it up herself. She laughed heartily and said, "I have no abjection. With a daughter as outstanding as you, I feel like I'm living in a dream!"

"Mom," Gina called out.

“Oh! Mom’s here!” Ruby happily put down her spoon, walked over to Gina, and hugged her. “It’s great, I have a daughter now. Gina, my dear, if it weren’t for you, I might not have made it this far.”

In the year she found Gina, Ruby had already lost all hope. She often thought of ending her life to be with her son and husband who had left her early.

It was also because of her constant depression that she later developed stomach cancer. If Gina had not sent her to Prover Hospital and saved her with the best medicine and medical care, she would not have survived to this day.

Gina asked seriously, “Mom, I know their deaths have always been a burden on your heart, Can you tell me how they passed away?”

Gina remembered that she had heard from an old lady in the village who was familiar with her mother that her husband and son had died in the line of duty.

Chapter 138

However, she did not know the exact situation.

She wanted to help Ruby untie the knot in her heart.

Ruby fell silent, and her expression became visibly gloomy. Gina frowned. “I’m sorry, Mom. I shouldn’t have brought it up.”

“No, Gina, It’s not your fault. You’re asking because you care about me. It’s just... I really don’t want to talk about this right now.” As she spoke, Ruby began to tear up. She quickly wiped her tears. “Look at how disappointing I am. I should have been happy to welcome you today?”

“Mom, don’t suppress your emotions. It’s better to let them out,” Gina said,

Ruby nodded. “You’re right, my dear, I’ll adjust myself right away.”

After wiping her tears, Ruby changed the topic. “Gina, when Lucas was with the Miller family, did he often make things difficult for you? He’s so malicious. He was secretly keeping your fingerprints, just waiting to frame you one day. How could there be such a bad person?”

Gina replied calmly, “It’s all in the past. However, Lucas isn’t his real name. His real name is Cole Yale. I heard from the police that he’s also involved in another case.”

“Cole Yale.” Gina looked up, sensing something amiss with Ruby’s reaction. “Mom, what’s wrong?”

Ethan was driving back to visit his grandfather who was unwell. He heard that his grandfather had coughed up blood due to worrying about Gina. Ethan was speechless for a moment. He really suspected that Gina had bewitched his grandfather. As his grandson, he didn’t receive the treatment he deserved, while Gina seemed to be treated more like a granddaughter than him.

He was the Jackson family’s direct descendant, but he was still being overshadowed by an outsider, What was worse was that he had been ruthlessly humiliated by this outsider. Ethan felt even more angrier when he thought of Gina.

He was so angry that he wanted to smash the steering wheel Suddenly, a person jumped out from the side of the road. He was so frightened that he stepped on the brakes, avoiding a collision. Ethan’s temper flared up. He opened the door and got out of the car, yelling, “Are you fucking courting death?”

“Ethan! It’s me, it’s me!”

Ethan looked at the disheveled woman rushing towards him and was startled. “Are you crazy?”

“It’s me, Olivia!”

Olivia hurriedly brushed aside her disheveled hair, allowing Ethan to see her face clearly.

Ethan watched as Olivia grabbed his hand and abruptly shook it off. “You bitch, how dare you come to me?”

At the engagement banquet, the two of them had completely fallen out with each other, scolding as badly as they could. Olivia had made him a big joke in their circle of friends. Now, whenever he saw Olivia, he really wanted to strangle her to death.

“Ethan, I don’t have a choice. I’m desperate. You’re the only person I know now. I beg you, on account of our past relationship, help me and take me in, okay? Ethan, as long as you take me in, I’ll do anything!”

Olivia suddenly leaned into Ethan’s arms as if her body had no bones.

Ply, 24 May.

Chapter 138

Ethan immediately pushed Olivia away. "Are you out of your mind? The biggest regret of my life is being engaged to you. You've humiliated me so many times, yet you still have the nerve to come to me?"

"You forgot what you said to me back then?"

She said that except for her, no one cared about Ethan. It's a damn joke.

Olivia lowered her her head and suddenly sneered, "You and I are just alike."

Ethan was furious. He raised his hand as if to hit Olivia. "Can't you try to speak more politely?"

"Ethan, as long as you promise to help me, you are also helping yourself. Do you understand?" Olivia said.

Chapter 139

Ethan laughed in anger. "I think you've lost your mind since you were kicked out of the Miller family. What nonsense are you talking about?"

"Also, stop grossing me out, I even find it dirty if you touch me!"

Olivia was so angry that she wanted to punch Ethan in the face, but she restrained herself. "Do you really want Gina to be your aunt? If she really marries Gabriel, do you think you'll have a good life?"

Ethan was speechless. He had to admit that what Olivia said made sense.

Olivia could tell from Ethan's reaction that he had listened to her.

She sighed and said, "Gina made you lose face. Don't you want to get it back?"

Ethan couldn't forget losing 400 thousand dollars to Gina at the bar, and what happened at the engagement banquet. He wasn't just thinking about getting back his face; he even thought about killing Gina.

Gina not only targeted Olivia but also dragged him into the mess. This wicked woman seemed to want nothing but chaos.

However, Ethan did not believe that Olivia had the ability to deal with Gina.

"Olivia, you're a homeless orphan now, while Gina has power, status, and influence. How do you plan to deal with her? What are you going to do to her? Are you making fun of me?"

Olivia gritted her teeth in jealousy. "I'll think of a way. You just need to provide the money."

Ethan was a bit frightened by Olivia's fierce expression.

He suddenly thought of a saying, 'Like father, like daughter.'

Her father was a murderer, so there might be a gene for murder in her genes.

Ethan felt a little scared and instinctively moved away from Olivia

"Do you really have a way to m to make Gina never get back on her feet?"

Olivia's eyes gleamed with malice. "I'll take her life."

Gina had caused her to lose everything, so she wanted Gina's life in return.

"Are you serious?"

Ethan was still in disbelief.

Olivia said, "Ethan, if you help me, I'll help stop Gina from marrying into the Jackson family. In the future, when I've become successful, I won't forget your kindness."

Successful?

Ethan frowned. Did she still have a chance to turn things around with her ruined reputation and status?

However, Ethan did need Olivia's help to stop Gina from marrying into the Jackson family.

11:58 Fri, 24 May 2

Chapter 139

He could not do anything to Gina as he still needed to be wary of Gabriel. It would be best if Olivia could help him get rid of this annoying b i t c h.

"Okay, I can take you in, but let me wain y either."

you first. We're just in a cooperation. Don't have any ideas beyond that. I won't get back together with you Olivia was speechless. She resisted the urge to curse.

Ethan found her dirty. Did he think she didn't feel the same way?

Moreover, she was full of hatred and only wanted to kill Gina to vent her anger.

Ethan gave Olivia a bank card with a displeased expression. "Contact me if you need anything, but don't bother me otherwise."

Olivia took the bank card, swallowing her pride. "Okay."

Ethan was about to get in the car when he seemed to remember something. "Olivia, you better not be trying to deceive me. If you dare to take the money and run, I won't let you off easy."

Olivia was becoming increasingly fed up. Ethan was still as stingy as ever.

"Why are you silent? Could it be that I'm right? Are you feeling guilty?" Ethan asked suspiciously.

Olivia answered reluctantly, "Don't worry, I won't."

"You'd better be." Ethan snorted coldly as he got into the car and drove away.

The Jackson family's residence.

Before entering Neil's room, Ethan paused to compose himself, trying to appear very concerned about his grandfather. He furrowed his brow and pushed the door open.

"Grandpa, how are you feeling?"

Ethan was stunned. He did not expect Gina to be in the room.

After seeing Gina, Ethan's expression darkened.

Meanwhile, Gina sat beside Neil's bed, not even bothering to look at Ethan

Next to Gina, Gabriel glanced at Ethan.

Ethan came back to his senses and greeted, "Uncle"

Gabriel coldly responded, "Hmm."

"Ethan, don't you have manners? Gina is a guest in our house. Even if you don't know her, don't you need to greet her?"

Ethan was furious. Gina hadn't even been a part of the Jackson family yet, but she was already relying on his grandfather to put on the airs of an elder.

Why didn't she take the initiative to greet him?

The more he looked at Gina, the more he hated her. He wished she would just die, but out of respect for his grandfather's authority, he reluctantly greeted her, "Miss Miller, welcome. I apologize for not welcoming you properly."

Of course, Gina could tell that Ethan was being sarcastic, so she didn't bother to respond to him. Ethan, who was ignored, became even angrier. Neil glared at Ethan.

"Speak properly!"

11:58 Fri, 24 May

Chapter 139

Ethan pursed his lips in dissatisfaction.

"Grandpa, try not to get too emotional. Keeping a calm mind will help you recover."

When Gina heard that Neil was so worried about her that he even vomited blood, she hurried over to visit him and checked his pulse.

Neil's attention shifted back to Gina. When he spoke to her, his tone softened, returning to the kind and loving manner of an affectionate grandfather.

Okay, okay. I'll listen to you, Gina."

Gina felt somewhat guilty. "Grandpa, I'm sorry for causing you to worry and even affecting your health."

She did feel guilty.

Neil quickly reassured her. "Gina, you don't have to blame yourself. It's my old body that's not holding up well."

At the side, Isaac also said, "Miss Miller, no one can blame you for this. You're the victim. If we're looking for someone to blame for making him worry and vomit blood, it should be Miss Bush. She came to him with a gloating attitude, telling him that your fingerprints were found on the dagger. Mr. Jackson was worried that you would be falsely accused, which caused him to vomit blood."

Gabriel frowned. Jasmine seemed to be someone who liked to stir up trouble.

Ethan sat on the side, feeling like an outsider, while Gina seemed like a family.

Ethan felt extremely uncomfortable in his heart. He interrupted, "Grandpa cares about you so much, Miss Miller. You must be careful not to get into any trouble in the future. Otherwise, Grandpa will be very sad. His health can't handle any more turmoil.

Speaking of which, how big of a grudge does the Miller family have against you? He even determined to frame you for something as serious as murder. Did you have some kind of conflict with him in the past that led him to use this method to take revenge on you?"

Ethan felt that the servant must have some deep hatred for Gina.

Chapter 140

Lucas was not a good person, but Gina was definitely not very innocent either.

Ethan pondered.

Gina glanced at Ethan. How could she not know what he was thinking?

She explained calmly, "He hopes that through this incident, I will no longer have the possibility of returning to the Miller family so that his daughter can forever be the heiress of the Miller family."

In addition, Lucas got agitated when her identity was revealed. He knew that once her hidden identity was revealed, the Miller family would surely consider accepting her back. So, he took decisive action, framing her for her father's murder, Phillip.

"Is that so?" Ethan continued to pick at the matter. "That's really surprising. It's such a small matter, yet he has such thoughts. Did you really not do anything to deliberately anger him?"

Neil's face darkened. He knew that Ethan was deliberately finding fault with her. He said coldly, "Shut up! Who do you think Gina is? A criminal? Are you interrogating her here? Are you saying the victim is guilty?"

At this moment, Gabriel also said, "You clearly know that my father's health is not good. Are you deliberately trying to anger him?"

Ethan looked up and met Gabriel's cold gaze for a second, making him tremble.

He felt guilty and speechless. He braced himself and said, "Grandpa, don't be angry. I'll shut my mouth!"

Neil snorted in disappointment.

Gina didn't pay much attention to the little incident just now. She said to Neil, "Grandpa, the medicine to help you recuperate needs to be improved a little. Please pay attention to..."

Gina carefully explained the things that Neil needed to pay attention to.

Neil listened attentively and happily. "Gina, just having you here to see me makes me feel much better! If I could see you at home every day in the future, I'm sure my health would stay good!"

Gina understood what Neil meant. However, she did not know how to answer, so she just smiled.

Ethan had been dozing off while listening to their conversation. But when he heard his grandfather's words, he instantly jolted awake. It was clear that his grandfather was hinting that he wanted Gina to marry Gabriel.

He would never allow such a terrifying thing to happen.

Ethan gritted his teeth and secretly glared at Gina.

After the visit, Gina planned to leave. Neil asked Gabriel to stay in the room, saying that he had something to say to him. However, Gabriel insisted on sending Gina home, so Gina was waiting for him at the door.

Ethan took advantage of Gabriel's absence and said to Gina, "Gina, I advise you not to be happy too early. You're..."

Ethan suddenly paused. He was about to say that she was a rural girl and not fit to be a part of the Jackson family. However, he realized that Gina was not a rural girl. She was rich and had a status. It was no longer appropriate for him to scold Gina like this.

Ethan corrected himself. "You are not worthy to be part of the Jackson family, and I won't allow it either."

Chapter 140

Gina was not provoked by Ethan's words; instead, she found them rather amusing. She replied calmly, "This statement would be more convincing if it came from one of the elders of the Jackson family rather than from you, Ethan."

Gina wanted to deliberately anger Ethan and said, "But go ahead and say what you want. Who knows, one day, I might become your elder?"

Ethan's face flushed with anger. He was so angry that he did not know how to refute her. He could only grunt awkwardly before turning around and leaving.

"How would you become Ethan's elder?"

Gabriel's voice sounded. Gina turned around and saw Gabriel approaching.

Remembering the words she had used to deliberately provoke Ethan earlier, she suddenly felt a bit embarrassed knowing that Gabriel had heard them.

"I was just kidding. Gina cleared her throat unnaturally.

Gabriel could tell her embarrassment and felt somewhat pleased.

Suddenly, David popped his head out of the car, breaking the ambiguous atmosphere between the two of them. "Mr. Jackson, about the situation in Eldoria..."

Realizing what David was going to say, Gabriel quickly interrupted, "What is it? We'll talk about it later."

David was stunned. Although he did not react too quickly, he still nodded.

Gina raised her eyebrows. "Is it a secret? Can't I listen? I can step aside if needed."

"No!" Gabriel did not want Gina to misunderstand. "It's not a secret, just something I need to keep confidential for the time being"

The newly discovered high-quality diamond mine in Eldoria was about to be auctioned off. Gabriel remembered that Gina had said that she liked diamonds, so he wanted to buy the diamond mine and give it to Gina as a surprise.

"By the way, Gina, I'll be going overseas in two days."

"Okay." Gina nodded. "What's up?"

"Let me know if you need me, and I'll come back as soon as possible," Gabriel said seriously.

Gina was a little embarrassed and hummed softly.

The two of them got into the car and drove away.

Ethan stood in th in the corridor and watched the car drive away. He cursed fiercely, "Bh, we'll see." The more Ethan thought about it, the angrier he became. He took out his phone, removed Olivia's WhatsApp number from the blacklist, and sent her a voice message, [If you can get rid of Gina, I'll give you as much money as you want!] After saying that, Ethan turned around and almost bumped into someone. He thought it was a st from the house and felt a bit annoyed. "You..."

Halfway through his sentence, he was startled when he saw that the person behind him was his great-uncle, Harry. He was relieved that he hadn't finished his curse words earlier. He awkwardly said, "Great Uncle, why are you standing behind me silently? I almost bumped into you just now.

Harry smiled faintly. "I'm sorry for scaring you just now, but I think I heard you say something about wanting to harm someone. Is it Gina?"

Ethan felt guilty. He was also afraid that Harry would complain to Gabriel, which would mean trouble for him.

Chapter 140

24 May

“No, no, you heard wrong!”

Harry smiled, “What are you afraid of? To be honest, I don’t like that girl either!

Gina had ruined his plans, and he would always remember that.

He believed that if Gina hadn’t interfered at Prover Hospital, he would have been the head of the Jackson family.

Ethan was a little surprised. “How did she offend you?”

Harry snorted coldly. “It’s not a matter of offending or not offending, I just don’t like her.”
