Eamon immediately became obsequious. "I promise I will absolutely not do such a despicable thing again!"

Cathy didn't believe that Eamon could keep his word, and her expression was far from amicable.

Gina was also aware that Eamon's verbal promises were worthless. She looked at him coldly. "I always believe that people learn from their experiences, so Mr. Quinn, your verbal assurance seems to me insufficient to ensure that you will not harass other girls in the future."

Eamon trembled. "I'm sorry, Miss Miller, I didn't go to school for many years and I don't have much education. I don't understand what you mean... Search The website to access chapters of novels early and in the highest quality.

Gina stepped forward, grasped Eamon's only non-broken hand, the one that had just taken liberties with Cathy, and with a loud crack, Eamon let out a blood-curdling scream.

"Ouch, ouch, ouch! Miss Miller, have mercy! Have mercy!" Eamon instantly burst into tears.

"Miss Miller, why are you doing this? What have I done to offend you? Tell me, but don't resort to violence!" Eamon sobbed.

"This is to help you remember, Mr. Quinn. Don't worry. I will cover the medical expenses for your broken hand, but I hope, Mr. Quinn, that you don't quickly forget the pain once your wound heals!"

Eamon was in pain and angry, but due to Gina's status, he dared not express his anger and had to swallow his pride.

Gina looked at Cathy. "Let's go."

Cathy nodded, feeling much better in her heart after seeing Eamon pay for his actions.

As they reached the door, Gina suddenly turned to Eamon and said, "Mr. Quinn, Cathy is a nurse at my hospital, if anything happens to her in the future, I will be the first to come after you. I've made myself clear. You won't misunderstand again, will you?"

Although reluctant, Eamon still nodded stiffly. "Yes, I understand."

Gina left with Cathy.

Inside the elevator, Cathy was still somewhat agitated, and Gina comforted her. "Don't worry. I've made my position clear to him. If he dares to cause you any trouble, you can contact me. I keep my promises and will ensure your safety."

Cathy thanked Gina. "Miss Miller, thank you, but I believe with what you said just now, he definitely wouldn't dare to retaliate against me."

"I don't want to trouble you, Miss Miller, but... may I discuss something with you?"

Gina seemed to have guessed the kind of nonsense Cathy was about to say, but she didn't want to hear it. Nevertheless, she chose to respond, "Go ahead."

"Miss Miller, I'm sorry, I really don't mean to be presumptuous, but... Mr. Jackson's assistant has contacted Andy. The repair costs for the Rolls Royce amount to 200 thousand dollars, and Andy can't afford that much money. Could you possibly be lenient and let Andy pay less?"

As she had anticipated, Gina felt somewhat helpless. "You're still not planning to break up with him? Why, has he saved your life?"

For the first time, Gina felt quite angry. She wasn't one to meddle in others' affairs, but although she hadn't interacted much with Cathy, she knew Cathy was a girl of good character and very talented. She couldn't bear to stand by and watch such a promising girl be ruined by someone unworthy.

Cathy smiled wryly. "Miss Miller, I know you must be thinking that I'm just a lovestruck fool, right? if you could, would you send me to therapy?"

Chapter 191:

I also know you're speaking out of frustration, but coincidentally, he did save my life..

"When I was seventeen, there was a break-in, and he protected me, taking three knife blows from the intruder. Fortunately, none were fatal. If it hadn't been for him at that moment, I can't imagine what would have happened to me and my family..."

Gina was silent for a moment. "So you're sticking by him out of gratitude?"

Cathy shook her head again. "No, it's not just about gratitude. We've been together since school days, and he used to be very good to me. I love him, Miss Miller. No one is perfect, and as a partner, I should accept his flaws and give him a chance to correct his mistakes, right? As long as it doesn't break my limits, 1... I can accept it."

"Your limits? He's asked you to work as a hostess, and that's not your limits? He loves you, but he no longer loves you, and that's quite obvious."

Cathy began to cry, tears streaming down her face like broken beads. She didn't want to listen to Gina anymore. She couldn't bear it.

It was too heart-wrenching.

“Why doesn’t he break up with me if he doesn’t love me anymore?” Cathy argued weakly.

Gina felt a pang in her heart. “Because, to him, you still have some value to exploit. Or perhaps, because of the gratitude you feel toward him for saving your life, he can use that to extract value from you for his own benefit.

“There are many ways to repay someone for saving your life, and given that you’ve been together for so many years, I don’t believe you haven’t shown your gratitude in other ways.”

“Do not entangle yourself in a lie and ruin your own life.” For the first time, Gina had expended so much effort in advising a girl she had only just met.

Cathy fell silent. “I’m sorry, Miss Miller. I know you mean well with your advice. What I said earlier was not meant to morally bind you into negotiating with Mr. Jackson to reduce the amount Andy has to compensate. I apologize. Please disregard what I just said. I am very grateful for your help today. thank you!”

Cathy bowed deeply to Gina.

After speaking, she felt somewhat embarrassed and left, thinking of how ridiculous it was for her to make requests of the dean,

Gina didn’t take the matter of helping Cathy too seriously, as it was a minor effort for her.

Gina was about to leave when Eamon’s attending physician encountered her again and greeted her. “Miss Miller!”

Gina nodded in response. She didn’t have much to discuss with the attending physician, but she suddenly became curious and asked, “When did Cathy start working here?”

“A month ago. She used to work at the Vegate Central Hospital. This young lady is quite outstanding. Although she’s a nurse, she has a keen interest in pharmacology and medicine. Our department is encouraging her to take the medical licensing exam. And she’s very meticulous in her work.

“Previously, there was an issue with some medicinal herbs in the medicinal herb room due to a staff error. Unexpectedly, she managed to miraculously revive them, even though she had never grown those herbs before. She said it was a stroke of luck, but this young lady is quite interesting.”

After speaking, the attending physician suddenly felt that he had talked too much and smiled apologetically to Gina. “I’m sorry, Miss Miller. Once I start talking, I can’t seem to stop.”

Chapter 192

“Sorry to have taken up your time. I’m so sorry!” the attending physician apologized.

Gina replied indifferently. “It’s no trouble. You carry on with your work.”

Although the attending physician wanted to ingratiate himself with Gina, he noticed that Gina had a cool and detached demeanor, and figured she wouldn’t be easily swayed by flattery, if he wasn’t careful, he might jeopardize his own position, which wouldn’t be good.

After work, Cathy prepared to take the subway back to the hotel where she had been staying for the past few days.

In fact, she and Andy were currently separated because Andy had actually suggested that she seduce Gabriel.

At that moment, she felt like Andy had completely deteriorated in front of her.

She had proposed a breakup, but Andy refused.

She herself also found it hard to let go.

Exiting the hospital, Cathy saw Andy at the hospital entrance, holding a large bouquet of roses. “Cathy!”

Cathy, with a cold expression, planned to ignore Andy, but he stepped forward and grabbed her arm.

“Cathy, I’m sorry. I was wrong. What I said before, everything I did, was all my fault. I was despicable. I said such outrageous things. I did such outrageous things. I’m not a good person. Will you forgive me? I can’t bear to lose you. Let’s not break up. I love you, Cathy. I can’t live without you.”

Cathy tried to free herself from Andy’s grip. “No one can’t live without someone else, Andy, You’ve disappointed me too much.”

Andy gritted his teeth and knelt down in front of Cathy, slapping himself. "Cathy, I was wrong. I know you must not want to hit or scold me, so I'll do it myself. I can keep hitting myself until you're no longer angry

Each slap from Andy was forceful, and his face quickly became swollen. Cathy felt pained seeing this and stopped Andy's hand. "That's enough, Andy. You're not a child anymore. Don't act so childish."

"Cathy. I hope you can forgive me. I was just so scared before. 200 thousand dollars! You know my family's financial situation, and my salary isn't much. I just bought the car not long ago, and I haven't even finished paying off the car loan. I don't know why I'm so unlucky to encounter such a situation.

"I still want to marry you, and I still want to buy our wedding house. I was just scared by the amount for a moment and lost my head, which led me to say such excessive things and ask you to do something excessive Cathy, I've thought it through. No matter what difficulties we face, as long as you're by my side, supporting me, and we help each other. We'll definitely be able to get through the tough times, right?"

Andy looked up at Cathy with teary eyes.

Cathy, unable to remain heartless, said, "Get up first."

Andy refused. "Have you forgiven me? If you haven't, I won't get up."

If you don't get up, I'll leave. I don't want to see you making a fool of yourself here."

Chapter 192

Andy quickly stood up. "Cathy, don't leave me. I've only ever wanted to marry you. I can't lose you."

"Alright, stop saying those things," Cathy said, not wanting to hear anymore.

She seemed to have made up her mind and said, "Andy, I'm giving you one last chance. If you ever do or say something that hurts me like this again, I will break up with you."

"Okay, I'll definitely change. I've truly realized my mistake." Andy hurriedly apologized, trying to placate Cathy. Cathy did not take the flowers from Andy.

"Baby, just take them. I bought them as an apology to you."

“If you don’t want them, I’ll throw them away.”

Cathy, feeling a bit of heartache for the flowers, took them.

Andy smiled happily.

“Olivia, this is the house I’ve rented for you,” Mason said with a beaming smile.

If it weren’t for running into Mason today day while Olivia was looking for odd jobs, she would have almost forgotten that she had such a devoted admirer.

Mason used to be Ethan’s sidekick, but he had long been turned by Olivia, who had asked him to keep an eye on the pleasure-seeking Ethan and report back to her. However, that was when Ethan was still her fiancé and a lot of time had passed since then.

Mason was no longer Ethan’s lackey, especially after Ethan found out about Mason’s ambiguous relationship with Olivia and had him beaten up. Mason was left with a swollen face, black eyes, and multiple fractures, lying in the hospital for quite some time.

After running into Olivia and seeing her in such a down and out state, Mason couldn’t help but feel heartbroken.

Although his salary wasn’t much, he was more than willing to help Olivia by renting her a better house.

The one in the suburbs was too dilapidated, and he couldn’t bear to see Olivia living in such conditions.

“Thank you,” Olivia said without much emotional fluctuation.

Mason was greatly shocked that Olivia had thanked him.

“There’s no need to thank me. If you need anything just let me know.”

“Olivia, I know you were engaged to Ethan before, and I understand that there was no possibility between us. But now that you’re no longer with Ethan, may I... be your boyfriend?” Mason said with an embarrassed smile.

Olivia asked Mason for a cigarette. “You know about what happened at the engagement party, right? Are you still willing to be with me?”

Now, Clivia didn't want to maintain her pure image anymore and decided to be straightforward.

Mason nodded firmly. "Olivia, I know that you were with other men behind Ethan's back just to get back at him. Besides, let bygones be bygones. I don't care about those things. I like you, no matter what kind of person you are.

"I don't mind. I truly don't. I just want to be with you."

"Let me think about it," Olivia said. To be honest, she didn't really have her sights on Mason, but he was currently the only man who was kind to her and could help her. She didn't expect that the fanboy she had in the past could still be useful now.

12:11 Sat, 25 May M

Chapter 192

However, Mason was neither tall nor handsome, and Olivia wasn't particularly interested. But the level of loyalty Mason had for her was something that neither Noah nor Ethan could match.

How ironic.

Olivia thought about Gabriel. Why could Gina have someone like Gabriel, a man who was superior, powerful, and devoted to her, while she was left with nothing? It was so unfair. She didn't think she was any less than Gina.

That bh Gina was just luckier than her!

"Okay, I understand that you've been through a lot recently, and you probably don't have the mindset for a relationship right now. I can wait for you. But I have one small request. Could you please not ignore my messages when I send them to you in the future?"

"Akight." Olivia said.

Mason's face lit up. "Well, now that the house is rented and your things have been moved over, would you like me to help you tidy up and keep you company for a while?"

“No need. You can leave.” Olivia did not hide the fact that she was using Mason.

Anyway, men were all the same. She no longer had any hope for them.

She had never dated a man as good as Gabriel. It was probably because a good man was a rare species. If only she could snatch Gabriel from Gina.

Olivia’s nails dug into her palms.

“Then, I’ll take my leave,” Mason said reluctantly.

It was not easy for him to get a chance to stay with the woman he desired, but Olivia rejected him again. Mason felt bitter.

After Mason left, Olivia was about to close the door when her neighbor’s door opposite opened. Cathy walked out. She looked up and was somewhat surprised to see Olivia. “So, my new neighbor is you?”

Olivia stepped forward. “How much was the medical fee last time? I’ll pay you back.”

“You have money now?” Cathy asked.

“Yeah.”

Olivia said impatiently, “How much?”

She asked again

“160 dollars.”

Olivia returned the money she took from Mason to Cathy

After returning the money, Olivia was about to return to her house, but Cathy invited her, “We’re neighbors now. Looks like we’re fated. How about we have dinner together?”

“No,” Olivia rejected without hesitation.

Back in the house, Gina had just sat on the sofa when she received a call from the blond man. "How's it going? It's been a few days. Have you found a good target?"

Olivia was a little nervous. "Not yet."

"You should improve your capability."

..

The blond man asked again, "Don't tell me you don't have a prey you've already set your sights on?"

'Thave. Gina, thought Olivia.

However, she could not knock down Gina at all Olivia thought about how she was going to cheat people into selling their orns and was afraid.

The blond man ignored Olivia's silence and continued to guide her. "Don't you have a lot of woovers? They're all resources you can use. Remember, I don't want those who drink and smoke. The o of alcoholic and useless people can't be sold for much."

The blond man helped Olivia expand her thoughts. It would be great if she could sell the os of Noah and Ethan.

However, although the two idiots were simple-minded, their status was not low. Also, wasn't Ethan an alcoholic and good-for-nothing?

That bd. His os were probably useless like his penis.

However, Olivia swore she would not let those two sgs off.

"Why don't you speak? Don't play dead."

The blond man was annoyed:

Olivia swallowed her saliva. "If I help you find the source of os, how much can I get?"

378%

"Bring him to my testing room to see if his os match. Once the match is successful, I can give you a portion of the introduction fee first. You'll get 35% of the price when the os are sold as a reward. Bring me more, and you'll earn more." The blond man sneered.

“35%...” Olivia hesitated. “I think it’s not enough.”

The blond man smiled. “You’re ambitious. That’s not bad. But you have to be capable, right? Don’t you think it’s too early to negotiate with me when you haven’t even found the source?

“You know, we’re in a lucrative industry. If you do well, the remuneration will satisfy you. If you can get me good sources, it’s not impossible to give you 50%. For example, if you can get Gina’s os.

“Her entire body is worth a lot of money. Her skin is so perfect. It will fetch a good price.

“I want to dig out those eyes of hers and soak them in formalin as specimens.” The blond man smiled sinisterly

He hated Gina’s sharp eyes that seemed to be able to see through everything.

And he hated when she looked at him with disdain.

Olivia was a little scared when she heard the blond man’s words. But then she thought, Gina’s internal os should have been dug out and sold. Her skin should have been peeled off too.

“I will work hard,” Olivia said.

“I hope you’re not just saying it.”

The blond man warned.

After hanging up the phone, Olivia did not know what to think, so she napped. When she woke up, it was already nighttime. She heard the knock on the door and got up to open it. The person who came was Mason. He was holding fast food in his hand.

“Olivia. I guess you haven’t eaten yet. I brought you food.”

“Thank you,” Olivia said indifferently.

Mason was delighted. “Then, can I come in?”

“Just give it to me.” Without another word, Olivia took the fast food from Mason’s hand and closed the door. Mason was speechless, Olivia put down the fast food and went to shower. While showering, she noticed a tube on the shelf was hollow. There seemed to be a red light flickering inside. She looked down and took out the thing in it. It was a pinhole camera.

Olivia laughed in anger. Without hesitation, she called the police. The police checked the surveillance cameras in the neighborhood and found the suspect was Mason.

12:11 Sat, 25 May

Chapter 193

Olivia chose to forgive him. When the two of them came out of the police station, Mason had been apologizing, "Olivia, I'm sorry. I was possessed. I'm so in love with you,"

Olivia could not be bothered to listen to Mason's excuses. She slapped Mason's face. "Shut up, you're cheap!"

Mason lowered his head. "Olivia, what should I do so that you won't be angry with me? I'm sorry, I'm so sorry."

Olivia was furious seeing Mason's cowardly look. "Don't you just want to sleep with me? That's not what you called 'in love with me. I'll tell you the truth. Although I'm down and out now, I don't like you either, okay? Unless..."

"Unless what?" Mason jerked up his head.

Unless you can give me a lot of money," Olivia said.

"Olivia, I'll work hard. If... if you're willing to be my girlfriend, my salary will be yours!"

Mason felt a little embarrassed as he offered. Olivia resisted the urge to roll her eyes. Who cared about his meager meager salary?

"I want money now. Can you give it to me?" Olivia asked.

She now owed Gina millions of dollars. Previously, at the National Design League, she slandered Judge Caleb for having an improper relationship with Gina, causing Caleb to be furious and sue her. Now that she had lost the lawsuit, she still had to compensate Caleb. She needed money everywhere, but she only had several hundred dollars Mason had just transferred to her.

Besides, she had just returned Cathy 160 dollars.

Olivia felt like she was going crazy. She could not understand why the men she met were all cowardly and useless.

She got very steamed up. “Mason, after working so long, you don’t even have 20 thousand dollars in savings? Mason, how can you have the cheek to say you like me? I, Olivia, will never be interested in a cowardly man like you.”

Mason’s self-esteem suffered a massive blow. He boiled with embarrassment and anger. “Olivia! Have you forgotten what kind of situation you’re in now? You’re no longer the mighty and rich young lady. I’ve helped you so much, but you don’t even bother to talk to me more nicely!”

Olivia said threateningly. “You’re helping me because you want to sleep with me, right? Don’t flatter yourself. Mason, let me tell you. If you can give me the life I want, you can sleep with me as you like. But now, if you touch me, I’ll skin you alive!”

Mason was furious and indignant. “Olivia, don’t look down on me. One day, I’ll make you be with me willingly!”

Olivia rolled her eyes. She raised her hand and something as cowardly as secretly filming me!"

Olivia was tired of educating Mason, She turned around and left.

Looking at Olivia's back, Mason shed tears of unwillingness.

The next day.

When Gina returned to Trowell University to deal with her studies, she received a call from Dylan.

"Gina. A nurse called Cathy Fowler came to deliver something to me. She hoped that I could pass it to you,"

Gina was confused.

What would Cathy give her?

"Do you want me to deliver it to you?"

"I'll come get it," Gina said.

"Okay" Dylan hung up.

Gina got to Prover Hospital and headed straight to Dylan's office.

Dylan gave her a box.

12:11 Sat 25 May

Chapter 154

It was not an exquisitely packaged expensive gift box, but it was clean and tidy. It was tied into a bow with a red ribbon. Gina opened it and saw a bracelet with a four-leaf clover pendant. There was also a box of cupcakes.

Cathy left a small note for Gina.

"Miss Miller, thank you for your help. I have nothing to repay you with. It's just a small token of my appreciation. I hope you won't mind."

Gina took out the bracelet. The four-leaf clover pendant did not look like it was from some famous brand.

Gina took out a cupcake and tasted it. The sweetness and softness were just right, and it was tasty. She even tasted a faint taste of medicinal herb.

She knew the herb. It could help relieve fatigue and was nutritious. The medicinal herb was quite bitter, but it did not affect the taste when Cathy mixed it into the cupcake. It was still delicious.

“How does it taste?” asked Dylan curiously.

Dylan wondered if the cupcake tasted awful since Gina had not swallowed it for a long time.

Gina swallowed the cupcake and said, “it’s tasty.”

Seeing that Gina’s expression did not change, Dylan was suspicious. “Do you mean it?”

“How about you have a try?”

Gina handed a cupcake to Dylan. Dylan took it and had a bite. “Well, you’re right. It tastes good.”

Gina kept the cupcakes. “Do you have Cathy’s number? Ask her to come here. I have something to talk to her.”

After Dylan found Cathy, he went back to work.

In Dylan’s office, only Cathy and Gina were left.

“Miss Miller.” Cathy greeted.

Gina replied, “You don’t have to call me that. Just call me by my name, Gina.”

“Alright... Well, I think I’m more used to calling you Miss Miller, Cathy said uneasily.

“Suit yourself.”

“Miss Miller, do you need me for something?”

“I’ve received the gifts you asked Dylan to give me. You picked the four-leaf clover pendant for me?” Gina asked.

“Yes. I can’t afford something expensive, so it’s not from some luxury brand. But I hope it can bring you luck. Miss Miller, have you eaten my cupcakes?”

“Yes, they taste pretty good,” Gina said.

Cathy smiled in embarrassment. “I’m glad you don’t think it tastes bad.”

“Thank you for your gifts. I like them,” Gina said earnestly.

Cathy wrote that note more or less due to her low self-esteem. After all, the gifts she gave Gina were all worthless things. Gina had a noble status, so why would she take a fancy to those valueless things?

Chapter 194

But Cathy was spirited after hearing what Gina said. She felt Gina was not as difficult to get close to as she had imagined.

Gina had such a high status, yet she did not put on any airs. Cathy had no intention of currying favor with Gina but was curious about her. “Miss Miller, can I ask you a question?”

“Sure.”

“How old are you this year?” Cathy asked.

“It’s almost my 22nd birthday,” Gina said calmly.

Cathy was shocked, “Then you’re 21 years old...”

“I’m two years older than you. Oh my g d...” Cathy was dumbfounded for a while.

“What’s wrong?” Cathy’s reaction surprised Gina.

“You’re amazing. You’re only 21 years old and are already the Dean of Prover Hospital. I-I thought at first that you took good care of yourself, so you looked young,” Cathy answered embarrassedly.

Gina could not help but laugh. She raised her eyebrows slightly.

Cathy continued, “I’ve never seen a genius. Now, one is standing right before me.”

“I’m flattered.”

Gina was as calm as she always was. She was indeed talented but put in a lot of effort to succeed.

“I think you’re modest,” Cathy said with a smile.

“Did you ask me here and tell me you liked my gifts?” Cathy was grateful that Gina could tell her that. That way, she could let go of the mental burden she had been holding.

After she gave the gift boxes to Dylan, she regretted it. Cathy felt that the thank-you gifts for Gina were too cheap.

“No, I heard from the doctors in your department that you’re meticulous about planting medicinal herbs. You even saved a batch of dying medicinal herbs because of other staff members’ mistakes. I have a job of planting medicinal herbs that needs someone careful to do.”

Chapter 195

When Gina lived in the countryside, she planted medicinal herbs, not only because it was complicated, but also because she was free.

She had a long list of tasks to complete and no longer had the time to tend to the herbs. Additionally, she had recently acquired the medicine land and the newly planted medicinal herbs demanded a lot of energy. She worried that she wouldn’t have enough time to manage everything.

Gina could have spent some money to hire someone to take care of them, but she was concerned that she’d encounter someone insincere and inattentive. Her trust in outsiders had always been very low, so she couldn’t bring herself to entrust the medicinal herbs she had just planted to a stranger.

While she didn’t have many interactions with Cathy, she could sense that Cathy was a genuine and sincere person.

“So, do you want to let me take care of them?” Cathy felt Battered.

“Yes, in the future, you will need to come to the designated location every morning at 5 to water and fertilize the herbs. That’s a basic task. Additionally, there is the stage of insulation. You also need to keep a record of the growth of the seedlings.

“You can rest at 10 am. and at 3 p.m. you need to... Gina elaborated on all the details.

Cathy listened attentively, noting down the keywords and key points in her head.

“You can leave at five in the evening. I can help you maintain your position at the hospital Working at the medicinal herb plantation is not a permanent job. After about three months, you can return to your job at the hospital, and your salary will continue to be paid as usual. In addition to your hospital

电 salary, I will pay you a monthly salary of 10 thousand dollars for working at the medicinal herb plantation. We provide meals during the day. What do you think?”

Cathy did some calculations. Despite having to wake up very early in the morning, she realized she only needed to work for less than eight hours a day. Additionally, her salary at the hospital was still being paid as usual. She couldn’t believe she had found such a great job!

She had no reason to disagree.

Cathy was overjoyed. “I can’t believe it! Thank you so much, Miss Miller, for giving me this opportunity. This is amazing, absolutely amazing!”

In that case, she could earn 12 thousand dollars a month. This was a salary that she never even dreamed of in the past!

“Can you start from tomorrow?” Gina asked.

“Sure! No problem!” Cathy answered with a smile.

“Okay, it’s a deal then. You can go now.” Gina said calmly.

Cathy was filled with excitement and eagerly approached Gita to give her a hug. “Miss Miller, thank you so much! I am so lucky to meet you.”

-Gina smiled faintly and remained silent.

However, she seemed to have had a thought and asked, “Are you happy because you can earn a high salary, or because you can help Andy pay for the repairs on the Rolls Royce?”

Cathy was taken aback. She was not expecting Gina to bring this up. Suddenly, she felt a twinge of guilt. "..."

"I warned you that he'd bring you down." This was the first time Gina had interfered in someone else's affairs.

In a logical sense, she wouldn't have such strong feelings of wanting to help Cathy, whom she had only recently met, out of her difficult situation. However, when Gina pared into Cathy's clear eyes, she experienced an unexpected pang of heartache.

Chapter 195

Miss Miller, I'm sorry. You are right. That's indeed the reason why I am so thrilled. And I understand what you told me, I will think about it. I know what to do. Don't worry."

Gina took a deep breath. "Oh, never mind. Forget what I said."

After saying that, Gina turned around and left.

Cathy started to feel nervous. She stopped Gina and said, "Miss Miller, I appreciate your kindness, please don't be upset."

Gina halted in her steps and spoke calmly, "I'm not upset. This is your personal issue, and it's understandable that you don't want me to get involved. I have no reason to be angry about it."

Cathy let out a sigh of relief. Just now, she had been worried that she would lose the new job. Now she was reassured. Miss Miller was a big shot. Why would she be concerned with her?

She was overthinking, "Miss Miller, are you going back to work?"

Gina nodded.

Cathy quickly stepped aside for her, saying "I apologize for taking up your time."

Gina left without saying anything else.

Olivia woke up in hunger.

She glanced at the clock and realized that she had slept for a full day and night. Furthermore, she had not eaten anything. Subconsciously, she assumed that Mason would come to bring her food as usual. But to her surprise, he did not come that day.

Otherwise, it would have been impossible for her, who was sleeping on the sofa, not to hear the knock on the door.

Olivia found the chatbox with Mason. She recalled their recent argument near the police station just two days ago. Furthermore, Mason had always been the one to please her. If she were to approach him now because she didn't have money to buy food, she would feel embarrassed.

She had money after returning Cathy's money, but she had spent it all in the bar.

However, the more Olivia thought about it, the angrier she grew. "You're a jerk, and I would choose anyone but you!"

She took a sip of water, but it did little to ease her hunger. Suddenly, a delightful aroma wafted from the neighboring room. Unable to resist any longer, Olivia knocked on the door.

Cathy opened the door, "Olivia, are you okay?"

"Do you have any food?"

"Yes, come in..." Before Cathy could finish her sentence, Olivia entered the room.

Olivia glanced at the food on the table. Before Cathy could even invite her to try them, she grabbed the fork and started eating without reservation. She devoured the food quickly. She was aware that her table manners at the moment must be terrible, but she didn't mind at all

Cathy was a little surprised. "Hey, slow down. You'll choke yourself"

Olivia paused and glanced up at Cathy, feeling like she was her mom

Olivia's appetite had diminished and she glanced at the dishes on the table. There were two bowls of seafood that appeared to be quite expensive. She casually remarked, "The food is excellent. This prawn must cost hundreds of dollars per kilo, am I right?"

Olivia had it at the Miller family.

She didn't anticipate Cathy to be so wealthy. Nonetheless, she couldn't shake the feeling that something was amiss. If Cathy truly had money, why would she be renting a house here?

"I didn't buy it. I brought it back from work." Cathy sat down and said.

"Work? What do you do for a living?" Olivia was curious

"I am a nurse."

Olivia smiled. "Nurse, do you think I'm an idiot? What kind of hospital provide nurses with such good meals?"

Even Prover Hospital, the best hospital in Norwood, Prover Hospital, wouldn't be so generous.

Olivia unconsciously considered the idea, but upon realizing that Prover Hospital belonged to Gina, she felt a surge of anger. She wished she could destroy Prover Hospital and tear Gina into pieces.

"It's not my job as a nurse but..

"As a medicinal herb worker!" Cathy thought for a moment and described herself in this way.

“There is a lot of food. Is it all for you?” Olivia asked, a little surprised.

Cathy shook her head. “Nope, also for the guards of the medicine land. The total amount is a lot. I'll pack some and bring them home to share with my boyfriend so we can save some money.”

Cathy's eyes sparkled as she spoke. Despite Andy having to bear a debt of 200 thousand dollars for scraping Mr. Jackson's car, she believed that they were still young. Her current salary and benefits were also excellent. Together, they would surely be able to navigate through this challenging time.

However, the job at the medicine land was only temporary, lasting for three months. She was uncertain if Gina would require someone for this role in the future, so she needed to come up with a plan to secure this job for herself.

Olivia was taken aback. “Are you saying there are guards at the medicine land?”

She had never heard of such things.

Cathy nodded and said, “Yes, because the ones we planted are all highly valuable medicinal herbs.”

Olivia was not particularly curious at first, but now she was also intrigued. “So, how much do you make per month?”

Cathy smiled awkwardly, “12 thousand dollars...”

“12 thousand dollars?”

Olivia was astonished and dropped her fork. “Is your job challenging? Do you work long hours? Do you have many coworkers?”

“It's not difficult. I just need to take care of that expensive medicinal herb. I need to be meticulous and wake up early. It's not too tiring. Occasionally, I'll take notes, It's quite relaxing.” As Cathy said that, she felt a little embarrassed. She felt uneasy about receiving such a high salary..

Gina had emphasized the importance of being meticulous and avoiding mistakes when working with the precious medicinal herb, as any errors could cause significant delays. Cathy, therefore, felt nervous and anxious about the possibility of making a mistake.

"I don't have any colleagues, and I don't have much work to do either. I can handle everything by myself. However, this 12 thousand dollars isn't entirely for taking care of medicinal herbs. It also includes my salary as a nurse.

"Cathy didn't hide anything from Olivia.

"Where do you work as a nurse?" asked Olivia,

"Prover Hospital."

Olivia's expression changed. "Did the hospital arrange for you to plant medicinal herbs?"

"No, it's a private request," Cathy said. She then recalled that Gina had instructed her to keep the matter of her helping someone plant medicinal herb a

Before Olivia left, she had a thought and decided to speak privately with Cathy. "Can you show me where you go in learning more about your work."

Cathy responded, "I'm sorry, my boss doesn't permit me to bring guests there..."

Olivia understood and didn't show much of a reaction. "Okay," she simply replied.

She felt that Cathy was either lying and trying to impress her intentionally, or she was pretending to be mysterious to flaunt her high-level job.

"You are just a worker. What are you even smuggling about?" Olivia thought.

Perhaps the 12 thousand dollars was made up too."

Olivia thought as she walked.

When she returned to her rented apartment, Olivia couldn't shake off the thought of the 12 thousand dollars salary that Cathy had mentioned. Intrigued, she made up her mind to investigate further.

The next day.

At 4 in the morning, Cathy was getting ready for work. Since Cathy had mentioned to Olivia that she needed to wake up early, Olivia also woke up early. Moreover, the soundproofing in the neighborhood was not very effective. Upon hearing the noise, Olivia waited for a moment and then stealthily followed Cathy.

Cathy was unaware that someone was following her to the medicine land. After exchanging greetings with the guards there, she proceeded to her work.

Olivia was eager to follow her in, but with high walls surrounding the area from all sides, she had no opportunity to sneak in.

However, Olivia was not willing to leave just like that. She wanted to find out what was Cathy's job.

there was a high-paying job that required little work and skill, why couldn't she replace Cathy?

Before Olivia could find a way to sneak in, the guards caught sight of her.

"Who is there?"

Olivia realized she had been discovered. She turned and ran, but how could she outpace the well-trained bodyguards? They swiftly closed the distance and tackled Olivia to the ground, showing no mercy as she tasted a mouthful of mud.

“Why are you doing here?”

Olivia spat out the mud in her mouth. “Nothing. I’m just passing through!”

The medicine land was situated in a secluded area with no one around. Naturally, the guard did not believe Olivia’s nonsense. “Do I look like a fool?”

Just then, the guard’s colleague rushed over and exclaimed, “What’s going on? Miss Miller has arrived.”

When she heard the words “Miss Miller,” Olivia’s heart s k i p p e d a beat. Could it be that the owner of this parcel of medicine land was....

No, that couldn’t be. It must be a coincidence!

Olivia swallowed nervously. The guard looked at her and said, “Let Miss Miller know that I have apprehended a woman who is suspected of being a thief.”

Without saying another word, the guard forcefully escorted Olivia to the surveillance booth.

Olivia was ushered into the surveillance room, where Gina was watching Cathy through the surveillance camera as she worked in the medicine land. Cathy’s focused and serious expression confirmed to Gina that her choice was correct.

Cathy was indeed very suitable for this job.

When Gina heard the sound, she turned back and saw Olivia, who looked like a mess

As soon as their eyes connected, Olivia’s heart sank. This piece of land for the medicine was actually owned by Gina. And Cathy’s boss was Gina.

Norwood was so small!

Olivia sneered

The guard interjected, saying, “Miss Miller, this woman was spotted lingering near medicine land in a suspicious manner. It seems like she may be here to observe and wait for an opportunity to steal medicinal herbs.”

“I didn’t!” Olivia retorted.

Gina frowned slightly and asked Olivia, "How did you find this place? Who brought you here?"

"Olivia, did you follow me?" Cathy couldn't believe it.

Olivia confessed, "Yes, I followed you here. I was really curious. You mentioned having a good job, so I wanted to come and see for myself."

Cathy was taken by surprise and felt a bit nervous. She was afraid that Gina might be upset.

"Miss Miller, I swear I didn't tell Olivia about where I work. I had no idea she followed me here. I'm truly sorry," Cathy said, feeling a bit flustered.

"Are you friends?" Gina asked.

Olivia's expression finally changed slightly.

Cathy did not hesitate. "Yes."

She looked at Olivia. "Has Olivia been arrested? Miss Miller, she was probably just curious. She's not a bad person. Can you release her?"

If Cathy didn't acknowledge Olivia as her friend and kept her distance, Gina might have thought that Cathy was not as genuine as she appeared. However, Cathy didn't try to conceal or avoid the fact. This made Gina believe that Cathy was truly a sincere person.

"You may leave," Gina said to Olivia.

The guard released Olivia.

Olivia hastened her steps and departed. Cathy looked at Olivia's retreating figure and remarked, "Miss Miller, I will be back in a moment."

Cathy caught up to Olivia. "Olivia, wait a minute.")

Olivia stopped in her tracks. She was already prepared for Cathy's blame.

Olivia stated confidently, saying, "That won't happen. Miss Miller is a very principled person. She wouldn't dismiss me because of personal issues."

Upon hearing Cathy praise Gina, Olivia's nails dug into her palm and an unknown flame of emotion rose within her. "It's your choice whether to believe it or not," she responded.

Cathy couldn't comprehend why Olivia was upset for no apparent reason. Despite this, she asked out of concern, "Did the guard harm you just now?"

"Is that what you want to ask?"

"Yes.

Olivia was silent for a moment. "I'm fine. Also, if Gina asks about our relationship, tell her it's terrible."

For the first time, Olivia had the thought of not wanting to get someone involved.

With that, she left without looking back.

When Cathy returned to the surveillance room, Gina was still there. Cathy inquired, "Miss Miller, you're still here. Are you planning to fire me?"

Gina was a little surprised. "Why should I fire you? You're doing very well. Keep it up."

Gina came over to inspect the medicinal herb. Impressed by its quality, she was pleased with Cathy's diligent work ethic.

Gina asked Cathy, "How did you know Olivia? Are you very close?"

Cathy continued to speak the truth. She told Gina how she met Olivia and said, "Now, she is my neighbor."

“Is she working now?”

Cathy thought for a moment. “I don’t think so.”

Olivia didn’t even have enough money to buy food. Although Cathy didn’t understand why Olivia wasn’t going to work, she respected Olivia’s privacy and never probed further.

“Okay, you may go back to work,” Gina didn’t ask more questions.

Olivia returned to her apartment feeling disoriented. Just as she was about to lie down and sleep, she received an unfamiliar call. Assuming it was harassment call, she ended it. However, the call came again. Olivia suddenly wondered if it was the blond man calling, as he had mentioned that he would not contact her using a telephone.

Chapter 197

Olivia answered the call

“Hello, Miss Olivia. This is Miss Gina’s lawyer. We are aware that you haven’t been looking for a job lately, which could potentially delay the repayment of Miss Gina’s debt by you. I kindly urge you to consider returning to work and settling your debt promptly. Otherwise, we may have to resort to legal action and restrict your extravagant spending Olivia was shocked. Gina had assured her that she wouldn’t go to jail as long as she paid a billion dollars. Additionally, Gina had requested her to sign an agreement of arrears to ensure she kept her promise. But how did Gina know she wasn’t seeking a job?

“Miss Olivia, are you listening?”

Olivia gritted her teeth. “I’m in my third year of university, Isn’t it normal that I don’t have a job?”

“Yes, I know. But now, you owe my agent a huge amount of money. You at least need to work part-time, don’t you?”

“Besides, you haven’t been to school in a long time, have you?”

Gina was trembling with anger. The lawyer’s casual tone made her feel humiliated.

She had been absent from school for quite some time. The school had already cautioned her that if she continued to miss classes and did not return, she would have to withdraw from school. Olivia was now reluctant to go back to school. Students at Trowell University were discussing her and Gina on How could she even show her face at school? She would rather quit than face ridicule from others. Besides, she could barely afford to eat now, let alone pay her tuition fees next semester. So be it!

“understand. I’U go find a job.”

After Olivia finished speaking, she ended the call. The first thing that crossed her mind was that Cathy had informed Gina about her current situation.

“Bh! Who does she think she is?” she thought.

In a fit of anger, she returned to bed. She had no idea how long she had been asleep until she was awoken by a knock on the door.

Oliver was a bit irritated as he stood up to open the door. She saw Cathy, who was holding a takeout box. “I’ve packed some meals from work. Would you Bike to eat together?”

Olivia really wanted to say that she didn’t want to eat, but the enticing aroma made her crave it. Nevertheless, she had to maintain her façade of irritation. “Did you tell Gina that I’m unemployed?”

Although it was easy for Gina to find out such small things, Olivia thought it was more likely that Cathy told her about it. After all, the lawyer called as soon as she returned home after being caught at the medicine land.

Cathy was momentarily stunned, realizing that Olivia was angry. "Yes, She asked, so ...I told her," she said.

"She asked, so you told her? Are you her servant?"

Cathy was taken aback by Olivia's anger. However, she also had a temper. "And what about you? Why did you follow me secretly? You nearly got me

"Oh." Cathy replied rather coldly. She turned around and prepared to return to her room.

Olivia's heart skipped a beat. She rolled her eyes. "Cathy, did Gina make things difficult for you because of me?"

Cathy stopped in her tracks. "No."

“That’s good. I’m glad I didn’t drag you down. I’m sorry. I didn’t mean to cause you to lose your job. I was just too curious. I’m sorry, I’m sorry! I always knew that I was an unlikable person. It’s my fault for upsetting you, but it wasn’t my intention.”

Cathy stopped in her tracks. Her heart softened and she sighed. “I’m not angry anymore. Don’t cry.”

“Then, then can I have dinner with you? I don’t have a job now and I don’t have any money. You can note my expense down. When I find a job and get my salary, I’ll pay you back, okay?”

“There’s no need. This is my work meal. It’s free. If you don’t eat with me, Andy and I won’t be able to finish it. Let’s eat together”

“Thank you! I’ll repay you in the future.”

Chapter 198

It was just a few meals. Cathy did not expect Olivia to repay her.

As they sat down to eat, Cathy was a bit curious. “So, what happened between you and Miss Miller?”

Olivia said calmly, “Google it, you will see.”

Cathy was surprised. Was it so serious?

Gina and Olivia’s feud was a trending topic on Twitter. However, Cathy didn’t really use that app.

She opened the browser and searched. “There is nothing.”

Furthermore, there was no information about Gina on the internet. Cathy thought that the first thing she would see would be that Gina was the dean of Prover Hospital.

Olivia was a little surprised. She also searched for it herself. The news on Twitter had disappeared completely. Even the relevant entries about Jason’s reprimand of Gina were gone.

Olivia had a suspicion that Gina had intentionally arranged for someone to suppress the news.

Olivia lowered her eyes in deep thought.

“So, what kind of conflict did the two of you have in the past?” Cathy asked with curiosity.

Olivia picked the most insignificant one and said, “My father killed her father.”

Cathy was shocked. She never expected to hear something so melodramatic. “Well...”

“My father took a lot of money from her, now I am repaying her.”

Olivia mixed truth with lies.

“Then... then, where is your father now?”

“He’s dead. Before he died, he even killed someone, who was also Gina’s relative.”

Cathy was so shocked that she put down her fork.

“Why was your father so evil and how can you bear all of this?”

Cathy thought that Olivia was innocent.

That was what Olivia wanted. She appeared to be holding back tears as she expressed, “I have no other option. I am his daughter. Who else can make amends for the wrongs he has done other than me? My life has already been destroyed. I truly wish to end it, but I am also afraid of the pain. Cathy, thank you. You are the only one who has supported me during my difficult times.

“Even if I die, I will repay your kindness.”

Cathy’s heart ached for Olivia. “Don’t say that. Keep on living. You’re still so young. Actually...

Cathy sighed. “My boyfriend also has a feud with Miss Miller’s boyfriend.”

Olivia was stunned. “Gabriel?”

“Yes, my boyfriend broke the traffic law and scraped Rolls Royce of Mr. Jackson. He has to pay 200 thousand dollars.”

Chapter 198

Olivia understood, “I see.”

“Yeah. The price was extremely high for Andy and me. We are feeling a lot of pressure at the moment, but it’s okay. I have a great job now, so we can gradually repay him.”

Olivia replied absent-mindedly, “Yes, you will.”

After a while, Andy returned. When he saw Olivia, he smiled at Olivia. This time, Olivia also looked up and smiled at him. The two of them exchanged glances tacitly.

Andy raised his eyebrows, having some thoughts that he shouldn't have.

Late at night.

Olivia had slept enough during the day. She could not sleep at all now. She sat on the sofa and waited for someone to knock on the door.

When she opened the door, it was indeed Andy.

"Hello?"

Olivia asked in a deliberately clipped voice.

"What do you think? Didn't you give me that seductive look because you wanted me to come to you?"

"I didn't

Although it was a denial, Olivia deliberately pouted.

Andy found it amusing. He was sure he hadn't misinterpreted the situation. Olivia feigned concern as she glanced at the door behind him. "What are you doing? You have a girlfriend," she remarked.

"So what? She's not my wife," Andy boasted shamelessly.

Olivia deliberately rebuked, "Scumbag."

Andy wrapped his arms around Olivia's waist and said, "Let's not waste our time on irrelevant matters. We should just enjoy this beautiful evening, don't you think?"

Ten minutes later.

Olivia lay on the bed in silence. Andy asked her confidently, "How was it? How am I compared with your ex-boyfriend?"

Masch began to ignore her. Since she currently lacked a source of income, she needed to find a new "sugar daddy." Andy had feelings for her, so she might as well take advantage of him.

She was in urgent need of money.

Pleased with himself, Andy reached out and gently lifted Olivia's chin. "Did you have your eye on me the first time you saw me? It seems like I am quite charming."

Olivia's patience was wearing thin. She forced a smile and said, "That's correct. However, you already have a girlfriend. Can you break up with her?"

"I can't do that. Cathy is great. She's a good person. We plan to get married in the future," Andy said honestly.

Olivia sneered in her heart. Just now, he said that his girlfriend didn't matter as she wasn't his wife. Now, he said that he wanted to marry Cathy in the future.

Although Olivia was upset when Cathy disclosed her recent situation to Gina, leading Gina to contact a lawyer and embarrass her, she still remembered that Cathy had helped her. Now, she felt remorseful for Cathy. Andy was a jerk.

This made Olivia think of her ex-fiancé, Ethan. He was the same as Andy, but the difference was that Ethan was rich.

Andy was a good-for-nothing if she wasn't in trouble, she wouldn't have hooked up with him.

She had met countless men. Until now, the only good man she had found was probably Gabriel. Indeed, the good men in this world were fucking rare to find. However, Gina met one. Why couldn't she?

Olivia couldn't understand why she wasn't a real Miller.

Olivia subconsciously tightened her grip on the blanket. Her hatred for Gina had reached its peak at this moment.

Andy noticed that she was in a daze. "What are you thinking about? Did you hear what I said just now?"

"You need to keep your promise," Olivia forced herself to conceal her disgust and nestled into Andy's embrace. She pretended to be a devoted fool for him, wanting to affirm his charm and fulfill his desire for conquest. By doing so, she hoped to get money from Andy.

Andy's phone rang and he panicked a little. When he looked at his phone, it was really a call from Cathy. He instructed Olivia in a panic, "Don't talk

After hanging up, Andy put down his phone and got up to take a shower. "I'm going back. See you next time, baby."

Olivia responded with a fake smile. She lay on the bed in boredom. Andy's phone was vibrating. She glanced at it.

Andy's phone was unlocked. And she noticed his WhatsApp.

Cathy sent a message.

Olivia opened the chat.

[Are you upset about the repair fees? Don't worry, we'll go through these hard times together. Mr. Jackson has agreed to allow us to repay it slowly. I was quite surprised when I woke up and realized you weren't there.]

[I can't sleep either. Maybe I should get up and make some snacks. Last time, I made cupcakes for Miss Miller and she said they were delicious. She has helped me a lot and I don't have anything to repay her with. Maybe I can cook something for her.]

Olivia glanced at the chat and sneered. Gina had simply arranged a job for Cathy, yet Cathy seemed overly grateful, acting as if Gina had rescued her. It must be nice to be powerful and wealthy. If Gina was really so kind, why didn't she just ask Gabriel not to demand compensation from them?

Olivia left the chat. Coincidentally, Andy's phone automatically locked the screen, turning it black.

She acted as if nothing had happened and laid on the side, playing with her phone. Andy quickly finished his shower, grabbed his phone, and left.

The next day.

When Olivia woke up, it was already noon. Andy had sent her several messages.

[Cathy has gone to work. I'm on leave today. Do you come over or do I go there?]

After all, she wasn't confident that she could get money from Andy in such a short period of time.

However, what made Olivia even more speechless was that she and Andy were together for only a few minutes, but he wouldn't forget about it. She recalled his strenuous appearance last night and couldn't understand how Cathy put up with him.

But Olivia still replied, I'll be there.]

After all, this was the crucial moment to cultivate a simp

As expected, Andy had sex with her again.

“Have you had breakfast? Cathy bought bread. It’s in the fridge. If you’re hungry, go get some. Oh right, get some for your honey too.”

Chapter 199

Olivia was instantly enraged. She had an urge to slap Andy.

Did he treat her like a nanny?

However, she knew that it was not a good time to fall out with Andy.

“Sure.”

Olivia opened the fridge with resentment and found a large lump of flour.

She recalled something,

She remembered that Cathy said that she wanted to make cupcakes for Gina...

In an instant, she had a bold idea. Her heart began to beat faster and faster. Even her hands began to tremble.

Maybe she could put something in the flour and kill Gina directly.

Just the thought of it made Olivia excited. She could not help but laugh out loud. She agreed with the blond man to finish her father’s task. Wasn’t her ultimate goal to kill Gina?

The blond man said that he wanted Gina to die too. Instead of spending much effort on it, maybe she could choose a shortcut.

Olivia took a deep breath and made up her mind.

Chapter 200

Thinking about it, Olivia became a little nervous.

She was 100% sure that she could kill Gina with poison. But... if Gina suddenly died, Gabriel would definitely investigate.

If he found out it was her, she would face scary things.

Therefore, she had to find a scapegoat...

Olivia quietly glanced at Andy, who was playing games in the living room, and closed the refrigerator door.

They had some bread.

Then, Olivia found an excuse and left.

Back to her apartment, Olivia pondered about the idea

Then she called the blond man..

The blond man said she shouldn't call him unless things were urgent and that after the call, she would delete the history immediately. He had no fixed number, so Olivia wasn't sure if she could contact him. She could only try.

Fortunately, the blond man picked up the call.

"Why? Have you got Gina's o g a n s? Or have you found a source of goods?"

"Nope."

Olivia had yet to finish her sentence when the blond man became impatient.

"No? Then why are you calling me? Do you think I'm an idle person? Didn't I say you don't even understand that, you are useless."

With that, the blond man hung up

Olivia did not have time to say anything.

She called again, but the blond man didn't answer again.

Olivia felt frustrated. Why couldn't this idiot let her finish?

It seemed that it was impossible to seek help from the blond man.

Helpless, Olivia could only make other plans. She wondered who else could help her.

Olivia gritted her teeth and texted Mason.

[Mason, let's meet and talk.

THE

Although Mason was humiliated by Olivia last time, Mason secretly swore that he would be rich in the future and make Olivia regret it

He wanted his goddess to kneel in front of him.

However, when he saw that Olivia had sent him a message, he could not help but call her.

Before he spoke, Olivia lost her patience and directly gave him an address. "Let's meet"

Mason went to the appointment.

He didn't understand why Olivia wanted to meet him in the wilderness.

As soon as they met, Olivia grabbed Mason's hand. "Mason, I'm so scared."

Mason was very surprised. "What happened?"

There was a huge rat in the apartment you rented for me. I was freaked out."

"You, just buy some poison." Mason thought that Olivia was too dramatic.

Olivia said with tears in her eyes, "But I don't have any money."

Mason understood.

He knew it. Olivia wouldn't contact him if she didn't need money. Mason laughed self-deprecatingly. He had to let Olivia know that he was not a fool.

“If you don’t have money, go to work. What’s the point of telling me? Anyway, I’m just a loser. I can’t support you. Go find a boyfriend who can afford rat poison for you, okay?” After saying that, Mason turned around and was about to leave.

Olivia was furious. He had already lowered his pride to look for him. What else did he want? This Mason really did not know what was good for him!

If she wasn’t in a difficult situation, why would she be kind to o someone so incompetent?

Olivia pulled Mason forward with a sense of helplessness. She decided to be more forceful in her approach. She embraced Mason and said, “I’m sorry. I was too harsh. I realize now that you are the only one who truly loves me. If I were to say that I want to start over, would you accept me?”

Mason caught a whiff of the perfume on Olivia’s body as she hugged him, sending his imagination into overdrive. He couldn’t believe his luck. First, Olivia held his hand, and now she was hugging him. Was it his lucky day?

And it was just because of some rats?

Yet, he still found it hard to believe. However, when he heard Olivia’s sweet voice, his heart couldn’t help but soften. He turned around and asked Olivia, “Are you sure you want to come back to me?”

Olivia nodded. “But can you give me some time?”

Mason exclaimed in surprise, “Why? Are you joking with me? Do you just want money? Olivia, are you taking advantage of my kindness and treating me like a fool?”

Olivia hurriedly shook her head. “No, no. Actually, Mason, the reason why I said those things to you previously was because I had a boyfriend at that time, but he didn’t treat me well. That’s when I realized that he was the same as Ethan. He betrayed me.

“We had a fight and I wanted to break up with him. But he hit me. I’m trying to get rid of him now. So we can’t be together for the time being. Oh right, you have to delete the call records. He’s very controlling and possessive. He’ll check my phone. If he finds out, he’ll hit you too.”

Mason was a coward. When he heard that he would be hit, he was a little afraid.

He immediately deleted the call record.

Chapter 200

He remembered that Olivia told him she would choose anyone but him. It turned out she was with someone else. And now, she remembered him because her boyfriend wasn't nice to her.

Hmphi

Mason sneered.

Olivia coaxed Mason patiently. "Mason, after going through so much, I've learned a lot. I realized love is more important than money or power. I just want to settle down now with the right person. I've been looking for this person. After going through so many things, I finally realized that he had always been beside me. You are the right one, Mason.

"I want to grow old with you," Olivia said affectionately.

ou some rat poison?"

Mason's heart was fluttering. He came back to his senses. "But, your new boyfriend won't even buy you Olivia pretended to be sad and said with a sobbing tone, "Yes, he's as stingy as Ethan.

"He even hit me..."

Mason didn't want to cause trouble and automatically ignored the fact that Olivia's new boyfriend hit her.

"Alright, I'll buy the rat poison for you. Find a way to get rid of him. Olivia, I've liked you for a long time. I think you must understand my thoughts. I hope you really won't fool me this time. Don't worry, I'll definitely treat you well. I'll work hard to support our family!" Mason said seriously.
