Chapter 4: The Most Precious Person

He wore a military uniform, his features were handsome, his thin lips were pursed in straight lines and his expression was serious and overpowering.

Mariana carefully lifted the photo album and her fingertips gently traced the silhouette of the man on the other side of the glass, as she fell into deep thought. She repressed her emotions with difficulty and tucked the album into her suitcase, cautiously guarding her most important treasure.

For the next week, she did not meet Leopoldo again. To be precise, it should be that after the two had sex, Leopoldo never returned.

Three days later, Mariana boarded a plane to a foreign destination and left the capital temporarily.

After a flight of more than ten hours, the plane finally arrived.

The company arranged for staff to come and pick them up and help them carry their luggage.

Ana, looking tired, hugged Mariana's shoulders, tapped her waist weakly and moaned:

-I'm exhausted! It's been such a long flight, oh my God! I can hardly stand it.

Mariana patted him on the shoulder:

-This is only the beginning, the most exhausting work is yet to come, can't you hold on so soon?

-I almost died! -Anna lamented.

The hotel the company had arranged for them was close to the presentation venue, and as soon as they entered the suite, Ana couldn't wait to collapse on the bed to rest.

Mariana rubbed her sore neck and pulled her clothes out of the suitcase before going into the shower.

After more than ten hours of flying, she was already exhausted. Just after taking a shower, she couldn't beat sleep before she put on her pajamas and crawled into bed to go to sleep.

Two days later, Andrea's team arrived on time, and Mariana and Ana's work officially began.

It was the first time I had seen Andrea in reality, and it was much more realistic than in magazines and advertisements.

Andrea was wearing a long dress with blue bodice, revealing her sensual shoulders, and her skin was delicate. Her long black hair curled softly, she wore a pair of blue earrings in her ears, looking as pure and gentle as the girl.

But it was this nice woman who made both of them unable to sleep well at night these days.

-What do you think? Let me wear this necklace? -You don't even know how much diamonds weigh! No, I will never wear this necklace!

-Miss Solis, could you try this suit?

Mariana immediately found another set of clothes for her that had already been matched and handed it to her.

The smile between Andrea's lips was evident,

-Okay, I'll try this one.

Soon, the locker room door was pushed open again.

Andrea's hands tugged at the fabric of his chest, frowning, still dissatisfied:

-Miss Ortiz, don't you think this outfit is too exposed? If I were filmed, wouldn't it ruin my image in front of the public?

-I'm sorry, Miss, it was my bad consideration. How about trying this one on again?

Ana stared the whole time and couldn't help but roll her eyes frequently.

However, Mariana acted as if nothing was wrong, preparing one set of clothes after another for Andrea.

-This dress is good, I like it a lot, but the tail at the back seems to be a little too long, so I can only wear high heels.... Then let's go with these high heels, Miss Ortiz, what do you think?

Andrea put on her high heels, posed in front of the mirror for a glance and looked at Mariana with the corners of her lips slightly raised.

It seemed that she was finally satisfied.
