Pursuing My Ex-Wife Isn't Easy chapter 1341

Aura, who had been following behind Alfred, froze when she heard this. She released her clenched fists and stuffed them into her pocket. Inside the pocket of her black coat was a pair of hedge trimming scissors, which she had wiped clean of bloodstains. She had used this pair of scissors to kill the actual driver just mere hours ago.

Aura had even mentally calculated the distance between her and Joshua and Luna. If they got any nearer, she would be able to lunge forward and stab the shark edge of the scissors into Luna's belly.

Neither she nor her child would be able to survive this!

She heard Joshua's footsteps grow nearer and nearer.

Joshua furrowed his brows as he stared at Aura's figure. He could not help but feel as though she looked familiar.

"Sir." Just as he was about to make his way to Aura, however, Alfred let out a small cough and said, "This is one of our regular suppliers here at Lynch Mansion. Your grandmother used to love the flowers from this woman's nursery, and now that she's passed...

"I specially requested for this florist to gather all the white flowers she had and deliver it today. She got confused by the new décor inside the mansion today, so she got lost. I'm here to show her the way to the accounting department. She'll be on her way as soon as she gets her payment."

Alfred was worried that Joshua would accuse this florist of loitering, so he added, "She's not loitering here on purpose, so please don't be too worried about that."

Joshua frowned and was about to say something when his phone rang. It was a call from Lucas.

“You managed to locate the clinic where Aura was?” asked Joshua in a low, curt voice.

“Alright. I’ll be there soon.”

With that, he glanced at the florist standing next to Alfred once more.

“Well, since Granny

Lynch used to love her flowers, then pay her double for the white flowers she delivered today. She won’t have to come here again in the future.”

Alfred froze for a moment, then nodded. “Alright, alright. Thank you, Sir!

With that, he immediately reached out a hand to grab Aura’s arm.

“Come on. Time to get your payment. You’ll be paid double today! “

With that, Aura released her grip on the scissors in her pocket. She followed Alfred to the accounting department, smirking when she heard Joshua and Luna’s retreating footsteps behind her.

As soon as she left Lynch Mansion, Aura used the two thousand dollars which she received payment for to buy some gasoline and headed straight to Blue Bay Villa.

Inside Blue Bay Villa.

Nigel was clutching his laptop, staring intently at the security footage on the screen.

However, even after looking at all the surveillance tapes of the area where Aura’s clinic was located, he could not find a single trace of where Aura had gone after leaving the clinic.

Therefore, there could only be two possibilities: the first was that Aura had left the clinic much earlier than this and that the surveillance camera had been tampered with.

The second was that she was still inside the clinic.

Nigel let out a sigh. He hoped that the second possibility was the correct one. If that was the case... His father would be able to get home early tonight.

After all, Luna was not the only one who had been exhausted recently. Joshua, too, was dog-tired. Not only did he have to mourn the death of his only family, but he still had to take care of other affairs in Lynch Group and Lynch Mansion. Even though Joshua never complained about this, Nigel still knew that he must have been exhausted.

Meanwhile, on the sofa next to him, Nellie was peeling an orange while watching television.

She split the orange into three parts and placed it on a plate.

“One for Nigel, one for me. “One for Neil, one for me. “One for Mommy, one for me. “And the last slice is for me...”

Neil, sitting in his wheelchair close by, watched his sister in amusement as his lips curved into a smile at the sight.

Nellie was indeed the one who had resembled Daddy the most among the three of them.

She was just as intelligent as Joshua.

Luna returned home just as the three of them were playing.

As soon as she entered the door, Luna hid the tired expression on her face and smiled at the three children in the living room. “Why haven't you gone to bed yet?”

Nellie pouted and proffered the plate of orange slices to her. “We've been waiting for you to come home.

“I was worried sick yesterday, but Daddy didn't let me go with Aunty Bonnie to visit you in jail, so I didn't want to sleep until you came home today! “

Luna took the plate from Nellie and was about to praise her when all of a sudden, Neil wheeled himself over and took the plate from her. “Get some rest.

Don't eat anything before you go to sleep. Otherwise, you'll be complaining about gaining weight soon."

Luna let out a sigh when she saw how considerate Neil was. She reached out a hand to gently stroke Neil's cheek and said, "All right then, thanks! "

Nellie pursed her lips slightly. "I can't believe how nagging you are, even though you lost your memories."

Neil furrowed his brows. "Did I used to nag like this all the time?"

"Of course! " Nellie placed her hands on her hips and added, "Mommy said that she'd ask

Daddy to help you regain your memories again as soon as he's done dealing with everything.

That way, you'll find out just how much of a nag you were! "

Neil's smile froze on his face. "It's not like...nagging is a bad thing."

"That's right. I love it when you nag me like this." Luna pinched Neil's nose lovingly.

She had wanted to spend some time with the children in the living room for a while longer, but she felt too exhausted for that.

Luna felt waves of sleepiness overcoming her body, so she instructed them to sleep early before turning to head upstairs.

When she heard the sound of the bedroom door closing, Nellie turned down the television volume in the living room.

She had been feeling a little sleepy as well, but after a while, she suddenly caught a whiff of something strange.

Thinking that there was something wrong with her nose, Nellie lifted her head to continue watching television.

"A female corpse was discovered in the woods on the outskirts of the city. The corpse was wearing clothes soaked in dirty water and died due to a knife injury in the chest. The murder weapon was believed to be a pair of hedge trimming scissors.

“All of her cash and identity was stolen, but thankfully, some of the residents nearby managed to recognize her. The victim’s name was Lilian Chase, a 27-year-old lady who worked as a florist. She was last seen driving a van with the license plate AXXX6 to Lynch Mansion in Banyan City for flower delivery. However, what happened after that was unknown, and the van is now nowhere to be found.

“The police are still investigating this incident...”

Nellie let out a yawn and glanced at Neil, who was staring out the window. “Neil, look: The lady on the news was killed today, and she was on her way to send flowers to Granny.”

Neil let out a murmur in reply and fixed his gaze on the van in their backyard, which should not have been here at this hour. “Hey, Nellie, do you remember the license plate of the female florist on the news?”

Nellie lifted her head to glance at the television screen. “It’s AXXX6. Why? What’s wrong?”

Neil immediately furrowed his brows. “Nigel, Nellie, look. The van downstairs right now seems to be the exact one that belongs to the dead florist.”
