Pursuing My Ex-Wife Isn't Easy chapter 1481

Christopher's entire body stiffened when he heard this.

He furrowed his brows, quickly took out his phone and dialed the number that he had saved in his phone as Jude's.

The phone of the man standing before him started to ring...

Christopher froze in shock. "You're Jude Smith?"

However, the man that he had met at the airport, the one who had claimed to be Jude, was not this man at all!

Having grown up in a family of prestigious doctors, Christopher had been able to differentiate even the most minute differences between various herbs since young. Therefore, it was impossible that he would misremember.

The man standing before him was not the one he had met at the airport at all!

What was going on?

Seeing the surprised expression on Christopher's face, Jude let out a sigh and closed his eyes. "We've been tricked."

The 'Christopher' he had met with was not the real Christopher at all.

The 'Jude' that Christopher had met was not the real Jude, either.

Because of this, Jude had given the backpack that contained the Clinging Root to a fake Christopher, and the real Christopher had received fake herbs from a fake Jude.

Everything made sense.

"It seems like the man who impersonated Christopher is someone from the Quinn family." Suddenly, a frail man's voice rang out from the door.

Christopher and Jude turned around at the same time.

Joshua, dressed in a pair of gray pajamas, was leaning against the doorframe behind them, his face as pale as the wall next to him. "When I was on the plane...I guessed that something like this had happened as soon as I heard it, but..."

Joshua gripped the doorframe tightly and said in a weak voice, "I never thought Malcolm would resort to such lowly tactics like this."

Christopher bit his lip and quickly helped Joshua up. "I'll go to the Landry family and tell them the truth now!"

Everyone had been under the impression that Joshua had humiliated both him and the Landry family all this while, thinking that Malcolm was their savior!

Therefore, Christopher had to reveal the truth and win back justice for Joshua!

With that, he turned and was about to leave when Joshua stopped him. "I think it's best not to say anything before we have concrete evidence."

Joshua clutched his chest and let out a few violent coughs, then said in a weak voice, "They must've destroyed all the security footage at the airport, but we can still find other evidence."

"If you can't provide evidence to prove that Malcolm tricked both you and Jude...the Landry family will never believe you based on your claims."

Upon hearing this, Christopher and Jude exchanged a look and gave up on their plan to travel to the Landry Mansion to tell them the truth.

"I'm sorry," Christopher said, sighing, as he pressed Joshua down onto his bed and removed the needle from his body. "I shouldn't have doubted you. When I received the dried grass at the airport...I was so angry that I —"

Joshua closed his eyes and leaned against the bed frame. "Did Jim move out of the house?"

"Yes." Christopher nodded. "He was afraid that Heather would bully Luna, so he and Harvey moved back to Landry Mansion to keep an eye on things."

"He had bought this chalet just for June and me to live in, so we're still going to be living here. Don't worry about that."

"Alright." Joshua closed his eyes and said in a barely audible voice, "You should switch out the guards and servants working here."

"I have a friend named Luke Jones who has gained some power here in Merchant City. Tell Lucas how many people you want, and he'll contact Luke to appoint some reliable men to work for you."

Christopher froze for a moment, then suddenly understood what Joshua was talking about.

Christopher could not help lamenting, "You're such a detail-oriented person, Mr. Lynch."

It was clear that a spy from the Quinn family was working for him. Otherwise, how else could Malcolm have known about the Clinging Root and that Jude would be bringing it over?

Joshua opened his eyes wearily and glanced at Jude. " Help me take care of Nigel, Neil, and Nellie. I have to get some rest now..."

With that, he closed his eyes and passed out.

Christopher let out a sigh as he wiped the sweat from Joshua's forehead.

This man...had extraordinary determination.

No ordinary person could wake up in seven days after falling off a cliff, much less fly to another country to attend a party. Not only that, but no ordinary person would be able to settle everything before passing out.

This determined man would one day become Jim's biggest enemy in the business market.

As soon as this thought crossed Christopher's mind, he could not help feeling worried for Jim.

Landry Mansion.

Luna vomited her guts out as she leaned against the toilet bowl.

The unborn baby in her belly was probably protesting after witnessing what she had done to Joshua and their three children.

Ever since she came back from the party, Luna's morning sickness was triggered, and she could not stop vomiting.

She held onto the toilet bowl and puked out everything in her stomach.

"Luna?" Suddenly, a gentle, frail woman's voice rang out from outside the door.

"You haven't slept, have you?" Rosalyn gently knocked on Luna's door, with Heather helping her. Even though she had been at home the entire day, she heard that something terrible had happened at the venue of the party.

Because of this, she was worried about Luna and enquired Heather about this.

After Heather's exaggeration, Rosalyn misunderstood and thought that Luna and Charles had gotten into an unresolvable fight, so she quickly made her way over and knocked on Luna's door to check.

Luna was puking so hard in the bathroom that tears were starting to fall.

She quickly freshened up and washed her face before opening her door.

"Mother, what are you doing up so late?" Rosalyn walked slowly into Luna's room with Heather's help. "I heard that you and your father got into a fight, so how can I sleep well knowing this?"

Rosalyn let out a sigh and grabbed hold of Luna's hand. "Please don't think your father is cruel for forcing you to cut ties with Joshua.

"He used to love the Lynch family. Granny Lynch had, at one point, been the person that he respected the most.

"However...after Lucy's death, the Lynch family didn't listen to your father's explanation at all and instead insisted on taking an eye for an eye. They killed your father's only brother, and because of this, your father started to hate their guts. You..."

Before Rosalyn could even finish, Luna suddenly felt her stomach turn. She quickly covered her mouth, stormed into the bathroom, and started vomiting again.

Rosalyn immediately grew concerned. "Luna, you—"

"I think Luna might be sick." Heather narrowed her eyes. "Why don't I summon a doctor, Mother?"

Rosalyn quickly nodded and replied, "Please go quick."

Heather nodded and, just as she turned and was about to leave, she glanced into the room. When she caught sight of how Luna looked while she was vomiting in the bathroom, she could not help sneering.

After coming out of Luna's room, Heather gracefully picked up her phone and dialed a number.

"Congratulations, Malcolm, you're going to be a dad."

The Landry family had finally found out about Luna's pregnancy.

In the middle of the night, all of the members of the Landry family sat down for an emergency meeting.

Luna clutched the pillow that the doctor had given her to alleviate her nausea as she sat quietly in a corner, watching Charles and Jim fight.

"This baby belongs to Joshua Lynch, so we can't keep it!" Charles remembered the way Joshua had knelt with the three children at the entrance of the hall, begging Luna to return to his side.

Joshua clearly wanted to use the children to force her to return.

Luna was Charles and Rosalyn's daughter, and judging from how important Rosalyn's children mattered to her, Charles knew that Luna would be the same!

Just because Luna could abandon the three children and leave Joshua did not mean that she would do the same to the fourth.

As soon as he thought of this, Charles could not help narrowing his eyes and said, "Where's the doctor? Perform an abortion surgery right now!"

Heather furrowed his brows as she poured Rosalyn a cup of tea. "Father, the baby in Luna's womb is less than two months old. Why would you want a doctor to perform surgery when it can be settled with a pill?"

With that, she took out a small pill from her pocket and placed it on the table, a small smile playing on her lips. "If this child has to be terminated, then this pill will do the trick."

Jim snickered and shielded Luna behind his body as he swept his cold gaze over Heather's face. "Why would you have something like this, Heather? Didn't you say you're a virgin?"

With that, Jim glanced at the pill, which had clearly been torn off a strip of identical pills, and said disdainfully, "Why is there only one? Where are the rest?"

Heather's expression darkened when she heard this. She bit her lip as tears rimmed her eyes. "What on earth are you talking about, Jim? This pill doesn't belong to me... I asked for it from the doctor when he left."

With that, she turned and leaned her head against Rosalyn's shoulder pitifully. "Mother, look at what he said; Jim's always saying things like this to make fun of me."

Rosalyn let out a sigh and gently stroked Heather's hair. "It's not the first time knowing how much your brother likes cracking jokes like this."

With that, she turned to glance at Jim and said, "Heather doesn't like it, so you shouldn't make jokes like this in the future anymore."

Luna lifted her head to stare at Rosalyn's hand, still stroking Heather's head, but did not say anything.

Rosalyn felt Luna staring at her, and her hand stiffened in response. She turned around, and upon discovering that Luna was looking at her, silently shifted her body and removed Heather's head from her shoulder.

"How old are you? Don't act like a child." Heather saw Rosalyn's reaction in response to Luna's watching and pursed her lips in an attempt to coax Rosalyn while narrowing her eyes slightly.

Luna had just returned to the Landry family today, yet Rosalyn was already losing affection toward her.

If Luna stayed any longer...

She would eventually lose affection from all members of the family!

"I don't care where the pill came from; Luna needs this right now!" Charles narrowed his eyes, picked up the pill, and placed it in front of Luna. "Luna, listen to me and swallow it.

"Since you've already returned to our side, you can't keep this child anymore because it belongs to Joshua."

Jim furrowed his brows and glared at Charles. "Why should she get rid of this child? As long as she wants, she should be able to keep it! This is her right!"

Charles grew even more outraged upon hearing this. "I'm not taking away her right to have children. It's just that this child belongs to Joshua, so she can't keep this child to reduce any interaction between her and Joshua!

"It's already enough that a daughter of the Landry family has borne three children for the Lynch family.

I won't allow her to give birth to a fourth!" Jim could not help sneering when he heard this.

"Since a daughter of the Landry family cannot bear children for the Lynch family, then what about me, a child of both? Why didn't you kill me from the beginning, Father?"

The entire room fell into silence upon hearing this.

Charles glared at Jim and snapped, "What nonsense are you saying? You're becoming more and more outrageous every day! You didn't inherit any of your mother's gentleness and humility at all! "

Jim sneered. "You're right. I didn't inherit any of my mother's strengths at all, and instead, I inherited all of your worst traits. You should've seen this coming, Mr. Landry. If so, why didn't you kill me from the beginning?"

"You— " Charles was so enraged that his blood pressure soared, and he slumped down in a chair, his entire face scarlet with fury. "You disrespectful thing! Disrespectful!"

Rosalyn could not bear to see Charles like this, so she let out a sigh and glanced at Jim. "Jim, why do you have to say such provocative things like this? Your father didn't mean anything bad at all. The baby in Luna's belly..."

She lowered her head and said, "It's best to get rid of it. Otherwise, if it gets brought into this world, it'd be subjected to the same fate as you."

Jim froze for a moment, then immediately understood what Rosalyn was talking about. He furrowed his brows and let out a scoff, then plopped onto the sofa without another word.

A split second later, Charles glanced at the untouched pill in front of Luna and said, "It's time to make a choice, Luna."

Luna lifted her head and glanced at Charles coldly, then at the pill in front of her. She picked it up and said, sneering, "Are you asking me to kill my baby— my baby that survived against all odds—with a pill? I refuse to do so."

With that, she tossed the pill into the trash can.

Then, Luna stood up and said, "I got pregnant with this child before I even returned to the Landry family, so none of you have the right to decide what to do with my child.

"Or I guess I should say, even I, the baby's mother, have no right to dictate this child's survival. The only person who can be the judge of that would be itself.

"If you think this baby's existence is a humiliation to the Landry family's reputation, then you can kick me out, Mr. Landry. Even if Joshua doesn't want me anymore, I don't have to return to your side anyway."

With that, she turned to glance at a pale-faced Rosalyn as well as Heather, who was standing next to her. "I guess that since you already have your eldest daughter, you don't need your second one at all."

Rosalyn's eyes widened when she heard this. She quickly stepped away from Heather, putting a small distance between them, and said anxiously, "Luna, you... How can you say something like that?"

Luna did not reply and instead strode upstairs.

As soon as she entered her room, however, one of the servants came to inform the rest of the family in the living room, "Master Landry, Master Quinn has arrived."

"Why would he come at a time like this?"

"He..." the servant fell silent for a moment, then replied, "He said that since Ms. Luna is pregnant with his child, he's come to admit his wrongdoing."
