While Luna and Gwen walked hand-in-hand as they made their way toward the garden, Joshua and Luke sat on the couch and watched their figure gradually disappear. Both men could not fight off the smile that crept to their faces.

Joshua was happy that Luna could finally laugh heartily. Although she wanted to laugh, she pretended to be angry because of her ego. Since Gwen was here, this silly woman could finally let go of her burden and expressed her emotions freely.

What made Luke happy was seeing Gwen happy with her friend. He did not have much time left, and there was nothing happier than seeing Gwen happy with the time he had left.

When the two women finally disappeared out of their sight, Joshua finally regained his senses and looked at Luke indifferently. "You made up your mind after all?"

Luke was still looking in the direction Gwen left. He was lost in his thoughts before Joshua asked him the question. He lifted his eyes and looked back at Joshua. "Haven't I said it enough? I've already made up my mind. You're the one hesitating and worrying about me." Joshua squinted and looked at Luke solemnly. "I'm really worried about you, Luke. There is a better way to solve this. This is a big world, and it's possible that another person,"

"Another person matches with Gwen, am I right?" Luke interrupted Joshua coldly. Although he was smiling, he did not look like he was happy. "Don't forget. How long have you waited to get a compatible bone marrow for Nigel? Luna had tried hard for two years, and in the end, she chose to come back to you so she can have another baby to save Nigel.

"You did find a compatible bone marrow for Nigel, but I also heard about the incident with Fiona. If bone marrow is that easy to find, then what made you decide to leave Luna, the beloved woman of your life, and accompany Fiona?"

Joshua fell silent. He lowered his head and squeezed his brows tightly together. "That's different."

"What's different about it?" Luke curled up his lip and sipped at his coffee before adding, sounding remote, "Gwen can't wait any longer. It's harder to find a second person who matches with her than winning the lottery. I'm her partner, and I'm a match for her. Don't you think God has arranged everything like this? A choice God had bestowed upon me?"

He put the coffee back onto the coffee table. "I'm lucky that I'm the one who could donate my heart to Gwen. If it was another person, then nothing I do could ever repay in exchange for Gwen's heart.

“Now, it’s me who can transplant my heart to Gwen; no one else but me. I don’t care about my life. I just want Gwen to live a happy life. My life doesn’t matter. As long as she survives, I don’t care if she finds another man while living with my heart.”

Joshua sighed and looked at how determined Luke was. In the end, he stayed quiet.

He smiled bitterly a long while later. “Luke, have you ever thought about this? If you die for Gwen, she’ll never ever be happy for the rest of her life.”

Pursuing My Ex-Wife Isn’t Easy chapter 2328

“That’s not going to happen.” Luke squinted as he stared at Joshua. “Do you think I’ll let her know that my heart is in her body?”

He shook his head. “I won’t let her know, and she won’t find out about it-never, ever in her life. She’ll only know me as the man who hurt her repeatedly, rendered a prisoner after a fight with another gang, and finally as the man who tore her into pieces.

“Maybe she’ll remember me in the future and pay respect to me at my grave, but I’ll never allow her to feel guilty and unhappy because of me.”

Luke then sighed and switched to a more comfortable position on the couch. “I’ve thought it out, and everything is planned. All I want is for you and Luna to take care of Gwen once I’m gone. Also, maybe find a man who’ll treat her well. I can’t bear to see her be alone.”

He lowered his head and started to meddle with the fruits on the fruit platter while languidly commenting, “She’s too fragile. If there’s no one there to help her, she can never handle things on her own. You and Luna can’t possibly accompany her for the rest of her life...so I’m entrusting you the responsibility of finding her ‘Mr. Right

Joshua furrowed his eyebrows. “I won’t do that. If Gwen meets someone she likes, I might help her, but I’ll never take the initiative to match her with another man.”

“Why?” Luke looked up at Joshua curiously.

Joshua smiled bitterly. “Because I’m your best friend, and you’ll always be, even in death. How could I possibly help set up the girl you adore with another man?”

Luke paused and looked at Joshua meaningfully. "You're my good brother."

In the end, he shut his eyes and leaned on the sofa lazily. "I'd prefer it if you can, though. I don't want to see her lonely."

Just like what he was doing at this moment.

He had it all planned out. He wanted to kick Gwen out of the house and let her leave him; the further, the better. However, he could not bear to do it when he saw Gwen on her own. He cared too much about her to the extent that he could not allow Gwen to be alone.

It would be perfect if there was a way that could let Gwen easily forget about him and continue on to live a happy life without him.

Out of the blue, he thought of Jim.

If the medicine that Jim consumed was still available, this would be the most ideal solution. Gwen could forget everything and live a happy life as Luke wanted.

Just as Luke closed his eyes and thought of where to get such medicine, his phone rang. It was the doctor who called him yesterday. "Mr. Jones..."

Luke frowned as he answered the call. "Didn't I warn you not to call me without my permission? Are you turning a deaf ear to my words?"

The doctor got so scared that he nearly dropped the phone. "But..."

Pursuing My Ex-Wife Isn't Easy chapter 2329

"B-But, Mr. Jones..." The doctor spoke timidly, "It wasn't my intention to bother you, but there's a situation that I think I must report to you immediately."

Luke squeezed his brows even harder as he hissed, "Spill! "His subconscious told him to look in the direction of the garden to check on Gwen.

Through the huge glass window, he saw Gwen sitting with her back facing him in the garden. She was talking with Luna, and they seemed to be talking about something funny because she was laughing so hard that her body trembled.

Once he made sure that Gwen was unaware of this phone call, he sighed in relief, saying, "Quick. Get to it." The doctor on the other side of the phone was nearly scared to death. "Mr. Jones... The thing is that we've just received Ms. Larson's medical report. One of the indicators is too high..." Luke's brows pressed together. "One of the indicators is too high? Didn't I already tell you to make sure her body is in a good condition? It's less than a month before the transplant, and you're telling me this now?" The doctor on the other end of the call could feel Luke's ruthless voice digging into him, and this scared him even more. Due to this fear, however, the doctor became a stuttering mess, which irked Luke even more.

Seeing that a normal conversation nearly turned into an interrogation, Joshua frowned and took away the phone from Luke.

"Hello, doctor. I'm Joshua. Luke isn't himself now, so you can tell me everything."

Joshua quickly glanced in Luna and Gwen's direction.

"What's wrong with Gwen's indicator? Calm down, and take your time to say it." Unlike Luke, Joshua's tone was deep and elegant. The doctor felt like the summer sun was shining on him, that the spring breeze gently passed him. He was finally able to relax and exhale deeply. "Alright, Mr. Lynch. The thing is that I've been responsible for the project to transplant Mr. Jones' heart to Ms. Larson. I've also made arrangements to monitor their body condition. "I just didn't expect that the doctor whom I arranged to overwatch her condition would be hiding a secret from me. She only told me the truth today when I told her to get ready for the heart transplant surgery." The doctor inhaled deeply. "Anyway, it's not something we can't solve, but we needed Mr. Jones to discuss it with Ms. Larson before solving it."

The doctor's words raised Joshua's suspicion, and he could almost tell what it was about. "What's the problem?"

The doctor smiled bitterly. "The thing is that Ms. Larson knew about the problem with her body before us. She had bribed the doctor who had been monitoring her body condition to keep it a secret from me and Mr. Jones.

"Ms. Larson... is pregnant."

The doctor sighed. "It's only been less than a month, though, so the abortion procedure is very easy. A pill is all it needs.

"Nonetheless, she had suffered a severe injury before, and Mr. Jones is well aware of this issue. He and Ms. Larson had a big fight about her fertility issue. If they decide to have an abortion, Ms. Larson will have difficulty getting pregnant again in the future.” Finally, the doctor said with a sigh, “Thus, I need to know if Mr. Jones wants to keep this baby.”

Pursuing My Ex-Wife Isn't Easy chapter 2330

This reveal stunned Joshua. He stiffly turned his head to look at Luke.

Luke was in a bad mood because of the doctor. He sat on the couch, drinking his coffee and not bothering to hear what Joshua and the doctor were talking about. To him, the doctor was an irresponsible person who liked to exaggerate everything, and he refused to waste time on such a person.

Joshua squeezed his eyebrows tightly as he looked at Luke. With the phone in hand, he took a few steps backward unconsciously and pressed the phone closer to his ear, afraid Luke might overhear what the doctor said.” Will it affect the result if she doesn't go through with terminating the child's life?”

The ambiguous question had the doctor puzzled. It took him some time to realize that Joshua was asking if the heart transplant surgery would be affected if Gwen decided to keep the baby.

“Yes, it'll affect it greatly.” The doctor took a deep breath. “Even though Ms. Larson is still very early in her pregnancy term, once she's carrying the baby in her womb, her body condition will change easily. The condition of her heart and vomiting blood will deteriorate. If she keeps the baby, the baby might not make it during the transplant, and Ms. Larson could suffer from a hemorrhage, too.” The doctor continued, “I know this is a difficult decision to make, but they have to do it. Ms. Larson's body can't afford to have this baby now.”

The doctor eventually lamented, “Ms. Larson has had such a difficult life. After her miscarriage, she was tormented to find out her chances of getting pregnant is very low. Who knew that she'd be diagnosed with this illness and be pregnant before the transplant! “But for the sake of her body, she must not keep the baby Joshua tightened his grip on the phone. “Could there be any other solutions?” He knew Luke was determined to donate his heart to Gwen, and as Luke's friend, he respected Luke's wishes and would not protest so vehemently. However... If their baby could live to see the world, then it would be a gift that Luke left behind when he was no longer with them, and Gwen would also be less sad. He and Luna could help Gwen to take care of the baby and reminisce about Luke together, too.

Having that thought in his mind, Joshua took a deep breath. "Try harder to think."

"It's impossible, Mr. Lynch." The doctor sighed. "Mr.

Jones can give up the heart transplant and choose the conservative treatment approach for Ms. Larson. However, the treatment comes with great risk. Ms. Larson will need to be in the hospital every day during her pregnancy, and she has to stay in bed all the time. By doing so, we'll be able to save her if her heart stops working, or when her heart fails to cope with her body, within the best time frame. So..."

Joshua shut his eyes for a while before looking at Luke. "I understand," he replied hoarsely. "I'll talk to him."

Joshua then hung up the phone. "What did he say?" Luke rolled his eyes when he saw Joshua finish talking to the doctor. He snatched his phone and put it aside before asking casually, "This doctor has a penchant for disrupting my day when I'm at an inconvenience. It's worse that he likes to exaggerate, too."
