Chapter 2675

He was here to help Thomas fight for his inheritance and retrieve evidence of his mother's murder.

However, because of Luna, he wasted much of his precious time.

Even though they had been married for years, Luna still could not help feeling guilty for this.

Joshua chuckled upon hearing this. "It's not trouble at all when it comes to you."

Even after their many years of marriage—they already had four kids together, for God's sake – Luna still could not help blushing every time Joshua said something sweet to her like this.

The two of them chatted for a little while longer before finally hanging up the phone.

The moment Luna got off the call with Joshua, she also received a message from Lucas about the flight details

Lucas had been working for Joshua for so many years that he had picked up some of Joshua's thoughtfulness.

He had deliberately booked a flight in the afternoon that allowed Luna and Gwen sufficient time to get ready and have lunch before departing. The next morning, Luna woke up at the crack of dawn. She thought she was an early riser, but to her surprise, the moment she stepped out of her room, she caught sight of Gwen sitting at the dining table, beaming, having finished preparing their breakfast.

When she saw Luna coming out of her room, Gwen smiled, stood up, and said softly, "It's been a while since I last cooked for you."

After Luna gave birth to her second daughter, Gwen had spent an entire month taking care of Luna, and during that time, Luna was constantly blessed with Gwen's cooking.

This was already months ago.

"I haven't cooked in a while now, and I'm not sure whether I've lost my touch. I hope you don't mind," Gwen said as she ladled some food onto a plate for Luna.

Luna's chest tightened when she saw the forced smile on Gwen's face.

She knew that Gwen was just putting on a solid front so she would not worry. After all, if the same thing were to happen to her, she would not want Gwen to worry, either.

However, Luna did not expose Gwen. Instead, she plopped down in a chair, picked up her utensils, and began eating as she told Gwen of the flight tickets Lucas had booked for them. Gwen let out a sigh of relief. "That's great. I...can finally go home to see Luke." She curled her lips into a bitter smile. "I can't believe that Luke's already been gone for so long now...yet I have never once visited his grave..." With that, she lowered her head to stop the tears from falling, but Luna could still hear her voice growing more and more choked. "I don't know how well he's doing up there and whether he's still mad at me..."

Chapter 36 "S

Luna opened her mouth, intending to say something comforting, but no words seemed to come out. After breakfast, Luna and Gwen began to pack their bags. They did not bring much at all, and most of it were just souvenirs from Saigen City for their families.

After lunch, the two of them traveled to the airport.

Sitting in the airport departure lounge, a wave of sadness crept into Gwen's heart as she watched the people brush past. She was the one who had wanted to cut this trip short, but for some reason, just as they were about to leave, she could not help feeling that she still had unfinished business here...

However, no matter how hard she tried, she could not seem to recall what it was.

At the same time, a black Masevati pulled up at the airport entrance.

Steven, who was wearing a black suit, got out of the car and barked into the phone as he strode into the airport, "Are you sure that Dr. Liddell is arriving in half an hour?"

Pursuing My Ex-Wife Isn't Easy chapter 2676

Chapter 2676 "Yes, Sir," replied Steven Hughes' assistant on the other end of the line, nodding. "Dr. Liddell is very interested in your case after she studied your case. She's flying over here this morning from Merchant City. Based on the duration of the flight, she should arrive half an hour later."

After that, the assistant reminded Steven again, "Sir, are you sure you won't be telling Ms. Miller about this? Her family and she had been responsible for your health when you were unconscious. They even bought several medical institutions because of you... I think it's not that nice if you don't tell them that you're looking for a doctor." Steven furrowed his brow and scoffed, "Are you Kate's assistant, or mine?"

The assistant paused and did not answer the question.

"Don't you dare tell Kate or her family about this. I'll make sure you regret it if you do!" Steven hung up the phone and walked to the main hall of the airport.

Lately, Steven felt like he was unhinged, having suffered severe headaches over time as if his head was about to be blown off. During his sleep, he would have some outrageous dreams. Sometimes, he dreamed of being a gang leader, ordering his subordinates as he smoked. Sometimes, he was a patient who laid in bed as he waited for someone to take away his heart.

Most of the time, he dreamed that a woman would be screaming his name hysterically in the darkness...but she did not call out his name. He could not remember what the name was. Every time, however, he would wake up with a head full of sweat when he heard the sadness and desperation of that woman in his dream. He had told Kate about his nightmares before, but she would tell him that it meant nothing. The nightmares were probably due to his tense mental and anxiety, and all he needed was to take some sedatives to reduce his tension and anxiety.

Thus, he took many, as Kate had suggested, but these nightmares still came to haunt him in his sleep. He also went to different hospitals seeking help from many psychologists, but none of them were able to explain his condition.

Over time, he felt like something must have happened while he was in his coma. Although it was normal to have nightmares, it was far too odd to have repetitive ones.

Afterward, a doctor recommended Dr. Liddell to him. The doctor said Dr. Liddell was one of the professionals in studying patients in the vegetative stage. Thus, he tried to send his medical profile to Dr. Liddell last night.

Everyone had been telling him it was difficult to make an appointment with Dr. Liddell as she was a busy person, but who would have thought she would contact Steven's assistant personally after viewing his information and medical profile? She said she was interested in his case and requested to fly over to diagnose his condition. Steven took a deep breath and entered the airport. He genuinely hoped Dr. Liddell could give him the answers he wanted.

He wanted to know what had happened to him during the five years he was practically unconscious.

Why was he experiencing random headaches? Why did he have the same nightmare over and over again? Why did he have no feelings for his fiancée but kept on reminiscing about a woman he did not know?

After he entered the main hall of the airport, he saw a woman sitting on her baggage while waiting to pass the security checkpoint from far away. Unlike those people rushing around her, she looked pale and emaciated. She was spacing out as she looked at the crowd around her. Her eyes looked dull as if there was no soul in her body.

Steven trembled when he saw her. 'Is she...leaving already?' He remembered she arrived in Saigen City just a few days ago. Why was she leaving so soon?

A voice appeared in his mind, telling him to approach her and bid her farewell. As such, he followed the instruction from the voice in his brain and headed toward the woman.

Pursuing My Ex-Wife Isn't Easy chapter 2677

Chapter 2677 However, Steven stopped after taking a few steps. They did not know each other and were strangers to each other. Even when he thought he had crossed paths several times with her, there was a high possibility she did not notice him at all. He thought from her perspective and realized it was quite absurd for him to walk up to her and bid her goodbye

Suddenly, his phone rang. It was a call from Kate.

He furrowed his brow as he stared at the caller's name on his screen before he made his way to the washroom at the side. The main hall of the airport was too noisy, and he was afraid Kate would suspect something.

After Steven walked away, Gwen finally noticed him. "That person looks like Luke. His height, body, and even the way he walked," she thought.

Back in the past, she would have ran right up when she saw someone looking similar to Luke, but at this moment...she finally accepted the fact that he was no longer in this world. She also made it clear that no matter how similar Luke and the other person were, they would never be the man she loved.

She only paid attention to Luke in the past, so she did not know there were so many people who looked similar to him in this world—namely Kate's boyfriend and the man she just saw. She already saw two people looking like him in this small city.

Her lips curled into a small smile as she looked at Luna, who was on her phone, far away from her.

Originally, Luna was queueing up at the counter to proceed with the check-in procedure with Gwen. When it was their turn, Luna's phone rang! It was Theo. They had not talked for a long time.

"Why are you calling me all of a sudden?" Luna answered the call while checking in at the counter. "How are you and Rachel doing?"

She remembered the last time she contacted Theo was because of Rachel.

Theo paused for a while before talking as he heard Luna mention Rachel's name.
"Luna, your family told me you are in Saigen City."

Luna nodded. "Yes, I'm in Saigen City now."

"Rachel, she..." Theo paused. "She is also flying there now. I think she is going to land half an hour later."

Luna furrowed her brow and looked at her boarding ticket. Her flight was less than an hour from now. Half an hour later, she would be on the plane waiting for the plane to take off.

"Why is she coming to Saigen City?" she furrowed her brow and talked while looking for Gwen.

"She said she received a very interesting medical record from a patient, so she decided to go and visit in person."

Theo fell into momentary silence before he added, "I think it's better that you know about this."

He took a deep breath and said with a serious tone. "I saw the information of that patient. His name is Steven Hughes, but... I saw his photo. He is Luke. He looks identical to him. Have you seen...this person while you are there?"

The hand Luna used to hold her phone trembled. 'Steven Hughes? Isn't he Kate's fiance?'

Pursuing My Ex-Wife Isn't Easy chapter 2678

Chapter 2678 "I didn't know about this before. I've been looking for Rachel, and because Caleb couldn't stand me, he told me Rachel is on her way to Saigen City because she found an interesting case. He even showed me the patient detail Rachel received in her email. I opened it and took a look.

"That's...when I saw Luke's photo," explained Theo.

He paused for a while before asking, "So, are you and Gwen still in Saigen City?"

Luna bit her lip. She felt like something had hit her heart while her brain was in a mess. She turned and stared at Gwen, who was a safe distance from her.

Gwen was still sitting on the luggage with a dumbfounded look, her gaze wandering aimlessly around the airport

It broke Luna's heart to see how dull Gwen looked. She bit her lip and said with a small voice, "Theo, are you sure? You know you shouldn't joke about this."

Luna knew Steven Hughes was Kate's fiance. The doctors from the Miller family's medical organization were the ones who did Luke's surgery. If Steven and he looked the same...

Luna's hands trembled. She did not know what would transpire if Gwen found out.

"Luna, when did I ever make jokes with you?" Theo took a deep breath on the other side. "I'm in the airport now. I'm going to fly over to Saigen City to look for Rachel, as well as you and Gwen. If you don't believe me, I can send you Steven Hughes' information now!" After that, he hung up the phone. Just as the phone was cut off, there was a notification alert sound coming from Luna's phone.

She furrowed her brow and looked at her phone, noticing it was an email from Theo.

She furrowed her brow and opened the email. The first thing she saw..was Steven Hughes' photo.

Her blood boiled when she saw his photo. She bit her lip and stared at the photo, her heart beating rapidly as she did.

Theo was right; Steven Hughes did look identical to Luke! Even the scar on his head was the same. He got the scar when he was saving Luna in Sea City.

Who else could that man be if he was not Luke?

Yes, she believed there were lookalikes in the world, but she did not believe people who looked alike could have the same scar on their faces too!

She bit her lip and looked at Gwen before she continued to read the information in the email.

The email was sent by Steven to Rachel. He complained and explained how he was suffering from nightmares. The nightmares he had were identical, but the content of the nightmare was not what he had experienced before. In addition, he suffered from severe headaches so painful that he felt like his head could explode.

The email went on with how he had consulted many doctors but none could explain to him why he was experiencing those symptoms. Thus, he sought help from Rachel who was an expert in studying patients who were once in a vegetative state. He hoped to get an answer from her.

Luna felt like her heart was about to hop out from her chest as she read the email.

Steven's fiancée, Kate was from a family who specialized in medical research and study.

The reason why Luke contacted the Miller family was that he knew they owned the best medical organizations with the best skills and resources. He was hoping they could save Gwen.

Why, then, did Steven not seek help from the Miller family after he suffered such symptoms? Why did he seek consults elsewhere? Why did he seek help from Rachel?

There could only be two possible answers. Either Steven did not trust the Miller family...or the Miller family was unwilling to help Steven.
