

Pursuing My Ex-Wife Isn't Easy chapter 2724

Chapter 2724 Yannie was at the hospital with Luna and Rachel in the midst of comforting Gwen when she received Thomas' call.

From the moment she returned to the hotel, Gwen had been sitting in silence in front of the window, staring out at the view.

No matter what Luna and Rachel did, Gwen would stare out the window blankly as though she could not hear a single word they said until Yannie arrived. Yannie held her hand and patiently described everything that had happened—to Steven to her. This was when the familiar gleam in Gwen's eyes began to return.

She lifted her head to stare at Yannie in puzzlement. "Are you saying that Steven and Luke were possibly brothers or even twins?"

Yannie nodded. "I overheard Thomas' spy saying this. Apparently, the Hughes family had been blessed with a set of twin boys, but for some reason, the boys had been ill since birth, and one of them even almost died.

"Therefore, they sought out the help of a fortune teller who foretold that..."

Yannie paused for a moment before continuing, "He said that one of the children would curse the entire family, and this was why his brother was so ill. "Unfortunately, they were superstitious people and thus abandoned the 'cursed' child." Gwen bit her lip and could not help thinking about Luke.

As the person closest to him, Gwen knew that Luke despised talking about his childhood and family. After all, he had no family, and his upbringing had been a tragic one.

He was adopted and abandoned by families again and again, which was the reason he ended up joining a gang during his teenage years.

However, Luke probably never thought that he was the son of the Hughes family, one of the most powerful and influential families in Saigen City.

He was not an orphan whose parents had died after his birth—he had been abandoned because of superstitious beliefs!

"If Steven and Luke are truly brothers, everything will make sense," Rachel said. "Identical twins share the same genetic material, so if Luke's heart was a match for Gwen, Steven's would, too. —" guess the Hughes family had been planning this for a long time. Steven had gotten into his accident about five years ago, and they must've tried every other solution to no avail before finally considering using their abandoned son."

Gwen bit her lip as a chill went down her spine. He had been abandoned as a baby by his own parents, and even before his death, he had been tricked by his own family to 'replace' his comatose brother. A twinge of pain shot through Gwen's heart at the thought of this.

Luke.

Her beloved Luke. Why would God do this to him? Why did everyone Luke met end up abandoning, deceiving, or using him? All of a sudden, Yannie's phone rang. It was Thomas.

She glanced at the phone and excused herself from the room before answering in the hallway. "Hello?"

"Yannie," Thomas' low voice rang out. "Will you be willing to accompany me to visit my parents at noon later?"

Pursuing My Ex-Wife Isn't Easy chapter 2725

Chapter 2725 Yannie paused and instinctively glanced at the closed door. "I'm with Gwen-" "I need you, Yannie," Thomas interrupted before she could even finish her sentence. There was a hint of excitement in his tired voice as he said, "Because...this could turn out to be one of the most memorable days in my life, so I want you to witness it with me."

Yannie bit her lip and fell silent upon hearing Thomas' earnest request, then finally agreed." Alright, I'll come with you."

She agreed to go with him not because she was fine with leaving Gwen but because...

Gwen had Luna and Rachel with her, but she was the only person Thomas had. Even though he was a world-famous celebrity with good looks, wealth, and good family background, Yannie knew better than anyone just how lonely he truly was.

Ever since his mother passed and his father remarried, Thomas had always felt abandoned and spent most of his time alone.

She and Riley were the closest people he had to a family.

Thomas rarely told Yannie things like this, so after some careful contemplation, she decided to go with him.

“Alright, I’ll go pick you up at noon.” Thomas curled his lips into a smile and hung up the phone cheerily.

Yannie tucked her phone away, returned to the room, and explained what had just happened in Luna’s ear. “Luna, I... I have to go with Thomas.”

Luna was an understanding person, so when she heard this, she naturally smiled and reached out to pat Yannie’s shoulder. “Go ahead; don’t worry. With Rachel and I around, Gwen will be fine. You can go ahead and be there for Thomas in his time of need.”

Yannie murmured a response and bade Luna farewell before leaving. After coming out of the hotel, she stopped by the hospital to visit Riley.

Riley was sleeping soundly inside the specialized neonatal ward that Thomas had requested for her.

“Little Riley is getting stronger by the day,” the doctor said, smiling. “Judging by her progress, she’ll be able to play like a normal child in less than six months.”

Yannie continued watching Riley for a long time through the glass before eventually leaving.

Unbeknownst to her...

As soon as she left, the doctor removed her face mask and entered the stairwell. “Don’t worry, Mrs. Howard. Everything is going just as we planned.”

11 a.m.

Yannie arrived at the lobby of Howard Group, dressed in a dainty-looking suit. Everyone that passed by her on their way out of the building could not help sneaking glances at her.

She was stunning—even more so than Denise Hughes, the most beautiful woman in the city!

Yannie waited in the lobby for about half an hour before Howard eventually emerged, surrounded by assistants. “We’ll resume this discussion in the afternoon. I have something important to attend to now.” Then, he glanced at his personal assistant and ordered, “Send a car to pick up...”

Before he could even finish, however, he caught sight of Yannie, who was standing in the distance, grinning at him. She was standing right in a patch of sunlight that illuminated her beautiful smile and gleaming eyes. Thomas’ heart leaped into his throat.

He immediately strode towards her, leaving all the assistants behind him. "When did you arrive?"