

Pursuing My Ex-Wife Isn't Easy chapter 2911 –

Chapter 2911

“Vanessa Chance?” After entering the interrogation room, Vanessa plopped down in a chair and dialed Willow’s number as instructed by the police.

Willow was a little surprised to receive this call. “Why are you calling me all of a sudden?”

Willow knew that rich socialites like Vanessa hated mingling with lowly people like her.

“Yes, it’s me.” Vanessa paused when she sensed the shock in Willow’s voice and replied, “Do you still remember that you got in touch with me two years ago and said you’d be able to help me get my money back?”

Willow was silent for a moment, then chuckled. “Yes, I do, but didn’t you tell me you didn’t need my help?”

“Yes, but I do now,” Vanessa said, glancing at the policeman next to her.

The policeman gestured for her to continue the conversation and stall Willow as much as she could.

Luna and John were sitting to a side, growing more and more excited as they watched the police begin to trace the location of the call.

Even though they had received a paper that stated Anne would be unscathed as long as they attended the wedding that night, this did not guarantee that the kidnapper would do exactly as she had promised.

One could not be sure whether the kidnapper would harm Anne, nor could they be certain that she would indeed let Anne go as she promised.

They would have to abide by the kidnapper’s orders, but at the same time, they could not give up on trying to save Anne. This was the only solution to the problem at hand.

“But I don’t have much time to help you now.” Willow curled her lips into a smirk as she lay against the sofa lazily. “I’ll be honest with you: I received a huge business opportunity from my brother’s company, and if I succeed in carrying this job out, my brother and I will be rich for the rest of our lives. Tell me how much you’re going to offer me. If the money doesn’t attract me, I won’t help you.”

Vanessa hesitated for a moment, then turned to glance at Luna.

Luna nodded at her.

Vanessa finally let out an exhale and replied, "Well, the job offer I have for you is a huge one too. Do you know Mr. Joshua Lynch?"

Willow fell silent upon hearing this. After a long time, she replied in a low voice, "Why wouldn't I?"

The job offer she had gotten recently was pertaining to Joshua Lynch as well.

"Well, Joshua Lynch's wife, Luna, owes me a lot of money." Vanessa sighed, then continued, "About a hundred million, to be exact. She didn't have a lot of money while she was abroad and needed my help to return to Banyan City. At that time, she promised me that once she returned to Joshua's side, she'd return my money and even another hundred million as interest and for my silence."

"However, she's left Banyan City with Joshua for about a year now, and I heard that Joshua's father is getting married today, so they'll probably return for the ceremony. I had initially planned to sabotage the wedding, but I'm worried that they'll deny everything and humiliate me in front of the public instead. Can you help me with this?"

This piqued Willow's interest. "You're not lying to me, are you? Does Joshua Lynch's wife really owe you that much money?"

"We haven't even talked in such a long time, and there's nothing I want from you, so why will I lie to you?" Vanessa shot Luna a meaningful glance, then chuckled. "I don't ask for much; all I want is for Luna to return my hundred million dollars worth of money because I had stolen that money from my father's company to loan her. I don't care much about the interest-it'll be up to you whether you can get a hundred million or just ten million back from her. How does this sound?"

Willow fell silent upon hearing this.

Before she could even say anything in response, the policeman gestured at Vanessa excitedly. They successfully tracked down Willow's exact location!

Most of the readers are now reading this novels:-