Pursuing My Ex-Wife Is not Easy chapter 3028-“Oh, Ben!” “You slut!” the woman’s moans of pleasure were interspersed with Ben’s lustful growls.

Gwen wanted nothing more than to storm out of the room and strangle these two!

There was only half an hour away from Luna and Joshua’s stipulated arrival time, and yet these two were still messing around!

Why did she never notice it lasting this long, even when he was with her?

Did he take some sort of pill before this?

“The pill is working splendidly!” the woman piped up as though she sensed Gwen’s exact thought. “You’re doing so well, Ben!”

“I told you; I had this within me, I just needed the pill to help me bring out my potential!” Ben snickered gleefully.

Gwen rolled her eyes at this.

All of a sudden, her phone buzzed with a message from Luna. [Gwennie, we’re almost there. Are you ready?]

Gwen needed to learn how to respond to this. She paused, then replied, [Um, I have a situation.]

[What happened?]

[Something weird. Can you guys come a little later?]

It was one thing for Joshua and Luna to run into Ben and his new girlfriend, but another problem entirely if Ben were to tell Tyson about her return to Sea City and subsequent meetup with Joshua and Luna.

After all, all Tyson knew was that Joshua would likely try to break Andy out of imprisonment, but if Ben were to spill the beans, then Tyson’s suspicions would be confirmed, and might even transport Andy somewhere else once he got a whiff of this.

Stefan and Kurt's efforts would have been wasted if all that happened!

[Alright. It's perfect timing too. We've run into a traffic jam on the way. Take your time and text me again when you're ready. We'll head over then.]

Luna did not question what Gwen was up to and instead gladly obliged.

Gwen felt a weight lift off her shoulders when she saw this. She closed her eyes, exhaled, and continued eavesdropping on the commotion outside the door.

Ben and the woman were still engrossed in their throes of pleasure, and judging by the noise, they seemed to have moved from their original spot.

The worse part was-they seemed to heading right in her direction.

"Thud!"

The woman's back was slammed against the door as they started fooling around, right on the other side of Gwen's door.

Gwen furrowed her brows when she heard this.

Damn it!

She would kill Ben once everything was over!

All of a sudden, a car screeched to a halt right outside the house.

Alarm bells sounded in Gwen's head.

Could Joshua and Luna have arrived early?

However, Luna already promised that she would wait until Gwen was ready!

"Ben," Meanwhile, the two people on the other side of the door did not seem to notice anything and were still caught up in the heat of the moment.

Gwen bit her lip, her heart lurching into her throat as she waited to see what happened next.

"Thud-"

All of a sudden, the front door was flung open, followed by the sounds of thundering footsteps as men stormed into the house.

Ben and the woman finally stopped.

“Who are you and what do you want?” Ben’s guarded voice rang out. “This is my house! This is private property, and none of this has anything to do with you! Get out before I call the cops on you for trespassing!”

“Is that so?” a man’s cold voice rang out. “If that’s the case, why have I heard rumors of this being Gwen Larson’s house instead?”

“We received a tip that Gwen Larson is hiding right in this very house.”
