

"Mr. Warren, do you think it's incredible?" Anita asked, chuckling when she noticed the disbelief on Horace's face.

"I can feel that my wound is healing, Anita. Isn't that incredible?" Horace exclaimed.

Anita sighed when she heard his response and listened to him speak.

"Anita, the itching coming from my wound means that it's healing, right?" asked Horace.

"That's right!" Anita nodded with glee.

"Mr. Warren, if you think this is incredible, wait till you experience the five major therapies of traditional

"The five major therapies of traditional medicine?" Horace asked. "What kind of therapy did you use on me, Anita? Is it not one of the five major therapies you mentioned? I can feel my wound recovering quickly!"

Chapter 372 I Beg You To Forgive Me

"Okay!" Horace said in response to Anita and then added, "Anita, I'm not as bad as you think I am, nor am I stupid. I know the pros and cons of these things. I have a favor to ask too."

When Anita gave him a questioning look, he continued, "Could you find a way to introduce me to your family head. Who knows? He could like me and support me in this fight for the seat of the heir."

Horace chuckled after that, but didn't stop looking at Anita.

"Mr. Warren, the type of person you are will be enough to convince the family head," Anita said with a smile.

Anita hadn't known Horace for a long time, but she could tell that his philosophy of life was similar to that of the traditional medicine. So, she was sure that her family head would like Horace and would happily support him in becoming the heir of the Warren family.

Chapter 373 Think Quickly

"Ah! Please, Mr. Warren, don't kill me! I'm just a punk. I don't deserve to die by your hands!" Zeke pleaded in a trembling voice.

"Since you know that you're a punk, you deserve to be punished. If I let a punk like you go, then you will cause trouble because of your arrogance! You'd better come up with a punishment yourself, or I will have to go with the third option. At that time, don't blame me for being ruthless!"

"Ah!" Zeke cried out in fear when he heard Horace's words, fearing the kind of grave punishment he would have to face.

Chapter 374 How About I Stab Myself Twenty Times

What the fuck?

Zeke was complaining and cursing them in his heart, and even though he was unwilling, he still had to smile. However, his smile was more ghastly than his crying face.

"Thank you, Uncle Raul. If you hadn't told me, I would not have known that a minute had already passed," Zeke said respectfully.

Raul laughed scornfully. "You still have some time.

Finish thinking soon, or you will die! Don't worry, I will help you. I'll start the countdown now. You still have eight minutes and thirty seconds left. You can continue to think," Raul said.

Chapter 375 I've Been Praised

"I understand, Mr. Warren!"

Zeke broke into a cold sweat when he heard Horace's words. Trembling, he picked up the dagger from the ground and put it to his left arm.

"Mr. Warren, do I really have to stab myself?"

He did not have the courage to stab himself, and he felt like he could still plead for Horace's mercy.

Upon hearing his shameless words, Horace sneered disdainfully and said, "You can choose not to, but then I will consider it as your refusal to punish yourself! However, like I said before, if you refuse to make a choice, then I will punish you according to the third option, and you know what that is."

Chapter 376 Did You Discuss Anything With Me

"Excellent, truly excellent!" After hearing Zeke's words, Horace clapped his hands and said, "Tell me, how did you become so good?"

"Mr. Warren, I was born amazing!" Zeke replied shamelessly. "Mr. Warren, you've seen how brilliant I am. Do you have something to tell me?"

As he said this, expectation flashed through his eyes. He was obviously looking forward to getting hired as Horace's subordinate.

"Yes, actually I do have something to tell you!" Horace nodded and asked, "Are you satisfied with the punishment you chose?"

"Very satisfied!" Zeke smiled gleefully and continued, "Mr. Warren, doesn't my punishment meet your expectations?"

Chapter 377 Ten Excruciations

"Mr. Warren, there's no group in Rinas better in punishing people than the Blue Hawk. Their priority is first to protect the senior members of the family, but they are also experts when it comes to punishing and interrogating people," Raul answered.

Then he pointed at Axel before continuing, "The Blue Hawk doesn't just stop at cutting limbs. They can also perform the ten excruciations."

"Huh?"

Zeke who was in front of Raul couldn't believe his ears. Just the talk of cutting his limbs were more than scary enough. He had not even digested that yet, and this man was already talking about the ten excruciations? Zeke didn't think he could survive that type of torture.

Horace looked at Axel and asked in disbelief, "Is this true?"

Chapter 378 Potential

Horace had read the introduction to the ten excruciations, so he knew how cruel they were. Being a kind-hearted and patient person, Horace wouldn't use the ten excruciations against anyone unless the person pushed him to his limits. The only reason he said that just now was to scare Zeke and let him kill himself!

There were two reasons why Horace didn't want to let go of Zeke. The first reason was that Zeke had really dared to order his men to kill. Without Horace's flexibility, he would have been doomed today. It was obvious that Zeke didn't care about people's lives at all. Horace was convinced that Zeke must have killed a lot of people before. If he didn't kill Zeke today, Zeke would kill more people in the future.

Chapter 379 Amiable And Down To Earth

After what Horace said, Anita nodded and answered, "Yes, Mr. Warren. Traditional medicine is very broad and deep. I just learned the rudiments of it, so I don't know much about it. I can't even tell you why there is potential in the human body!"

"Don't put too much pressure on yourself to learn fast, Anita. You are still young," Horace replied in an understanding voice.

Anita was older than him, but in the traditional medicine field, she was still just a junior, a newbie even.

Everyone knew that doctors in the traditional medicine field were ranked depending on the number of years they spent practicing the medicine.

"I know that, Mr. Warren, and I'll keep it in mind," Anita said with a nod.

Chapter 380 What Is Going To Happen After The Kiss

Feeling a little worry under Laila's anxiety, Horace was moved even more and touched her head gently to reassure her.

"Hey, don't worry. I look fine, don't I?" he said with a smile and then opened his arms wide for her to have a look.

Unfortunately, he only made her worry even more as his shirt moved up due to his movement and revealed a little part of the bandage that was hidden under his clothes.

"Horace, is that bandage? Take off your shirt, I want to see for myself."

Laila had taken his words seriously when he told her to have a look, and she was thanking the stars that she did, if not, she wouldn't have seen that bandage.

"What bandage? I don't know what you are talking about!"

Horace knew he had been caught, but he still didn't want to admit it. Laila shook her head at his stubbornness and then started taking off his shirt herself.
