

Horace didn't wake up the next morning until sunlight streamed into his room. Yesterday his potential had been stimulated. Along with food, he needed sleep to restore his body's strength.

He stretched and freshened up. Then, he opened the door and went out. All the bedrooms in Horace's villa had their own bathrooms.

As soon as he stepped out of the room, Laila's voice greeted him.

"Horace, you are so lazy. You slept until ten o'clock! Do you know Donn and Professor Bates have been waiting outside for you for a long time?"

"Hey, Laila, why didn't you wake me up?" Horace asked in a gentle voice when he heard her complaint.

Chapter 382 I'll Tell You What Happened

Horace looked at Tobias, wondering why it was so difficult to spin a good lie.

Now he had a deeper understanding of traditional medicine. The culture that had been passed down for 5, 000 years was really complicated, but it was a treasure of this country.

When he saw the hesitation on Horace's face, Tobias smiled disapprovingly and asked, "Mr. Warren, are you still trying to make something up? I won't believe you, so you can stop thinking about it. Traditional medicine is not my strong point, but I have enough knowledge in it to diagnose your injury. There's no need trying to hide the truth, Mr. Warren. In fact, from what I see, the doctor that treated you is just as good as I am. Come on, Mr. Warren, just let me have a look at your wounds and see how serious they are so that I wouldn't worry anymore. That way, I could even use some medicine to help you recover faster."

Chapter 383 Shock The Whole Family

"Okay!"

Tobias and Donn nodded when they heard Horace.

"Mr. Warren, if there is nothing else in Rinas, Donn and I will return to Antawood," Tobias said.

"Ah! I just asked you to stay yesterday and you're already leaving today?" Horace asked in a stunned voice.

While Horace was questioning Tobias, Donn said, "Professor Bates, I'm not going to leave. We left Mr. Warren alone for some time yesterday, and he was almost assassinated. How can I leave? I will stay here to protect him."

"Yes, Donn. You should stay here to protect him." Tobias nodded in agreement with Donn.

Then he turned to Horace and said, "Mr. Warren, it looks like I will be leaving alone today."

Chapter 384 Okay

"In your eyes, my father is a powerful man. How could I possibly ever compare to him?" Horace sighed.

Ever since he came back to his family, people had praised and respected his father in front of him.

Among the members of the Warren family, Randall stood out and was considered a god. This made Horace a bit curious about his father.

"Ha-ha, you must be joking, Mr. Horace. Our family head once told us that..."

Before Donn could finish what he said, Horace interjected, "Donn, I know that my father said that I would one day surpass him. He also said that the faith of the family and our future success is in my hands. In all honesty, not a lot of people would have trusted me if it weren't for what my father said."

Chapter 385 I Will Hold I

Horace's heart was filled with enthusiasm, which made him sigh.

At this point, Donn turned to Tobias and said, "I feel like I have just witnessed a great promise."

"Yes, I think so too! I am really looking forward to seeing Mr. Warren come back to Antawood. When he does, the competition is going to be fierce!"

"I am sure no one would expect him to have such a talent when he is returning halfway! Anyway, let's wait and see. I believe that with Mr. Warren's ability, it won't be too long before he is able to return to Antawood!" Donn said excitedly.

Chapter 386 Everyone Will Know Who You Are

"I'll take you there!"

Just as Donn and Tobias were about to leave, Horace shouted at them.

He then ran to them and added, "Donn, Professor Bates, if you're going to leave now, let me see you off."

"Mr. Warren, you don't have to see us off. We're just going to take the plane in the hospital. Really, you don't have to!" Donn stopped Horace midway.

Once he finished speaking, Horace sighed and said, "I don't know if we'll see each other again after today. So, Donn, Professor Bates, let me see you off even if it's just to the hospital!"

"Mr. Warren, it will just make us sad if you send us off. There's no need to make this sadder!" Tobias replied.

He then turned around and looked at Horace.

Chapter 387 I Don't Think It's Possible

Horace sighed and then looked at Laila.

"Come on, Laila, it's been really long since the college entrance examination in Rinas registered a provincial top scholar. Now that there is one, how can the people in Rinas not publicize it?"

"Horace, calm down and let's see the scores first. You can't start bragging when we don't even know our scores. If anyone finds out about this, they will laugh at us," Laila said and then shook her head in amusement.

She trusted Horace, but they couldn't be certain of anything until the results proved it. They might even end up getting disappointed.

"Don't you have confidence in me, Laila?"

Horace quirked an eyebrow at her and then opened the website of the results to see the scores.

Chapter 388 This Is Unbelievable

"If this score doesn't shock people, then I don't know what will," Laila commented. "Well, Horace, why don't you read the news article and find out what they said about you? I bet they showered you with compliments!"

"Alright!"

He nodded and promptly clicked the pop-up window.

Once he opened it, he read the first sentence of the article, "The examinee this year got an even higher score than the one in the year before last. He garnered a score of eight hundred and twenty-five and won the top spot in the college entrance examination in Ylanbu Province! He will also be awarded a scholarship for his high remarks!"

Chapter 389 Do An Interview

"False praise! It's all false praise!"

Horace knew the truth about those comments as soon as he read them.

"Laila, actually, even if most of the people say that I am the only scholar appearing in the college entrance exam, it would still be of no use. After all, the results only depend on the final scores, and if someone else gets even one points more than me, he would become the top scholar! After all, he is from the minority, and he has done a lot of brave deeds. If it is true, then fifty points is not even a lot. In fact, educational institutions value morals more than anything."

Chapter 390 Don't Talk Nonsense

"Well, well, that's excellent!" Laila complimented Horace with a nod.

As his girlfriend, she would definitely praise him.

While Horace and Laila were busy enjoying themselves, a woman's coquettish voice rang out in an office in the headquarters of Ylanbu TV Station.

"This brat has really pissed me off!"

"What's wrong, Nola?" the woman beside Nola Wright asked softly.

"Humph, my bad mood is because of a young man named Horace Warren. This interview is such a wonderful opportunity, and he just refused it outright!" Nola spat out furiously.

"Humph, don't let me come face-to-face with this brat in the future, or I will... I will..."

"You will?" Nola's colleague asked with a chuckle.
