Chapter 1321

If the Pinnacle Academy was still around, this matter would have been resolved very easily.

At that moment... Lucas took off his glasses with a headache and pinched the bridge of his nose.

Corentin's execution room, Athetin.

The man had been chained up and interrogated for days. He had been horrifically beaten, but he still did not reveal a single thing.

His shirt was shredded because he had been whipped, which left the round tattoo on his arm exposed.

The tattoo looked so familiar. What else could it be if not Tianya's symbol?

Corentin glanced at it and asked, "What is your relationship with Tommy? I'll let you go if you tell me."

The man was on the brink of death but his willpower was still very strong. "He paid us to get the job done. It's...that simple."

"Do you know Lilian?" Corentin did not get angry at him for not cooperating. "Both of you have the same tattoo, which belonged to Tianya."

The man's gaze changed a little.

It was a very subtle change, but it was still picked up by Corentin.

“Thank you, my brother.” This was the first time Anne willingly addressed him this way after she grew up and returned from abroad.

Tommy paused for a moment and said in a pleasantly deep voice that sounded as if he was speaking right next to Anne’s ear, “I’ll protect you from now on, alright?”

If the situation allowed, Anne did not wish to be protected by anybody. It would be great for her to resolve her matters herself.

In fact, in all those years when she was growing up, the atmosphere in her family was not that great, and her life was filled with miseries.

Later, she relied on herself to get through every day.

However, it was after she met Anthony that she understood success would not be guaranteed even if she worked hard when she was in front of a powerful person.

She needed to be helped and protected by others to be able to safely escape to the land across the ocean and be miles away from Anthony.

She did not need to worry about sleeping in the same bed and living in a living hell being tortured by Anthony’s possessiveness every night.

“Anne.” Tommy did not hear her voice for quite a while. Rather, he heard Anne start to breathe quickly, so he knew she was not emotionally stable. “Don’t be afraid.”

“I know.” Anne had a catch in her throat. “How are things on Anthony’s end now?”

“He wreaked such havoc that the entire Luton can’t be at peace, and he is leaving no stone unturned in the search for you.”

It had been left in his car at that time.

Anthony's black eyes were deep and cold. He picked up the phone and went through the contents to see if there was anything suspicious.

Then, he saw a large volume of videos and pictures, and they were all of the triplets.

There were not so many in the past when he had taken a look at the phone.

Anthony's black eyes were as cold as a frozen lake. All these showed even more that Anne's leaving was planned.

How exactly was she able to contact Lucas when she was completely in the palm of his hand?

When she was at the apartment?

That was the only time they met. There were incoming calls from Lucas in the call history, but they were not answered.

Only Joanne had called her once, and he knew about that call.

What did Lucas say to Anne through Joanne?

If so, why did Lucas call Anne so many times after that?

"Do you...still like me?" Anne could not help but ask him.

Lucas' silence was equivalent to an answer.

"I had long told you not to offend the crazy Anthony. He will never allow me to have other men by my side..." Anne's tears were already gushing down her face.

“Am I supposed to just sit idly by when you’re in danger then? I can’t do that.” Lucas’ voice was slightly deeper. “Anne, we are at the point of no return. We will see the light at the end if we keep walking forward. You are no longer in the dark anymore.”

Anne quickly covered her own lips. Otherwise, she would cry out loud.

She did not want to let Lucas hear her emotion deep down that she could not control.

However, Lucas could still sense her pain and the suffering she had experienced all this while.

“Anne, I will go look for you.”

Both of them sat down to have breakfast. Lucas was extremely caring for her. He helped fill her plate with food, and all the detailed actions just made a person's heart flutter.

Especially his eyes. They were so gentle and doting when he looked at Anne.

They seemed to be enveloping her in the most comfortable place where she could smell the sun in every breath.

Anne felt like crying. She was afraid that Lucas would see the tears welling up in her eyes, so she could only lower her head to cover it up.

This was the warmth she had once liked and longed for, and also the perfect peace and quiet she would have in her whole life if she were to marry Lucas.

Unfortunately, she had no choice but to give it up.

Later, she learned after she fell for Anthony that her fondness for Lucas was not love.

However, she could not tell him such a thing. It would be too hurtful.

Even if she did not tell him that, Anne was still feeling incredibly guilty and upset deep down.

Why could she not fall in love with Lucas? If she had fallen in love with him, she would have grabbed this man and had him run to a faraway place with her without caring for anything else.

Anne walked out with her slender and beautiful calves all tensed up.

Just when she was feeling the strain, a hand reached out to her from the front.

She looked at the hand in front of her, which was beautifully slender with prominent joints and without any calluses at all at the palm. Just like him, the hand was gentle and flawless, but also embodied the innate strength of a man.

Anne paused for a moment before putting her hand on his palm.

He enveloped her hand and gripped it tightly. With a slight exertion of force, he pulled her up easily.

She lowered her gaze when she met Lucas' eyes, which were glinting in the sunlight.

"It's right in front," said Lucas, holding her hand tightly.

After they went over the hill, Anne was stunned by the scenery before her eyes. It was a white sandy beach with an endless sea.

It turned out that the house was not an ordinary house but a house with a sea view.

"I...didn't even know there's a beach here," said Anne.

"I know." Anne nodded. "I'm afraid I will be staying here for a very long time. But that's fine. I won't feel like I'm suffering as long as I'm not by Anthony's side. Also, the view here is very good. I like it very much. Lucas, you don't have to worry about me."

Lucas' gaze darkened. "Just address me as Mr. Newman!"

Anne hesitated a little.

"It's fine. I'm already used to it." Lucas knew what her concerns were.

"Alright."

Lucas raised his hand and gently touched Anne's face. Her fair skin made his hand linger.

Anne turned her gaze away a little. She did not move, but her body subconsciously became tense.

It was not that she could not tell the affection in Lucas' eyes was so rich that it could not be dispersed.

Such a mood only made her feel very pressured.

He got his men to guard the entrance. If Lucas appeared, they would notice him immediately. However, Lucas did not come out at all after a few hours. Was he planning to stay home the entire day? Ivan took his phone and reported this to Mr. Marwood. After all, if they were to directly enter, they might inadvertently alert Lucas. "Enter the house!" Anthony barked in an extremely cold voice. "Yes!" Ivan immediately got the two others and walked toward the mansion. They did not enter through the main entrance but climbed over the walls. "So, is it my intention for you to trespass into my house then?" Lucas said coldly.

Ivan asked, "You're doing alright, why are you resting? This isn't like you."

"I didn't sleep well last night. I was in terrible shape." Lucas' glasses glinted in cold light. "Is this your reason for trespassing? I never knew that Anthony's men would follow me all the way here. What perseverance."

Lucas' tone was filled with mockery.

Ivan was infuriated, but he had indeed lost the justification.

"Better not let me find out that you are in contact with Mrs. Marwood," Ivan warned before turning and leaving.

The other bodyguards followed suit.

Joanne clutched and rubbed her chest. She sat on the couch. Her legs felt a little like jelly.

Eason looked at Lucas with a sharp gaze. "Did you go to see Anne?" He looked at Joanne, "You knew about this?"

Joanne remained silent, which meant that he was right.

"You're reckless!" Eason was furious.

Joanne looked at Lucas, "Did you know that Anthony's men were keeping an eye on you?"

"They won't find out about it," Lucas said.

"Meaning you knew about it. You knew about it, yet you still want to see Anne?" Joanne was heartbroken. If she knew that Anthony's men were keeping an eye on them beforehand, she would definitely object to Lucas seeing Anne. "Just because of Anne, look what you have made our family into. The Pinnacle Academy is gone. What else do you want? Are you trying to get your entire family killed? Is it only then you'll be satisfied? Lucas, since when have you become so reckless without considering the consequences? Anne...is someone you can't touch at all!"

Eason was furious.

"You've been so bewitched by a woman that you don't know what you're doing. Is this how I raised you?"

"I can't just stay idle and not save her." Lucas found an excuse.

The phone in her hand rang, but her reflexes were slow due to her overwhelming sadness.

It was when her phone almost stopped ringing that she answered the call, "Why did you say that this was Anthony's tactic? Do you know where the children are?"

"The children are surely at the Royal Mansion. Anthony is doing this just to force you to appear," Tommy said gravely, "once you appear, you will fall into his trap."

Anne thought so too, but she was panicking.

"The children are my heart and soul. I didn't wish to see this happen when I ran away

"Anthony knows how you feel, which is why he came up with this strategy," Tommy reminded her seriously, "Anne, you must never show yourself. Do you understand? You must stay calm. You have finally escaped. If you were to return, no one can help you anymore."

"I know..." Anne's voice sounded hoarse as if she had just cried. "I won't return. After all, the children are his own flesh and blood too."

"That's the way to think. A father will not harm his own children. Just stay safe and sound here."
