Chapter 1341

Lucas asked, "Isn't it boring to stay here all the time? You may be willing to stay, but I'm not."

Anne turned her face away, watching the yacht that was getting closer and closer, and accepted Lucas's invitation.

Ivan and his group approached the small house.

However, they stopped not far away.

They were afraid that approaching it would alert Anne and give her a chance to escape.

If they could not catch her by then, they were afraid they would have to answer Mr. Marwood.

The tall, muscular, and professional thugs Ivan hired with money were from his own country.

"We block all the exits of the house, and no one is allowed to come out.

After speaking, the others immediately dispersed.

However, Ivan overlooked one point: the entire mountainous area was being monitored by Tommy's drone.

Even if they were not close to the house, they would be detected.

Ivan's expression was shocked, and he yelled, "Get out of the way!"

As soon as the roar was over, the weapon loaded in the drone started to launch and the bullets shot straight at them.

"Argh!"

The bodyguard next to him fell to the ground and died on the spot.

Ivan was the most agile and quickly dived behind a car for cover. There was no time to catch his breath, let alone draw his gun.

When he looked up, he saw another drone pointing at him.

Ivan rolled and dodged again, and the bullets slammed into the car.

He jumped into the house, looking for a place to take cover.

He felt a burning pain in his arm.

Upon closer inspection, he saw that his clothes were torn by bullets, and blood was seeping from the wound.

It must be noted that Mr. Marwood has a deep understanding of human nature and knows exactly how to exploit its weaknesses!

The yacht has sailed far from the mountainous region where the house was located.

However, Anne still could not shake the feeling of unease.

Even Lucas, who was with her, felt that the situation was a bit serious.

However, Lucas did not show his own unease, as Anne was already very nervous and scared, and he did not want to make things worse.

Suddenly, a drone appeared.

The expressions on Lucas and Anne's faces changed slightly.

Anne asked anxiously, "Has anyone left the yacht?"

"Knowing our location, Anthony will definitely not let us go. You can't go back to that place. You'll have to change your plans. I want your boat to follow me," Tommy said, his voice sounding robotic through the drone.

"Will I be taken back to Luton?" Anne asked again.

The drone remained silent.

"Have you made your decision?" Tommy said in a low voice.
"...Yes," Anne said, lowering her gaze.
Anthony could threaten anyone he wanted to achieve his goals, knowing her location.
He could even threaten her with the lives of her children... It made her heart ache at the thought.
Tommy did not say anything as the drone flew out and went to the cockpit below.
This was to inform the driver to change the route.

Anne sat on the sofa motionless, her eyes blank.

Lucas did not do anything either.

It was a difficult situation, as there was not a clear solution.

If Lucas does not go back, his parents will be killed.

He and Anne will have to live with the guilt for the rest of their lives.

However, the thought of sacrificing Anne's freedom caused Lucas great distress.

He stepped forward and pressed Anne's head against his chest, his voice hoarse as he said, "I'll go back and face everything. You leave."

Anne was carried out of the car, her body lying weakly in Anthony's arms, and they boarded Anthony's private jet.

They were going home.

Anne got on the plane and was held on the bed by Anthony, who was kissing her all over. "Do you know how much I wanted to kill you? Why did you run away? Did you think I wouldn't kill you?"

Anne's body trembled.

Anthony looked obsessed and paranoid, his eyes looking as if they were going to swallow her up.

"After I go back, I'll ask a hypnotist to do a deep hypnosis on you so that you never think about running away ever again." Anthony did not give her room for negotiation.

That thought chilled Anne to the bone.

Deep hypnosis?

She knew people who went through deep hypnosis would lose their memories.

She would be no different than Anthony's puppet.

"No, Anthony, you can't do this. I'm back. I won't run away again, don't hypnotize me!"

Anthony touched her pale face. His black eyes pierced into her soul sharply. "You won't feel any pain."

Chloe walked up to Anthony, hugged his long legs, looked up at him with her innocent little face, and said tearfully, "Papa... don't be fierce to Mama. Don't hypnotize Mama, she will be very sad!"

Charlie also came over. "Papa, we can't lose Mama, and neither can you!"

Chris came over. "Don't you love Mama? You still take Mama on dates, don't you? If you don't, I will leave with Mama!"

Anne was in a mess when she heard what the three children said.

Her body slid against the wall and fell to the ground, tears streaming down her face.

Anthony's sharp black eyes stared at Anne's distressed face. He was going through an emotional rollercoaster at this moment.

"Swear to your children that you will never leave again."

Hearing Anthony's cold voice, Anne raised her teary eyes slightly, looked vaguely at the black eyes staring at her, and then went to look at the three expectant children.

Finally, she nodded. "Mama will never leave you again."

Hayden came over and said, "Ma'am, sir has asked you to go to the study."

Anne's fingers on her legs involuntarily clenched. "What's going on?"

"I don't know. Mr. Marwood just gave me those instructions." Hayden had a respectful smile on his face.

Anne straightened her already neat collar, a sign of her nervousness.

She arrived at the study and closed the door behind her.

A heavy, oppressive force filled the room where Anthony was.

Anne's delicate frame was unable to withstand it.

Anthony sits on the sofa, his long legs crossed and an imposing demeanor. His sharp gaze was fixed on Anne.

She felt like a small beast waiting to be slaughtered.

Each time, she felt that the day was the end of her world.

Just when her collarbone was bitten painfully, there was a loud bang from the door of the study.

“Open the door, Papa, Mama!”

“Open the door!”

“Open the door!”

When there was no response, Chloe jumped up and grabbed the doorknob.

She pulled the doorknob down and snapped it up again, but the door did not open.

“Papa and Mama, we are your cute little children!” Chloe said eagerly.

Charlie’s short legs kicked on the door. “What are you doing in there? Are you bullying Mama again?”

“Open the door!” Chris kicked the door angrily.

One knocked on the door, and the other two kicked on it.

Hayden hurried over and lowered his voice, “Stop that. They are bonding, so don’t go in and disturb them. Papa will be unhappy.”

Anne's eyes flickered.

In her memory, she no longer remembered a time when she smiled at Anthony.

It must have happened when she lost my memory.

The memories were blurred after Anthony hurt her time and time again. She knew very well that neither Anthony's apology nor her smile existed.

Afraid that the children's words would offend Anthony, she dragged them out. "Let's go."

The triplets were pulled out.

Anthony's eyes followed Anne.

A burst of irritability spread through his heart.

Anne should really smile at him. It was one of the ways that people who have done something wrong ask for forgiveness.
