Chapter 1431

The man took her to the corner of the pool and held her there

There was an iron pipe at the bottom of the pool that was secured in the concrete wall used for water flow

He tightly secured Ashlynn's hand to the iron pipe using a rope

"What are you planning on doing? Corentin won't let you go!" Ashlynn struggled and sensed that her life was in danger

However, the rope was tied so tightly to the iron pipe that she could not move an inch and only caused pain to her delicate wrists.

She stopped moving completely.

In fact, she did not struggle with all of her strength.

Otherwise, when she untied the rope on her feet, the man would have kicked her away.

She was also waiting for Corentin to arrive.

She wanted to know what would happen next in the story.

Chapter 1432

When Corentin saw that her life was not in danger, his tense face relaxed, and the corner of his lower lip curled up. "With me here, you can't die "

Ashlynn gasped weakly in his arms. Although she did not die, her lungs were burning.

"I'll take you to the hospital," Corentin said.

The escaped man was caught and thrown into the bathhouse, his feet slipping and causing him to fall to the ground with a thud.

Corentin's gloomy and terrifying eyes swept over the man. He held Ashlynn in his arms and slowly hugged her "Why dirty my eyes by bringing him here? Just find a place and get rid of him! I don't care how painful he feels!"

"Yes, sir!"

Ashlynn nestled in Corentin's arms, not daring to move, and looked at the man slowly getting up from the ground not far away. His eyes were filled with hatred and a desire to kill.

She immediately felt that something was going to go wrong.

Sure enough, in the next second, he pushed away the men beside him, rushed forward, and tore off his clothes.

There were bombs strapped to his body, and it was definitely enough to blow up the entire bathhouse!

Ashlynn's body stiffened instinctively.

Beth and Marshall immediately approached and called their daughter worriedly.

“Hurry up, call the doctor,” Beth urged frantically.

Jeremy had already rung the bell.

The doctor came to check her out.

Ashlynn learned from the doctor that she only had a minor scrape on her arm and nothing serious.

Anyone who saw her family’s reaction would have thought she was seriously injured.

Ashlynn examined his grip and clenched her hand even tighter as if trying to break it.

The pain was written all over her face.

When Corentin noticed the strength he was using and relaxed his grip slightly, Ashlynn took the opportunity to pull her hand away and stand up, moving to the side.

"Salvatore, even though I went to a prestigious school and have a bright future ahead of me, I still value traditional values and hope to lead a simple life. If you care about me, please don't embarrass me and give me the freedom to make my own choices."

Corentin's amber eyes glared at her, resembling a wild wolf in the forest as he bared his bloody fangs. Ultimately, you still decided to leave me!"

Ashlynn asked, "Do you really think we're a good match? Our personalities will never align. I've made up my mind and I won't be returning to the mansion. I'll live with my parents instead."

After saying this, she turned and left the room.

As soon as her hand touched the doorknob, Corentin's rough and eager voice called out from behind, "Have you truly thought this through? Don't forget. I have a video of you in my possession!"

Chapter 1435

After Ashlynn was discharged from the hospital, she returned to the Hilton's house and had no further involvement with the Lloyd family

However, she was not as calm as she appeared on the surface.

She kept a close eye on her phone, worried about any videos or photos that might appear online.

She was terrified at the thought of any potential scandals.

Fortunately, a week had passed, and she had not seen any unfavorable videos or photos, nor had she received any calls or threatening text messages from Corentin

Ashlynn wondered if her plan was working.

As she descended the stairs at night, she saw Beth preparing to go upstairs.

Looking down, she saw Corentin in the hall, accompanied by Marshall and Jeremy. They were all sitting on the sofa, and the atmosphere seemed okay.

Ashlynn froze on the stairway, her fingers gripping the railing tightly.

Beth came up to her and said in a low voice, "Are you awake? I was just coming to check up on you. Go back to your room, and we'll handle this."

Ashlynn looked down and said, "No, we have to talk."

“I will change! I want you!” Corentin lost control of his emotions, and his hand holding Ashlynn’s wrist was trembling. “It’s useless for you to tell me these things. All I know is that you were once my wife and even more so now!”

Ashlynn did not know what to say to make Corentin let go of his obsession.

What was it that made him want her?

Were the men not in the bar enough if he wanted people to remember his former identity as Salvatore?

Ashlynn quietly looked at the flustered persistence and flustered emotions in Corentin’s eyes and asked, “Corentin, are you in love with me?”

“I...I don’t know...” Corentin hesitated, but he knew he did not want to let Ashlynn go.

Yet, she felt resistance.

The next second, her and Ashlynn’s hands were pulled apart.

Ashlynn was once again in Corentin’s hands.

Beth’s expression was ugly as she tried to intervene. “Corentin, what are you doing!”

Jeremy, who came over, grabbed Beth and stood up for her. "Corentin, where do you think this is? If you want to take Ashlynn away, it depends on whether the Hilton family is willing. Do you think Ashlynn is still the helpless girl she was before?"

Corentin's dark eyes glanced sharply at him, and his subordinates approached, blocking the way aggressively.

Jeremy's face darkened. "We have men too."

Just as they were about to call for help, Marshall rushed over "Come on, lets not get in to a fight. Corentin, what is the meaning of this?"

“Ah!” Ashlynn was pulled closer to the room and stumbled, falling onto the end of the bed as she glared at Corentin with hatred.

“You know that I won’t expose your video photos, so you did this to me?” Corentin sneered darkly.

Ashlynn, having been seen through, narrowed her eyes but said nothing.

“You said you love me, was that a lie?” Corentin saw that Ashlynn remained silent. He could not wait any longer and stepped forward, grabbing her by the collar. “Is it true? Tell me!”

Ashlynn’s head was dizzy from his shaking, and tears welled up in her eyes. “If I say I love you, will you let me go?”

“No,” Corentin answered without hesitation.

“Then why does it matter if I love you or not?”

Corentin gasped for breath, his chest feeling heavy as if it was about to explode. The hand that was grasping Ashlynn’s collar tightened, and the veins on the back of his hand twisted horribly.

Ashlynn closed her eyes, waiting for Corentin’s possible enraged reaction.

“Mr. Marwood?” Oliver lowered his voice and spoke.

Anthony slightly raised his black eyes, his eyes as calm as a cold pool. “Have you found anyone?”

After Mrs. Marwood crashed into the sea with the helicopter, no clues were found.

The accident killed her at sea.

However, no one dared to use the word ‘death’.

In front of Mr Marwood, they had to be very careful with their words.

“Not...not yet,” Oliver said under great pressure.

“Trash!” Anthony stood up abruptly, flipping the documents in front of him.

He looked like he had just killed someone.

His Rolls Royce followed behind, keeping a close distance, but no one dared to catch up and talk to him.

After walking for an unknown amount of time, tears rolled down Anthony's eyes because his heart hurt so badly. It seemed that a hand was tearing open his chest, and he could even smell his own blood.

How could Anne die? They had been entangled for so many years. How could she die?

Tommy's words filled his head, turning into a sharp weapon, cutting open his heart, which was unbearable

His tears kept falling down.

Anthony only cried once when he was born and once when his mother died.

As he grew up, no matter how much psychological suffering he endured or how difficult the obstacles in his business were, he would never cry.

Now, standing by the side of the busy street, he could not stop crying.

The sadness in his heart was inflating like a balloon, about to blow him up.
