Chapter 1531

Those small pieces of broken glass seemed to be packed with lethality and could slit Anne's throat.

The broken glass was spread out like a web, and it was impossible for Anne to dodge every single piece of them.

She simply grabbed them with her bare hand, held them in her palm, and then threw them at the assassin with force.

The assassin did not expect Anne to counterattack like that. While she was stunned, the broken glass that Anne threw stabbed her right in the neck.

Her eyes instantly widened, and she fell to the ground.

Anne felt relieved. She turned around and told the driver, "Let's go to the hospital!"

Just as the driver was about to say something, he could not help but be stunned when his line of sight landed behind Anne.

Before he managed to warn her, Anne already reacted at the speed of light. She swiftly ducked aside, grabbed the assassin's hand that was holding a gun, and used the broken glass in her other hand to slit the assassin's throat.

Blood sprayed all over. The assassin was dead for good this time.

Anne looked at her shoes which were stained with blood, and she took a few steps back as she still could not get used to it. There was a kind of numbness on her face as she was at a loss.

Chapter 1532

It was after Anne got her injuries on her hand bandaged at the hospital that she was allowed to go to Lucia's ward.

In the past, to prevent unauthorized persons from coming in and out, the entire floor was not open to the public. Therefore, there were no other patients and only a few appointed doctors and nurses there.

The entire floor used to be quiet, but everyone was swamped at that moment.

The air was filled with a thick bloody smell.

A few bodyguards and also nurses not far away were cleaning the blood stains on the floor and the wall.

The bucket that was placed at the side was filled with bloody water.

Anne also saw bullet holes and scratches on the wall.

It seemed like it was not just a woman who had come here to attack Lucia. There were also other assassins...

However, it was fortunate that her goal seemed to be half accomplished!

A twisted and vicious smile appeared in Lucia's eyes.

The Rolls Royce outside was waiting for her. When the bodyguard saw Anne coming, he opened the car door. Anne got in the car and left the mansion.

The car was driving on the road at a steady speed. Anne sat by the window and looked at the scenery outside that was going backward quickly. Her mind was blank as she lost the ability to think.

However, she only spaced out for a brief moment before she felt a sense of tightness on her hand,
Anthony held her hand in his palm.

"What are you thinking about?"

Anne turned her face over, and she met Anthony's black eyes and felt the strength of the hand that was holding her hand tightly, she wondered if he was feeling nervous.

"Nothing. I believe this matter will be resolved," she said.

Lucas knew she was not willing to talk to him about it. After all, both of them had been separated for so long.

However, he would still feel a slight discomfort deep down because of the distance between the two of them.

“The children are already four now. They’ve grown much taller, haven’t they?” Lucas changed the topic.

Speaking of the children, Anne’s expression was clearly much more relaxed. She took out her phone and scrolled to a video. “Look.”

Lucas held the phone and played the video.

The four-year-old triplets have indeed grown later. They were no longer as chubby as before anymore, but all of them looked good. They had excellent genes.

Even Lucas was envious.

Especially because the children were Anne’s. Both of them originally could also have children together...

After he finished watching the video, he handed the phone back to her with a gentle smile on his face. “I wonder if they can still recognize Daddy if I meet them.”

“They will recognize you,” said Anne, then she asked, “do you want to meet them?”

“Forget it. I won’t be able to bring myself to leave after that,” said Lucas in a considerate manner.

Lucas saw that something was troubling her and instantly understood what was going on.

"I just remembered that I have something to take care of, so I'll first be taking my leave." Lucas stood up, but he stopped in his tracks as he was walking forward. As if he had just remembered something, he asked, "Could you give me your number? Perhaps I might have some matters in Luton that I would like your help with."

It took Anne a brief moment before she said, "Oh, alright..."

Then, she gave her contact number to Lucas, and he left.

Anne was thinking that she only gave him her contact number, so it probably did not mean anything, did it?

She has always felt that she owed it to Lucas, so she could not reject him.

After that, Anne was prepared to get up and wait outside. However, she noticed the server at the cafe running to the customers at every table to tell them something. All the customers were slightly shocked when they heard what the server said, then they left the cafe.

The server apologized to the customers one by one. When he saw Anne, he walked over and asked, "Miss, do you need me to get you a fresh pot of coffee?"

Anne, who was watching all the customers leave the cafe, regained her senses when the server asked her that question. She finally understood what was going on.

It was because someone had made a block booking for the entire cafe, so they were clearing the customers out!

Anthony was still the same. How would such a person change for a woman?

He did not serve her.

Therefore, what if he could drag Anthony down from his high horse? There must be countless people who wished to trample over him.

After dinner, the family of five went for a stroll.

The triplets were running around the playground and having a fun time.

Anthony hugged Anne from behind and his thin lips bit her sensitive ear gently.

Anne shuddered and looked at the children in the distance with concern. "The children are here..."

"Do I have to care about their feelings when I'm just hugging my wife? Hmm?" Anthony's voice was deep and husky.

Anne looked uncomfortable. He was simply being domineeringly unreasonable.

"Let's go back to the room." Anthony wrapped his arm around her slender waist and brought her away.

"But..." Anne wanted to resist, but she was still forcibly dragged away by Anthony.

With a few taps with his fingers, he replied, [Alright.]

As soon as he sent it, the person in his arms moved but did not wake up.

It seemed like she was trying to find a comfortable position to sleep in, so she felt Anthony’s arms a little.

The domineering Anthony locked her in his arms once again.

Anne did not move again. She just continued sleeping.

Anthony put the phone back on the nightstand, then he lifted Anne’s serene little face just a little as she slept soundly while he gazed deeply with his black eyes.

‘You’re sleeping so defenselessly. Are you sure you’re an assassin? But who is the person who’s looking for you? Who have you contacted behind my back?’

Just as Anne was sound asleep, she suddenly started having a dream.

Also, it was the kind of dream that made her cheek flush and her heart pound—Anthony kept kissing her, and the more he kissed, the more passionate it got.

Perhaps a person would be more shameless when in dreamland.

She accepted the man’s recklessness very easily, so much so that she even became very proactive and was looking forward to it very much.

Lucas' emotions recovered very quickly. He did not look that surprised on the surface.

"It's been a long time, Mr. Marwood," he greeted him calmly.

He would not let their hostile relationship show on the surface and tear into him. It would look very bad on the two of them if he did that in broad daylight.

"You're very disappointed, aren't you?" Anthony said coldly, "Lucas, never mind that you've returned to the country, but you contacted my wife behind my back. Are you provoking me?"

"You're overthinking it. Anne and I are friends. We bumped into each other on the street, so we agreed to grab lunch sometime. It's no big deal. You're too uptight," said Lucas.

Anthony's face was as cold as frost. "Uptight? You're an educator, but you don't even know what's the right thing to say?"

"I knew it was you who called when I was having coffee with Anne yesterday. I left beforehand because I thought it was better to have one less trouble. I didn't expect that I still couldn't avoid it." Lucas' gaze was hard to figure out. "You're still the same as before. You still like to control Anne."

It was Lucia who was calling.

Anne was frozen. She did not know if she should answer it or not.

She was reluctant deep down.

Because even if she did not answer her call, she already knew what she was going to say.

However, if she did not answer it, she would feel bad.

After hesitating, she answered the call, "Lucia, I'm occupied today, so I won't be going over. You'll be fine, right?"

"It's fine. How could I ask you to come over every day? I'm already very happy for you to be able to visit me occasionally." She could still tell from Lucia's voice that she was disappointed.

Anne pretended that she did not notice Lucia was putting on a forced smile, and said, "Have a good rest then. Don't think about anything."

"Alright. Have you found the person who harmed me yet?"

"It won't be so soon. Tommy should be in hiding. We also haven't found the hideout for the group either. But we will find it."

Anthony, who was having dinner, paused his action for a moment before he put down his spoon. He no longer has the appetite to eat, and the pressure of the air around him was very low.

Hayden could feel the coldness in the air even when he was standing at the entrance of the dining room.

He no longer dared to breathe too loudly anymore.

It seemed like the problem was very severe.

After that, he quickly made a fresh glass of juice and brought it outside.

Anne was spacing out while sitting leisurely by the table.

He put the glass of juice on the table. "Mrs. Marwood, Mr. Marwood asked me to bring this to you."

"Thank you," said Anne.

It was unclear who exactly was she thanking when she said that.

Hayden stood at the side respectfully and asked carefully, "Did Mr. Marwood do something to upset you? I think he definitely did not mean to, so don't be angry."

Anne knew he was comforting her. She shook her head. "I'm not angry. I'm just not in a good mood."
