Chapter 1541

Even if Anthony had said he did not have any kind of physical intimacy with Lucia in the past two years, did he truly have no feelings for her at all?

The kind of reaction Anthony had when he saw her on the phone with Lucia left an unpleasant taste in Anne's mouth.

When Anthony came into the room, Anne had already fallen asleep on the bed.

He walked up to her, took off the slippers on her feet, put her on the bed, and tucked her in properly.

After he had done all that, he watched her by the bed for a while before he left.

He got into the Rolls Royce, and the car left the Royal Mansion. It gradually drove off into the distance until it could no longer be seen.

Anne, who had already woken up, stood on the balcony.

As she watched the car leave, the urge to cry became even more obvious.

Where was Anthony going?

Was he going to the company or was he going to look for Lucia?

She loved Anthony. That was a feeling that had already existed in the past, and it had never changed.

"You didn't expect me to still be here, did you? The three-year term is over, but maybe I have already gotten used to being here and I've also seen through a lot," said Ron as he carefully surveyed Anne. 'How are you? Has Anthony been good to you? Other than the last time, you've not been here for a very long time, haven't you? Did something happen?'"

"I'm doing great," said Anne.

The person in front of her was Anthony's father and the triplets' grandfather.

Even if there was a problem, it was between Ron and his son. She has no right to interfere, and she also did not want to interfere.

After she said that, she wanted to turn around and walk away.

' Anne, do you still hate me?" Ron called out to her.

Anne roughly understood his concern. She glanced at the tombstones next to her and said, "You're not the person who caused it, so I have no reason to hate you."

Ron said, "But you treat me like I'm a stranger. I don't expect Anthony to forgive me, but I hope he could treat you well. You guys have children. If your family of five is well, then I will have no regrets."

Anne did not expect that he would have such enlightenment.

What Anne said to Ron made him feel waves of dull pain in his heart and made him feel so depressed that he was breathing hard.

As expected, it was still for the sake of the children that she stayed by his side.

If he were to let her go, would she return to Lucas' side in a hurry...

Anne sat in the car while Anthony's tall and broad back could be seen outside the car window.

She noticed him standing there and not moving at all. Just when she felt it was unusual, Anthony turned around and got into the car.

The car left the graveyard. Anne glanced at Anthony's expression and said nothing. She just looked at the scenery that was quickly going backward outside the car window.

"You don't want you to see me?"

His deep voice could be heard. Anne looked at him with surprise. "When have I ever said that?"

"Then come closer to me." His tone was slightly domineering.

Anne looked at the distance between her and Anthony in confusion. They were sitting face-to-face with each other. Were they far apart?

Just when she was confused, she felt something tighten around her wrist and she was dragged over.

"Ah..." She directly fell into Anthony's arms.

"You may not know this but I've contacted you two days ago asking if you have time to have lunch with me. You replied but the person who appeared after that was Anthony." Lucas told her everything.

Anne instantly understood the truth of what had happened.

Anthony must have done it behind her back because her phone was squeaky clean without any texts from Lucas at all.

Anthony had gone way overboard!

"How are you? Are you alright?" Anne asked with concern.

"I've got a lower leg fracture and I'm at the hospital. I'm afraid I can't leave Luton for the time being," said Lucas, then someone else beside him could be heard saying something.

It was the nurse reminding him that it was time for him to get his shot.

It looked like Lucas was telling the truth.

There was no need for him to lie like that either.

"I have nothing to say to you." Lucas looked upset.

That was understandable.

"I've watched the surveillance video of your car accident on my way here. Don't worry. I'll certainly get to the bottom of this." Anthony's gaze was ferocious.

"I only know that you said you'll completely destroy me if I were to contact Anne again." Lucas confronted Anthony. "Do you admit it?"

"She's my wife. Is there a problem?" asked Anthony.

"So, if you're the one investigating this, would the result be the truth or would you just have someone take the blame? These kinds of tricks are nothing new in high society, especially to you, Anthony." Lucas looked calm.

"Do you have evidence?" asked Anthony.

"For the time being, no," said Lucas.

"Then, accuse me only when you have the evidence." Anthony grabbed Anne's hand and dragged her out of the ward.

"Anthony!" Anne shook his hand off when they got outside. "Are you the one who did it?"

"Why?" Anthony blinked his black eyes and his gaze was very hard to decipher. "What are you worried about?"

"I...mmm!" Before Anne could finish her words, she felt a sharp pain in her neck. It was not very serious, but it absolutely could make her scalp tingle. "Don't bite..."

In her blurry vision, she could see that there were no bodyguards or drivers in front. They were the only two people in the car.

They were in a private space where Anthony could do whatever he wanted.

"Anne, don't reject me..." Anthony held her face and kissed her domineeringly.

Anne's heart fluttered. For some reason, she felt Anthony's obsessive desire to possess her, and it was very impatient.

Why exactly...must he do it at this moment?

Anne thought of Lucia, who had called her, and she felt irritated.

Just when the majority of her bottom was exposed, she hurriedly resisted. "I don't want to!"

Anthony's gaze instantly turned cold, and he was restraining himself greatly. The way he stared at Anne quietly sent a chill down Anne's spine.

Anne was slightly stunned.
She was eating her food, but she paused, lifted her head to look at him, and asked, "What do you mean?
Why are you the one to resolve it?"
From what she could remember deep down, Anthony was not a kind person, to begin with. He was vicious and always disregarded others, much less if this person was Lucas.
Therefore, she could not be blamed for having a persecutory delusion.
The lines on Anthony's face were slightly tensed up and his voice was deep and husky as she said, "No need to worry. It's things that are beneficial to him."
He held back the gaze of his black eyes, so she could not tell his emotions.
Anne asked, "Are you suspecting me? Lucas and I are not what you think. I only feel guilty toward him..."
'And all of these are caused by you.'
"There's no need for you to have any sympathy for him. Just as you're thinking, I'm the one who caused it, so I should be the one to resolve it."

"How do you want to resolve it?" asked Anne. She then put her cutlery down as she had already lost her appetite. 'Make him disappear in Luton?'"

"Mm-hmm." Anne agreed.

In the end, she still chose to believe Anthony.

After all, he was her husband, the father of her children, and the man he loved.

Who else could she believe in if not him?

"But if you need me, I can help as well," Anne added.

"How can I be your man if I can't even handle this bit of matter well?" Anthony raised his eyebrows slightly, which were domineering and sexy.

The order of Anne's lips curled into a smile, and she lowered her gaze with slight embarrassment.

Seeing that Anne had calmed down, the gaze in Anthony's black eyes deepened.

How could he possibly let Anne be in contact with Lucas again? He has never allowed it in the past, and he would never allow it in the future.

In addition to that, he also would not let them have any conflict while Lucas was around. That would only let people with malicious intent take advantage of the situation to come in between them.

An investigation was still needed to determine whether what happened to Lucas was somebody's doing or an accident.

“Mama!” Chloe rushed toward Anne, climbed up her legs in no time, and sat on her lap. Every part of her soft body was playing coy.

She kissed all over Anne’s face with her little lips. Anne’s face was covered by her saliva, but Anne felt very happy and satisfied.

Between her two sons, Charlie was more proud. As he grew up, he could no longer bring himself to play coy anymore.

As for Chris, he has been more ‘mature’ since birth.

However, both pairs of eyes were still fixated on the interaction between their sister and Mama.

Their bodies were either tightly pressing against Mama’s legs or squeezing and leaning between Papa and Mama’s legs.

“Mama, are you on a date with Papa?” Chloe asked with her little pink lips pursed.

“No. We’re having a discussion.” Anne was speechless. She did not even dare to look at Anthony’s eyes at all.

How would the children know what had happened on the couch before they came in?

She felt so sheepish that she did not quite look at the children’s innocent eyes.

“Really?” Chloe expressed her suspicion. “Why do I feel that Papa always uses the same reason to keep Mama all to himself every time?”

Anne felt her body fly up in the air, but when she landed in the ball pit, she was still securely in Anthony’s arms.

She panted as she looked at the face that was looking down at her. She could not believe at all that he actually did that.

“Was it fun?” Anthony asked in a deep voice.

Before Anne regained her senses, she heard the triplets saying in unison, “Yes!!”

“Papa, I want that too!” Chloe went up to him.

Both his sons did not say anything, but their big eyes were looking at him eagerly. Nobody could ever say no to them.

After Anne regained her senses, she hurriedly got out of Anthony’s arms. She was a little embarrassed to be in that position in front of the children.

Anthony picked Chloe up. “Let’s go. Let’s go somewhere else to play.”

“Huh? We’re not playing here anymore?” Chloe’s eyes widened and were filled with confusion.

Clearly, Anthony did not want to do the same thing anymore.

“I’ll do it!” Anne wanted to carry Chloe in her arms.

Anthony refused. “She’s very heavy. You won’t be able to carry her.”

“It’s not like I’m not going to keep carrying her. It’s just for a short while.” Anne tried to carry Chloe again.
