"You don't need to. I'm full of anger. You can buy one for yourself."

"I can't. I don't have any appetite." Anne felt a little uncomfortable in her stomach when she ate just now.

Sarah looked at the sky outside and said, "You should go back. You are tired after a day of work, rest early. You still look unwell, anyway. Since you're in the hospital, let the doctor check it for you. You might have an injury."

"I don't feel any discomfort in my body. I'll go back. Call me if you need anything."

After Anne left the hospital, she took a taxi back.

She went back home and went into the bathroom.

Seeing her face in the mirror, she does indeed not look well.

It was as if she had not recovered from that blow.

Anne touched her flat abdomen and pressed it gently, but there was no pain.

It was the appearance of Anthony in the hospital that startled her.

The fact that Bianca could show up meant that she had talked to Anthony before, and she herself admitted it.

Then he saw Bianca get hurt, and he thought it was because of her.

Bianca had really good tactics.

However, in front of her, Bianca asked Anthony about his cheating in a suspicious tone. This showed trust.

There would be two possible consequences. Anthony either put it
