Chapter 302

Seeing that the criticism against Bianca was getting more and more heated, the video was uploaded again for analysis.

Expert was even sought after to make professional analysis on it. From the perspective and angle, it was not logical for Anne to deliver such a push on Bianca.

If Anne pushed her, why did her body not have any inertia to tilt?

Logically, it was impossible for someone to push another party and remain still.

With such an analysis, conspiracy theories were immediately formed and discussed widely on the internet.

Anne became the person that netizens sympathized with, who claimed that Bianca's scheming was deep and vicious.

In just one night, the whole situation was reversed and took everyone by surprise.

Anne could imagine how angry and agitated Bianca was now.

After all, the internet has always been a double-edged sword. Before exposing others, one must have a clean and clear history.

However, she did not expect that Bianca's parents would be dragged into it. It seemed that Bianca herself had no negative history worth exposing, thus her parents became the scapegoat.

"Hello, are you the resident on the sixth floor? Do you know Anne Vallois who lived on the fifth floor?"
The woman pointed the wireless microphone at the nanny.

There were some others next to her holding mobile phones and cameras.

"I know..." The nanny kept the three children by her side to avoid harming them.

Without an answer, the paparazzi were even more excited as if they had won a lottery ticket.

"Recently, there was a conflict between Anne and (the well-known pianist. What kind of person do you think Anne is?"

"She...she is a very good and enthusiastic person. She will greet me with a smile every time she sees me. Once I lost my key, and she helped me find it," the nanny made up a story.

"May I ask who Anne usually associates with? For example, does she have a boyfriend or something?
After all, the biggest conflict between two women may be caused by relationship issues," the paparazzi asked again.

"Uhh...I don't know. Usually she is alone," the nanny said.

"And her family?"

"Two months ago, her mother passed away," the nanny sighed sympathetically.

The paparazzi expressed sympathy as well, but they did not find anything interesting. Yet they did not want to let this chance go.

[ So what do they look like without the masks? Will their cuteness make my nose bleed?]

In less than 24 hours, the topic of discussion changed the second time.

Anne never expected such a change.

Sitting in the car, she was heading to Sarah's place at first.

Such a change gave her a fright!

She would rather the spotlight was on herself!

At this time, even if Anne did not want to trouble Lucas, she had no other choice. Thus, she called him,
"Mr. Newman!"

"I know. I saw it. I'm working on those videos." Lucas' words always reassured her.

Anne believed Anthony was all Bianca needed.

"Have you seen the kids?" Sarah asked.

Anne's eyes flickered slightly and played dumb. "What kids? I don't know..."

"These..." Sarah pulled out her phone and looked through the photo. "Huh, why can't I find it? There's not even one photo. What's going on?"

Anne played dumb and did not say a thing.

"You must be aware of what I'm referring to. I'm referring to the triplets that Cheyenne used to look after." Sarah often had a long face when she spoke about Cheyenne. When she noticed Anne was not responding, she glossed it over. "You don't say. The children are actually rather adorable, and they even wore masks as grownups do. How amusing of them. If you have children in the future, they must be like them!"

Anne said to herself, those triplets are my kids.

She was not boasting, but her kids are indeed good-looking.

There were many kids in the hospital when she gave birth, but hers stood out the most.

"I'm aware of your struggles. It's not your fault," Lucas said.

Anne felt even more guilty for being showered with such thoughtfulness. I'm genuinely sorry. You will come across girls who are better than me.

"Let's not go there right now." Lucas pinched between his eyebrows. "Don't worry about my parents, they're just having a hard time accepting it right now. You're the one I'm more worried about.

Anne wore a bitter smile. "Don't mind me. It's not easy to get away from Anthony, especially since he has his sights set on me. Allow me to handle my own affairs. However, I still require the nanny's services because I'll not be leaving anytime soon."

Even if it was not the talk of the town anymore, she and the triplets might be photographed if they were unlucky.

"Must you be so polite to me?" Lucas' voice deepened, "You can tell the nanny directly what you want to do in the future. You don't need to ask me."

"...Okay."

Anne stood in a trance after she hung up the call.

She knew he was being kind.

However, she had no idea how to repay him.

In the evening, Anne was paying attention to the most searched topics on the internet, and it seemed to have gradually cleared up.

Ever since the online incident, Anne could only sleep if the triplets were in her arms.

After the triplets were sound asleep, Anne checked the current trending news online on her phone because she was not sleepy.

There was no longer news about the triplets.

As if it had always been a cyber war between Bianca and her only.

Anne frowned when she saw a pinned comment. e

There were rumors that she was the other woman in Bianca's relationship.

According to rumors, she threatened the man by jumping out of a moving car to move up, accidentally miscarried, and suffered from infertility and excessive blood loss.

Anyway, the rumors were getting out of hand.

Anne was well aware that Bianca was to be blamed for the rumors. The fact that it was only partially true did not raise suspicions and was also a highly discussed topic.

This gave her a headache.

Anthony was clearly unwilling to assist her, so the situation would unfold as Bianca had predicted.

Anne put the phone aside and leaned on the triplets with her eyes shut.

However, Bianca made a move before Anthony made his.

To be precise, it was the interaction between Bianca's parents on the internet.

They took a photo together.

Anne enlarged the photo to get a better look.

The husband was seated on a sofa with his glasses on, and he was tall despite his advanced age. He also had an imposing demeanor and wore a faint smile, which indicated he was good-looking when he was younger.

His wife, who appeared lovely and seated next to him, shifted position so that she was slightly closer to him.

They looked at the camera together, an image of a loving and caring couple.

Anyone would envy such a family.

No wonder Bianca had so much class because she had good genes.

A text clarifying his family's predicament, which was not as problematic as netizens had claimed, was included with the photo and was written in Bianca's father's voice.

Probably because of the written clarification or the charming good looks.

The comments of the netizens had become kinder.

"That shows Dorothy did abandon her poor husband after all." The more Sarah talked about it, the angrier she became as she prodded Dorothy's face on the screen.

Anne could tell her mother was enraged by how bitter she looked, so Anne consoled her by saying, "That's none of our business.

Let's not worry about it as long as they don't mess with us."

Sarah took a deep breath to calm herself down and said, "Yeah. You're right. I can't be bothered by their pretentious virtues. What brings you here? Are you here to see me?"

"I stopped by to see you because I was passing by," Anne said with shifty eyes.

Sarah gave birth to Anne, so how could Sarah not know what she was thinking? However, she did not blow Anne's cover. Sarah's mood improved, and said smilingly, "Let's go shopping in the afternoon and get something good to eat. You will have to stay the night too, just for tonight, okay?"

Anne resigned as she saw it coming. "Okay."

She went shopping with Sarah in the afternoon, but it did not take long.

As it was late by the time they went out.

Sarah kept in mind that Anne had recently had an abortion and only brought Anne out to buy her some beautiful clothes and jewelry, but Sarah did not buy anything for herself.

The love for beauty is common to all women.

Since Anne was a young child, she was aware that she came from a less fortunate family, so she never considered wanting dresses that most girls like.
