Chapter 311

As Anne had seen pictures of Bianca's parents on the Internet, she easily recognized them.

Bianca held Anthony's arm intimately with a gaze full of provocation and hostility.

The long corridor suddenly turned cramped.

Anne would never have thought she would bump into such jealous enemies while out for a meal. Not only was Bianca being hostile, but even her parents were staring at Anne and Sarah, especially Bianca's mother, who seemed to be wary and spiteful.

Anne only briefly looked at Anthony's calm obsidian eyes, and she quickly looked away, saying to Sarah behind her, "Let's go."

Sarah lowered her gaze, tightly clutched her handbag, and followed Anne to the right, wanting to leave as soon as possible.

Nevertheless, why would Bianca let them have it their way?

"What a coincidence, Anne," Bianca said to stop them from leaving, "I'm sorry that you were implicated last time. You won't blame me, right?"

Anne stopped in her tracks and looked at Bianca indifferently. "Was I implicated? I think it's all true. Since it's the truth, I won't blame others."

Bianca secretly despised Anne's smugness. Was Anne indirectly pointing out that everything on the Internet was true, including her? Or was she trying to tell her that she was once pregnant with Anthony's child?

Bianca acted fine, and she even started to introduce her parents, "You've never met my parents, right? Let me introduce you to my

Chapter 312

Could it be that Anthony was here to trouble her?

If Bianca knew that Sarah got in between her parents' relationship, she would surely cry to Anthony, and he would feel sorry for his woman.

In the end, Anne would be the one suffering the consequences!

The door was knocked again, and it sounded impatient this time. "I know you're at home. I'll kick the door open if you don't let me in! H •

It was Tommy.

Anne finally relaxed. She could not help but wonder what the hell was wrong with this man.

Then, she walked over and opened the door.

Tommy was dressed in suits with both hands in his pockets, looking at Anne up and down. "I thought you were taking a shower. 11

What if...what if she wrongly accused Sarah?
Although she felt that the Marwood family matter had caused Sarah to lose her credibility, she still wanted to believe her and understand her.
If...if Sarah were still the same as before, Anne would definitely walk away without hesitation!
"Wait!" Tommy grabbed her wrist. "Let's use my car."
When Anne saw his decisiveness, she wanted to ask if Tommy knew what she planned to do. In the end,
Tommy still forcefully pulled Anne into his car.
The Audi A8 drove out of the neighborhood and hurried away.
"Where to?" Tommy asked.
"My mom's."

Tommy did not ask more and turned at the junction with ease. He did not even need Anne to inform him of the address.

Nevertheless, Anne was not surprised. After all, what privacy could she have in Luton?

Anne watched as Tommy held on to the steering wheel and drove with concentration. She could not help but be puzzled by him.

Dorothy hurriedly supported Bianca, and she was incensed. "How dare you lay your fingers on her! Do you know who she is? She's Anthony's fiancée!"

Tommy glanced at them. "Why didn't I know? Is it self-proclaimed?"

"The engagement party is this week. If Bianca is hurt, can you afford the consequences?" Dorothy said confidently.

However, Tommy still did not budge.

Besides being slightly stunned when she heard the word 'fiancee', Anne still decided to ignore it.

The handprint on Sarah's face was a piercing and heartbreaking sight for Anna.

What did the engagement have to do with her? She demanded an explanation for what had happened today! Otherwise, Bianca would come again and again to provoke her!

As Tommy was not letting them leave, there was no point in Dorothy and Bianca being so nervous.

"Let's take care of your wound." Sarah anxiously grabbed Anne's hand.

The limited space in the living room could not contain his powerful presence, and everyone felt a heavy pressure on their chest and did not dare to make any sound.

"Anthony," Tommy greeted Anthony with a smile.

Anthony appeared aloof. "What are you doing here?"

"I brought Anne here." Tommy evaded the main points.

The police hurriedly greeted Anthony and explained the reason they were there. Anthony listened without saying a word, and his hawk-like eyes glanced at Anne and her bandaged arm.

Anne lowered her gaze, suppressing her anxiousness as she let the extremely oppressive gaze fall on her.

The nervous Sarah still had bruises from being beaten and stayed close to her daughter.

Everyone was waiting for Anthony's decision.

After hearing what the police said, Bianca immediately walked over with tears, looking extremely aggrieved as she cried, "Yes ...my mom was too angry and dragged me here. But Sarah was just so rude with her words. She said as long as it was true love, the woman shouldn't be considered a homewrecker. I really didn't expect that Sarah would destroy not only the relationship between Mr. and Mrs. Marwood but also my parents. I really can't accept it..."

The paramedic glanced at the cold Anthony in fear and replied, "There's no examination equipment here, so we need to go to the hospital."

Anne said, "Since you're already apologizing, let's just let the police handle the matter!" Then, she followed the paramedics.

Seeing that, Bianca hurriedly said, "Anthony, she took videos of the scene, and she planned to post them online!"

Anthony's gaze turned sharp, and the bodyguard on the other side blocked Anne's way.

Anthony walked forward and said, "Hand over your phone "

Anne took a step back in horror, not wanting to do that

Sarah immediately protected her daughter. "What are you trying to do? Officers, you saw how they bullied us! Do you think you're all that just because you're powerful?!"

"I'm more interested in knowing what happened to you and Nigel," Anna said.

"Nothing happened It was only a brief episode It's getting late, so get some sleep! I'm going to bed too."

Anne stood by the bed, feeling depressed. There was a bed beside her, but she did not feel sleepy
Moreover, Sarah was unwilling to talk to her about the past, and it was useless to force her, so Anna simply walked out of the ward.

Anna noticed that Tommy was not around, so she called him, "Where are you?"

"At home. Am I supposed to be with you all the time?"

"No need. Thank you for today," Anne replied.

"You have many chances to thank me in the future."

After the call ended, Anna stared at the phone for a while.

She was feeling very horrible. Not only were her problems multiplying, but she still had to worry about whether Anthony would cause her trouble. After all, Anthony's face was icy at that time Then again, it was no surprise. Anne did force Bianca to 'apologize', and Anthony would surely feel distressed.

"Listen to me if you want to keep your hand," Anthony warned.

"No. Don't..." Anthony cried, dinging to the wall with her hands.

How could she resist Anthony with her strength?

In the end, Anthony still dragged her away, leaving trails of nail prints on the white wall...

Anne realized that whether she offended Anthony or not, she would not have a good ending. It was as if even breathing was a sin.

It was already noon when Anne woke up, and the room was a mess, including herself. She hugged the pillow and cried her heart out, sobbing and choking in tears.

After crying for a long time, Anne finally calmed down. Indeed...she still needed to get out of bed and care for her children after crying. She could not tell anyone what she suffered, pretending nothing ever happened.

Walking out of the room, Anne found her bag thrown in the living room. Then, she took her phone and saw two missed calls.

Both were from Sarah.
