Chapter 321

Sarah touched Anne's forehead and asked ly child, did something traumatize you?"

Anne dodged. "I'm good." Then, she added after hesitating, "Mom, why don't you leave Luton with me?"

"Why?" Sarah was puzzled. "Are you worried about the Faye family? I'm not afraid of anything! But if you want to leave, I'll follow you."

Anne looked at her in surprise. "I thought you wouldn't want to."

"I'm not afraid of them, but they disgust me," Sarah said, "out of sight, out of mind!"

There was only one concern left in Anne's mind, her children. First, she would need to find the right time to tell Sarah...

Anne waited until Sarah took a nap, and she texted Anthony when she thought of something, [I talked to Nigel when he came to the hospital. He told me he was divorced when he met my mom. So, she was never a homewrecker.)

The distance was so close that Anne's j instantly dropped. When she returned to her senses, Anne tilted her head back, got up, and left the seat.

"I'm eating with my mom. Enjoy your dinner." Anne refused.

"Aren't you quick to turn your back on me?" Tommy got up and said in a strange tone, "Didn't you say you wanted to thank me a few days ago? Is that how you repay me?"

Anne could not find the words to argue. After all, she was grateful, and it was indeed unjustified to forget his help in the blink of an eye.

"Where are we having dinner?"

Tommy instantly smiled. "Let's go, and don't worry as there won't be seafood."

Anne followed Tommy to the restaurant for dinner as if she was completing a mission.

Dorothy chuckled. She liked how her husband relied on her so much. No one could else compare to her, and she could not be replaced either! However, the way Nigel looked at Anne just now made her uncomfortable. After all, Anne was young and beautiful, and that pretty little face could definitely charm any man!

"I didn't expect Sarah to be alone after giving birth to a child. However, I heard that she and Ron had just divorced not long ago. It seems that when they married, Sarah concealed the fact that she had given birth to a child, and she was divorced after it was discovered. How could a mother abandon her daughter to someone else while she married and enjoyed life? She's such a horrible person." Dorothy shook her head in contempt.

Nigel became gloomier when he heard that. "Where did you hear that?"

"I found out after a little inquiry. After all, it's related to Bianca's future husband's family, so we must know a little about them. But Anthony didn't plan to invite anyone from his father's side, not a single one," Dorothy said.

She was now confident that Anthony and Tommy were not on good terms. Otherwise, why would he not invite Tommy?

Anne did not go to the hospital after dinner and returned to her neighborhood directly.

Downstairs, she received a call from Sarah, who was puzzled. "Are you dating someone right now?"

"No."

“I think I sprained my leg.” Nigel seemed to be in pain.

Anne was in a dilemma. Should she pretend she did not see it, or should she help him?

If he sprained his leg, he could not drive, right?!

“Can you drive? Do you mind sending me to the hospital?” Nigel asked for her help.

This put Anne in a difficult situation. It felt like she was caught in a position where she could not decide if she should help the fallen elderly on the road.

In the end, Anne sent Nigel to the hospital for an examination and X-ray scan.

Two hours later, Nigel received the paternity test, which indicated that he was Anne's biological father.

Nigel's hands were shaking.

Sarah was actually pregnant with his child back then. When did she find out she was pregnant? After or before the breakup?

Nigel sat on the bench for a long time and did not leave, feeling very upset. He did not know he had another daughter, letting her grow up without fatherly love. He, felt extremely guilty.

Anne was home alone and had nothing to do, so she went for a walk. Later, she went to the children's clothing store, wanting to buy a few pairs of shoes for the triplets.

Anne felt like someone was following her as she walked along the road. Finally, she turned and was shocked to find Nigel standing not far from her.

Why did they meet again?

Nigel approached Anne and stared at her face as if wanting to make up for the missing years. He knew that looking at her this way would not be enough, but how could he tell her that he was her biological father? After so many years of absence, would she hate him?

Not only that, but Nigel also went to investigate and discovered that Anne had lived a tough life, especially the torture she suffered from Anthony's side...

Anne thought about it and thought about the past. She thought Nigel made this call because he wanted

She doubted she could prove her innocence.

"...I don't understand."

"I heard that Anthony asked you to leave Luton before, but you didn't want to?"

"Since my mother...my aunt, was killed, I haven't found the murderer, so I will stay," Anne explained.

"Bianca said you threatened her with the baby in your stomach before?" Nigel asked.

Anne's heart sank.

She was busy drying herself and putting on her bathrobe.
She went out with wet hair and looked at Tommy in the room with his arms crossed and his expression calm.
"I thought you were going to shower all night."
Anne's face was not as pale as before because of the bath, and she looked as delicate as a flower.
She walked aside, sat down on the sofa, and wiped her hair with a towel.

“That video on the Internet won’t be going away for a while,” Tommy said.

“Whatever. Anyway, this is what Anthony’s wanted, so let him gloat all he likes,” Anne said.

“Anthony has issues,” Tommy said.

Anne thought to herself, ‘You are no better yourself.’”

They were brothers, after all.

“Currently, it is difficult to find a solution. You can only hope some other viral videos replace it. However, Bianca must have thought of dealing with this,” Tommy said.

Anne took out her mobile phone and saw the video of someone throwing eggs at her and Tommy, who appeared behind her inside the video.

Those people were not afraid of a lawyer’s letter, and they still uploaded the videos anyway.

The whole internet was criticizing her.

She scrolled through the comments... Most of the netizens were scolding Anne, and she felt very heartbroken.

Anne threw the phone away. “That’s it. I’m sleepy and want to sleep. Can you go out?”

At this moment, Sarah was answering Dorothy's call.

They were quarreling.

Dorothy shouted irrationally, "Sarah, is there something wrong with you? Do you think anyone would believe the story you made up? The lengths you go to to get closer to Nigel, indeed!

"Since you don't believe it, why are you so angry?" Sarah was more rational than Dorothy.

Only she knew in her heart what kind of torment it was.

"You go and tell Nigel that he can do a paternity test if he doesn't believe it. Or I'll send mine to you when I'm done?" Sarah hung up the phone without waiting for Dorothy to respond.

She was in a hurry to leave with Anne.

When this happened.

She saw the video on the Internet last night.

She did not sleep all night and made this decision.

When she saw Anne's embarrassment when she was attacked and thrown eggs, she could not stand it at all as a mother.

She understood his concerns.

In that case, she would continue to act ignorant...

The ringing of the phone stopped abruptly, and Anne threw the phone aside.

Tommy, who had been in the room, scrolled through the phone in his hand and said, "In a short period, all the searches about you on the Internet have been removed.
