Chapter 421 Nevertheless, Anne understood that Nigel was just protecting his daughter, and there was nothing wrong with that. Yet, what about Sarah? Did she deserve this? Then again, Dorothy and Bianca were his rightful family... Anne noticed the movement of Anthony's location on her phone. Then, she immediately got up in a panic, ran out of the coffee shop, and ran toward the Archduke Group.

As soon as she arrived at the door, she saw Anthony about to get into his car in the distance.

Anne shouted his name and ran forward. However, she was stopped by Anthony's bodyguards before she could even get close, keeping the distance between them.

Anthony's aura was imposing, and he looked at Anne with his sharp, obsidian eyes indifferently.

Anne calmed herself down and steadied her breathing. "Can I talk to you for a few minutes? My mom...can't you let her go?"

Chapter 422 "Anne, what's wrong? Did you get the ticket?" Sarah urged.

"Mom, I can't buy your ticket...your identification card is invalid," Anne said helplessly.

"Huh...is Anthony only going to be satisfied if we're dead? Is he out of his mind?" Sarah was exasperated. "Mom, just find a place to settle down first. I'm afraid you won't be able to come here for the time being."

Anne had looked for Anthony and met him, but she could not do anything. Perhaps it would be more effective if she waited for a few more days and begged Anthony again when he calmed down...

"I can't go to Luton anymore? I can't go there, and you can't leave! Are we only going to contact each other by phone? I don't want that!"

"Even if you don't want to, you have no choice. Anthony's unwilling to let it go."

"Did you look for him?"

"Yes."

Sarah was annoyed. Nothing was working her way, and she almost lost her temper. However, she knew being angry would not solve the problems, so she could only compromise. After all, she was not going to sleep by the roadside tonight!

Chapter 423 Anne got home, took a shower, and changed her clothes. Then, she went to the balcony and found that Tommy had left. Later, Anne went to the children's school, which she rarely would. To be exact, she hardly ever did, which was terrible. No matter how busy the parents were, they would still go to their children's school. If she did not show up from time to time, it would be unfair to the three little ones. After all, they never had a father... Anne entered the school gate and headed to nursery school. From a distance, she saw a lot of little kids playing on the playground, interacting with their seniors who were taking physical education classes. From afar, it was like Anne had entered a paradise of cuteness. "Charlie, Chris, Chloe..." Anne walked over.

The three little kids playing around with their other friends were stunned when they saw their Mama, and they ran over happily, shouting, "Mama!"

"Mama!"

“Mama, you’re here!”

They threw themselves one after another into Anne’s embrace.

Anne groaned and fell to the ground. However, she was still all smiles and even hugging them tightly. “Mama, why are you here?” “Are you here to see us?”

No family would accept her!

Her initial good impression of Anne hit rock bottom.

“You surely are something else! And your aunt...no...your mom, Sarah! I must be blind to know you both!” Joanne had misjudged their characters, and she warned, “Don’t get close to my son anymore. Do you understand?”

“Don’t worry. I was never Mr. Newman’s girlfriend. In fact, he used me as a shield because he didn’t want to go on blind dates anymore,” Anne explained, “I still believe that mutual feelings are important in a relationship to ensure a long-lasting marriage.” Joanne did not know what Anne was implying, and she thought Anne had no right to speak to her that way. The point was Lucas had personally told her that he had a crush on Anne, and they ate together more than once. Hence, saying Lucas was using her as a shield seemed too far-fetched!

However, Joanne was relieved that Anne was self-aware.

“Also, can you not tell others about my children? Especially my mom...she doesn’t know anything.”

“She doesn’t know about it?” Joanne was surprised.

Lucas froze. He appeared indifferent on the surface, but he was actually racking his brain to find a way to deal with this. Joanne stood up abruptly. "You didn't mention anything about Anne having three children! Are you only going to tell me when you're married? If I didn't happen to meet them

Chapter 425 "You're already 30 years old. Could it be that you still have hopes for Anne?" Joanne asked suspiciously. Lucas adjusted his posture and said, "This is the last time."

"What?"

"The blind date. This is the last time. If it doesn't work out, you need to stop arranging blind dates for me."

"What if you deliberately say you don't like the girl? Of all the blind dates I've arranged for you, all of them said they liked you. The problem lies with you."

"It's not that you don't know the reason," Lucas replied, "I'm not doing it on purpose."

Joanne was at a loss for words and did not seem to be in a good mood. "Since you can like Anne, I'm sure you can like other women too!" Joanne would never accept a male 'daughter-in-law'. However, the thought of Anne not only unable to bear children, but also being the mother of three children made her even more panicked. "I've tried for so many years, but Anne is the only one. I know you don't like her, and you're trying your best to forget her!" Lucas said. Joanne was upset. "I'll arrange a time. I'm sure you'll like Ms. Kennedy." Joanne left the building in a depressed mood. Her perfect son actually liked...liked men!

She could not accept this.

Moreover, the woman that managed to change his mind was Anne!

This was simply annoying!

As she was walking to the parking lot, Joanne bumped into the triplets, who looked at her adorably with their big, curious eyes. Then, they greeted her.

Then, she took a sip of her coffee and pursed her lips. “How have you been?” Lucas asked, suppressing his emotions. "As usual...I go to work every day, spend time with the kids..." "You know what I'm saying."

"He's already engaged to Bianca, so it's no different than before." Anne appeared tense.

Lucas's gaze became cold.

"It's almost time. I'll take the little ones back first," Anne said.

"Sure." Lucas did not stop her.

Anne got up and left.

Lucas put down his coffee and glanced out the window.

Teachers and students were passing by, but none of the school scenery caught his attention... On the way home with her children, Anne received a call. When she saw that it was Michelle, she quickly muted her phone. It was only after Anne got home and spent some time with the triplets that she took the time to call Michelle back.

"Are you trying to burn the bridges after all that?" Michelle said rudely. "Did I say that?"

"It's good that you don't have that idea. You saw my sincerity, right? Let's partner up and deal with Bianca."

Chapter 427 Anne went to the bathroom while on the phone, and she was speechless when she heard Sarah was playing blackjack. "Who are you playing blackjack with?" Anne asked.

"There happened to be a cardroom in the hotel, so I went to look around. Coincidentally, they were short of people, so I joined them."

"You don't even know them. Aren't you afraid of getting tricked again like last time?"

"I won't, so don't worry about it... Wait! 21! Blackjack! Anne, I'll call you back when I'm done. It's really different here."

Without waiting for Anne to respond, Sarah hung up.

Anne looked at her phone, feeling helpless.

This was considered a blessing in disguise, right? At least Sarah could have some fun and not feel miserable while she stayed in Santa Nila. Otherwise, Anne would only be worried for her.

Suddenly, someone rested their hand on Anne's shoulder. It was heavy, so it was definitely not a lady.

"Who did you call?" Tommy inched closer and asked.

Chapter 428 Anne told the housekeep everything and was ready to settle her salary. After all, Sarah would never come back anymore. However, Sarah wanted Anne to move out of her small neighborhood and into the mansion, which would be vacant anyway.

Anne knew that, but still had her three little ones, and staying in the small neighborhood could easily hide their identities.

It would not be so if they stayed in Sarah’s mansion. Even the condo that Nigel bought for her did not feel safe! Suddenly, Anne heard the sound of a car engine.

Anne was surprised and wondered who it was.

Not long after, Dorothy and Bianca arrogantly walked in.

Anne frowned, looking annoyed. “What are you doing here?”

“Bring our things in!” Dorothy instructed the driver, who was carrying several bags. Then, she announced, “From today, this is our hotel, and we can come and stay whenever we want.”

Chapter 429 Anne held back her anger and calmed herself down. "I'm taking some clothes." "Did I allow you to do that?" Bianca's gaze was vicious. "From now onward, everything in this mansion is mine, even the air you breathe! Get them out of here!"

The last sentence was for her driver.

The driver stepped forward and wanted to grab Anne. "Don't touch me! I can go on my own!" Anne shook off the driver's hand. Then, she left with the housekeeper.

Soon after, she heard Dorothy purposely raising her voice, saying, "The main reason is that we have a son-in-law like Anthony!"

The housekeeper was worried and asked, "Are we really not calling the police? What's the difference between them and a tyrant?"

"No. They'll leave on their own sooner or later..." Anne said as she looked at the mansion.

The housekeeper was confused. Would they really leave? They seemed to be deliberately making things difficult!

After settling the housekeeper's salary, Anne returned to her small neighborhood alone.

Chapter 430 The hotel receptionist immediately went to check Sarah's room.

Nigel urged the receptionist as he comforted Sarah.

When the receptionist arrived at Sarah's room, he found the door was opened slightly with the safety door chain still attached. It could be seen that someone really came and opened the door.

Sarah, who was hiding in the bathroom, only came out when they assured her that she was safe.

After that, the hotel staff came and checked everywhere and apologized to Sarah, saying that a guest had probably mistakenly entered her room.

Such an excuse was ridiculous.

Nigel, who had been on the phone, heard it and said to Sarah, "Pass the phone to the receptionist."

Sarah did as he said and let him communicate with the staff.

Sarah did not know what Nigel had said, but the staff appeared more humble now, and he kept apologizing on the phone and even bowing.

Sarah thought Nigel was really attractive at this moment.
