Chapter 711

“If I knew this would happen... I wouldn’t have gone abroad. Why did I leave...” Anne was filled with regret, and warm tears welled up in her eyes.

“Who would’ve known such a thing would happen? It’s not your fault.” Sarah felt sorry for Anne and also for Nigel.

Sometimes, Sarah did not know who she should feel sorry for among the three. In truth, her own life was not easy.

As she thought about it, she realized her life was simply too harsh.

“After your dad broke up with me, I was so angry that I cursed him every day. Why did I want to suffer so much to give birth to his child while he enjoyed his life? Especially the day I gave birth to you, I was in pain the entire time, and I wanted to slap Nigel so badly... I always thought that he’d lived a very comfortable life with his daughter after he remarried. But I didn’t expect that it hadn’t been easy for him...” Sarah’s eyes were red, and the more she spoke, the sadder she became. Then, she added, “I shouldn’t have hidden my pregnancy. I regret it so much...”

“Nothing. Tell me about this Mr. Kennedy,” Anne said, “I want to know more.”

“Okay.” Ken began to talk to Anne about Lionel Kennedy’s various hobbies.

After Ken left, Anne took out her phone and called Anthony. No matter what, it was better to contact him first.

The phone rang a few times before Anthony answered, and Anne asked, "Master, are you busy?"
"Calling me 'Master'? You must have something to ask me." Anthony's deep voice sounded.

Anne tried her best to be as demure as possible. "Yes. Can you let the children visit Grandpa in the ward? I think he might wake up when he hears their voices. This request... isn't too much, right?"

Anthony did not answer, making Anne somewhat anxious.

He would allow it, right?

Anne used to play golf as a major sport at Cambrick. Hence, she knew how to golf, but certainly not as well as Lionel, who often played the sport.

Nonetheless, Anne still bit the bullet and played along with Lionel for the company's sake. Without a doubt, Anne was badly defeated.

After a few rounds, Anne was completely humiliated.

"Hahaha. Even though you lost, you played well. You're a smart girl," said Lionel, "although Mr. Faye doesn't have a son, you're a great daughter!"

“Mr. Kennedy, you and my dad are the same age, so I think it’s only appropriate to call you Uncle Kennedy. Anyway, do you think we can continue the cooperation between our companies, Uncle Kennedy?” Anne seized the opportunity to ask.

Lionel raised his finger to stop her. “As I said, I’m not here today to discuss business, and I have no intention of cooperating with your company.”

“My Dad’s company had already cooperated with yours when he was still abroad, and you’re both long familiar with each other. Your decision to give up the cooperation is nothing more than the fact that medical care has been too uncertain recently, and my Dad’s company has yet to reach the peak of its profits. I can understand that, but it’s just that the benefits that you’re seeking, as far as I know, can’t last long.”

When Lionel realized who it was, he rushed forward to greet him, “Hello, Mr. Marwood. My name is Lionel Kennedy. I didn’t expect to bump into you here, and I’ve long been looking forward to meeting you. We just finished here, and I hope you’ll have a good time.”

Anthony glanced at Anne and said, “Since we’re here, let’s play together!”

Lionel was surprised. Although his business was not small, it was not worth mentioning compared to the powerful young man before him.

Let alone being able to play together.

However, Lionel still humbly said, "I'm golfing with a newbie, so I'm afraid we're not worthy of playing with you, Mr. Marwood."

"A newbie..." Anthony's obsidian eyes fixed on Anne, and he raised his hand to call her over.

Anne bit her lip and walked over reluctantly, secretly muttering, "What the hell is Anthony doing here? Is he really here for golf?"

"I didn't lie to you. On the other hand, what are you doing? Why are you here and disturbing the situation?" Anne asked.

"Do you have a problem with that?"

"...I won't dare to."

“I know you won’t.” Anthony grabbed Anne’s hand and pulled her over. Then, with her back up against his, he guided her step by step. “Pay attention.”

Anne bit her lip, appearing extremely uncomfortable.

Why was he teaching her how to golf this way under everyone’s watchful eyes? Anthony was too ignorant of the existence of others!

In fact, there was no need to play a game and decide on the winner. Furthermore, with Anthony’s sudden appearance, there was no need for her to show up in person to discuss business in Luton in the future!

However, Anne did not want this to happen. She wanted to know more about her father, and she wished to use her own efforts and intelligence to run her father’s company.

Anne turned her face away.

Anthony's thin lips pressed against her ears, making her tremble uncontrollably.

Anne could tell what Anthony meant by her so-called 'skill'.

She did not want such a skill!

Anthony's thin lips seductively lingered on her ears. He did not appear unhappy because

Anne turned her face away. After all, she was in his control, and he could get what he wanted with just a flick of a finger.

Moreover, she seemed interested.

"How long has it been since I wanted you? Hmm?" Anthony smelled her sweet body fragrance, and he recalled how heavenly she tasted, arousing him.

Anne noticed Anthony's change in mood, and she resisted slightly. "Aren't we picking up the children later?"

She did not want to do this kind of thing with Anthony at all. Each time it happened, it just made her understand clearer what she was to Anthony—just like a cheap mistress.

"Stay at Royal Mansion for the night." Anthony's breath was hot.

Feeling his hot breath on her delicate skin, Anne gritted her teeth, trying hard not to tremble.

Anne walked over and carried them. "Let's eat first. Grandpa is still sleeping."

"I—Is Grandpa not hungry?" Chloe asked.

"The doctors will put Grandpa on an IV drip," Anne said.

"I know...it's to replace meals," Chris said.

"That's right." Anne forced a smile.

While eating, Anne asked, "Mom, I heard from the nurse that you stayed here last night?"

Since she was exposed, Sarah simply replied, "It's the same as living at home."

"How can it be the same? What if you get sick?" Anne frowned.

Sarah looked at the triplets staring at her, and she reluctantly agreed. "Okay. I won't stay here anymore."

Suddenly, the ward door opened, and Bianca walked in. "That's right. You shouldn't stay here anymore. Otherwise, others might think he's your husband!"

Anne's face instantly turned sour as the children were present.

Dorothy joined Bianca. With a face full of mockery, she said, "Oh, you're having dinner? The triplets are here too. But did Anthony allow them to be here? Don't let immoral people corrupt them..."

Chapter 718

Back at the Royal Mansion, Anne did not see Anthony. Hayden informed her that Anthony was busy in the study with his company affairs, and he was not done yet. Then, Anne accompanied the children to their room and bathed them individually. As Chloe was a girl, she did not bathe with her brothers. Anne bathed Charlie and Chris first. Then, she and Chloe finally soaked in the bathtub together.

Anne could let the maids bathe the kids, but she wanted to spend more time with them and chose to do it herself.

Chloe put all the bubbles on her head, bobbing her little head, and asked, "Mama, do I look good?"

Anne hugged her and chuckled. "Yes."

"Let me put some on you." Chloe placed the bubbles on Anne's head, giggling after she had done so.

"What's wrong?" Anne turned to look at herself in the mirror next to her. Chloe had made two 'horns' on Anne's head, and she could not help laughing, "What am I?"

"Oh, I got it. Papa and Mama are going on a date, right?" said Chloe like a bright child.

What date? It was simply a matter of one person giving and the other person taking.

It was too romantic to say that it was a date.

Her relationship with Anthony could never reach that kind of stage.

It was after Anne tucked the triplets in that she went to Anthony's room.

By then, Anthony had already taken a shower. He was leaning against the bed while using his arm as a pillow to rest his head. It was unclear if he had fallen asleep.

Anne was hoping that he had fallen asleep. That way, she would be able to go back and keep her children accompanied.

She walked up to him to take a closer look.

She had to admit that Anthony was very good-looking. The lines of his facial features were a blend of both beauty and coldness.

It was more precise to say that it was because he looked overly cold that others could not see his beauty.

Anne turned her beautiful face to the side and reminded him with difficulty, “It’s...Hayden...”

Anthony’s gaze was filled with desire and his expression turned ice cold.

His mood became unusually ruthless as he was interrupted.

He got up, put his pajamas back on, and walked out of the bedroom after he fiercely opened the door.
“You’d better have something important!”

“It’s Ms. Faye’s mother. She called and said that Ms. Faye has gone missing,” said Hayden.

Anne, who was lying on the bed trying to catch her breath, was stunned. ‘Bianca?’

“Your phone was in the study, so she had no choice but to call me,” said Hayden, “she said Ms. Faye was worried that her father could not wake up, so she went to the church in the mountains to pray. In the end, she went missing. She asked for you to help look for Ms. Faye.”

“Bring my phone,” Anthony ordered after he calmed his irritating emotions.

“Yes.”
