Chapter 731

The smile on Anne's face was so bright that Anthony could not take his eyes off it.

"Have you all eaten your breakfast yet?" Anne asked the triplets.

"Mama hasn't eaten yet! Has Mama eaten already?" Chloe asked.

Anne smiled. "Not yet."

Hayden said, "Then, right on time. The children can eat with their mother."

Anthony picked up Chloe. "Come on, let's go and eat."

Anne held her two sons in each hand and headed to the dining room. She noticed that Bianca was not there.

It must be true that she had left last night, just as Anthony had said.

The breakfast at Royal Mansion was sumptuous, taking up half of the table. It looked just like a buffet.

However, it was not the first time Anne had eaten here, and she was used to it.

The maid standing at the restaurant's entrance had a spark in her eyes.

She was the one who had been bribed by Bianca.

However, she left Dorothy's number just in case the matter was uncovered and Bianca was exposed.

As soon as Dorothy got the news, she informed Bianca.

Bianca was so angry that she smashed the oxtail soup in front of her on the floor. "Anne, that b*tch! I'll kill her! Why do you have to snatch him away from me?"

"Don't be angry. It's not worth it to piss yourself off over that kind of person!" Dorothy felt sorry for her.

Bianca lay back in her chair. "I called Anthony last night, and he said he was busy. I thought he was actually busy, but it turns out he was with Anne! Anne must be beside Anthony when I called, right? She must have been laughing at me!"

She was so angry that she smashed all the other cups, plates, and spoons onto the floor, scattering them over the place.

"No, no, no! She's just a mistress. How dare she laugh at you?" Dorothy reassured her.

"She is the most shameless woman that I've ever seen!" Bianca's eyes were full of rage. "I won't let her get away with this! Tell the maid to keep an eye out for them, and tell me the exact date and time they're going out!"

Ashlynn returned to her senses and realized she was not hurt.

It was because she was startled that she lost her balance.

She squatted down to pick up the contracts scattering on the floor. Ms. Vallois was still waiting for her.

"Is everything all right?" A man with a low voice said as he helped her to pick up the contracts.

"It's fine." Ashlynn was fine, so she did not want to guilt trip anyone. The man gave her the contracts he had picked up. He had a large, slender, good-looking hand with a valuable wristwatch. Ashlynn took the contract, looked up, and said, "Thank you..... Ah!"

She shrieked and sat down on the ground. The contract in her hand once again scattered all over the place.

However, Ashlynn could not care less. It was as if her soul had left her as she looked at the man in front of her. Her face was pale, and she was trembling all over.

Corentin was puzzled. "What's wrong with you?"

"No... This is impossible... You're dead..." Ashlynn was trembling so hard that she was unable to form a sentence. She looked at the man in horror as she moved her body backward.

"Do you know me?" Corentin felt even more puzzled and moved closer forward.

"Chichi, are you hungry?" Ashlynn hurriedly fed it as soon as she got home.
She could only give Chichi one meal in the morning and one in the evening because of her job.
'Honey, why are you doing this to me? Are you satisfied now that I'm dead?'
'Ashlynn, look at me. I'm covered in blood. You can touch and feel if it is blood.'
'Ashlynn, you sent me to jail. I will haunt you even if I am dead!'
'Ashlynn!'
"Ahh!" Ashlynn woke up from the nightmare, sweating profusely and trembling with fear." It's not my fault... It's not me, no...no..."
"Woof!"
Ashlynn was so scared that she covered her head with her hands. She finally returned to her senses after hearing Chichi's bark. She stared blankly at Chichi and her rental room, calming herself down slowly.
She said while taking Chichi in her arms, "I'm sorry. I scared you, didn't I? I had a nightmare. He

She was only sixteen at the time. Even though she lived in a slum where people were impolite and the environment was dirty, she was still kind and naive.

For a long time after, she still regretted meeting Salvatore.

She had no idea that he was born with the blood of the devil...

After clearing her doubts, Ashlynn returned to Luton.

She continued working, treating the incident as a small episode in her life that had nothing to do with her.

The officer also said he was just someone who looked alike...

The next day when she went to work, Ken asked her to deliver documents to Anne.

She knocked on the door and went in. She saw that a guest was there.

Ashlynn was once again shocked when she saw the guest's face. Her heart almost stopped.

Corentin gave her a nod.

She immediately saw his profile.

He was the future head of the Lloyd family, the only heir.

Corentin started to manage the Lloyd family business at a young age. He did that in his teens, and then he studied abroad.

After studying abroad, he returned and continued to be in charge of the Lloyd family.

He was excellent in every aspect.

Even if he was not the heir of the Lloyd family, his achievements were still admirable.

His life was very different from Salvatore's, and it was impossible for them to be the same person.

Ashlynn was once again amazed that there were people who looked so alike. She thought that Salvatore was back, almost scaring her to death...

Anne was working in her office when there was a knock on the door. What followed was the triplets.
"Mama!"

Anne was taken aback, raised her head, looked at the triplets, and got up in surprise. "Why are you here?"

While thinking about it, the office door was pushed open without even a knock.

Anne looked up and saw the person who came in and sighed inwardly.

Of course, it was Anthony.

"Papa!" the triplets called out.

"Is Papa here to pick us up?" Chloe asked.

"I don't want to go back. I want to play!" Charlie was not happy, and he fell on the sofa, refusing to leave.

Anthony picked him up from the sofa and sat down. "You can have fun back home, can't you?"

Charlie blinked his big, fierce eyes. "Is Mama going back with us?"

"That depends on whether your mother is willing or not," Anthony said.

The triplets looked at Mama expectantly.

“Why not marry if they already have kids?”

“Don’t you understand? The three children were an accident. Mr. Marwood’s true love is Bianca!”

Everyone understood.

“Poor Ms. Vallois. She has three children with Anthony, yet she cannot be Mrs. Marwood.” Mr. Walker shook his head and sighed.

“Even so, she should have a lot of benefits, shouldn’t she? Mr. Marwood has a lot of influence in Luton. He has money and power.”

“That won’t happen. Ms. Vallois’ mother once intervened in the relationship of Mr. Marwood’s parents, she...” Mr. Walker started gossiping but was interrupted by Ashlynn.

“Mr. Walker, aren’t you getting off work? It’s already after working hours.”

Mr. Walker looked exasperated. “I am going. I am going. Let’s go.”

In the Royal mansion, it was time for dinner.

Anne and Anthony were having dinner with three children, and they looked like a happy family.

Anne was slightly taken aback, and she thought it was rented.

It was also her first time on a yacht.

Only rich people could afford to be on yachts.

An ordinary person like her could not afford to be on one.

"Mama, hurry up and get on the boat with us. I want to play!" Charlie shouted excitedly.

Anne smiled and was about to say 'yes' when her phone rang.

She thought it was a call from work but the call was from Dr. Brown.

'What's wrong?'

Was it good or bad news...

She stepped aside to answer. "Hello?"

"Ms. Vallois, your mother fell in the ward and suffered a head injury."

"What?" Anne raised her heart.

"Do not worry. It's been dealt with. It's just a slight concussion, and she needs some rest."

"I'll be there right away." Anne hung up the phone and looked back at Anthony. Looking at the triplets, she could not bear to tell them she was leaving because they did not have many chances to come out to have fun together. She walked up to Anthony and said in a low voice, "Why do not you take the children to play? I have something to do, and I might not be able to go."

"What's the matter?" Anthony's black eyes were cold.

“My mother fell in the ward and suffered a slight concussion. I have to go back and have a look.” After Anne finished speaking, she looked at Anthony nervously for fear that he would not agree.

She could go on the yacht if forced, but she would be very restless along the journey.

“Take them up first,” Anthony ordered the bodyguards.

Sarah thought for a moment, then said loudly, "Dorothy hit me. She wanted to kill me!"

"Yes, I saw it on the surveillance cameras. She also said that she bumped into you, but it was by accident. Do you think that was the case? It wasn't very obvious on the surveillance cameras," Anne said.

"By accident? They hate us so much." Sarah doubted that.

"I know, but we have no proof." Anne frowned.

"By the way, didn't you say you wanted to go on vacation on the sea with the children? Why haven't you gone yet?" Sarah remembered and asked.

"I didn't because I heard you were hurt."

"Where are the children?"

"They're still on the yacht."

Sarah said, "I think that's what they want. They want you to leave your kids! Leave me alone and play with the children! It's such a rare opportunity."
