

Predestined 1051

Chapter 1051

Alyssa really never thought that Luther would put medicine in the dishes for her.

But after hearing Luther's words, she felt that what he said was reasonable.

Karl would definitely find Luther soon.

Luther's rank is far worse than Karl's, and Karl will be able to find him soon. Therefore, Luther will first give Alyssa medicine and make other arrangements.

As for where Luther moved Alyssa to after the drug was administered, she herself didn't know.

Alyssa's eyelids became heavier and heavier, and her head heavier.

The consciousness was gradually disappearing and she became dizzy, and she realized that Luther had really grown up and was no longer the sensible and simple Luther from before.

Luther watched Alyssa lying on the dining table and closed his eyes, and called her.

"Sister Alyssa."

There was no response, she really fainted.

Luther stood up, walked to the door and opened the door, and said to the outside: "Come in."

When the voice fell, two tall and sturdy women came in outside the door.

Both women have a deep expression without a hint of a smile.

They walked to Alyssa and leaned over to help her.

Luther watched from the side and saw that their movements were a bit rude, and she frowned slightly and said, "She is a patient, please act lightly."

The two women glanced at each other and said nothing, but their movements were lightened a lot.

The two women took Alyssa out, and smoothly closed the door for Luther.

Luther sat in the room, looking forward without focus, not knowing what he was thinking.

It didn't take long for the door to be kicked open.

Luther looked up and saw Karl walking toward him with a gloomy expression.

Karl was full of murderous aura, and strode to Luther, his tight face was full of patience and an expression of rage about to erupt.

"Where is Alyssa?"

There was a hoarseness in his voice that he hadn't spoken for a long time after running around to find Alyssa, and his eyes full of gloom were staring at Luther closely.

It seemed that if Luther couldn't say an answer that satisfies him, the dark bird under his eyes would rush out of the cage and turn into action.

During the few hours when Alyssa was taken away by Luther, Karl had already exhausted his patience.

He waited for two seconds before Luther could speak, before he swiped a punch.

Although Luther had been training for the past few years and had a very good physique, he was still beaten back several steps by Karl's furious punch.

More than that, bloodshot spilled from the corner of his mouth.

Luther stretched out his hand and touched the place where Karl had beaten. It was so numb that he didn't feel it. It was so angry that it took so much effort.

"Cousin, this is the first time you hit me."

As if he thought it was very funny, Luther gave a short smile after finishing talking.

Luther suddenly changed the conversation and said, "People in Rostenvel say you are cruel and crazy, but who knows that I almost grew up next to you, but this is the first time you beat me up."

Karl's eyes flashed slightly, and the anger on his face was not cleared, and he repeated: "Where is Alyssa."

Luther's eyes gradually sank, and he clenched his fists and confronted Karl: "Why did you drive Mom crazy?"

Is my father's death related to you?

And grandpa's paralysis, my brother's death."

When Luther spoke, he stared at Karl.

He wanted to find a trace of a guilty conscience or regret on Karl's face.

But Karl's face not only didn't look guilty, but also contained a hint of sarcasm.

Chapter 1052

Luther mustered up a great deal of courage to plan this incident of using Alyssa to force Karl.

But Karl's expression told him that he seemed to be saying a joke.

The calm that had been disguised all the time, broke at this moment.

Luther lost his calm and shouted at Karl: "You answer my question!"

"Why should I answer your question?"

The ridicule on Karl's face was even stronger: "I have been taking you for so many years, but I only taught you to be soft and trustworthy, and use sick women to achieve your own goals?"

From the moment Alyssa was taken out of the resort, Luther kept telling himself from the bottom of his heart that everything he did was right.

Karl was sorry for him.

It was Karl who caused the death and injury of the Adams' family in order to achieve his shameful purpose.

But at this time, when he was so mocked by Karl, he started to feel guilty.

"Iâ€¦!" Luther said, but could not speak.

How much Karl once trusted Luther, now how much he hates him.

Karl's patience has long been exhausted: "I'll ask you one last time, where is Alyssa."

His eyes were as cold as icy, and Luther was shivered by him.

But Luther had the courage to let it go, suppressing the panic and anxiety in his heart, and said: "As long as you tell me the reason for driving Mom crazy, I will tell you the whereabouts of sister Alyssa."

"Ah."

Karl sneered, with contempt in his eyes: "If you have the ability, check it out by yourself. If you don't have the ability, you can live a life of confusion."

Luther was thoroughly stimulated.

He must have a lot of courage to do this, but in Karl's eyes he was like a kid making a joke.

This kind of cognition hit his heart and made him lose his mind.

Luther clenched his teeth tightly, with resentment and unwillingness in his eyes, and said aloud: "What qualifications do you have to laugh at me, you are not going crazy for a woman, you can do everything, you don't want to know Where is Alyssa?"

I tell you, I gave Alyssa to Wilfred!"

Karl's expression took a halt, and the next moment, there was a burst of killing intent in his eyes.

Luther, who was standing opposite him, also clearly felt the killing intent emanating from Karl's body.

He had no doubt that Karl would really want to kill him if he tried again.

But Karl didn't do anything again, turned around and walked out blankly, taking out his mobile phone while walking.

It seemed that he didn't even bother to say a word with Luther.

As soon as he left, Luther squatted to the ground.

The nerves that had been tense when facing Karl finally got a moment of relaxation.

When he gradually recovered his calmness, he realized that not only did he not know from Karl's mouth that his mother was driven mad, but he also told Karl where Alyssa was going.

Luther looked bleak, and laughed at himself.

At first the laughter was low, then the laughter grew louder.

In Karl's eyes, his methods were really inferior to a single strand of hair.

Karl could defeat him with no effort.

Not only did his plan fail, but he also lost his closest relatives in the world.

He and Lina were actually not close, but Lina was his biological mother. He couldn't calm down at all when he learned that Lina was driven crazy by Karl.

Both are extremely important to him.

He couldn't calm down. When he calmed down, Alyssa had been sent out by him.

Chapter 1053

"Is she awake?"

"No."

"Is the effect of the medicine yet to pass?"

"Yes, in order to prevent her from waking up halfway and causing trouble, the dose of the medicine is a bit large, but she should be waking up soon too." "Get everything ready, and she will be checked as soon as she wakes up."

In the dizziness, Alyssa heard the conversation next to her ears.

The conversation became clear for a while, then blurred, and finally the room became quiet again.

Alyssa opened her eyes, still a little groggy in her head.

She stared at the ceiling blankly for a while, her mind became clearer, and she heard the sound of the "di di" one after another.

The sound of the instrument was not loud, rhythm after sound, it seemed cold and gloomy.

She slowly turned her head, looked around, and found that the room she was in was like a laboratory.

It was a bit like the laboratory that Karl had built for Clifford before.

Where did Luther send her?

She only remembered that she fainted after eating before, and she didn't know that Luther had brought her here.

She called out tentatively: "Luther?"

There was still only the sound of various instruments in the room, and there was no response from Luther.

Alyssa moved her body and tried to sit up.

She pressed her hands tightly on the bed, propped up her upper body, quickly loosened one hand and took the pillow and placed it behind her. When her hands were weak, she fell on the pillow.

With the pillows behind her, Alyssa's vision became wider than before.

“Squeak! It was the sound of the door being pushed open from the outside.

The door was not visible at Alyssa's location, and the door should be outside the corner.

Soon, a woman in a white coat walked in from outside.

The woman was wearing a mask. Seeing Alyssa sitting leaning on the bedside, she looked at her in surprise: “Awake?”

Before Alyssa could speak, the woman turned and went out again.

Although she didn't know why she suddenly went out again, Alyssa knew that she would definitely come back again.

Sure enough, it didn't take long for the door to be pushed open again from the outside.

Alyssa looked in the direction of the door and saw a group of people in white coats approaching.

The head is a middle-aged man.

Although he is wearing a white lab coat and a mask, she can tell from his carefully managed hair that he is a very well-dressed person.

In other words, this is a very distinguished person.

The man walked up to her with a gentle voice: “Woke up.”

Alyssa stared at him closely: “Who are you?”

The man's eyes narrowed slightly, as if he was smiling.

Subsequently, the man took off his mask, revealing a gentle face that had been settled by the years.

Alyssa opened her eyes wide and exclaimed, “Wilfred!”

She saw this face on the news, because Wilfred is Clifford's adoptive father, so her memory is especially deep.

Wilfred laughed again: “It seems that Miss Alyssa also knows me, so it will be easier to handle things.”

Alyssa's mind turned quickly: “You told Luther about his mother, and then you bewitched him to arrest me and threaten Karl?”

Karl hid the Adams' family's affairs very well, no outsider knew.

Although haven't confirmed it with Wilfred, Alyssa feels that Wilfred must know it.

“Bewitch?”

Wilfred shook his head: "This word is used incorrectly. If he didn't have an idea in his heart, it would be useless no matter how others persuaded him."

Chapter 1054

Alyssa sneered: "I didn't expect it to be you."

In fact, this is understandable.

Although Luther was still young and his mind was immature, he was not as cautious and smart as Karl, but he was not someone who could just listen to others.

Alyssa was deceived by Clifford's hypocritical appearance.

And Clifford is Wilfred's adopted son, and a mountain is even higher than the other, so he can raise an adopted son like Clifford, which shows that Wilfred is also a remarkable figure.

Moreover, the news of Wilfred's death spread all over the world.

Who knows that Wilfred is actually not dead?

Wilfred's smile remained unchanged: "Miss Alyssa doesn't have to be so surprised, we should have met long ago, but there was an accident in the middle."

He paused, seeming to think of something unhappy, frowned slightly, and quickly stretched out: "However, although we met much later, the effect is still the same."

"What does it mean to meet long ago?"

Alyssa heard him say a bunch of nonsense and grasped the point.

"It means destined to meet."

Wilfred looked at Alyssa very strangely, not as if he was looking at a person, but as if he was looking at an item he liked very much.

Alyssa looked at his weird gaze, and then thought that the place where she was at this time was a laboratory.

Linking the two together, Alyssa had bad guesses in her heart, and her face turned pale.

Wilfred was shrewd. Seeing Alyssa's expression change, he guessed what she was thinking.

"Same as heard, a very smart child."

Wilfred said, raising his hand behind him, and someone took a chair over.

Wilfred sat down by the bed, as if to talk to Alyssa for a long time.

Although Alyssa had guessed in her heart, she was not sure.

He heard about her from Clifford.

She looked at Wilfred calmly and did not speak.

Wilfred seemed to have known her for a long time, and continued to say to her in a familiar tone: "Clifford, you know, he is the most gifted child I have ever seen in my life, and I have high hopes for him, even my own. No son can match him."

"But, he wants to kill me."

Wilfred sighed, "It really broke my heart."

Alyssa listened to him chattering a lot like an ordinary father, but her heart was still very clear.

She didn't believe that Wilfred was going to talk to her parents and talk about things.

Alyssa was impatient: "What are you going to do!"

Wilfred's expression became serious for a second, and Alyssa felt that he might also have a psychological problem to change his face so quickly.

"I wanted to talk to you a little longer, but if you don't want to, let it go."

Despite what Wilfred said, there was no trace of regret in his tone.

He stretched out his hand, and someone next to him handed him a thick folder.

"After you wake up, we finally meet officially."

Wilfred continued with enthusiasm in his eyes, "Experimental body number two."

Alyssa had just guessed that what Wilfred had to do might be related to some experiment.

But after getting the answer from Wilfred, she felt a little creepy.

Wilfred called her "Experimental Body No. 2".

She is the subject.

Wilfred said in a soothing soft voice: "Miss Alyssa, don't be afraid. Although you have some problems, you are more experimental now. This is a good thing."

Chapter 1055

Alyssa looked at Wilfred coldly: "What experiment?"

After hearing Alyssa's question, Wilfred's eyes became more frantic: "An experiment that is valuable to the whole world. I spent a lot of manpower and material resources for this, and also consumed half of my life energy, although..." Alyssa interrupted him coldly: "So, as an experimental subject, do I need to listen to your nonsense?"

Let's talk about the point, stop talking nonsense, I don't want to know how many people you killed, how much money you spent, and how much time you spent on your so-called "experiment that is valuable to the whole world."

Go to his mother's experiment! Clifford was raised by Wilfred. He did so many abnormal things. Where can Wilfred who raised him be normal?

Besides, can a normal person treat a living person as an experimental subject?

And it was when Alyssa didn't know it.

Wilfred would only be more perverted than Clifford.

Alyssa now looks sick at Wilfred.

Wilfred's face suddenly changed.

Alyssa not only interrupted his enthusiasm for communication, but also angered him.

Wilfred curled the corners of his lips coldly and looked at Alyssa with a gloomy expression: "Do you know what happened to the last person who dared to talk to me like you?"

"How's it going for him?"

Is he dead?"

Alyssa looked indifferent: "Then you kill me. Anyway, I'm better off as I am now."

Alyssa would say this, naturally because she knew very well that she was very useful to Wilfred now.

Therefore, even if she irritated Wilfred with her words, Wilfred would not do anything to her.

Wilfred's mouth trembles with anger by Alyssa's words, but he quickly suppresses his anger.

He let out a long sigh of relief, calmed his emotions, and said, "Don't irritate me, it's no good for you."

Alyssa looked straight ahead, ignored Wilfred, and was not interested in what he said.

Wilfred laughed suddenly: "Since you are not interested in what I say, then we have to say something that interests you, for example! Let's guess what Karl can come over, how about it?"

Hearing the words "Karl", Alyssa turned her head to look at Wilfred.

Wilfred tilted his head slightly and smiled very mildly.

Alyssa clenched her hands and stared at Wilfred coldly.

Wilfred continued, "I look forward to Karl coming over, are you the same as me?"

Alyssa suddenly remembered that Wilfred had called her "Experimental Body No. 2".

In other words, there is also experimental subject number one.

Wilfred said that he expects Karl to come here. Is it also related to the subject?

Alyssa thought about the problem in her heart, still with a calm expression on her face: "Does it make any difference to me whether he comes or not?"

I will die sooner or later."

Wilfred said quietly: "No, our experiment has reached maturity, and you can survive."

"What about Subject One?"

Survived?”

Alyssa looked careless, as if she was really asking casually.

Wilfred is very true about the experiment. He said seriously: “Of course, but there was an accident in the middle of the experiment No. 1, which caused that link to be repeated. Don’t worry, we will definitely succeed.”

Alyssa thought in her heart, it turned out that there really was Experimental Subject One.

Chapter 1056

“That’s!” Alyssa wanted to say something, but she caught a glimpse of Wilfred raising hand.

The assistant standing behind him immediately took a needle.

There is still transparent liquid and body in the needle tube.

Alyssa noticed what Wilfred had to do, and she couldn’t help but shrink back.

But the next moment, two people came forward to hold her tightly.

Alyssa struggled and said loudly, “Let go of me!”

But no one cares about her at all.

Wilfred raised the needle and pierced her heavily.

Soon, Alyssa lost consciousness.

When she woke up again, she was no longer in the laboratory.

Alyssa looked around and found that it was a bedroom, with no way to tell where it was.

Alyssa shouted outside: “Anyone?”

At the next moment, someone opened the door and walked in.

What came in was a maid-like person, who was still wearing a maid’s uniform. She lowered her head and bent over respectfully towards Alyssa, “Miss Alyssa.”

Then walked towards her.

Alyssa watched the maid approaching and asked, “Where is this?

Where’s Wilfred?”

She didn’t know how long she had slept, or where it was.

She only remembered in a daze that Wilfred gave her a shot, and then she lost consciousness.

But the maid ignored her.

The maid walked over and directly picked up Alyssa from the bed.

Alyssa didn’t prepare for a while, she was suddenly picked up, and she was shocked.

The maid put her on the wheelchair without saying a word, took a coat to put on her, and took a blanket to cover her body.

Very detailed.

Alyssa squinted at the maid, and vaguely saw that the maid's outline was a bit deep, not as soft as an orientalist.

Alyssa's eyes widened suddenly when she thought of something.

After the maid pushed her out of the door, Alyssa's heart was confirmed.

She lives in a villa.

The villa is completely decorated in Western style.

The villa was very large and equipped with an elevator. The maid pushed her into the elevator and went downstairs to the restaurant.

Through the floor-to-ceiling windows, Alyssa saw the maple trees gradually reddening outside.

She just slept and was no longer in the country.

"Miss Alyssa, please have a meal."

The maid has prepared the meal.

Alyssa glanced at the food on the table and asked, "Where is Wilfred?"

I want to see him."

The maid lowered her eyes slightly, as if she hadn't heard Alyssa's words, pestering there like a wood.

Alyssa understood that the maids who took care of her were all instructions from Wilfred, and would not say a word to her.

No matter what Alyssa asked, they would not speak.

What is this?

Is house arrest in disguise?

Alyssa took a long breath and reached out to touch her eyebrows, feeling a mess in her heart.

Wilfred didn't know where, and the maid couldn't utter another extra word.

And she looks like this, even if she opens the door to let her escape, she can't escape.

Alyssa picked up the chopsticks and decided to eat first.

Although she was eating, she still paid close attention to the maids around her.

A maid walked out after seeing her picking up chopsticks to eat.

Alyssa glanced at the maid walking out, and wondered in her heart, is the maid going out to contact Wilfred?

Wilfred did not come back until she finished eating.

Alyssa glanced at the maid and asked, "I want to go for a walk."

The maid didn't refuse, so she pushed her outside.

Chapter 1057

Alyssa was only tentatively requesting, but she didn't expect the maid to respond directly.

Alyssa speculated from this that although Wilfred's people were not here, he must have explained everything clearly before he left.

He urged the servants not to deal with Alyssa's problem, but to meet her requirements as much as possible.

Think about it.

Alyssa is now an "experimental subject" to Wilfred.

It is also an "experiment that is valuable to the whole world" in Wilfred's words.

Wilfred naturally wanted to meet Alyssa's requirements as much as possible before controlling her.

This is not difficult to understand.

What Alyssa could not understand was what Wilfred was going to do next.

She was thinking about these things in her heart, but after abruptly recovered, she realized that she had been pushed outside by the servant.

The yard is full of flowers and trees. Although it is early autumn, many flowers are still blooming.

A thin layer of leaves on the ground.

At a glance, there are woods and grasses in the distance.

And a road that does not know where it extends.

There is no house and no one.

Except for the western-style buildings in the villa, there are no landmarks for Alyssa to guess where it is.

Do smart people like to build houses in deep mountains and old forests?

Karl was like that, and Wilfred was like that.

Alyssa pointed to the road outside the villa: "I want to go out and have a look."

The servant behind her hesitated for a moment, but still did not refuse Alyssa's request.

Alyssa was pushed out in a wheelchair.

After reaching the gate, Alyssa looked out carefully for a long time, but did not see other houses or people.

After a while, she laughed out of self-deprecating laughter.

Wilfred dared to put her here just like this. Naturally, he was absolutely sure that he would not let her escape, and no one would find her here.

Alyssa felt that if she had to escape from here on her own, there was almost no possibility.

Therefore, she can only wait for Wilfred to come back.

Wilfred is the only breakthrough.

Alyssa stopped the laughter and said faintly: "Go back, I'm tired."

The servant pushed her back without saying a word.

When entering the gate, Alyssa asked again: "When will Wilfred come back?"

The servant still ignored her.

Alyssa did not ask.

As she walked further in, she said again: "I want to eat fruit."

Soon, someone brought fruit over.

The cut fruits are also beautifully presented.

But Alyssa only took a look, then raised her hand and overturned the fruit plate.

"Who asked you to cut it up for me and then bring it?"

I want to cut and eat by myself."

Alyssa had a cold face, an unreasonable appearance.

The servant seemed to be a little surprised that Alyssa would suddenly become so angry, but didn't say much, turned around and took the fruit knife and fruit.

The servant walked over, and before the fruit knife in his hand reached Alyssa's hand, Alyssa reached out and grabbed it.

She put the fruit knife on her neck and threatened: "Let Wilfred come back now, or just wait to collect the body!"

The servant probably didn't expect Alyssa to be like this suddenly, but they were all surprised.

"Miss Alyssa, please calm down. I will now inform Mr. Mann to let him come back. Please put down the knife in your hand first."

"Unless he appears right in front of my eyes, otherwise I won't let go of the knife, you go and inform him, right now, go right away, I want to see him!"

Chapter 1058

The servants looked at each other, but persuaded Alyssa, but didn't mean to act immediately.

Alyssa could feel that none of these servants were powerless people, and they had more or less real skills in their hands.

They haven't taken any action, just thinking about grabbing the knife from Alyssa.

Alyssa saw their thoughts and pressed the knife against her neck tighter.

Threatening loudly: "I want you to inform Wilfred!"

Alyssa gritted her teeth, and forced a blood mark out of her neck with the knife.

These servants are not fuel-efficient lamps, so they have to see blood before doing what Alyssa said.

Alyssa didn't want to use this method of harming herself to achieve her goal, but now she is under house arrest too passive here, and there are too few ways to get back the initiative.

She couldn't think of a better way.

"I will contact Mr. Mann now!"

When the servant saw that Alyssa was coming for real, he was a little panicked: "You put the knife down, I'll go and notify Mr. Mann now."

Alyssa sneered and said, "In front of me, call Wilfred on the speakerphone."

The servant had no choice but to follow Alyssa's instructions.

If Wilfred came back and found something wrong with Alyssa, he would definitely not let them go.

One of the servants went out and took the cell phone, and dialed Wilfred's number in front of Alyssa.

It took a long time for the phone to get through.

When the phone was connected, the servant took a look at Alyssa before calling out into the phone: "Mr. Mann."

Wilfred on the other end didn't say anything, probably waiting for the servant to speak.

Alyssa directly said loudly: "Wilfred, I want to see you."

The phone was turned on and the speakerphone was turned on, and she shouted like this, and Wilfred on the other end of the phone could also hear her.

When Wilfred heard the words, he suddenly laughed lowly and said, "You don't have to threaten them. I am planning to come back, and I brought you a friend back."

As expected to be Wilfred, he could guess that Alyssa threatened the servant to call him before the servants said what it was.

However, when Alyssa heard him say "bring a friend", her heart shook, and her hand holding the fruit knife felt a little soft.

Isn't it Karl?

Karl was willing to do everything for her, what conditions did he agree to Wilfred?

After a brief panic, Alyssa quickly calmed down.

Wilfred only said "bring a friend back", not necessarily Karl.

Alyssa tried her best to make her voice sound calmer: "Really?

Which friend?"

Wilfred didn't say much to her: "You will know when you see."

After Wilfred finished speaking, he hung up the phone.

The servant also took this opportunity to snatch the fruit knife in Alyssa's hand.

Alyssa knew that Wilfred didn't need to lie to her, he said he would definitely come back if he wanted to.

Therefore, the fruit knife was robbed, and she did not respond.

She was faintly worried, Wilfred said "bringing a friend" back, who is it?

Alyssa was always worried that Karl would do stupid things for her. After thinking about it, she felt that it was Karl, and she was restless all day long.

It wasn't until the evening, when Smith was falling apart, that the sound of the car engine came from outside.

Intuitively, Alyssa felt that Wilfred was back.

Alyssa looked outside through the floor-to-ceiling windows, trying to see the outside scene clearly, but unfortunately the street lights outside were very dim, and she couldn't see the outside scene clearly.

Chapter 1059

All the servants in the villa went out to meet Wilfred.

Alyssa sat alone by the window, her surface calm, her heart was overwhelmed.

It won't be Karl, it definitely won't be him! Before long, a string of footsteps sounded behind her.

There was no sound of footsteps, and many people came in.

"Miss Alyssa, come out and meet old friends."

Wilfred's voice sounded behind her.

Alyssa stiffened, and slowly turned the wheelchair, turning back.

She lowered her eyes slightly, and slowly raised her head when she turned around.

Wilfred first came into view.

Wilfred wore a neat suit, and looked elegant and gentlemanly, but who knew that he was actually a person with a beastly heart?

A group of servants and subordinates followed Wilfred, but did not see the so-called “friends”.

A look of surprise flashed across Alyssa’s eyes.

Wilfred accurately caught the surprise in Alyssa’s eyes, and said with a smile: “I will let him clean up and see you again, so as not to scare you.”

Alyssa’s fingers on the armrest of the wheelchair tightened slightly, and the heart that had fallen a moment ago lifted up again.

But at this time, her mood slowly calmed down, and she also recovered a bit of calmness.

Long ago, she learned from Alvin that Wilfred admired Karl very much.

Therefore, if the person who came was Karl, Wilfred would not do anything to Karl, let alone say “clean up”.

The new guess in Alyssa’s heart hadn’t formed yet, and two of his subordinates came in from outside carrying people.

Wilfred raised his hands slightly, and the two men threw him in front of Alyssa.

The man thrown on the ground wore clean clothes, but his exposed hands and neck were hurt everywhere.

He was thrown to the ground and barely moved, only the slight ups and downs of his chest proved that he was alive.

Alyssa looked at him, then slowly widened her eyes, and said with doubts: “Clifford?”

The man lying on the ground heard Alyssa’s voice and moved slightly, turning his head to look at her.

An extremely simple movement that only took one second to turn his head, but it took him a full ten seconds to turn his head.

After he turned his head, Alyssa could see his face clearly.

Clifford’s face was also full of scars. If it hadn’t been for such a long time with him, Alyssa couldn’t be sure that he was Clifford.

Looking at Alyssa, Clifford’s somewhat dazed eyes became clearer, and then it became more complicated.

Alyssa raised her head and glanced at Wilfred.

Wilfred still looked like an elegant gentleman, with a smile on his face, as if Clifford’s tragic situation had nothing to do with him.

Alyssa was agitated, and then turned her gaze to Clifford.

She should have thought of it as Clifford.

At that time, news of Wilfred's death came suddenly, and later it was discovered that Wilfred's death might have something to do with Clifford. Although Wilfred had suspended his death, he would definitely not let Clifford go.

Clifford is good at disguising, probably also learned from Wilfred.

It can be seen from various things that Wilfred will only be more cruel and inhuman than Clifford.

Although don't know why Clifford wanted to kill Wilfred, thanks to Wilfred's temperament, he would never let Clifford go. He would torture him to death.

Wilfred is not dead, and it is foreseeable that Clifford will end up like today.

Chapter 1060

Alyssa couldn't help but remember how Karl suddenly cooperated with Clifford some time ago.

Is it possible that Clifford wanted to cooperate with Karl because he knew that Wilfred was not dead?

"Take this thing that scared Miss Alyssa with you."

Wilfred's voice brought back Alyssa's thoughts.

As soon as his voice fell, someone came forward to drag Clifford away.

Clifford was really dragged away by others, as if all the bones on his body were broken, and he couldn't use any strength.

Alyssa frowned slightly, feeling cold all over.

Wilfred followed Alyssa's gaze and fell on Clifford, smiling and explaining: "Miss Alyssa, don't worry, my son is not very obedient. The bones are all broken, just turn around and let someone take you back."

It's really the bones of the whole body are broken.

Alyssa clenched her hand involuntarily and looked at Wilfred without saying a word.

No wonder Clifford was developed into a pervert, Wilfred is not a normal person! Wilfred sat down opposite Alyssa and said softly: "Miss Alyssa, don't be afraid. You are our most precious experimental subject. You just need to stay here obediently. We naturally want to take good care of you and protect you."

Alyssa asked him expressionlessly, "What experiment?"

She had just been caught by Wilfred and kept listening to what Wilfred said about the experimental body.

But until now, Alyssa didn't know what Wilfred was going to do with her.

Speaking of the experiment, Wilfred's face reappeared with a crazy look: "The experiment of returning from the dead, as long as this great experiment can succeed, it will change all mankind!"

After listening to it, she shook her head and said, "There is no resurrection from the dead in this world!"

Wilfred's face suddenly became ugly: "No! Resurrection from the dead is real. You are the best example. How do you think you could survive that explosion?"

Do you really think your life is that big?"

The explosion on the island that year was really serious.

Alyssa could survive, and she herself felt it was a miracle.

But it is limited to this.

Alyssa looked firm: "It is a miracle that I survived, not a resurrection from the dead."

"Resurrection from the dead exists!"

Wilfred roared loudly.

Alyssa sneered: "Then you kill yourself and try to see if you can come back from the dead?"

She felt that Wilfred was an out-and-out madman, and he felt so firmly that there was a way to come back from the dead.

Wilfred curled his lower lip and said grimly: "I will succeed soon."

Alyssa felt that it was no use arguing with Wilfred. He seemed to be caught in an evil spirit, believing that there really is such a thing as resurrection from death.

But Alyssa didn't believe it.

She would rather believe in miracles.

Alyssa took a deep breath and said, "I'm tired, I want to rest."

"Send Miss Alyssa back to the room to rest."

Wilfred waved his hand, and a servant walked over to take her back to the room to rest.

Alyssa returned to the room, lying on the bed tossing and unable to sleep.

Thinking of Wilfred's words in her mind, worrying about Karl, and then thinking of Clifford who was completely injured.

She went to sleep in a vague way, and when she woke up, it was already the next morning.

As soon as Alyssa woke up, a servant opened the door and waited for her to get up before making a sound.