Chapter 1081

She hadn't seen the sun for a long time, and it was still such a warm sun.

As if isolated from the world, like a prisoner in confinement.

This is the long-lost taste of freedom.

Wilfred's voice sounded again: "I invited two guests today."

Hearing this, Alyssa had a slight smile, but she didn't open her eyes pretending to be calm, and she still looked like she was leaning on the back of her chair to enjoy the sun.

"However, I'm not sure when these two guests will come. Why don't we make a bet?"

Wilfred's voice was faint, as if he was just chatting with an ordinary friend.

Hearing this, Alyssa suddenly opened her eyes and straightened up to look at Wilfred.

She asked Wilfred: "What are you betting on?"

When she heard this, she was almost certain that one of the "two guests" he called must be Karl.

As expected, Wilfred was not a fuel-efficient lamp. After Clifford successfully escaped, in order to prevent Karl from finding him, he simply turned passive to the initiative and asked Karl to come to the door and take the initiative.

"What do you want to bet on?"

Wilfred looked at Alyssa with interest.

"You can bet anything?"

Wilfred's expression was extremely serious, and Alyssa felt that there must be a fraud.

Sure enough, the next moment, Wilfred smiled and said, "Then bet your life."

The voice fell, and before Alyssa had a chance to react, someone stepped forward and tied Alyssa.

The rope tied Alyssa firmly to the wheelchair. Alyssa looked at Wilfred with wide eyes, and then sneered, "Hypocrite."

Wilfred narrowed his eyes slightly, as if a little displeased.

But he quickly returned to a calm look: "Young people, when they start to panic in uncertainty, they always want to speak quickly. I can understand this."

Alyssa opened her mouth to refute, but she had to admit that what Wilfred said was right. She was indeed uncertain and a little panicked at this time.

"Guess which two guests I invited?"

Wilfred leaned on the armrest of the chair with one hand, tapping the armrest rhythmically with his fingers, looking casual.

Alyssa was silent for a moment and asked, "If I guess who you invited, is there any benefit?"

"No."

Wilfred shook his head.

"Then I don't guess."

Alyssa didn't look away from Wilfred.

Wilfred just wanted to see her panicked and confused.

She didn't let him get what he wanted.

Wilfred's tone was disappointed: "It seems that you can't guess it. In that case, if you say you want to know, I will tell you."

"I do not want to know."

Alyssa glanced at him coldly and refused.

Wilfred's face was dark for a while, and he slowly said, "Your stubborn temper is very similar to an old friend of mine. No wonder Clifford likes you and Alvin likes you too."

Hearing him mention Alvin, Alyssa was stunned for a moment.

Alvin's character looks like an ordinary boy in the middle of nowhere.

During this period of time, she had been controlled by Wilfred to conduct experiments, and she was unable to connect Alvin and Wilfred.

It is hard to imagine that these two people are father and son.

"I know that you have a good relationship with Alvin, otherwise you think about being with Alvin, he is a good boy."

Wilfred was so shrewd, he knew everything about his own son.

With those contacts between Alvin and Alyssa, Wilfred knew all the details.

This is nothing strange.

Chapter 1082

Alyssa hated Wilfred, but he would not be angry with Alvin.

Alyssa asked with a complicated expression: "Have you ever told Alvin in person, do you think he is a good boy?"

Wilfred didn't seem to expect that Alyssa would chat with him about Alvin.

After a brief silence, he said quietly: "He is only a good boy, not as cruel as Clifford, not as smart as Karl. Generally speaking, I am quite disappointed in him."

There is no sense of intimacy of Alvin as a son.

It seems that Alvin is just an irrelevant person who was used indifferently by Wilfred to compare with others, and finally concluded that he was "disappointed."

"Are you disappointed in Alvin?"

Alyssa clicked the corner of her mouth and said in a mocking tone: "That's right, he may be more disappointed than you, after all, there is a father like you."

"Being my son is the good luck of his cultivation for several lifetimes."

Wilfred was obviously angry, and his eyes became gloomy.

"Oh, he said this himself?"

Alyssa raised her eyebrows, pretended to think, and then said after a moment: "No, Alvin is not close to you, and the relationship between you father and son is not good, so you are actually a failed father."

Wilfred's face has completely changed.

He is an extraordinarily self-confident person, what he has done, everything about him is beyond doubt.

On weekdays, the men next to him are all bowed to their knees. Naturally, it is impossible for anyone to dare to raise questions in front of him.

Not to mention, in front of him, she said that he had a bad relationship with Alvin and was a failed father.

The reason why Wilfred mentioned Alvin was to test Alyssa. In his opinion, Alyssa's mental state is not very stable at this time.

After all, she had been locked up for such a long experiment. Just now he said that he would use her life as an experiment. Throwing Alvin was just throwing her a life-saving pole.

Thinking that Alyssa would be soft, she climbed up the pole.

But Alyssa not only didn't appreciate him, but also said to his face that he was a failed father.

Wilfred didn't like this kind of thing out of control and not moving in the direction he had expected.

He said gloomily: "The teeth are sharp and the mouth is a knife."

Alyssa smiled: "Thank you."

If Wilfred had to say anything more, his subordinates came up and leaned in front of him to say something.

After Wilfred heard this, a hint of playfulness flashed on his face: "He actually came first?"

He laughed and continued: "It's really surprising, I didn't expect it."

Although Wilfred only said a few words, Alyssa's heart was raised nervously.

He said before "invited two guests." Alyssa didn't know who he invited, and could only guess that one of them was Karl.

And listening to what Wilfred said, he was very surprised by the person who came first.

According to Alyssa's thoughts and guesses, the first person to come should be Karl.

Wilfred knows how important Karl regards Alyssa, so it is naturally possible to guess that it is Karl.

Therefore, Wilfred's tone is so unexpected, which means that the person who came may not be Karl.

Who is it instead of Karl?

Wilfred suddenly turned his head to look at Alyssa, his expression looked very impatient: "Push it over."

When the voice fell, his subordinates came over and pushed Alyssa to the edge of the rooftop.

Don't know why, the fence on the roof is so low that it is only as high as Alyssa's calf. She was pushed to the edge of the roof. As long as the person pushing her wheelchair hard, she could be pushed down with the wheelchair.

Chapter 1083

Alyssa lowered and glanced downstairs. The height of the eight-story building shocked her. She didn't open her eyes and looked down, and clenched her hands involuntarily.

When she first learned of her physical condition, she felt desperate while frightened.

When she got there, her body didn't improve, and only despair was left.

But after Peter told about Karl her, she didn't want to die.

What about Karl when she died.

Karl would never live well.

She is afraid of death now.

Wilfred was very satisfied with Alyssa's fear.

He smiled and said: "Don't be so afraid, as long as they can meet and meet my requirements, you can still have hope of living."

Alyssa closed her eyes, not thinking about what Wilfred was talking about.

She needs to calm herself down.

Think of Grace, think of Karl, think of Tina!

Alyssa forced herself to calm down.

Feeling slowly calmed down, Alyssa looked at Wilfred: "Your experiment has failed again."

It's a very positive tone.

When she was first caught by Wilfred, she spoke extremely horribly, but Wilfred still endured it abruptly.

It's all because she is a precious experimental subject. Now Wilfred ignores her life and seems to have failed the test.

As for success?

There is no such thing as resurrection from death in this world.

Wilfred could not succeed.

Even if medicine has really reached this point, the successful person cannot be Wilfred.

Using her and Muffi to do experiments, they use all means for their ends and have no fear of life. Without the belief and morality of being a medical researcher, this kind of person cannot be successful.

Wilfred pressed his lips tightly, with a sullen expression, almost gritted his teeth and said: "If you weren't useful to me, you would have died countless times."

"If it wasn't for you to make me look like this, I can't walk and can only sit in a wheelchair. Do you think I can still be at your mercy here?" Alyssa choked back.

She actually has a good temper.

Otherwise, when she was in Adams' house, she wouldn't have been squeezed by Adams' family.

Wilfred is really the shameless person she has ever seen.

Every time Wilfred said a word, she wanted to go back.

At this moment, the door leading to the rooftop in the building was suddenly opened from inside.

Alyssa subconsciously looked at the sound, and almost at the same time, she felt the person pushing her chair behind her also exerted a slight force and pressed the wheelchair forward.

Alyssa was shocked. The wheelchair was still on the roof, but her legs were already hanging out of the roof.

She continued to look back at the entrance of the rooftop, trying to divert her attention.

When she turned her head, she just saw the person pushing the door coming out from inside.

When she saw the visitor clearly, Alyssa widened her eyes and looked at the visitor in disbelief.

"Alyssa." Clifford stood still at the entrance of the rooftop, calling her distantly.

Alyssa was taken away by Wilfred, and after so long a toss, it was already late autumn.

Clifford didn't wear a shirt or suit, he wore a dark sweater and trousers, and his short hair was neat. Because he was tortured by Wilfred before, he had a pale face and looked very weak. A man in his thirties, he looked like this. With a heavy youthful spirit.

Alyssa looked at him blankly, and he smiled gently at her.

Just like when they were friends before, he always looked gentle with a smile.

Alyssa was in a daze, and said, "What are you doing?"

After finally escaping from Wilfred's hands, what did he come back for?

Chapter 1084

"Wilfred said, as long as I come, he will let you go." Clifford stood in place and talked to Alyssa with a calm expression.

His tone was very natural, as if he didn't think there was anything wrong with his words.

Alyssa was dumb for a while, moved her lips, but could not speak.

Clifford shouldn't be like this.

Clifford shouldn't come here.

He shouldn't be here for her.

No wonder Wilfred looked surprised before.

Alyssa never thought it would be Clifford.

Pop!

There was a clapping sound from Wilfred.

Alyssa turned around and saw Wilfred clapping his hands with a smile: "It's really touching."

"Are you surprised?" Wilfred turned to look at Alyssa, and said with a smile: "Stop talking about you, I was surprised when I heard that Clifford came, but"

When he said this, he paused briefly and looked at Clifford again: "I am also a little disappointed. I have never taught you such an unwise behavior. I used to teach you to be calm at all times and to know how to make choices in your heart. Don't use emotions. You used to be doing well, but now you have forgotten all this."

Wilfred's expression didn't look like a fake, but a real disappointment.

When Clifford turned his head to look at Wilfred, he had already changed his expression, extremely cold.

He only said three words: "Let her go."

"Since you are here, I will naturally let her go without saying anything." Wilfred said, "However, I can't let her go easily, otherwise, wouldn't it tell you to run for nothing?"

"If you have any requirements, just say it." Clifford walked to the front blankly, looking at Wilfred and said.

"Then we should settle the matter first." Wilfred finished speaking slowly, and after a little thought, he continued: "There are too many things, and I don't know where to start for a while. Let's start with the simplest one and kowtow to admit it."

Wilfred's speech was extremely mild, and he looked very easy to talk to, and he appeared to be generous.

Alyssa almost laughed angrily when she heard what he said.

Clifford didn't speak, but looked over here.

Alyssa shook her head at him, with a small arc. If he wasn't looking at her intently, she could hardly be seen shaking her head.

The affair between Clifford and Wilfred, over the years, can't tell at all.

Wilfred is the creator of Clifford's tragic life. Clifford hates him and wished him dead.

And Wilfred felt that Clifford was a tool he worked hard to cultivate, and this tool betrayed him, so this tool should be better than life.

Before Clifford fled, he was beaten and tortured. Clifford did not beg for mercy and did not say anything.

For a determined person, physical torture is really nothing.

But Clifford came for her, at this time Wilfred asked him to kowtow to admit his mistake.

Even if Alyssa and Clifford are not in friendship, she can't just watch Clifford bend his waist.

Clifford didn't owe her anything, on the contrary, she still owed her life to Clifford.

Clifford's gaze stayed on Alyssa's body for only two seconds before turning his head.

He looked at Wilfred, and said in a calm tone: "I kowtow to admit that I am wrong, and you will untie her."

"Bargain with me?" Wilfred couldn't stop mocking.

Clifford did not speak, and stood in a stalemate with Wilfred.

Wilfred took a deep breath and slowly said, "Well, for the sake of your willingness to admit your mistakes, I promise you that as long as you kowtow to admit your mistakes, I will loosen her tie."

Chapter 1085

Alyssa saw Clifford bend his knees without a trace of resistance.

She stopped Clifford aloud: "No!"

Clifford ignored her and was about to kneel down as soon as he saw her. Alyssa said anxiously, "Clifford, don't you know who Wilfred is? He won't let us off so easily, don't kneel!"

Clifford turned his head to look at her, and smiled sharply: "It's been a long time since you said 'us' to me. My trip is not in vain."

As the voice fell, a "plop" sounded, and Clifford knelt in front of Wilfred.

He knelt very firmly, and the sound of his knee hitting the ground was particularly loud on the quiet rooftop.

Alyssa closed her eyes and couldn't bear to look at Clifford who was kneeling in front of Wilfred.

Wilfred lowered his eyes and looked at the son who he had admired the most. He bent down and put down his pride and knelt before him, but there was no smile on his face.

"At the beginning, when I realized that you were going to kill me, I still felt very happy. I finally had a decent person under my hand, who dared to oppose me and wanted to kill me. I was looking forward to it. What I appreciate are your courage and means."

"It's a pity!" Wilfred sighed with regret: "You are proud of yourself but kneel down for a woman. I am very disappointed in you."

Anger was already in the ending.

As if he still felt it was not enough, he raised his foot and kicked Clifford.

Clifford was kicked and thrown out a short distance, which was enough to prove Wilfred's strength.

Alyssa's heart also followed.

Clifford didn't say a word, and knelt before Wilfred again. After kneeling down this time, he directly leaned over and kowtow: "I shouldn't betray you. You have raised me for so many years. I shouldn't be so unkind and ungrateful."

There is no wave in the tone, and no emotion can be heard.

Wilfred just stared at him coldly, and then told the bodyguard behind him: "Untie Miss Alyssa."

The person standing behind Alyssa's body over there really began to slap Alyssa.

As soon as Alyssa got her hands free, she wanted to turn her wheelchair towards Clifford.

But the people watching her behind had been prepared for a long time and did not give Alyssa a chance at all.

At this point, Clifford had already knelt down, Alyssa knew that it would be useless to say more, she could only watch.

Wilfred seemed to be bored and turned to look at Alyssa: "Miss Alyssa, guess when my other guest will come?"

Alyssa pursed her face, looked away, and fell on Clifford.

Clifford originally lowered his head and looked like he had accepted the humiliation. At this time, he heard what Wilfred said, but suddenly raised his head and smiled strangely: "Karl will not come."

Alyssa's face changed slightly when she heard this.

It is not surprising that Clifford knew who the other person Wilfred invited was.

What Alyssa could think of, Clifford could naturally also think of.

But what did he mean when he said "Karl will not come"?

Not only Alyssa's face changed, but Wilfred's face gradually became clouded. With a somber voice, he looked down at Clifford, "What did you say?"

The calm tone is the calm before the storm.

"It's just telling Karl something that he should have known. He doesn't have to be so nervous about my foster father." Clifford grinned, looking gentle and harmless.

Although the expressions of Clifford and Wilfred were extremely opposite, Alyssa felt inexplicable that they were a little alike.

Chapter 1086

The more angry Wilfred became, the deeper Clifford's smile deepened.

Wilfred was completely irritated by Clifford: "Do you really think I don't want to kill you?"

"I didn't think so." Clifford said in an indifferent tone, as if he was setting aside life and death. Life or death didn't matter to him.

After he finished speaking, he added fuel to the fire: "Am I not in your hands all the time? What do you want to do, who can stop you?"

Clifford turned his head and glanced at Alyssa: "However, before you kill me, please keep your promise and let Alyssa go."

"With your attitude, you want me to let her go?" Wilfred also glanced at Alyssa with a cold expression.

Alyssa was very quiet on the side, her attention was actually not there.

She was thinking about what Clifford said before.

Is Karl really not coming?

Clifford said that he told Karl something that he should have known.

Is Karl really not coming because of this incident?

What is it that makes Karl even careless of her?

Regarding this matter, Alyssa had no idea at all, and when she came back to her senses, she just heard Clifford say: "Do you want to say nothing?"

"What?" Wilfred laughed, the anger from before could not be seen in his eyes.

The mood adjusts so quickly.

"Ha ha."

After Clifford laughed, he suddenly burst into laughter.

The laughter seemed harsh on the empty rooftop.

He laughed enough before he said: "You always do this. You always have to use women to achieve your own goals. What does it matter if you say nothing? You dare not kill Alyssa, and you dare not release her. You're afraid of Karl, you say I can't be compared to Karl, can you be compared?"

Alyssa noticed that Wilfred's face changed after Clifford finished speaking.

Clifford's words seemed to stimulate Wilfred.

But Alyssa always felt that Clifford's words seemed to be told to her.

He was telling her that Wilfred was actually very afraid of Karl.

So even if Alyssa had no effect in experiments for him, he would not dare to kill her.

Because Wilfred wanted to use her to check and balance Karl.

Thinking of this, Alyssa glanced at Clifford with a complicated expression.

Unfortunately, Clifford also happened to look up at her, giving her a relieved look.

Alyssa opened her lips slightly, and said nothing in the end.

Wilfred's gloomy voice sounded: "If I remember correctly, your sister is still in Alvin's hands."

"I can't protect myself, no one can control others." Clifford sneered, showing no worry at all.

Can't control others?

Alyssa lowered her head and laughed at herself. Wilfred used her as a bait, didn't she hook Clifford?

However, Muffi was indeed in Alvin's hands.

Although don't know what Alvin thinks of Muffi, it seems that Muffi is still safe with Alvin.

At least there was no news of Muffi's accident.

Moreover, the relationship between Wilfred and Alvin is not good, even if Wilfred takes the initiative to ask Alvin to be hard, Alvin will not necessarily give him.

The relationship between father and son is not very good, and Alvin might still confront Wilfred.

At this moment, Wilfred's cell phone rang suddenly.

Clifford smiled and said, "It seems that there is good news."

Wilfred glanced at Clifford, twisted his eyebrows and answered the phone.

Chapter 1087

Wilfred answered the phone.

The next moment, he straightened up suddenly: "What did you say?"

Not knowing what was said on the other end of the phone, Wilfred cursed with a gloomy expression: "Trash!"

Then he threw the phone out.

“Solve him out.” Wilfred stopped dealing with Clifford, stood up and said such a sentence, then hurriedly raised his foot to the rooftop.

Before Alyssa could react, she saw someone turning at Clifford.

She couldn’t help staring, Wilfred meant to “solve” Clifford!

“Clifford!”

Alyssa only had time to yell his name before hearing a loud “bang”.

But fortunately, Clifford was so good that he quickly avoided it by turning sideways.

After dodging, Clifford turned his head and smiled at Alyssa: “It’s okay.”

Seeing Clifford avoiding, the man seemed to be a little angry, and began to say harshly: “You can’t escape!”

Although Wilfred had taken away many of his subordinates, many of them were still left behind.

One part took Alyssa away, and the other part was used to deal with Clifford.

Clifford didn’t pay attention to these people at all.

He grew up under Wilfred and experienced devil training from above.

Both physical fitness and perseverance are very comparable.

Even if the injury on his body is still not healed, his reaction speed is still very fast. These people are not his opponents.

But two fists are hard to beat four hands.

In the blink of an eye, Clifford fought with those people, and the scene was chaotic.

At this time, Wilfred walked to the entrance of the rooftop, and the chaos behind him had no effect on him.

He turned his head and looked in Alyssa’s direction: “What are you doing in a daze! Bring Alyssa here!”

They are all idiots, and none of them makes people worry!

Looking after Alyssa’s subordinates, he originally wanted to push Alyssa to follow, but just now Clifford fought with those people and blocked the way.

After hearing what Wilfred said, he immediately said, “Yes.”

With that said, he would push Alyssa to the side of Wilfred.

Although Wilfred had no expression, Alyssa could feel that he was anxious now.

The subordinate who pushed Alyssa avoided the fighting area and walked in a large circle towards the entrance of the rooftop.

Alyssa looked around quietly, her hands on the armrests of the wheelchair tightened, and gritted her teeth in a determined manner. As her upper body leaned forward, she fell from the wheelchair.

Alyssa, who fell to the ground, rolled to the side without stopping for a moment.

Her legs are no longer as unconscious as before. Although she can't exert much strength, she is still flexible when she rolls on the ground.

The person pushing the wheelchair for Alyssa didn't expect that she would come to do so suddenly, and he was taken aback, and then ran over to catch Alyssa.

Just when he ran to Alyssa and was about to lean over to catch her, there was a "bang" in front of him, and the person who was going to catch Alyssa fell straight like that.

When he fell down, his eyes were not closed.

Alyssa was stunned for a moment, and looked up, and saw a familiar face.

She murmured: "Daisy."

Behind Daisy is the edge of the rooftop, which means that Daisy climbed up from below.

This is not surprising, Daisy is also very skilled.

There are people behind Daisy, she didn't come alone.

All this happened so quickly that even Wilfred didn't expect that Daisy could lead people to climb onto the rooftop from below.

Chapter 1088

"I was careless." Wilfred stared at what happened.

As early as when Daisy appeared, bodyguards stepped forward to stand in front of Wilfred.

Daisy looked at Wilfred with a serious face, and said: "Godfather, you are kind to me for adoption, and I don't want to fight with you. If you have to continue fighting, no one will get any benefits. It's better this time. You just let us go."

Alyssa quietly rolled to the corner while they were talking.

Wilfred didn't tell his subordinates to kill Alyssa, so Alyssa only needed to avoid the place where they were fighting.

Now it is the grudge between Wilfred and Clifford, and neither of them will hurt Alyssa.

Alyssa was also a little grateful, but fortunately Karl did not come.

If Karl really came, it would be the confrontation between the three parties, and her "weakness" as Karl was placed here blatantly, the other two parties would definitely not let her go.

Alyssa found the corner farthest away from them, struggling to sit on the ground while supporting the wall, watching them confront each other.

“As long as you are sincere, I can let her go.” Wilfred said while winking at the men next to him, letting people bring Alyssa over.

For Wilfred, Clifford had nothing to fear.

Only Karl was the person he feared most.

Karl was an unreasonable player, arrogant and proud, Wilfred couldn't control him.

If Karl could not be used by him, he could only use Alyssa to counterbalance Karl.

Originally, he had another bargaining chip in his hand, but at present, it seems that Alyssa is most likely only one bargaining chip left in his hand, and he must not let go.

Daisy and Wilfred negotiated, but the fighting men did not stop.

Clifford's eyes saw that someone was going to grab Alyssa, and he threw the dagger in his hand directly.

It hit the man's chest quickly and accurately.

The man fell down.

Alyssa watched people fall in front of her, shuddering slightly, then moved her lips to Daisy's side.

Although she got a lot of things from Daisy last time, she still helped Daisy and the others.

Daisy is also more principled than Wilfred, and it is definitely safer to choose Daisy.

Seeing the pretense, Wilfred sneered: “It seems that there is no discussion!”

The voice fell, and everyone on both sides fought.

Wilfred walked towards Alyssa, and he could only catch her personally.

Daisy and Clifford couldn't pull away to take care of Alyssa, and Alyssa could not move faster than Wilfred, a normal person.

Alyssa was quickly caught by Wilfred.

“You let me go!” Alyssa knew that the struggle was all in vain, but she still didn't want to just grab it like this, so she didn't have any room to resist.

She was fed up with the days when Wilfred locked her up for experiments.

It's not like an individual.

Wilfred had a gloomy face, dragging Alyssa towards the entrance of the rooftop.

His strength was so strong that Alyssa couldn't match it.

While struggling, Alyssa touched somewhere on her body.

Somewhat hard, as if hiding something.

Alyssa was overjoyed, that was the dagger that was pitted from Daisy last time.

Very small.

Did these people test her without searching?

The joy in his heart almost drowned Alyssa.

On the surface, she struggled to disturb Wilfred's attention, and secretly took out the dagger.

Alyssa was very nervous to do something to a demon like Wilfred.

When she waved the dagger, she didn't even see the position, shaking her hand and stabbing it heavily!

Chapter 1089

When the dagger fell, it was already stuck in Wilfred's lower abdomen.

Although she was dragged by Wilfred, Wilfred was very tall, and Alyssa could reach his lower abdomen.

The dagger was sharp, and blood flowed out immediately.

But the amount of bleeding is minimal, and the wound should not be deep by visual inspection.

Alyssa let go of her hand in a panic, and was about to raise her head when she was thrown out.

She was smashed on the steps, causing pain in her internal organs, and she had double images when she saw people.

She watched Wilfred cover his wound with one hand and walked slowly towards her.

Alyssa wanted to shake her head, but her head was dizzy and her body was so painful that she couldn't exert her strength. She didn't make the head shake, just moved her head.

Seeing Wilfred approaching, Alyssa said word by word: "I would rather die than go back with you!"

She tried her best to say this sentence, but when the voice fell, there was no sound.

Alyssa closed her eyes in despair.

don't know that her current body can withstand this fall.

Wilfred's footsteps were in her ears, and she could not escape.

Also go back with Wilfred.

Whether it was taken by his team to do experiments, or taken by him to use Karl.

She has no choice at all.

Consciousness is getting blurred.

At the moment when she passed out, Alyssa still clenched her fists to get up and run away.

â€¦

There are many people talking in her ears.

Very noisy.

Alyssa was annoyed by the noise and woke up.

The line of sight was very blurred at first, and it gradually became clear after Alyssa blinked her eyes several times.

The white ceiling.

The sound in the ear is also very clear.

“Sir, I really don’t know why you didn’t use this woman to threaten Karl!”

“We have worked so hard, don’t we just want to get revenge on Wilfred?”

“As long as Karl helps us kill Wilfred, wouldn’t it be better for us to return this woman to her?”

“â€¦”

The voices of these few sentences are not from the same person.

Alyssa just woke up, her reaction was a little slow.

After thinking about it, what those people said, “Take this woman to threaten Karl”, is she probably referring to her?

Alyssa followed the sound and saw a crowd of people standing not far away.

She tilted her head, looked through the gap between the crowd, and vaguely saw Clifford’s face.

She tried to get up, her whole body hurts every time she moved, and she made a noise.

Hearing the movement of Alyssa, Clifford immediately became quiet.

Everyone looked towards Alyssa, and consciously retreated to the side.

As soon as they retreated, Alyssa’s eyes widened and she saw Clifford straight.

“Wake up.” Clifford sat idle on the sofa, with a gentle expression on his face.

“You saved me?” In Alyssa’s last memory, it was Wilfred who walked towards her.

She thought she had fallen into Wilfred’s hands again, but she did not expect that Clifford had rescued her.

Clifford smiled slightly as an answer, and didn’t mean to tell Alyssa the details.

Alyssa was able to escape Wilfred, and her heart was relaxed a lot, and she was not so concerned about the details.

Alyssa said, “Thank you.”

She is really very grateful to Clifford.

Even if Clifford did not succeed in saving her from Wilfred's hands, he was willing to take the initiative to Wilfred for her, which is a very thankful thing.

Chapter 1090

"You don't have to thank me." Clifford said unhurriedly: "You know me, I am not a good person. I do everything for my own purpose."

When he said this, he suddenly paused and said, "You go out."

This sentence was addressed to his subordinates.

Those subordinates listened very much to what he said, and left without saying a word.

Soon, all of his men went out.

Alyssa understood that Clifford had something to tell her.

Clifford got up and walked over to Alyssa. She put her hands on the bedsheet, endured the pain and stood up and sat up.

Clifford did not take the initiative to help her, but put a pillow behind her in a timely manner so that she could lean against the bed.

"Thank you." Alyssa leaned against the bed and let out a long sigh of relief.

She reached out and stroked her chest.

"It didn't hurt the internal organs, it was all skin trauma." Clifford closed her movements to the bottom of his eyes, naturally knowing that she was thinking about her injuries.

Alyssa nodded silently, and then asked, "What do you want to say?"

Clifford's expression was a bit complicated: "My sister is in Alvin's hands."

Alyssa replied, "Well, I know."

"I only have such a younger sister." Clifford stared at Alyssa straight, with no emotion in his eyes, which was very different from his usual gentle appearance.

Alyssa looked at him for a moment, and asked tentatively: "Do you want to rescue Muffi from Alvin?"

"Yes," Clifford said.

"How do you want to save her?" Alyssa had guessed in her heart, but she was still not sure.

That guess made Alyssa's complexion a little pale.

Clifford asked instead: "You guessed it all, didn't you?"

Alyssa was taken aback, then laughed lowly.

But the more she laughed, the more funny she became, and she couldn't stop laughing.

After a while, she stopped her laughter and said: "I have never liked my family since I was a child. I never thought that when I grew up, I became a sweet potato. Every one of you tried to threaten me and use me. , But each of you can use me to successfully achieve your goals."

"Wilfred used me to threaten Karl to achieve his goals, and you used me to save your sister. I am really useful!" Alyssa said to the back, her eyes full of mockery.

Clifford just listened to Alyssa saying these words expressionlessly, did not say anything.

Alyssa paused and asked him, "Alvin wants you to exchange me for Muffi? When?"

The tone was calm and did not seem to be a used person.

Clifford's eyebrows moved slightly, but he stopped talking.

Finally, he lowered his eyes slightly, not looking at Alyssa: "It's not just an exchange."

"What else do you want? Finish talking at once." Alyssa said with an indifferent expression.

Clifford uttered one word: "Marriage."

"What?" Alyssa suspected that she had heard it wrong.

"Alvin's condition is that if you marry him, he will let my sister go." Clifford raised his eyes and looked straight into her eyes.

Alyssa laughed backwards: "What is Alvin going crazy? He has a brain problem?"

Looking at Alyssa, Clifford hesitated for a moment: "If you"

Alyssa didn't pay attention to what Clifford said, and interrupted him directly: "I want to meet Alvin."

"I'll arrange it for you." Clifford's expression returned to his usual gentleness, as if he hadn't said anything just now.

After putting on the gentle mask, he was again the proudest tool that Wilfred had worked hard to cultivate.
