

Predestined 11-12

Chapter 11

Alyssa never sleepwalks.

She blushed and turned to look at him: "Youâ€¦!"

"I'm an injured patient." Karl turned to look at her, his voice is cold.

Alyssa had never been in bed with a man before, and the bitter aura on his body was too strong, and the powerful aura made him arrogant.

She pursed her lips nervously, pulled off the quilt to get up and get out of bed, but she was caught by the wrist by the man beside her.

Karl's gaze fell on her face, and there was a trace of inquiry in his eyes: "Why are your hands so white and your face so yellow?"

Alyssa retracted her hand in shock, and said lowly: "It's natural."

Then she jumped out of bed like a rabbit and went to the bathroom.

Behind her, Karl's eyes were full of interest.

â€¦!

In the bathroom.

Alyssa looked in the mirror, her face sallow, and her eyes flashed with self-deprecation.

Take out the makeup remover from the cabinet under the sink and start to remove makeup.

A few minutes later, a beautiful woman with a white face and bright eyes and teeth appeared in the mirror.

If it weren't for her to rent a house outside after graduation, and remove her makeup every day, she would have forgotten her original appearance.

The daughter is beautiful, and the mother would have been happy.

But when she was a child, Rachel always blamed her for stealing Isabel's limelight and would not buy her beautiful clothes.

At that time, she had tried her best to make Rachel happy.

From first in grade to last, from school girl to ugly girl who has no friendsâ€¦!

But in the end, Rachel was not happier looking at her.

She didn't want to believe that Rachel didn't love her at all.

Half an hour later, she disguised herself again and went out of the bathroom.

Karl leaned against the bed, holding his mobile phone and tilting his head to wonder what he was looking at. His expressionless expression seemed a little more abstinent.

She thought for a while and said aloud: "I'm going out, you can call someone to pick you back to Hunt's house."

Karl did not respond.

Alyssa didn't care, and took the bag and went out.

The last job ended hurriedly because Rachel ordered her to go home to be married.

To support herself, she has to find another job.

â€¦

One morning passed quickly.

She stood at the bus stop waiting for the bus.

Suddenly, a black car stopped in front of her.

The car window lowered, revealing the gentle smile of the young man: "Alyssa, where are you going?"

A flash of light flashed in Alyssa's eyes, and there was an unbearable excitement in her voice: "Norris? Why are you here?"

"Get in the car first, you can't stop here for too long." Norris Weber said, opening the door for her.

Alyssa got into the car, and as soon as she closed the door, she heard Norris say: "I just made an appointment with your sister for dinner. Let's eat together."

Did he make an appointment with Isabel?

She should have thought of it.

Long ago, someone said that Isabel and Norris were golden boy and girl.

But the two have not been together, so she can hide her mind and continue to be friends with Norris.

She twitched the corners of her mouth stiffly: "I have something else, so I won't talk to youâ€¦"

"It's been a long time since we had dinner together, just listen to me." Norris was tough and didn't give her a chance to refuse.

Soon they arrived at the restaurant.

Isabel had already arrived, and when she saw Alyssa and Norris coming together, her face instantly became cold.

Norris didn't realize it: "Isabel, I met Alyssa on the road, so I brought her over for dinner, don't you mind?"

Isabel smiled softly and said softly, "Of course I don't mind."

"I'll go to the bathroom, you guys talk." Norris smiled and dropped the sentence, then turned away.

As soon as he left, the smile on Isabel's face disappeared: "Why the mob of Adams family can't satisfy you, so you ran out to hook up with Norris?"

Chapter 12

Alyssa was disgusted with Isabel's mean cheeks: "What are you talking about!"

"Am I talking nonsense, you know in your heart." Isabel snorted coldly, "Dare you to say that you don't like the first cold?"

Alyssa lowered her head and fell silent.

She dare not say.

Because the person she has always liked is Norris.

At this moment, Isabel suddenly cried out in surprise: "Norris?"

Alyssa raised her head fiercely and saw that Norris didn't know when he would be back.

She looked at Norris nervously, wondering how much he heard.

Unexpectedly, Norris turned aside his head and ignored her.

She knew that Norris must have heard it.

Isabel looked at Norris's reaction with satisfaction, and smiled and comforted Norris: "Norris, don't have a psychological burden. Alyssa is married and we can be together smoothly."

This is the normal reaction of being entangled by an ugly and stupid woman like Alyssa, and she doesn't know why Karl's cousin entangled with Alyssa.

It may also be the occasional taste curious, seeking a little excitement.

"Alyssa, are you married?" Norris turned his head and looked at Alyssa.

"Yeah, she told me before that even if she really married, she wouldn't be a good one, so she wanted to marry into the Adams family. I persuaded her. Although a wealthy family like the Adams family is very rich, they are like.. that husband's!"

When Isabel said this, she shook her head, looking sad.

But Alyssa could clearly understand that both in and out of Isabel's words were saying that she had to marry into Adams family because she was greedy for wealth.

Norris frowned and looked at Alyssa, with disappointment in his eyes: "Anyway, thank you for marrying Isabel's place into Adams family."

Isabel also looked grateful: "Yeah, if you didn't marry into Adams's family, I wouldn't be able to be together with Norris."

Alyssa bit her lower lip fiercely, and defended herself in a slightly dumb voice: "It's not what she said."

Although she and Norris have never been together in this life, she does not want to be mistaken by him as a greedy person for wealth.

Norris frowned, "Alyssa, you don't need to explain, I can understand your mood. Although Karl is physically not good, the Adams family will definitely not treat you badly."

Alyssa's heart completely cooled down.

At this moment, her phone suddenly vibrated.

She took it out and found that the content of the text message was a series of dish names, and there was no extra content.

Don't know who sent it to her, but she just can leave with an excuse.

"I have something to take care of I must leave." She stood up and looked at Norris Weber blankly: "I liked you before, I don't deny it, but I won't be anymore. How could I marry into the Adams family? Isabel knows best, believe it or not."

She would like Norris because he is the only man who doesn't dislike her and cares about her very much.

It now appears that he is nothing more than a person with false sympathy for her.

The two families are family friends. They have known each other for so many years, doesn't he know who she is?

That's right, even Rachel doesn't believe her, why should an outsider believe in her.

After she finished speaking, she left the box without reluctance.

When the door was closed, she heard Norris say to Isabel: "I used to think that Alyssa was a simple and kind girl, but I didn't expect her to be like this!"

Isabel still had that artificial sad tone: "I didn't expect either!"

Alyssa clenched her hands, pressed her lips tightly, and left the dining room without looking back.

The phone in her pocket rang again, and she pressed the access button without looking at it.

The familiar low voice impacted her eardrums: "The vegetables in the text message, pack them back."