

Predestined 1171

Chapter 1171

Fortunately, Karl did not have a fever again.

Alyssa decided not to send him to the hospital. He didn't want to go, so she just asked a private doctor to visit.

Karl was not in good spirits. Alyssa ate breakfast with him. After she went to wash, Karl fell asleep again.

Alyssa went outside to call Smith back.

The speed of answering the phone by Smith was very fast.

"It's me." Alyssa called Smith from Karl's cell phone.

She walked a few steps forward and continued: "Call me directly if you have something to do. You don't need to call Karl. You also know his physical condition. I hope he can take a good rest and raise his body. Always worry about those things."

Smith sighed softly: "I see."

He actually felt that Karl should take a good rest.

Alyssa began to talk about business: "Does it matter if you do not call him?"

"Some of my subordinates saw Clifford in Rostenvel." Smith said.

Alyssa walked to the end of the corridor, put her palm on the armrest, and slowly said, "Is it him?"

"Yes." Smith is cautious. If he is not sure that it is Clifford, he will not say these things to her.

Alyssa's eyes darkened, but her tone was very calm: "After you left, Wilfred came over to pay homage to Karl's mother. I sent someone to follow him and know where he lives."

Smith was silent for a moment, and asked uncertainly: "Is that what I thought?"

He could vaguely guess what Alyssa's words meant, but he was not quite sure. After all, in his impression, Alyssa was a very softhearted person, unlike Karl with so many methods.

"Although Clifford can't get along with Karl, he should hate Wilfred even more, and tell him Wilfred's traces. He should be very happy." The method of killing people with a knife is not new.

But the method is not new, can it be useful?

"I understand." Although Smith was a little surprised, he could understand Alyssa's approach.

He was about to hang up when he heard Alyssa say: "Wait, this matter has to be revealed to Alvin."

Clifford was brought out by Wilfred, and the methods of the two were comparable. Although Wilfred used to fake death, he suffered a lot from Clifford's hands. Wilfred is now losing power. It is easy for Clifford to kill him. With Alvin, things will become more tortuous.

Let them go and bite the dog, the more crowded the better, right?

After hanging up the phone, Alyssa stood quietly for a while before turning back to the room to see Karl.
â€¦

Sitting in the car, Smith, through the window, looking at the opposite restaurant.

Clifford sat by the window, holding his mobile phone and didn't know what he was doing.

At this moment, a woman walked over to Clifford and sat down.

Smith saw her and knew that she was Clifford's confidant, and she seemed to be called Daisy.

That's it right here.

Smith didn't wait any longer, and drove away blankly.

As soon as Daisy sat down in the dining room, he said aloud: "I have found Wilfred's residence."

Clifford, who was fiddling with his mobile phone, snapped his lips and smiled: "He really went back to Rostenvel, he is tired of life and wants to kill himself!"

Although Wilfred lost power, his roots still have some residual power abroad. If he makes up his mind to escape, the chances of going abroad are greater, but he has returned to Rostenvel.

Chapter 1172

"Probably he's old and confused, and it's really useless when people are old." Daisy's eyes flashed with hatred, wishing Wilfred death earlier, and asked: "When will we make the move?"

Clifford opened his lips: "Wait."

"What are you waiting for? What if he reacts and escapes abroad?" Daisy was jealous of Wilfred's fake death last time, for fear that Wilfred would play any tricks again.

"Your speed of investigating this time is faster than before." Clifford looked at Daisy with a calm expression, his tone seemed to have profound meaning.

Daisy suddenly realized: "You mean, this might be a trap set by Wilfred?"

Clifford had a thoughtful look on his face, without saying yes or denying it.

â€¦

Although Karl's fever had gone down and looked no different from before, he lost weight visible to the naked eye.

Alyssa spent the whole day studying recipes to cook for Karl, thinking that he could eat more if he had an appetite.

Karl's appetite really improved as she wished, but at the same time he became more and more sticky. As soon as she left his sight, he would look for her all over the house, which directly caused Alyssa to be uncomfortable. From time to time, she guaranteed that she could be within his sight. She originally wanted to send Grace to school, but she could only arrange for a driver to send her.

The two lived a life like an old man and wife. They went out for a walk in the morning and evening, went to the mountain behind the villa on sunny days to climb the mountain, the two nestled together to watch movies and study recipes, Grace played with her after school and took her there. Take a walk.

The peaceful day was broken by a phone call.

After getting up for a nap, Karl lay down by the window and counted a few sparrows outside the window very leisurely. Alyssa went out to pour water, and as soon as she walked to the door, the phone rang.

Unfamiliar calls, but the number is not unfamiliar.

Alyssa turned off the phone and glanced at Karl. He didn't hear anything and counted the sparrows seriously.

She couldn't help but smile. A man would be like a child when he was free, especially naive.

She quickly retracted her gaze, and when she looked down at the phone, the smile on her face disappeared for an instant, and she walked out gently and closed the door with her backhand.

The person on the other end of the phone is very patient. She hasn't answered it for so long and hasn't hung up.

She put the mobile phone to her ear, pressed the listening button, and did not take the initiative to speak.

"Alyssa."

The man on the other end of the phone continued, "I thought you wouldn't answer my call."

In the tone, it seems that he still wants to talk to her.

Alyssa didn't have the patience: "Just talk about it."

Clifford chuckled, "Are you so indifferent? In my heart, we have always been good friends."

Clifford's cunning is not inferior to Wilfred, he will make this call, Alyssa has already guessed the reason.

"Yes, I let someone reveal Wilfred's whereabouts to you," Alyssa spoke openly and frankly.

Clifford was silent, and the surprise in his tone could not be concealed: "I thought it was Karl."

He thought that it was Karl who borrowed his hand to kill Wilfred, so he revealed the news to him. Karl also used Alvin's hand to deal with him like this before, but this time it was Alyssa.

Alyssa said, "If you just came to confirm this, you already know the answer."

As soon as the voice fell, she heard Clifford say: "I want to see you."

As if he was afraid that Alyssa would refuse, Clifford hurriedly said, "It's just meeting for a meal. If you don't worry, you can bring a bodyguard, even if you are with Karl."

Chapter 1173

Clifford put his posture very low, and he was full of sincerity in and out of his words.

“What if I say no?”

“Alyssa, I really just want to have a meal with you.”

Alyssa lowered her eyes, stared at the lines on the railing for a moment, and said, “Today evening.”

Clifford was overjoyed: “Okay.”

â€

Back in the bedroom, Karl leaned against the window and looked out to count the sparrows.

“Are you clear?”

Alyssa took the water over and put the water into Karl’s hands. Feeling that his hands were a little cold, she reached out and buttoned his open coat.

Karl took a sip while holding the water cup and snorted, “Every time we count halfway, new sparrows will fly over, or they will just fly away.”

The tone is quite dissatisfied.

Alyssa was a little bit dumbfounded: “Do you still have a temper with this little thing?”

Karl put the water glass aside and held Alyssa, his voice was very soft: “Then you coax me well.”

“You want to be handsome.” Alyssa said with a smile: “I will pick up Grace later, and you will wait for me at home.”

Karl stood up straight and looked at her: “I will go too.”

“I’ll be back in a while, and you will stay at home and wait for me.” Alyssa turned her head and looked at the time: “I have to get ready to go.”

The kindergarten ends early, so she can clean up now and get ready to go.

Alyssa turned to look for clothes, and Karl followed, calling her dissatisfied: “Alyssa.”

Alyssa ignored him and hesitated among the khaki and white clothes. Karl came over and pointed to the white one: “This one.”

Alyssa took out the white piece and went into the bathroom, closing the door before Karl walked over.

Karl turned the doorknob and found that he couldn’t open it.

He retracted his hand and shouted inward with his hands on his hips: “Alyssa, you even locked the door!”

Alyssa replied while changing clothes: “Do you think I, like you, have a habit of changing clothes in front of others?”

“Is my wife someone else’s?” Karl said confidently.

It does make sense.

The two of them stayed at home every day recently. Karl relied on her not to be angry with him, so he often made trouble with her, boring and naive, but as long as he was happy, she let him go.

Alyssa changed clothes and came out from the bathroom: "Okay, I'm going to leave."

Karl raised his eyebrows: "It's not time yet."

Although Grace left school early, it was not time for school now.

"I'll buy something by the way." Alyssa was afraid he would ask another question, stretched out her hand to grab his arm, and kissed him on tiptoe.

Karl held her waist and bowed his head slightly to deepen the kiss.

As soon as the kiss ended, Karl's expression turned a little dark. Although he was reluctant, he still said, "Come back early, or I will come out to find you."

"Yeah." Alyssa nodded heavily and assured him.

The driver drove Alyssa out. When there was still some distance from Grace's kindergarten, Alyssa said to the driver: "Stop, I'll go buy a cup of coffee, and you will wait for me here."

The driver turned around and saw a cafe outside the car: "Madam, let me go."

"No." Alyssa said as she opened the door and got out of the car.

The cafe is very large, with three floors. The main entrance is on the second floor. After she entered the door, she walked directly downstairs to the first floor.

There were not many people in the cafe at this time, and Alyssa walked straight to the card table in the corner of the cafe.

Clifford saw Alyssa and stood up: "Alyssa."

Chapter 1174

Clifford found that Alyssa's complexion was much better than when she saw her last time, which shows that she is doing well now.

That's right, can she have a bad life next to Karl?

Clifford smiled self-deprecatingly, and looked behind her. Alyssa noticed his gaze and said emotionally, "I didn't bring a bodyguard."

"you're!"

"I don't trust you, I just don't think it is necessary."

Alyssa knew that Clifford thought she didn't have a bodyguard, so she trusted him.

Her trust in Clifford has long been devastated, and there is no repair or undoing it.

She no longer trusts Clifford, she just doesn't fear him anymore.

The blood on Clifford's face disappeared little by little.

"I was thinking recently, if you didn't restore the memory back then, would our results be different." Clifford's face was a memory look.

Alyssa said coldly, "You came to me to remember the past?"

Clifford looked at Alyssa earnestly: "You are more and more like Karl now."

"Loving couples live together for a long time, they will have more and more common things." Alyssa said.

Clifford seemed to be a little tired, and slowly leaned back: "You know I didn't mean that."

Alyssa did not speak, nor did Clifford speak immediately, the atmosphere was silent.

After a while, Alyssa took out her phone and checked the time.

When Clifford saw this, he said again: "You asked me to tell me Wilfred's whereabouts, is it for Karl, right? I know about his mother, too."

Alyssa didn't bother to answer this question.

Clifford is so smart, there is nothing unexpected, and her answer seems very unnecessary.

Alyssa didn't speak, Clifford didn't mind, and said to her: "You love Karl very much."

Hearing this, Alyssa raised her eyes and said, "No, he loves me more."

"Are you here to show affection?" Clifford exhaled patiently, obviously not wanting to continue this topic.

"Grace's school time is coming, I'm going to pick her up." Alyssa looked at the time again.

There are still ten minutes before Grace is over from school, and she must hurry over.

Clifford hadn't heard of it: "Without thanking Wilfred, I might not be like this ghost now. Don't worry, I will settle accounts with him."

The two words "settling accounts" were especially emphasized by him.

"That's the best." This was originally the result Alyssa wanted.

She stood up: "I'm leaving."

She didn't bother to say goodbye to Clifford, she got up and went out.

Clifford didn't turn his head to look at Alyssa's back, but he stretched out his hand and drank the cold coffee in front of him clean in one breath, the bitter taste swept through the whole mouth, and it was bitter down his throat.

â€¦

When Alyssa came out, the driver got out of the car with a nervous expression and opened the door for her: "Madam, you are finally back."

"Let's go." Alyssa bent over and sat in the car.

When they got to the place, Alyssa got out of the car and went to the door to wait for Grace to come out.

As soon as she stood still, there was a gust of wind. She stretched out her hand to pull the messy hair behind her ears, and turned her eyes inadvertently, but saw Alvin standing not far away, and Alvin was also looking at her.

With a cigarette in his hand, he was dressed very thinly, his complexion was haggard, and he looked a little bit depressed.

After all, he was a rich man who had never suffered, Clifford was much calmer than him.

He squeezed out the cigarette and walked over to Alyssa in stride.

Chapter 1175

Alyssa stood there, waiting for Alvin to come over.

"It's been a long time." Alvin's eyes fell on Alyssa's lap: "I'm recovering well."

If Alyssa hadn't escaped last time, she would be his fiancée now, but it's not as good as the sky. He didn't expect her legs to have recovered to that extent, and he did not expect that at that time, she was thinking about running away, he let her escape.

Alyssa met his gaze without evading: "You don't seem to be doing well."

"I used to be dissatisfied with my dad saying that Karl was excellent, and felt that he looked down on me and had a prejudice against me, but I only now understand that I have indeed been living under the protection of my dad without him. I have nothing and nothing."

Alvin copied both hands into the pockets on both sides of his pants, and said frustratedly and confessed: "I really can't compare to Karl, nor to him."

This is the difference between Alvin and Clifford.

Although Alvin always said that Wilfred didn't care about him emotionally ignoring him, Wilfred never let him intervene in those ugly things and let him live the life of a rich man easily. From this point of view, Wilfred already considered protecting him.

And Clifford was adopted by Wilfred when he was a child. Wilfred used his sister to do experiments and taught him to use whatever means. Wilfred sees through and knows how to control people's hearts. Clifford will become what he is now. Wilfred contributed a lot, and he is a sad person who can be regarded as hateful.

It is precisely because of this that Alvin has a correct view of right and wrong in mental health, while Clifford is paranoid and vows to achieve goals.

Therefore, Alyssa was not surprised that Clifford could say such a thing.

Alyssa just asked him: "Have you seen Wilfred?"

"I have seen him." Alvin looked at her carefully.

She was wearing a thin white coat, her body was thin, and she felt very gentle, but her tone of voice was alienated and cold.

There have been several times, just a little bit, he had a chance to get this woman.

"Mom!"

Grace was taken out by the teacher, and she saw Alyssa standing at the door from a distance.

Alyssa heard the sound and looked over, a gentle smile naturally appeared on her face, and she waved to Grace.

Grace grew longer and looked more like Karl. The delicate and beautiful dumplings were also particularly eye-catching among a group of children.

Grace leaped forward and looked up at her happily: "Mom, you came to pick me up!"

"Yes." Alyssa couldn't help squeezing her face.

"I seemed to have seen Uncle Alvin just now." Grace said, looking around.

Alyssa looked up and realized that Alvin, she didn't know, when he had left, but it had nothing to do with her.

The child's thinking jumped fast. Before Alyssa could say anything, she asked her again: "Dad isn't here?"

"He is waiting for us at home." Alyssa led Grace out.

The driver had opened the door, and the mother and daughter got into the car directly after passing by.

After the car drove away, Alvin, who had been hiding before, walked out.

He watched the car leave, turned to leave, but was stopped by someone.

"It's coming pretty fast." Clifford's face was smiling, and his words were the same as before.

Alvin looked cold: "I won't let you hurt my dad!"

Clifford's smile didn't reach the bottom of his eyes: "Then you have to work harder. My methods are all learned from your dad."

Chapter 1176

On the way home, Alyssa took Grace to the supermarket, because she had told Karl before she went out that she would come to pick up Grace if she wanted to buy something.

After walking around in the supermarket and buying some dispensable things, she went home with Grace.

Entering the gate of the villa, Alyssa saw Karl crouching next to a bunch of green plants and playing tricks.

Alyssa walked over with Grace, and Grace had already asked the question she wanted to ask: "Dad, what are you doing?"

Karl stretched out his hand to her little arm, and motioned for her to look.

After Grace saw it clearly, she exclaimed, "Ant?"

"It's late autumn and there are ants?" Alyssa also leaned forward curiously.

At this time, a servant came out of the villa holding a glass box and walked over here.

"Sir, the glass box you want."

Karl took it, put it on the ground, and said to Grace: "Catch the ants in."

"OK!"

Children are curious about everything, and have a natural interest in living things such as small animals and insects. Grace was very obedient and caught the few ants in the box, while grabbing them and saying, "It's so small." , I want to grab them gently!"

After catching the ants and returning to the house, the father and daughter both watched the ants eat food around the glass box.

Alyssa watched from the sidelines, feeling that the scene was warm and funny.

Who would have thought that the big boss of the dignified Adams' family would catch ants with his daughter?

She couldn't help but took a photo and sent it to Moments: The child's father found a group of ants in the yard, and he squatted in the yard for a long time, and ordered Grace to catch him back to the house and play together [Picture].

As soon as this circle of friends was sent out, people responded one after another.

The first is Tina: "What kind of little angel is our Grace, so cute!"

Then Peter: "[Serious] People who spend a long time idle at home will go crazy."

Smith: "[Serious] People who spend a long time idle at home will go crazy."

Clayton: "[Serious] People who spend a long time idle at home will go crazy."

Later Smith and Clayton obviously copied Peter's comments.

Alyssa read their comments and recalled what Karl had done recently at home.

Count the sparrows, watch the ants!

Is he bored?

Alyssa raised her eyes and looked towards Karl. He was talking to Grace in a low voice, and Grace was looking up and laughing.

Recently, Karl and Grace's relationship has become better and better, and they get along more and more harmoniously.

How busy Karl was before, there are countless things waiting for him to deal with all day long, but now he is completely free, he should not be used to it, but he still cooperates with her to stay at home every day, and feels bored and doesn't say a word about it.

Alyssa thought for a while, and called the private hospital to make an appointment for tomorrow's examination.

When she went to bed at night, Alyssa told Karl about it.

"I made an appointment for tomorrow's checkup, and we will go together tomorrow."

Karl was leaning on the bedside and flipping through a book. Hearing this, he replied, "Okay."

Alyssa leaned close to him cross-legged, tilted her head and looked at his face and said, "After the check, we will have a meal with Peter and the others."

Karl looked up: "Hmm."

Alyssa couldn't help laughing.

Although they are all one-word answers, "hmm" and "Okay" are different. It seems that he really wants to go out.

The relationship between her and Karl seemed to be an exchange. Before, Karl would not allow her to do this or that, but now she is in charge of him everywhere.

Chapter 1177

The next day, Alyssa and Karl sent Grace to kindergarten first, and then went to the hospital.

Because it is a private hospital, she called in advance to make an appointment. The hospital is ready, and they will do the examination directly after they go there.

Both of them had a detailed physical examination.

"On the whole, there is nothing wrong with the lady's body, but the physique is a bit poor. Exercise and proper food can improve her physique." The doctor first gave Alyssa a physical examination report.

Alyssa was taken aback, turned her head and glanced at Karl.

Karl asked aloud, "Is there any problem with the legs?"

The doctor shook his head: "No, I also focused on a detailed examination during the examination, and there is no sign of disease or injury."

Alyssa showed joy and pulled Karl's hand.

Karl frowned slightly: "Check again."

Alyssa knew that Karl was uneasy. To reassure him, she cooperated and performed another check. The check result was the same as last time.

Alyssa's body is fine, but Karl's body condition is not very good.

"The body suffered a lot, so you must take care of it. You can't overwork anymore. It's easy to accumulate overwork stress."

In short, it is possible to die from overwork.

â€¦

When she left the hospital, Alyssa's complexion was still very ugly, as white as paper.

The two were sitting side by side in the car. Karl noticed her abnormality and turned his head to look at her: "Aren't you happy when your legs are better?"

Alyssa pressed her lips tightly, watching him without speaking.

Her legs were healed, but Karl's body was worse.

In the past two years, she and Karl hadn't spent much time together, and there would always be situations like this. Although Karl was so clever different from ordinary people, he was just an ordinary person after all.

Even if he has a strong mentality, he still has only one body. If he boils too hard, he will naturally wear out.

Karl patted her on the head, stepped back slightly, raised his eyebrows and said, "Laugh."

Alyssa squeezed a smile that was uglier than crying.

"Too uglyâ€¦"

Before the word "Too" came out, Alyssa suddenly plunged into his arms.

Karl lowered his eyes before reaching out to hug her after a pause: "It's okay."

Alyssa didn't speak, just holding him like this.

â€¦

The place to eat was still in the old place-Best Day.

By the time Best Day arrived, Alyssa's mood had calmed down.

Peter was actually a little busy during this time, but when Karl and Alyssa asked him for a meal, he put everything down, and came directly to Best Day.

He even reached Best Day before Alyssa and the others.

"Where is Grace?" Peter looked behind them, then he patted his head and remembered: "It's not the weekend yet, she has to go to school."

Alyssa stood up and said, "I'll go to the bathroom."

When Karl heard the words, he also stood up: "I will be with you."

“Just stay here and chat with Peter, I’ll be back soon.” Alyssa reluctantly pushed him back to the seat and turned around and went out.

When Alyssa went out, Peter immediately put on a serious expression: “Karl, do you know what Alyssa is doing recently?”

Karl did not speak immediately.

Peter was anxious: “You don’t know?”

“I know.” Karl said faintly.

Peter said angrily: “You know, you don’t care?”

After so many things happened, Peter knew that Karl was in a physical condition, so he arranged for someone to follow Clifford and Alvin. He naturally knew what Alyssa had done.

Chapter 1178

Karl glanced towards the door and said, “The doctor said that I am not in good health and should not be tired.”

Peter’s mouth twitched, “I know, but didn’t you let her touch these things before? Now you let her do these things?”

“She wants to do it.” As if thinking of something, Karl curled his lips slightly: “Those people have long been unable to become a climate, and what we have to do now is just to do something afterwards. She wants to do something for me, just let her do it.”

Peter frowned: “This is also OK?”

In his opinion, this kind of matter should be solved by men, but it is not that women should not be allowed to interfere, mainly because they are afraid of their injuries.

Karl glanced at him, and his tone was full of superiority: “The lonely family won’t understand.”

“You are attacking me personally!” Peter snorted coldly: “You are laughing at my loneliness now, then you continue to count the ants at home and come out to eat with me!”

“You are just jealous that I have a daughter to count the ants with me.” Karl’s tone was serious.

Peter rolled his eyes: “The whole world is jealous of you, let’s go!”

To be honest, he was a little envious in his heart.

When he was younger, he called friends, drag racing, drinking and playing all over the world, knew how to be happy.

But after playing for so many years, he found that what he used to be happy about is not happy anymore. Apart from work, he is not interested in many things.

When Alyssa walked in, she just heard the words of Karl and Peter.

She glanced at Karl helplessly, and whispered to him: “Just say a few words.”

"I'm telling the truth, you ask him if he is jealous." Karl raised his chin, pointing at Peter.

Peter snorted coldly, ignored Karl, turned his head and smiled and said to Alyssa, "I met Clayton when I came before, and he may come back later."

Alyssa nodded: "Yeah."

When eating, the two big men were still holding grudges, naive enough to grab food.

Alyssa felt that she could not see, but fortunately Clayton came midway.

"Are you eating?" Clayton put a cigarette between his fingers, walked over and sat down beside Peter.

Karl's gaze fell on his cigarette, he instantly understood, laughed, and prolonged the tone and said, "Yes."

After speaking, he pinched the cigarette in his hand.

"Come on, drink." Peter picked up the bottle to pour for Clayton.

Clayton stretched out his hand to cover the mouth of the cup: "I just drank it."

"Don't talk nonsense, drink together." Peter pushed away his hand and poured a full glass of wine.

Clayton saw him look sullen and asked: "What's wrong with you?"

Peter picked up the wine glass and touched him, without talking, only drinking.

Alyssa also persuaded him: "Peter, you can't drink it."

Peter waved his hand: "It's okay."

Alyssa whispered to Karl, "I blame you! Tell him what they are doing!"

Karl turned his head to look at her: "Blame me?"

"No." Alyssa couldn't get angry with him.

Peter drank too violently, and soon went up, and hugged Clayton after he got up and howled: "Why does Karl have a daughter? My wife is still out of sight. We are too miserable."

Clayton expressionlessly pushed Peter away, taking care of his clothes: "I am different from you, and I will soon get married."

"Huh?" Peter stopped howling and looked startled: "The last time I saw you a week ago, you f*cking tell me now, you are getting married?"

Chapter 1179

"Have you ever heard of flash marriage?" Clayton glanced at Peter with disgust in his eyes.

Peter felt sad for a while, and the cup was gone. He took a big sip from the bottle and hiccup. He said drunkenly, "You are really not enough brothers. You are going to get marriedâ€¦hiccup!"

As he said, he hiccuped again.

“Your little ancestor hasn’t caught up yet?” Seeing him like this, Clayton also looked straight.

When Peter heard “Tina”, his eyes lit up.

Then, Clayton said to him: “Looking at you like a ghost, you know it’s not done yet.”

Peter kicked his chair.

Karl turned his head and glanced at Alyssa, then went to drink a cup of water.

Alyssa asked him in a low voice, “What do you think you are doing?”

“It’s nothing.”

The expression on Karl’s face was faint, and he smiled at her.

“I know if you don’t tell me.” Alyssa snorted coldly.

Karl’s smile deepened, put his hand on the back of her chair, and stared at her face fixedly, “Then you think about it?”

“I don’t think about it.” Alyssa looked at him with a smile and a little begging, and she couldn’t hold it back, and whispered: “I promised Tina.”

Although Karl didn’t forgive Peter, he couldn’t bear to see Peter doing this. He wanted Alyssa to tell him why Tina hadn’t been with Peter.

But Alyssa promised Tina, she would not tell the third person.

Alyssa didn’t want to say, Karl naturally wouldn’t force her, but calmed down the voice and said, “I see.”

After finishing speaking, he looked up again to look at Peter: “If you want to drink any wine today, take it yourself and don’t charge any money.”

Peter snorted coldly: “Am I short of money for your wine?”

Clayton and Peter drank two glasses, and couldn’t stand Peter’s drinking method. They turned to look at Karl, “How is your health?”

“Can’t die” After Karl finished speaking, he thought of Alyssa next to him, and immediately changed his words: “It’s okay.”

Clayton couldn’t help but smile: “That’s fine.”

€!

After the meal, Peter and Clayton both had things to do, and they left first.

Alyssa also knew that Karl had been holding back at home for too long during this period, and instead of going home immediately, she asked him, “Are there any places you want to go?”

Karl asked tentatively, “Company?”

Alyssa wanted to say no, but thinking that he was watching by her side, she couldn’t bear to brush his mind, so she nodded, “Go home?”

“Good.” Karl agreed very simply.

The car drove to the underground garage, and the two took the exclusive elevator directly up.

When got out of the elevator, met Smith.

“Sir, young lady?” Smith was also surprised to see them.

During this period of time, everything in the company was dealt with by Smith, busy, and he didn’t hear them telling him to come over.

“When we came out for an examination today, he said he wanted to come and have a look.” Alyssa turned to look at Karl while speaking.

Karl saw him looking like he was going out: “Where are you going?”

“Going to sign a contract.” Although Smith is now managing the company’s affairs, he is not Karl at all, so many things have to be done by himself.

Moreover, Karl and Alyssa had accidents one after another. Although the Adams’ has deep roots, they also suffered a lot of severe damage this year. Although they were still at the top of the pyramid, their strength was somewhat weakened.

Now Karl doesn’t care about the company’s affairs. If Karl takes over, this will not be a problem, but now he should not be tired.

Chapter 1180

Karl nodded: “Go ahead and leave us alone.”

The time was arranged in advance, and Smith didn’t stay any longer, nodded slightly towards Alyssa, and turned away.

Alyssa accompanied Karl to the CEO’s office.

Karl hadn’t been here for a long time.

He looked around, and finally walked to the desk, flipped through the files on the desk, and saw Alyssa’s name on it.

He couldn’t help but grinned, turning his head to look at Alyssa: “The document you signed.”

Alyssa was taken aback, walked over and took a look, and found that it was indeed her name. A little embarrassed, she brought the file over to see: “This plan was useless later, so I put it on hold.”

She has her own office in the company. Except for Alyssa’s visit, Karl’s office has been vacant. No other employees dare to come in. These things are too busy all the time. It has been here forever.

Karl still stretched out his hand to get the file, Alyssa hid behind him: “Don’t look.”

She really didn’t know anything about business. Compared with people like Karl who was born business savvy, he was in the sky and she was underground, completely incomparable.

So that Karl would laugh at her after reading it.

Karl didn't force it anymore, turned his head and hit the inside line: "The financial statements of the last six months, bring me over and take a look."

Alyssa pursed her lips, but finally did not speak.

She knew that Karl had come, and he would definitely not leave easily.

Karl sat down to look at the report and watched it all afternoon, frowning all the time.

Alyssa waited until Grace was about to end school before she reminded him: "We should pick up Grace."

Only then did Karl return to his senses and closed the report in his hand: "Yeah."

He didn't say that he wanted to check it again, nor did he say that he wanted to take the report back to read it, and he got up very cooperatively and went with Alyssa.

This makes Alyssa's mood a bit complicated.

After leaving Adams's House, the two got in the car together.

During this time, Karl kept his eyebrows condensed, and Alyssa knew that he was thinking about the company, and did not disturb him.

After a while, when he was approaching Grace's kindergarten, Karl said: "I can't let Adams' leave me like this."

Finally heard this sentence.

There was not much change in Alyssa's face, but she turned her head to look at him, waiting for his next words.

"Every company has a social responsibility. If Adams is left alone in this way, more people will be unemployed." Karl only briefly said a few words.

Alyssa was silent for a moment, and then smiled: "I think you make sense."

In the years when Karl's mother passed away, he insisted entirely on the belief of tracing the real murderer, and later it was for her, and then, when everything was about to settle down, his body was better than his heart. The alarm was issued first, and it couldn't be supported.

It seems that at each stage of life, there are certain things for you to do. These things make your life rich and three-dimensional, allowing you to find yourself.

In the past, Karl would not think about such things, because at that time there were other more important things for him, but now, he is free.