

Predestined 121

Chapter 121

After eating, Alyssa took Luther to his room.

After entering the room, Alyssa mysteriously closed the door.

Luther looked confused: "What are you doing? Just now, when you pulled me up, my cousin's eyes were about to kill me. You are still closed, and he might just throw me out later."

"No." Although Karl was cruel to Luther on the surface, he was willing to let Luther stay with him, which showed that he still liked Luther.

"When he throws me out, you have to help me." Luther shrugged, jumped onto the desk and sat down: "Let's talk about it, what is so mysterious, do you want to divorce him?"

"No matter how you open your mouth or shut your mouth, it's a divorce!" Alyssa stretched out her hand and banged on his head.

Luther touched his head and exaggeratedly shouted, "Eh, it hurts!"

Alyssa didn't mind joking with him: "Is your cousin's personality always the same?"

When Karl was still "Luther", although she could feel that he had a bad temper, he was not as gloomy as he is now.

After she restored Karl's identity, he became more and more unpredictable.

He knew all the things she did, but he hadn't changed his expression. Now after he returned to Karl, he seemed to have no scruples anymore and became even more unscrupulous.

"He has always been like this, but it's sinister." Luther shrank his neck as if thinking of something terrible, and said, "Really, I advise you to divorce him. What do you think of my brother?"

Alyssa couldn't laugh or cry: "Didn't you let me be your girlfriend before?"

"I think you might not like me. A gentleman like my brother is more suitable for you. He must be better for you than Karl. He is too fierce!"

Luther made a face deliberately as he said.

Alyssa couldn't help but teased him: "Do you know how many women in the country want to marry your brother? Even if your brother is willing to marry me, then I am a second-married woman and I don't deserve him."

"You are so good, how can you not be worthy of him?" Luther said casually, but his tone was sincere.

Alyssa was taken aback, how good is she?

Seeing Alyssa stopped talking, Luther also felt embarrassed. He scratched his head and explained:

"Didn't I run away to live in your house before? The day you came, I thought you would send someone to beat me up." , I didn't expect you to make food for me!"

“â€¦”

Alyssa decided to break his illusion: “Because you said your name is Luther, that’s why I didn’t asked someone to beat you.”

“Even if I am not Luther, you will not let people beat me.”

“how do you know?”

“You don’t care how I know.” Luther pushed her out of the door: “You go out quickly, I’m going to do my homework, you women have so many troubles.”

boom!

The door was closed behind him.

Alyssa turned her head back and couldn’t help smiling.

What a kid who knows nothing!

Back in the room, Karl was looking at the documents on the bedside, and did not raise his head when she heard her push the door in.

Is he going to bed so early tonight?

Alyssa did not speak to him either, and went directly to the bathroom.

When she came out, Karl had no files in his hand. He leaned on the head of the bed and fixed his eyes on Alyssa.

Alyssa glanced down at her pajamas, walked slowly to the side of the bed, pulled off the quilt and lay down.

As soon as she closed her eyes, she felt the harsh breath on Karl’s body suddenly approaching.

Opening her eyes sharply, she saw Karl leaned over and looked like he was about to k!ss her.

When Alyssa was sluggish, Karl’s lips were already pressed down, and then the whole body was covered.

The unique biting breath on his body tightly wrapped Alyssa, making Alyssa a little bit unable to pass through, and his brain was blank.

Karl’s k!ss moved to her neck, and his somber voice said, “You learned so seriously in Best Day that day. Let me review it today.”

Alyssa remembered what happened in Best Day that day, her face suddenly flushed, struggling to pull her hand out, but to no avail.

She was anxious, and said directly: “Revisit a f@rt!”

“Can’t speak dirty words.” Karl panted.

Alyssa knew that sooner or later there would be such a day.

However, she was still very resistant in her heart.

After hearing him say this, she was stiff as a stone.

Karl felt her reaction, his breath sinking slightly, as if he was about to get angry.

People are knives and I am fish.

Karl had already backed down by saying this, and Alyssa did not dare to say nothing more.

She endured the shame in her heart, was pressed by his hand, and under his guidance, she helped him

â€¦

Suddenly, Karl's voice rang in the quiet room.

Karl looked at her back hurriedly running away, and smiled deeply.

â€¦

The next day.

When Alyssa went downstairs, only Luther was dozing off on the sofa in the hall, but she did not see Karl.

Alyssa walked over and patted Luther on the shoulder: "You didn't sleep last night?"

"I didn't go to bed until three o'clock. I took too much work." Luther opened his eyelids and said, closed his eyes again, and simply lay on the sofa and fell asleep.

"Where is your cousin?"

"I don't know, went out"

Alyssa breathed a sigh of relief when she heard this.

It was good if Karl was not there.

After eating, she went to office.

As soon as she arrived at the company, she was told to go to a meeting.

It was originally a high-level meeting of the company, but Colin asked her to go too, so she had to follow.

Just as Alyssa guessed, Mu's products have been suppressed by consumers, sales have plummeted, and partners have already wanted to divest.

Suddenly, someone proposed to debut: "Modern people love to follow suit. If we ask celebrities to endorse products, we can definitely save this situation."

"Who are you looking for?"

"For example, Gerald. He is the youngest Superstar in the film and television industry. He has a huge number of fans. If he can endorse our products, we will definitely break the current situation!"

Alyssa fiercely raised her head to look at the person who proposed, and then curled her lips mockingly.

Asking Gerald to endorse Hunt's products is simply a dream!

Chapter 122

At the end of the meeting, Colin turned to Alyssa and said gently: "Alyssa, you come to my office."

"OK."

Alyssa probably knew what Colin would do with her.

When the meeting was just held, the high-level executive suggested that Gerald should endorse Hunt's products, and Colin's eyes were bright.

Obviously, Colin was very excited about this proposal.

Alyssa walked outside the meeting room, but was blocked by Isabel, who had been waiting at the door.

"Sister, something?" The perfume smell on Isabel's body was too strong, and Alyssa took a half step back because she was not used to it.

Although her expression hadn't changed much, Isabel still felt Alyssa's dislike for her very delicately.

Her complexion suddenly sank, and she sternly said: "Alyssa, don't think you moved Karl to help Hunt's through the difficulties. If you are taken seriously by your father, you can be proud of it. Don't forget all this. Who gave it to you!"

During the recent period, her presence in the company has been reduced to almost nothing.

Those employees all ran to please Alyssa, and Colin also deliberately took her off the ground, making her, the project manager, a completely idle person.

This gave her a strong sense of crisis.

"You gave it?"

Alyssa smiled slightly and said slowly: "The marriage contract with the Adams' family back then was made by my grandfather, and my parents gave me my life. I have to be thankful to them if I can have this day. So, I must not forget who gave me all this."

"Alyssa!" Isabel's expression was a little distorted by her words.

Since childhood, Alyssa has been just a foil for her.

At first, she asked Rachel to marry Alyssa to Adams' family, thinking that Alyssa would be killed by the monster Karl.

She never thought that one day Alyssa could ride on her head.

This made her extremely unbalanced.

An ugly and earthy woman, now actually crawling on her head to show off the limelight.

She couldn't bear this tone, Alyssa damn it!

“My sister has been very angry recently. Go back and ask mother to cook some nourishing and fire-fighting soup for you to dispel the fire.” After Alyssa said, she gently pushed her aside: “Dad is still waiting for me in the office, I Go ahead first.”

Isabel looked bitterly at Alyssa’s leaving back, holding her hands tightly.

â€¦

In Colin’s office.

“Dad, what’s the matter?” Although Alyssa had guessed Colin’s thoughts in her heart, she pretended to know nothing.

Colin groaned for a moment, and then slowly said, “Alyssa, this time the company can tide over the difficulties, thanks to your help, father is very grateful to you.”

“Didn’t you tell me? My surname is Hunt, and I belong to the same family. This is what I should do. Why should I say thank you?” Alyssa lowered her eyelids slightly, covering the coldness in her eyes.

Colin wasn’t a fool either, he himself knew that he was not good to Alyssa before, and he was a little worried that Alyssa would hold a grudge, and he was scrupulous in his heart.

But a person’s temperament was developed since childhood. Although he seldom cares about Alyssa, he can also tell from her attitude towards Rachel that he and she are very easy-hearted people.

But he forgot that people’s hearts are all made of flesh, and even a soft-hearted person can harden the heart even when she is forced to retreat.

Alyssa said this sincerely, and Colin was pleased when he heard it: “After getting married, Alyssa is really sensible. What did you think of their proposal at the previous meeting?”

Have you finally entered the topic?

“I think this proposal is good, but the feasibility is too low. Gerald is a top celebrity in the entertainment industry. His schedule must be very full. Let alone our kind of company, those international big-name endorsements and advertisements. He may be too busy to take them.”

Moreover, it is impossible for ordinary actors and celebrities to accept the endorsement of a corporate product that has a negative impact. This will arouse disgust from the audience.

Let alone Gerald.

On this point, Colin was also very clear in his heart.

However, in his opinion, although the Hunt’s family is not qualified to let Gerald reduce his status to endorse their products, the Adams’ family can.

If Alyssa went to the Adams’ family to ask them to put pressure on Gerald, can Gerald, a person who relies on acting for food, can resist them?

His wishful thinking was crackling, and his face showed a look of certainty.

Colin walked to Alyssa and patted her shoulder: "Because this task is difficult for ordinary people to do, I will leave this task to you. I believe in your ability!"

"Thisâ€¦!" Alyssa said with a dilemma: "I may not be able to complete this task, after allâ€¦!"

"Hey, don't say such frustrating words for now, even if you can't do it yourself, isn't there still Karlâ€¦!"
Colin didn't say more about the following words.

Alyssa looked up at him with a clear expression in her eyes: "I will try my bestâ€¦!"

Try it!

Colin discovered the value available in her, and spared no effort to squeeze her.

He didn't even think about it, she begged Karl to help Karl overcome the difficulties, and now going to ask Karl for help would cause Karl's impatience and let her and Karl's feelings are at odds.

In his eyes, only his own interests.

Coming out of Colin's office, Alyssa saw Isabel.

Isabel snorted, squeezed her away and walked in.

Before Alyssa left, she heard Isabel's dissatisfied voice: "I can do this too, isn't it just to let Gerald speak for the family? Find someone to arrest him directlyâ€¦!"

Alyssa felt that Isabel was really stupid.

Even if Gerald is not Karl's cousin, with his identity in the entertainment industry, how could anyone catch him casually?

Gerald's worth alone is almost worth the entire family Enterprise.

â€¦!

Tina has not received a new announcement recently and is resting at home.

After Alyssa got off work, as soon as she left the office, she saw the cool car.

The eye-catching red color is as enthusiastic as Tina's character.

Alyssa looked around for a while, and made sure that there was no one suspected of being a paparazzi, and then walked towards the cool car.

She opened the car door and got into the co-pilot: "Why don't you call me? What should I do if I was photographed by paparazzi at the company door?"

Thanks to Hunt's family, Alyssa is now a half celebrity, black, red and red, and her image is not too positive. If she is photographed with Isabel, she must be taken by the media with a heart. Used to make a big fuss.

Tina's career in the entertainment industry is on the rise, which has a bad influence on her.

Tina took off the sunglasses, and Alyssa was startled by a pair of red eyes.

“What’s wrong? What happened?”

“Our company sold me to AdamPic!” Tina gritted her teeth: “Give me some money and kneel down and call Dad’s Spicy Chicken Company!”

Chapter 123

Tina signed the brokerage company because the brokerage company and AdamPic Media are deadly opposite.

However, she didn’t expect that their company would be so shameless, and they had no spine to collect money from AdamPic Media and sold her directly to AdamPic Media!

Alyssa was also a little surprised: “Is there such a thing?”

“I’m going to kill Peter now, you help me get the knife.” Tina said with a fierce expression on his face as he started the car.

Alyssa: “€!”

Tina is very angry and likes to talk nonsense, of course Alyssa is just listening.

However, she found that the direction she wanted the car to drive was actually AdamPic Media.

Alyssa turned her head to look at her and found that she still looked unnerved: “Are you really going to AdamPic Media?”

“Really!” Tina curled her lips and smiled like a female villain in the movie.

“Can’t you just have a good chat if you have something?”

“I’m just going to talk to him!”

In Tina’s posture, it seemed like he was going to have a good chat with Peter, obviously he was going to fight.

Alyssa couldn’t stop Tina in the end.

Tina parked the car, got out of the car, slammed the door heavily, and ran towards AdamPic Media.

However, before she entered, she was stopped by the security guard: “Lady, who are you looking for?”

“Why do you care about me?” Tina was angry, pushing the security guard away and running inside.

At this moment, the security guard on the side suddenly came over, looked at Tina, and then at his mobile phone: “Sorry, lady, you can’t go in.”

Tina raised her eyebrows: “Don’t let me in?”

Alyssa had a bad premonition. Before, she was the school boss of the school, and she was a good player in fighting. She really wanted to fight.

She hurried up to pull Tina: “This is AdamPic, don’t mess around.”

Tina was obviously confused, rolling up her sleeves and didn't care about the image at all: "Anyway, I am already a contracted artist of AdamPic Media. Even if I fight here, AdamPic will not only be able to carry me around. !"

Alyssa felt that this was the reason.

Moreover, Peter's approach is indeed wrong.

So she stopped holding Tina.

Tina's skill is very good, and soon put down the several bodyguards who came around.

But Alyssa, who was standing by, could understand that these security guards were letting Tina, as if he was afraid of hurting her.

Tina clapped her hands, with a rogue expression: "Are you letting me see Peter now?"

"They won't let you see Peter today." Alyssa picked up the phone from the ground and handed it to Tina.

The screen of the mobile phone shows the interface of a chat group in WeChat.

There is a cold photo on it with a sentence: "It said that this woman will come to Mr. Grant today, but in any case she cannot be allowed to go up, nor can hurt her."

There is no doubt that this order must have been issued by Peter.

Peter bought Tina from her previous brokerage company, and he must have guessed that Tina would come to him, so he had the foresight to give this order.

Alyssa knew that as a good friend, she should help Tina to scold Peter at the moment.

However, she just wanted to laugh inexplicably.

Tina cursed bitterly: "Grandson!"

Then she took Alyssa and left.

In the carriage, Alyssa said, "Peter knows you very well."

Tina said in a loud voice: "When I was a child, he gave me urine. Can you not understand me?"

"â€¦ That knows you quite well." Alyssa said with a smile.

Fortunately, Tina was so unobstructed only when talking to her.

"When we were young, we lived in a compound, and the relationship between the two families was very good, but something happened laterâ€¦" The calm expression fell down and stopped talking.

Alyssa didn't ask much, she didn't have a hobby of inquiring into other people's privacy.

Tina looked carefree and didn't like to hide things in her heart, but she had never told Alyssa about Peter, presumably because it was too heavy to speak.

â€¦

Tina drove Alyssa to a bar.

This bar is also opened by people in the entertainment circle, and most of the customers who come to consume are mostly celebrities, and the confidentiality is also excellent.

Tina opened a box, and Alyssa scolded Peter while drinking.

Alyssa's drink volume had been practiced with Tina, and the two of them drank equally.

But she knew that Tina was in a bad mood and would definitely let it go. She drank very little herself, and she wanted to send Tina back after staying sober.

Halfway through the drink, the box door was suddenly opened.

A well-dressed woman stood at the door of the box, her eyes fell on Tina, and she raised her eyebrows and smiled: "It's really Tina. I heard people say that I saw you before. I still don't believe it. I didn't expect it to be you. ."

While the woman was talking, she walked over to Alyssa and the others.

As she approached, Alyssa felt that this woman seemed a bit familiar.

She thought that Tina knew each other, so she pushed Tina's shoulders.

Tina was already half drunk at this time, squinted at the woman, and vomited three words for a while: "Who are you?"

The woman seemed to have never thought that Tina would not know her, her face turned black, and she said, "I am Theresa."

Theresa?

Alyssa remembered that she would often see a name on hot search, as well as entertainment news feeds on the browser, and she would often see Theresa.

A star with a lot of exposure recently.

However, there is a big gap between this person and the photo.

Tina thought for a while, as if finally remembering that there was such a person, and nodded: "Oh, sorry, your makeup today is too heavy to recognize you!"

Theresa's complexion looked a little better.

In the next moment, Tina said: "You are not the same as the one I saw last time. Did you cut your jaw?"

When Theresa heard the words, she touched her face in shock, her eyes fierce as if she wanted to take a cold bite.

Alyssa saw that Theresa had come to be unkind, so she stepped forward and stood in front of Tina: "Sorry, she drank too much."

Theresa squinted at her slightly: "Who are you?"

Alyssa was about to speak when a group of people suddenly came in at the door.

“Sister Theresa, you are here, we are looking for you everywhere!”

Theresa turned her head and smiled happily: “Guess who I met?”

The group of people walked in, and a man in the lead said strangely, “Oh, isn’t this Tina?”

Alyssa’s eyebrows frowned slightly, this Theresa clearly came to find Tina for trouble.

“Everyone is a friend. Sit down and have a drink, are you okay, Tina?” Theresa looked at Tina with a smile, and didn’t hide her thoughts of revenge.

Tina once snatched her role.

The role she worked so hard to win from the upper position was just like that was snatched away by Tina!

Chapter 124

Tina has been in the entertainment industry for several years and is not a vegetarian.

However, Tina was already half-drunk at this time.

The alcohol fermentation paralyzed her nerves, and her sanity was gone.

Tina stood up with Alyssa’s hand, raised one foot and stepped on the table, looking like an elder sister: “You are all friends in the four seas! today! who are not drunk and don’t want to leave!”

Alyssa pursed her lips, and Tina had already let her go. She might not even know what the situation is now.

Theresa sneered when she saw Tina’s appearance.

Tina doesn’t think about going out from here safely today.

Although Tina had only a small supporting role in the second and third lines, her good looks and acting skills are also obvious to the audience, so she also has a fixed number of fans.

Because of this, even if she doesn’t go to accompany the wine, laugh and accompany the bed, she can still have a good script to find.

You know, in a good script, even the supporting role is very brilliant, it is easy to be remembered by the audience, and it will be a hit.

The desolate play road is open and spacious.

This is also one reason why Theresa hates being cold.

It can be said that she and Tina made their debut at the same time, but Tina has been frank and innocent along the way, but she has to please the producers and directors to get the role.

Theresa turned her head slightly to look behind her, winking at those people: “Okay, Tina has spoken, what are you doing in a daze?”

Her voice fell, and the group of people walked in.

There are seven or eight men and women together.

Alyssa hesitated, took out her mobile phone and sent a WeChat message to Luther: "Has your cousin come home?"

Luther responded quickly: "No."

Theresa made it clear that she was coming to trouble Tina, and something would definitely happen later.

Alyssa walked aside and dialed Karl's phone directly.

While waiting for the call to be connected, Alyssa wondered a bit, what are she and Karl now?

When she thought that Karl was a "waste man", she could frankly accept that she was his wife.

But now after Karl "becomes a normal person," Alyssa felt a little disgusted with the identity of "Karl's wife".

It was because of Karl's deception and unfathomable depth.

There are too many secrets in his body, and the strong and dark is so daunting, the instinct to avoid harm can make Alyssa want to distance from the bottom of her heart.

However, at this time, the first person she could think of was Karl.

The phone rang two or three times and was picked up.

"Alyssa."

Karl's voice was always low, which sounded reassuring.

Alyssa was about to talk when suddenly, her mobile phone was taken away.

She turned her head and found that it was Theresa who had taken her phone away.

"Return the phone to me." Alyssa frowned, disgusting that other people moved her things casually.

"Anyway, just come out to play. Don't play with your mobile phone. Lest be disappointed." Theresa smiled and turned off her mobile phone, raised her head, and threw the mobile phone to a man next to her, then said: "This young lady is Tina's friend, stay with her, don't be left in the cold."

Another woman who is as self-righteous as Isabel.

Alyssa said with a cold face, "Give me the phone back."

Of course Theresa knew that she would call for help, and it was impossible to return her mobile phone.

Theresa thought she hadn't heard, and turned to the man behind, "Have you heard what I said?"

"I heard it." The man behind Theresa stepped forward immediately, reaching out to pull Alyssa's arm: "Beauty, come and play."

Alyssa turned sideways, avoiding the man's arm, knowing that they would not return the phone to her, and didn't say much, and walked straight to Tina.

Tina sat between a woman on the left and a man on the right.

The man has the appearance of a little custard, looks white and clean, but her eyes are too muddy, and it is annoying to look at it.

His hand was still resting on the back of the sofa behind Tina, eager to hug Tina.

Alyssa sneered. Although she didn't think Peter was a good person, at least he told them not to hurt her when he asked the security guards to stop Tina.

Much better than the previous butter niche.

The cream boy felt Alyssa looking at him, raised his head to show a smile that he thought was very charming, and raised the wine glass in his hand.

Alyssa coldly walked over and pushed him aside: "Sit farther."

The Butterscotch was unprepared for a while, pushed by her, and fell directly to the ground.

Alyssa said without any sincerity: "Sorry, you look good in shape, but I didn't expect you to be so weak."

The cream boy gritted his teeth, snorted, stood up from the ground, and slammed the wine glass in his hand to the ground, pointing at Alyssa and cursing: "What are you, don't you have shame?"

Alyssa is currently not in the entertainment industry, and no one knows her, she just thinks she is an ordinary outsider.

"What are you!" Tina jumped up from the sofa.

Jumping too fast and almost falling, Alyssa quickly reached out to support her.

At this moment, the cream young man picked up a glass of wine and made a gesture to splash it on Tina.

Tina crouched on the sofa and didn't mean to avoid it at all, Alyssa turned and stood in front of Tina.

Fortunately, the clothes she wore in winter were thick, and the cold drink was dripping on her back without dipping into the clothes.

Theresa saw this scene in her eyes and casually patted his palms: "It's really a sisterly relationship."

Tina stood in front of Alyssa, and her mind became clearer.

She stood up from the sofa and looked at Theresa: "Do you really think I robbed you of the previous role? Tell you the truth, the director didn't want to give you that role at all. My agent had been with you a long time ago. They are done talking."

"You bullshit!"

Theresa only used Tina as an excuse. She walked over and waved to fan Tina's face.

But Alyssa intercepted her arm in the middle.

“Go away! This is my business and Tina’s!”

“This is the box I booked, you just get out of it!” Tina raised her hand and slapped Theresa’s face.

Alyssa had a headache.

Theresa covered her face and screamed at Tina, “Tina!”

Seeing that the situation was not good, Alyssa wanted to help Tina, but was held back by someone.

The man’s hand slid on her arm: “It is Theresa and Tina’s grievance, don’t worry about it, play with your brother.”

Alyssa curled her lips and laughed.

Her eyes are beautiful, and when she smiles, she looks like a fascinating and glorious person, and the man is stunned for a moment.

Alyssa took the opportunity to break free, picked up an empty wine bottle on the table, and slammed it directly on the man’s head.

The wine bottle was suddenly broken in half.

The man’s head was smashed, and blood flowed down his forehead.

Alyssa didn’t care about him, and walked over directly, pulling Theresa’s hair away from Tina’s body, and pointing the half-broken wine bottle to her face: “If you don’t want to get disfigured, get out!”

Chapter 125

Theresa just didn’t see Alyssa knocking the wine bottle on the man’s head, and looked at Alyssa provocatively: “Come on, poke my face!”

Alyssa took the wine bottle with her hand forward, and she was about to poke Theresa’s face. She opened her eyes sharply, covered her face with her hand, and she couldn’t stop screaming.

“What!!”

Her screams echoed in the box, but the wine bottle in Alyssa’s hand did not poke her.

Alyssa chuckled lightly, sarcasm in her modest voice: “It’s just that!”

Theresa consciously lost face and her face became ugly. She didn’t stand up immediately, but winked at the person behind Alyssa warning her.

When Alyssa reacted, she was hugged from behind.

After such a crop, most of the cold wine sobered up.

She got up and sat down on Theresa directly to pull her hair: “f*ck you, uncle! You and me are enemies now, what is my friend to you! You used to stumble me secretly, I’m a dog If I bite and ignore you, you bumped into me today. I won’t call Tina if I don’t hit the dog!”

The people brought by Theresa stopped Alyssa, and a few others went to help Theresa.

But they couldn't get away with Ben.

Alyssa is not a vegetarian, and naturally she will not be beaten or fight back.

The box became a ball at a time, and a few people didn't want to cause trouble, so they shrank to one side and hid, but they took their mobile phones to shoot videos.

People who can mix in the entertainment industry are basically full of mind.

Although Theresa has a lot of black material, she is still a small celebrity. Tina is a bit more famous than Theresa, and her reputation is also good. The two people got together to fight, and it was a big news to be exposed.

Suddenly, with a "bang", the box door was opened from outside.

"Stop it all!"

It was a male voice.

Alyssa raised her head and glanced. She had a little impression of this man, as if he was the lobby manager of a bar.

The manager's roar made the people in the box quiet for a while.

She and Theresa pulled each other's hair and fought on the floor. Theresa obviously knew the lobby manager. She wailed and said, "Come here and pull this woman away from me."

The lobby manager did not move, but turned to look at the person behind him, nodding respectfully and said, "I don't know who is the person Grant is looking for?"

Alyssa looked back and saw Peter walking over here from the door.

At this time, Alyssa held an unopened bottle of wine in her hand, her hair was pulled by a man, and her free hand was pulling another woman's clothes!

It can be said to be extremely embarrassed.

Peter seemed to be shocked, and then coughed dryly: "Let go!"

He only knew that Alyssa was good at cooking, but he never thought that she could make trouble like this.

Those people naturally knew Peter and let go of Alyssa one after another.

Alyssa turned around and kicked the man who was pulling her hair fiercely: "I wonder if a woman can't move her hair casually?"

The man jumped with pain, but he only dared to stare at Alyssa fiercely, not daring to say a word.

At this time, Theresa, who was fighting with Tina, suddenly called out delicately: "Mr Grant!"

Because Alyssa was standing, Peter saw Alyssa first when he came in.

With Theresa's "President Grant", he noticed that Tina was riding on Theresa!

He frowned fiercely, and as soon as he stretched his arm, he lifted Tina up.

As soon as Tina stood up, he slammed his hand away.

Theresa is a contracted artist of AdamPic. She also knows that Tina's agency and AdamPic are rivals, so she naturally feels that Peter must be here to help her.

She sat up and covered her face and wept bitterly: "Mr. Grant, I just want to have a drink with Miss Tina. I didn't expect that she would start to beat me after drinking too much!"

She cried sincerely, as she said it.

Peter first glanced at Tina, and Tina's condition was not so good. Her hair was messed up, the makeup on her face was already spent, and there were clear red marks on her neck and face that were marked by nails.

His face sank suddenly.

Since getting to know Peter, Alyssa has seen him wearing glasses and pretending to be immature and unreliable, and she has also seen his doglegs in front of Karl. This is the first time she has seen him show a gloomy expression similar to Karl.

He lowered his eyes to Theresa with a cold voice: "Theresa, do you know who Tina is?"

"Who is she, who?" Theresa also felt something was wrong at this time, and raised her head to look at Peter.

Only then did Alyssa realize that her face was swollen, and there were a lot of bloodstains on it. Tina should have caught it with her nails, which was much worse than Tina.

Peter curled his lips, but didn't smile: "She is my little ancestor."

His voice is very soft, but when listening to it Theresa's ears, her eardrums hum.

After speaking, he looked up at the other people in the box, and his eyes fell on the two women hiding on the side.

The expressions of the two women looked nervous and excited. Peter raised his eyebrows: "Hand over the phone."

The two women's complexion changed. Knowing Peter's identity, they didn't dare to say anything, and directly handed over their phones.

"For the rest, call the police. Someone from AdamPic has something to do in your bar. You must give me an explanation." Peter turned to look at the lobby manager.

The manager nodded: "Yes, I must let our boss give you a satisfactory explanation Mr. Grant."

Peter turned his head and looked at Tina, his voice softened a lot: "Let's go."

Tina snorted, glared at him, and walked outside.

Alyssa hurriedly followed.

She and Tina went to the bathroom to wash their faces and tidy up their clothes.

After Tina washed her face, there were only a few red marks on her face, not even bleeding, and she looked like an okay person.

Instead, Alyssa's forehead was swollen and looked a little scary.

"Is it okay? Why is it such a big bag?" Tina tapped her finger lightly, without daring to force: "Which grandson did it, I'll beat them back for you."

"Okay, your peace is better than anything else." Alyssa shook her head helplessly.

Tina touched her nose, and it was indeed because of her today.

When the two went out of the bathroom, they saw Peter waiting outside.

Peter walked up and was about to touch Tina's face: "Let me see the wound on your face."

"What wound, it doesn't hurt." Tina waved away his hand directly with a look of impatience.

Alyssa pursed her lips and smiled, raising her feet to take a few steps forward, not to disturb them being alone.

At this time, there was a steady sound of footsteps.

She raised her head subconsciously and saw Karl's tall and straight figure appearing around the corner.

However, his face was a bit scary.

Chapter 126

Out of survival instinct, Alyssa turned around and wanted to go back.

"stop."

Karl's familiar low voice sounded behind her, and Alyssa's expression froze.

She looked back at Karl stiffly, and said calmly, "I just want to go to the bathroom."

Karl had long legs and long steps. He had already reached her at this time. He looked down at her. When he touched the big bag on her forehead, his eyes were clearly narrowed.

But he raised his eyebrows and said, "Go, I'll wait for you."

Alyssa: "!"

She had to bite the bullet and went to the bathroom.

Alyssa went back to the bathroom, and irritably reached out and knocked on her forehead, but accidentally knocked on the big bag on her forehead.

"Hi!" The pain died.

Finally, Alyssa lingered for a while before going out.

Tina and Peter didn't know where they went, only Karl was standing there waiting for her.

The suit on his body is meticulously dressed as usual, and his figure is slender and tall, even if he is standing at the bathroom door waiting for people, it is pleasing to the eye.

"Twenty minutes." Karl suddenly raised his wrist and took a look.

When Alyssa looked puzzled, he said aloud: "Are you constipated?"

Alyssa was taken aback for a moment, and then choked with her saliva: "Ahem!"

Karl groaned slightly, and then said in a very serious tone: "Look back and let Smith help you go to the hospital to register."

"Haha." Alyssa felt like what else could she say besides smiling at this time?

!

The two went out of the bar together.

Peter's car stopped at the door. He sat in the driver's seat, and Tina sat in the passenger seat next to him.

Seeing Karl and Alyssa coming out, Peter poked his head out of the car window: "Karl, I will take Tina to the hospital, what about you people?"

Karl pointed to his car on the other side.

Peter understood, made an "OK" gesture at him, and drove away.

"I'm okay, not going to the hospital." Alyssa pulled Karl's arm.

She was beaten out with a big bag on her head. She didn't see any blood. Why did she go to the hospital?

She has to queue up to waste time, she just feels very hungry and wants to eat.

It was already nightfall, even if there were lights shining on, Karl's deep eyes became more and more gloomy. He said in a low voice, "Nothing?"

"Yeah." Alyssa nodded.

However, the next moment, she couldn't help but scream: "Ah!"

Because Karl reached out his hand to the big bag on her forehead and pressed it hard.

Although the swelling of the big bag will gradually disappear in a few days, it still hurts to be pressed so hard.

Karl retracted his hand and looked at her blankly: "What's your name, okay?"

"!" He doesn't press her forehead, she will be fine!

!

In the hospital.

Karl insisted on pulling Alyssa for the doctor to do a full-body examination on her.

Tina was no better than her, and she was dragged by Peter for a full body examination.

Two people who have completed the examination sit side by side on the chairs on the edge of the corridor. You look at me and I look at you.

Finally, Tina said first: "I think Karl is still very nervous about you."

"Haha." Alyssa couldn't help but reached out and touched the big bag on her forehead. She still felt that there was a finger poking there.

Then, Alyssa said with a cold face: "I think Peter is nervous about you. What did he say?"

Alyssa paused, cleared her throat, and said in Peter's tone: "She is my relative."

"Alyssa!"

He has always been careless and calm, and his complexion is rarely unnatural.

At this time, Peter and Karl came out of the doctor's office.

Alyssa and Tina sat up together in a straightforward manner without saying a word.

â€¦

Because Alyssa and Tina didn't eat much, the group went to AdamPic together.

On the way, Alyssa thought of Luther, and asked Karl aloud, "Where is Luther?"

Karl turned his head to look at her. There was no expression on the handsome face: "You might as well care about yourself."

When they arrived at AdamPic, they ordered a large table of dishes for the two women who had finished fighting.

Although Alyssa felt a little flustered, she was actually hungry.

When she was full, Karl began to find Alyssa to settle accounts.

"I didn't even know that my wife could fight like this, who taught you?"

Karl looked at her with dark eyes, as if her answer dissatisfied him, and he was about to fix her.

As for how to repair it, Alyssa didn't know.

She only knew that as long as she was in front of Karl, she would change involuntarily.

Alyssa pointed at Tina who was sitting next to her with no sense of loyalty.

Tina was also afraid of Karl.

She shrank her neck, swallowed and pointed at Peter who was sitting next to her: "My fighting, he taught me."

"Ahem!"

Peter just took a sip of red wine and was choked.

"No, I said Tina. When I left, people were asked to take care of you, but I didn't let you be a school boss when I was fighting!"

Before he finished speaking, Tina was silenced with a cold eye.

"Ah."

Karl didn't speak, but sneered, then stood up and walked outside.

Alyssa keenly grasped the big words "Go home and pack you" from his words.

She doesn't want to go home anymore.

However, she dared not return.

!

Karl drove the car, galloping all the way.

When she reached the door of the villa, Alyssa helped the car door and got out of the car, squatting on the side of the road and vomiting dimly.

Luther heard the sound of the car running out. When he saw Alyssa, he let out a relieved expression: "Sister Alyssa, you are finally back. You don't know. My cousin came back and saw you. At home, it's so gloomy and scary!"

Alyssa stood up slowly and said weakly, "It's not gloomy, he can scare people to death."

When the voice fell, she looked up and saw Karl standing behind Luther.

Sure enough, you can't speak ill of others secretly.

Alyssa felt that extending the head is a knife, and shrinking the head is also a knife, it is better to let this knife be cut off earlier.

So she followed Karl back to the bedroom.

In fact, she was a little puzzled in her heart. She was fighting outside, why was Karl so angry?

Is it because Karl feels she has embarrassed him?

Karl entered the bedroom and took off his coat. Turning around, seeing Alyssa still hesitating by the door, he calmly called her: "Come here."

Alyssa walked over to him, and Karl stretched out her hand and sat her down on the bed, then stretched out his hand.

Alyssa wanted to hide subconsciously, but was muted by Karl, "Grinding medicine, what to hide!"

Chapter 127

Only then did Alyssa notice that Karl was holding a bottle of ointment in his other hand.

It turned out to be putting medicine on her.

Alyssa sat up straight, still drew back slightly, and said, "I'll do it myself."

Karl went to her forehead and pressed that fiercely, but she was really not merciful at all, she was always afraid that he was not serious.

"Sit down!"

Karl looked at Alyssa coldly as if he hadn't heard her, and she stopped talking.

He put a plaster on his finger, and gently rubbed it against the swollen bag on her forehead, rubbing very gently, a little painful, but not unbearable.

Despite this, Alyssa was still a little uneasy, her eyes kept blinking, her long eyelashes trembling and looking a bit pitiful.

Karl's expression also eased a bit, but his voice was heavy but not cold.

"You are not allowed to go to the bar with Tina in the future."

Karl didn't know the people who made the trouble today, but he knew how deep the water in the entertainment industry was. Many people have no bottom line for the sake of being in the upper ranks. No one can say what they will do if they are anxious.

Fortunately, this stupid woman still knows to call him.

Karl also knew that Peter bought Tina's contract. He heard Theresa's words before Alyssa's phone was hung up.

At that time, his thoughts turned and he guessed that Alyssa might be with Tina, and Peter knew Tina best, so he called Peter directly.

Therefore, Peter would go to the bar first.

Alyssa frowned. She didn't like Karl's tone very much: "What happened today is an accident."

Karl had already rubbed the ointment away. He slowly retracted his hand, and while wiping his hands with a tissue, he casually said, "Car accident, robbery, such an accident, which one is not an accident?"

"â€¦" Can this kind of thing be compared with robbery and car accidents?

Alyssa was speechless for a while.

Karl didn't mean to wait for her to speak. He smelled the wine on her body and said coldly, "Go take a shower."

â€¦

The next day.

Alyssa got up and looked in the mirror to look at the big bag on her forehead. The medicine Karl rubbed on her had an effect, and it had disappeared a lot, but she still looked a little brutal.

It seems that makeup is unnecessary today.

When she went downstairs to the restaurant, she found that the breakfast was ready and placed it on the table.

Karl and Luther were sitting at the dining table and waiting for her.

Luther eagerly opened the chair beside him: "Sister Alyssa, morning."

The longer she gets along with Luther, Alyssa feels that he is a very good child, but occasionally gets a little skinny.

She was about to walk to Luther's side when she heard a slight noise coming from Karl.

Turning her head, she found that Karl had also pulled away from the chair beside him.

Karl's meaning couldn't be more obvious, he wanted Alyssa to sit next to him.

Alyssa twitched at the corner of her mouth. Karl screamed with the kid this morning. Did he take the wrong medicine?

Looking at Luther's grinning face, and then at Karl's expressionless face, Alyssa sat next to Luther without hesitation.

As soon as Alyssa sat down, it was obvious that the atmosphere on the dining table had become depressed.

She and Luther looked at each other at the same time, and then immersed in their breakfast.

Karl's temper was really too weird.

!

After eating breakfast, Karl drove away first. Alyssa and Luther were delivered by another driver.

At the office door, Alyssa got out of the car, and the driver drove the car away. She turned and was about to walk into the building when she heard a strange woman's voice behind her: "Miss Alyssa."

Alyssa turned her head and saw a woman in an elite costume in a lady's suit standing behind her.

"Hello, you are!" Alyssa was sure that she didn't know the person in front of her.

The woman's hair was meticulously combed, making her look a little serious: "I am Gerald's agent, Ruba."

Although Alyssa had never seen her, she knew the word "Ruba".

She is a fan of Gerald, and occasionally clicks in to read posts and news about Gerald on the Internet.

Ruba is a gold broker in the entertainment industry. Gerald was brought out by her. She is shrewd and capable, and the public has a high opinion of her.

Seeing a trace of her expression, Ruba guessed that Alyssa might know her, so she stopped wiping around and said directly, "Gerald has something to do with you."

"Gerald?"

Ruba nodded: "Well, you come with me."

Ruba took Alyssa to a nanny car.

When the car door opened, she saw Gerald.

He has always had a gentle smile on his face: "I have something to ask you, but it won't take you too much time."

"Oh, what is it?"

Gerald was so famous that it was not convenient to speak here with the door open, so Alyssa got into the car.

When she sat down, Gerald asked her aloud, "Isabel is your sister?"

"Yes." Alyssa was a little surprised: "What happened to her?"

Gerald did not answer her question directly, but asked: "Your company has something wrong, so you want to ask me to endorse your product?"

Alyssa frowned: "How do you know?"

His tone was very gentle, and he was very talkative: "Just tell me, isn't it?"

"â€¦Yes." Alyssa vaguely guessed that Isabel might have done something stupid again, and Gerald would know about it.

She pursed her lips and explained: "This is just a proposal from someone in the company. I know you won'tâ€¦!"

Gerald, who has been listening attentively to her, interrupted her at this moment: "If you want me to endorse the products, I can give it a try."

Give it a try?

Shock was written on Alyssa's face. What does Gerald mean?

What does it mean if she wants him to endorse Hunt's products, he can try it?

Does it mean that if she asked him to help Hunt family, he would be willing to help?

Soon, Alyssa wanted to understand, Gerald would say this, most likely because of her relationship with Karl.

"You don't need to be like this. The Hunt family will have this situation today, which is also self-sufficient, and it will also have a positive impact on your reputation." She thanked Gerald for his kindness, but could not pull him into the water.

Gerald laughed suddenly, with a gentle appearance that could easily make people lower their guard.

He fixedly looked at Alyssa: "It's not because of Karl, I am here for you today. If you need it, I can help you. Fame is not that important to me."

The smile in his eyes was not cleared, but his eyes were very focused, as if he was looking at Alyssa, or at others through Alyssa.

No matter who he is looking at, just his words are enough to make people think.

Chapter 128

With a heartbeat, Alyssa quickly refused: "I am very grateful for the kindness of my eldest brother, but I really don't need it. I'm going to work now, or I'll be late."

After she finished speaking, she said goodbye to Ruba again, then opened the door and hurriedly got out of the car and left.

Gerald looked at Alyssa's hurried departure from the car window, and the smile in his eyes gradually faded.

He knew that Alyssa and Karl had been in conflict recently because of Karl's deception.

However, just to distance him from herself, she also followed to call him "Big Brother".

â€¦

Alyssa entered the Hunt's, still a little confused.

How could Gerald say such strange things to her?

The way he looked at her before, it was like looking at another person through her.

Alyssa was in a daze, but didn't notice Isabel who was walking towards her.

It wasn't until she spoke out that Alyssa's attention was caught.

"Alyssa, how are you doing the task that dad assigned you?"

In front of her, Isabel always looked like a tall posture, with her chin raised high, she didn't want to press Alyssa all the time.

Alyssa thought of what Gerald had said before, and a little inquiring flashed in her squinted eyes: "It's not great, if you are willing, you can ask your dad for orders, and take this task for yourself."

This was originally an impossible task, but it was forced on Alyssa by Colin.

Rarely, Isabel didn't lose her temper. Instead, she fluffed her hair with confidence in her tone: "I will go if I want to. Don't think that you can do things that others can't."

Alyssa felt that these words were appropriate to Isabel.

"Oh, good luck, then." Alyssa's indifferent tone immediately angered Isabel.

However, Alyssa didn't give her a chance to get angry, so she lifted her foot and left.

â€¦

After Isabel took over the task of persuading Gerald to endorse Hunt's products, she barely showed up in the company.

Alyssa didn't care much either.

Although she still had doubts about what Gerald said to her that day, she did not take it seriously.

She is very self-aware, and she does not think that Gerald will have any ambiguous feelings for her in such a few short contacts.

There are countless beautiful female stars in the entertainment circle who love Gerald.

Alyssa felt that compared with them, she was simply too ordinary.

On this day, as soon as Alyssa arrived at the company, she was called to the office by Colin.

Colin smiled with joy: "Alyssa, come here, I have something to tell you."

"What's the matter with dad?" Alyssa couldn't guess for a moment what would make Colin so happy.

"As for Gerald to endorse company's products, your sister has already negotiated, and she has been exhausted recently, so I decided to leave the follow-up matters to you."

In Colin's expression, it was difficult to conceal his joy: "I'm relieved when you do things!"

Alyssa frowned, thinking that this was simply impossible: "Gerald promised to take over company's product endorsement?"

Except for Gerald's initiative to ask her if she needs help, with Gerald's position, even if he really wanted to endorse Hunt's, his agent and company would not agree.

What's more, his contracted company is AdamPic Media.

Peter is the boss of AdamPic Media. It is impossible for him to let the people below help Gerald take on this kind of endorsement that destroys his image once.

"Yes, this is all due to your sister's work. You must negotiate with Gerald."

"I see." Alyssa just nodded, without saying more.

â€¦

Back home, Alyssa went directly to the study to find Karl.

He must know something about Gerald.

Karl had just returned, and when Alyssa opened the door to enter, he just finished answering a call.

Turning to see Alyssa, he said aloud: "You're back."

"I have something to ask you." Alyssa walked directly to him.

Hearing the words, Karl nodded slightly invisible, and motioned for Alyssa to ask directly.

“Did you know that Gerald took over Hunt’s product endorsements?” Alyssa asked straightforwardly without an oblivious mind.

Karl was taken aback for a moment, and there was not much surprise on his face: “I don’t know.”

“What’s going on? How could Peter let Gerald take over Hunt’s endorsement? If he does take over this endorsement, it will have an impact on his acting career and his style of comment!”

Alyssa felt sorry and worthless for Gerald, and her tone became a little anxious.

Karl looked at her fixedly for a few seconds, then narrowed his eyes to look at her: “You are a loyal fan of him. You care about his affairs so much.”

Alyssa didn’t bother to pay attention to the good or bad in his tone, and said: “I am his fan, yes, but he is also your cousin, don’t you care about this?”

“You also said that he is an elder brother, what can I do as his younger brother?” After Karl finished speaking, he turned and sat in front of the desk, as if he would not pay attention to her again.

Alyssa felt that Karl was really a weird person.

He looks like Gerald is very close, but Gerald doesn’t care about this kind of thing.

Karl treats her with good and bad times.

Forget it, Mr. Adams’ mind, she didn’t bother to guess, even if she wanted to guess, she couldn’t guess.

â€¦

Alyssa was responsible for the follow-up work of Gerald’s endorsement, and Colin gave her privileges so that she could not care about the company’s affairs and just follow up until the endorsement matter was finalized.

In the morning, Alyssa arrived at the company, got the contact information of Gerald’s agent, and went out.

Alyssa met Ruba once and felt that she was a serious person.

She tried to dial Ruba’s phone and was picked up after a few rings.

“Hello, I’m Gerald’s agent, Ruba.”

Alyssa slowly said, “I am Alyssa.”

“It’s Miss Alyssa.” Ruba obviously still has an impression of her.

Alyssa directly explained her intention: “I heard that you have accepted Hunt’s product endorsement?”

“About this matter, you can talk to Gerald directly, I am outside now, I will send you his home address, you can go directly.”

Ruba didn’t give Alyssa a chance to speak at all, she hung up the phone after she finished speaking.

In less than a minute, she sent Alyssa the address of Gerald.

The address she sent was a well-known wealthy real estate area in Rostenvel, where many celebrities and upper-class elites lived.

After the address, Ruba also left Gerald's phone number and asked her to call him directly.

After all, ordinary people can't get into that kind of high-end community.

Chapter 129

Alyssa took a taxi to the community where Gerald was located.

At the gate of the community, she called him.

Gerald answered the phone very quickly, probably just after exercising, and his voice was a little panting: "Wait for five minutes."

Gerald really came out in five minutes.

He is wearing a black sports suit, his hair is slightly damp, and his smile is gentle like a big brother next door.

When he put his gaze on Alyssa, the smile on his face became deeper.

He waved to Alyssa: "Alyssa, come with me."

After that, he seemed to realize that he was wrong, and asked her a little apologetically: "You follow Karl and call me eldest brother, can I call you Alyssa?"

Alyssa choked at his words and nodded in embarrassment: "Yes."

Gerald took Alyssa to his house, entered the door and brought her a pair of disposable slippers from the shoe cabinet.

"It's a bit messy. The aunt who cleaned this week has something to do at home, so she didn't come over. I was too busy to clean." Gerald explained to her as he walked inside.

In fact, the room is quite tidy, but the things are arranged out of order.

Alyssa smiled and said nothing.

Gerald took her to the sofa and let her sit down, and then helped her pour a glass of water: "I was abroad for a while, and there is nothing at home. There is only water. You will be the same."

"It's okay, thank you."

Speaking of Alyssa Gerald is not very familiar, she is still a little uncomfortable sitting in his house like this.

She took a sip of water and directly explained the purpose of coming here today: "Have you picked up Hunt's product endorsement?"

"Well, I took it, but the contract has not been signed yet." Gerald sat down opposite her with a gentle smile: "They sent you over to talk about the contract with me?"

“Yes.” Alyssa laughed and put down the water glass in her hand: “Are you really sure you want to endorse Hunt’s Products?”

“Not sure, that’s why they sent you to talk to me.” Gerald’s casual look was a bit like Karl’s.

Alyssa was stunned for a moment, can cousins look so alike?

“However, you don’t seem to agree very much with my endorsement.” Gerald’s smiling eyes were shrewd and wise.

When Alyssa saw him speak so directly, she didn’t twitch: “It’s not that I don’t agree. Although I belong to the family, I must admit that if you take this endorsement, it will affect your acting career. Cause a bad influence.”

Gerald leaned back lightly, his eyes narrowed slightly, and he looked a bit like Karl.

However, his tone was not as gloomy as Karl, and he was still very gentle: “Are you so honest with everyone?”

“â€¦” Alyssa couldn’t speak.

Suddenly, he took away the smile on his face, and said with a straight face: “Don’t be too kind, you will be bullied by Karl.”

Alyssa felt that Gerald said a lot today.

Hearing Karl from Gerald’s mouth, Alyssa was taken aback for a while before reacting.

“Luther is also quite afraid of him, does he like to bully people?” Alyssa was really curious.

Gerald paused: “No, at least before he was eleven years old, he was a very good and obedient child.”

Very good and obedient.

These words are used to describe Karl, which is very against the peace.

â€¦

It wasn’t until Alyssa left that she remembered that the purpose of her coming to visit Gerald today was to talk about endorsements. As a result, the two people talked about the endorsements, and directly left the endorsements behind.

Alyssa was a little helpless, but did not show it.

She always felt that it was not that simple for Gerald to take over Hunt’s endorsement.

Take one step at a time, let’s talk about it then.

In the afternoon, Alyssa did not return to the Hunt’s, and there was nothing serious to do when she returned.

She called Tina to come out for coffee.

She told her that Gerald had accepted Hunt’s endorsement, and Tina was as shocked as her.

Tina's first reaction was not to believe: "How is it possible? Fake?"

"I went to Gerald today. He didn't deny it." Alyssa added sugar to the coffee in front of her, and paused and said, "But the contract has not yet been signed."

Tina was reading Twitter. Hearing what she said, she raised her head and looked down at the screen of the phone. Suddenly, a popular Tweet ran into her eyes.

As she read it, she read aloud: "A certain black-hearted company was so obliterated that it used extraordinary means to threaten a certain great movie king to endorse its products!"

The more Alyssa listened, the more she felt that the black-hearted companies mentioned in this Tweet were very much like Hunt's.

She reached out and took the cold cell phone: "Show me."

The more Alyssa looked, the deeper her brow furrowed, and then she looked down at the comment. The first content of the hot comment was to mention Gerald and Hunt's.

"Do you still remember the tumultuous Hunt's factory a while ago? I suspect that this Tweet is about Hunt's."

There are many comments below.

"But, who is the actor who was threatened?"

"The fact that the daily necessities company owner can suppress the news on the Internet in such a short period of time indicates that he has a very strong backstage. If the backstage is strong, if he wants to threaten the actor to endorse the products, he must find the most in-game person with fans and most traffic. The most influential actor! Tell me loudly, this actor is!"

"Gerald!"

"Upvote +1"

"It must be Gerald!"

"!"

Because of the conscious guidance of the previous hot comment, the comments that followed were basically cursing Hunt's.

Alyssa returned the phone to Tina, took out her phone, opened Twitter, and went directly to Hunt's official Twitter to read comments.

When she clicked in, she saw Hunt's official Twitter posted a Tweet one minute ago: [Looking forward to the cooperation of the only King Gerald.]

Because of the last incident, Hunt's official Twitter was turned off by netizens many times, so they disallowed the comments.

As soon as this was posted, it was reposted over a hundred in less than two minutes, and the number of reposts continued to rise.

Those who reposted this Tweet basically scolded Hunt's.

"Oh, our actor will accept the endorsement of this garbage company? A joke."

"Last time, even the international big-name XX endorsement was recommended by Gerald. Why would you accept the endorsement of a bad company like this? What did you do to Gerald, don't you know?"

"Closing early!"

"â€¦!"

Tina also leaned over and saw the Twitter sent by the family.

She asked Alyssa, "Do you believe there is such a coincidence?"

"I don't believe it." Alyssa shook her head solemnly.

Gerald would say to accept Hunt's endorsement, which may have been a game from the beginning.

Alyssa probably understood what was going on.

This is another attempt to use the celebrity effect to push the Hunt's to the edge of the abyss.

â€œâ€Isnâ€™t there still Old Man Hunt?"

What Karl had said suddenly broke into Alyssa's mind.

Chapter 130

Karl's purpose was to push the Hunt family to the edge of the abyss, until Colin couldn't hold it, and let Old Hunt return home.

It has been eleven years since Mr. Hunt hurriedly went abroad for retirement.

Eleven years ago, he had never returned to the country.

Even if the family were to be reunited, Colin took the family abroad to meet him, but Alyssa had never been taken abroad by him.

Alyssa also suspected that the matter of Gerald might be related to Karl.

After all, AdamPic couldn't really let Gerald take over Hunt's endorsement, and Peter had a close relationship with Karl.

But if it has something to do with Karl, then why does he deliberately force Elder Hunt to return home?

Alyssa raised her head to look at Tina: "If the marriage contract between Isabel and Karl is related to the kidnapping case at that time, can you assume that the reason why Karl has always wanted to force grandfather back to the country? , Because grandfather is also related to the kidnapping case back then!"

Tina shook her head: "But if your grandfather is related to the kidnapping case of Karl and his mother at that time, why would the Adams' family let him go abroad for retirement and let the two marry?"

Alyssa felt that Tina's words made sense.

The series of things that Adams' did give people a feeling of pleasing Hunt's

An inspiration flashed in Alyssa's mind, frowning and saying, "My grandpa was in good health, and he doesn't need to go abroad for retirement ten years ago. There must be some reason for him to go abroad, and Isabel and Karl's marriage contract is weird, and these two things come together"

After a pause, Alyssa continued: "I don't believe there is such a coincidence in the world. I suspect that my grandfather must have known the secret secrets of the Adams' family and reached a marriage agreement with the Adams' family. Hunt's family is cautious, so my grandfather must go abroad, and he is not allowed to come back."

After she finished speaking, she saw Tina looking at her with a dazed expression.

Alyssa also felt that her brain was too wide open: "Do you think I guessed wrong?"

Tina shook her head: "No, I think you are making too much sense. Moreover, dad also had some contact with that case back then. Your grandfather did have a little connection with that case, but it had no effect on the case" at night.

Alyssa unscrewed the faucet while holding her mobile phone to watch the online Twitter discussion about Gerald being threatened.

"Sister Alyssa!"

Luther's voice came from outside.

His voice is from far to near: "Sister Alyssa, are you cooking!"

Alyssa put down her mobile phone and looked outside the kitchen, just in time to see Luther running over here.

As soon as he ran in, he was about to uncover the lid: "What are you doing, it's delicious!"

"Broiled chicken." Alyssa patted his hand gently: "It's not ready yet, go out and wait."

"Okay." Luther retracted his hand with a smile, and ran out in a swift smoke.

When eating, Karl did not come back.

Alyssa looked at the place where Karl usually sits, slightly lost.

Luther took a piece of braised chicken and stuffed it into his mouth. He ate his mouth full of oil, and said vaguely: "If you want cousin, call him."

"Who missed him?" Alyssa gave him another piece of meat: "Eat yours."

"Oh." Luther obviously didn't believe her.

After the two had eaten, Karl still did not come back.

Alyssa returned to the room to take a shower, sat on the bed and looked at the empty room, always feeling that nothing was right.

Is it because Karl is not there?

“Buzz!”

Suddenly, her mobile phone on the bedside table vibrated.

Alyssa took it over and saw that it turned out to be a call from Karl.

She hesitated for three seconds, then reached out and picked it up.

“Hey?”

It was not Karl’s voice that rang on the other end of the phone: “Alyssa, I’m Peter, something has happened to Karl, now come to Best Day, I’ve asked Smith to pick you up.”

Peter’s tone was particularly anxious, which made Alyssa get a sense of anxiety in her heart.

She remembered the gunshot wound on Karl last time!

Feeling a little flustered, she ran upstairs quickly after changing her clothes.

Just when the Smith had come, he saw Alyssa panicking, his eyes flashed slightly: “Madam, to Best Day.”

Smith drove the car fast, and it didn’t take long to arrive at Best Day.

When she got out of the car, Alyssa remembered and asked him, “What happened to Karl?”

“Madam will know if you go and see.” Smith lowered his head, looking very respectful.

Alyssa’s heart was suspicious, and she didn’t see him too nervous.

As soon as she entered Best Day, she saw Peter.

As soon as Peter saw her, he walked up directly: “Alyssa, you are here.”

“Where is Karl?” Alyssa asked him aloud.

Peter coughed slightly: “I will take you to find him.”

The two entered the elevator, and Peter was still explaining to her: “Karl had an accident. He didn’t talk to anyone else, and I don’t know who to look for except you.”

“Oh.” As if she and Karl were very close.

At the door of the room, Peter opened the door: “Karl is inside, you can go in.”

The room was dark and the lights were not turned on.

Alyssa felt something was wrong: “What happened to Karl?”

Peter sighed, “You’ll know when you go in and see.”

Alyssa looked at Peter for a few seconds, then raised her foot and walked in.

As soon as she entered with her front foot, the door was closed with a “bang”.

Alyssa reached out and pressed the light switch, glanced at the door of the room, and continued to walk inside while calling Karl’s name.

“Karl?”

She called several times without getting a response.

Karl lived in a suite, and Alyssa walked towards the bedroom without seeing him in the hall.

Alyssa turned on the bedroom light and found that there was no Karl in the bedroom. Just as she was about to go out, she heard the patter of water coming from the bathroom.

She walked to the bathroom door and knocked on the door: “Karl? Are you inside?”

There was no light in the bathroom, and Alyssa did not hear any response from inside, so she was not sure whether there was anyone inside.

Just when she was about to turn around and go out, a depressed and gloomy voice came from the bathroom: “Get out!”

It was Karl’s voice!

His voice doesn’t sound right.

“Karl, what’s wrong with you?” Alyssa patted the door: “I am Alyssa.”

The next moment, the bathroom door was suddenly opened.

Karl appeared pale in her sight. His whole body was dripping with water, only wrapped in a bath towel, Alyssa stood a step away from him, feeling the coolness radiating from him.

Alyssa reached out and touched his arm, and found that it was frighteningly cold!

Karl quickly opened his mouth: “Who asked you to come? Go back!”