Chapter 1241

Alyssa whispered a word in Karl's ear.

After she finished speaking, she turned her head to look at Karl's profile and waited for his reaction, but Karl did not speak until she found his slightly red ears.

Alyssa stretched out her hand to pinch his earlobes with a surprised look: "You are shy."

Karl held her hand and turned to look at her, his voice low: "You don't make trouble."

"You are shy and don't admit it." Alyssa whispered, and then said: "Get Grace back. I haven't seen her for a day."

One day she doesn't see her, She feels she really wants to see her.

"Coming back tomorrow."

"tomorrow!"

Karl suddenly hugged her sideways, Alyssa was unprepared, and said in surprise.

"You let me down."

"You are too tired after shopping for a day, I will hold you up."

"I'm not tired, I can still pick up Grace."

"You are tired, we won't pick her up today, and we will live in a world of two."

"â€"

â€"

The surroundings of several wedding venues selected by Karl are very beautiful.

Alyssa likes everything.

She picked one of her favorite places, the small town of Yachasha.

It is a small town with beautiful scenery abroad, close to the sea, and the climate is pleasant.

When Karl singled out these places, he had already worked out a plan. After the places were finalized, the following things became simpler.

Although Alyssa is participating in the discussion of the film script of "Lost City", the filming of this film is scheduled to start in the next year, so there is still plenty of time. In addition, the producer of this film is Peter, so he said everything After all, Alyssa wants to get married and ask for leave, it is very simple.

In the next period of time, everyone was working hard, just to make time to attend the wedding of Alyssa and Karl.

In the end, the wedding date was set half a month later.

Karl sent someone to set up the wedding scene in advance.

â€

Tina suffered a leg injury before, so this year's announcements are not too many. She arranged the time ahead of time and rushed to the small town of Yachasha to help Alyssa set up the wedding scene.

When Alyssa rushed to the small town of Yachasha, Tina brought people to pick them up.

"Aunt Tina!"

When Grace got off the plane, she saw Tina, and leaving Alyssa's hand ran towards Tina.

"Little Grace."

Tina squatted on the ground and stretched out his arms towards Grace with a smile on his face. As soon as Grace ran over, she rushed directly into her arms.

Tina does not have makeup, and the whole person looks very pure, without the usual exquisite makeup and unremitting demeanor. Outside the lens, she is relaxed and natural, and her face is smaller than with makeup.

Alyssa smiled at her: "Thank you."

"What's the use of saying that? Wrap a big red envelope." Tina spread her hands towards her.

Alyssa smiled and turned to look at Karl.

Karl actually took out a red envelope, handed it to Tina, and said the same thing as Alyssa: "Thank you."

Tina shook her hand: "You're welcome, I'm just kiddingâ€"

Unexpectedly, Karl had really prepared a red envelope.

She glanced at Alyssa, blinked sharply, and motioned for Alyssa to say something.

"Just take it, the wedding ceremony was meant to receive the red envelope." Alyssa took a deep hand, causing Karl to stuff the red envelope into Tina's hand.

"Then I'm not welcome." Tina took the red envelope, wondering what was in the red envelope, but still didn't dare to open it on the spot in her pocket, and thanked him with a smile: "Thank you Mr. Adams."

The word red envelope sounds very festive, no matter what is in it, it makes people happy.

Chapter 1242

Karl, who has never smiled at others, also smiled and said, "You're welcome."

His gratitude to Tina was also from the heart.

By the end of the year, things in the company are piled up like a mountain. Although he can spare time to come and arrange the wedding scene himself, when Tina offered to help them arrange, Alyssa was quite happy and let Tina come.

The feelings between women are very delicate, and being able to participate in important moments in each other's lives should be a very special thing for them.

Besides, Tina and Alyssa have known each other for many years, and they must know Alyssa's preferences.

Although Tina didn't have much contact with Karl, she also knew Karl's temperament. She was no longer as afraid of Karl as before, but she had never received such treatment from him.

She was flattered that Karl could talk to her with such a gentle smile.

Sure enough, the power of love cannot be underestimated.

â€¦

Karl was afraid that Alyssa would be tired, so he had plenty of time to prepare.

Alyssa could still rest in the small town for two more days. For these two days, she did not live with Karl, but went to live with her in the desolate room.

Karl naturally didn't want to agree, but still succumbed to Alyssa's pleading eyes.

In the middle of the night, Tina and Alyssa lay in bed and talked about it, and laughed: "You have a good way to train your husband, Mr. Adams, who used to have a domineering temperament in your family, said one thingâ€¦"

Alyssa thought for a while, as if Karl was indeed like this before.

When she retorted Tina, her tone was also a little weak: "Where is it like you said, he is actually very attentive and considerateâ€¦"

Tina sighed deliberately, "Ah, the sour smell of love."

Alyssa was amused by her.

"How do you feel? Are you afraid of marriage? Do you want your sister to enlighten you?" Tina turned sideways, facing Alyssa, and said solemnly.

"Karl and I are both old partners, how could we still fear marriageâ€¦ I just feel so happy, and the happiness is a little unreal, it feels like we are dreaming, stepping in the cloudsâ€¦"

While she was not paying attention, Tina stretched out her hand and twisted her arm, which caused Alyssa to cry out in pain, and asked, "Does it feel real?"

Alyssa covered the place where Tina had screwed, and smirked: "It's real."

Tina couldn't help rolling her eyes: "Marriage makes people stupid."

Alyssa stretched out her hand unconvinced to scratch the cold itching, and the two of them got together.

After a long time, the two got tired of quarreling.

The room became quiet.

The deep voice rang out in the dark.

“Ok.”

â€¦

On the wedding day, Tina got up early in the morning and put on makeup for Alyssa.

Tina said while applying makeup to her: “For these two days, you slept with me at night and talked to the middle of the night. Fortunately, your skin is good, otherwise I will be a sinner.

Alyssa raised her head and let Tina put her makeup on: “Then you make me more beautiful.”

“That’s for sure, our Alyssa is the most beautiful in the world today.”

Tina let out a “pouch” laugh. If she was normal, she would definitely ask Alyssa “Do you want to be shameless?”, but today is the day when Alyssa is overjoyed. She is indeed the most beautiful.

It took a long time to put on makeup, and Karl walked in from outside.

He walked to Alyssa and asked in a low voice, “Are you tired?”

“Not tired.” Although it has been more than an hour, she really doesn’t feel tired because Tina chats with her.

Chapter 1243

Tina, who focused on makeup, took the time to look at Karl, “It’s going to be done soon.”

Karl responded indifferently, “OK.”

After receiving Karl’s response, Tina became more diligent: “Mr. Adams, you can sit and wait. I have to get hair done after I put on makeup.”

At this time, there was a suppressed cough in the room.

Tina looked over and found Peter standing behind Karl.

Peter clenched a fist with one hand to his lips, his complexion was a little red, and she could see that he was trying his best to suppress the cough, but he couldn’t help it. After a while, he stopped coughing.

Although Peter kept coughing, his eyes kept falling on Tina. After he saw Tina, the smile on his face disappeared little by little.

Does she just want to see him like that?

“Peter, you are here.” Alyssa turned her head to look at him.

She remembered that Karl had said before that Peter could not come in advance because something happened at AdamPic. This was the first time she saw Peter after she arrived in the town.

Peter curled his lips, smiling not very seriously, but with a sincere tone: "Alyssa is very beautiful today."

"Thank you." Alyssa smiled back, and she accepted all the words of praise.

She was talking to Peter with her head tilted. Tina could not put on makeup on her face and waited for Alyssa to finish her words. She lowered her head and fiddled with the makeup box, not looking at anyone.

Alyssa glanced at Tina calmly, and then asked Peter, "Do you have a cold? I have medicine for the cold, so Karl will get you some."

"It's okay, I have a strong body, what a little cold is." Peter raised his arm and made a muscular posture.

Alyssa laughed, turned her head to look at Karl, and gave him a look, which meant that Karl could get the medicine.

Karl rolled his eyes lightly, pretending not to see Peter's eyes.

Peter said before he came in, he wanted to pretend to be sick to get sympathy from Tina and said that he hadn't seen Tina in a long time.

Therefore, this cold medicine cannot be taken.

With the tacit understanding of Alyssa and Karl, they guessed their thoughts at once.

She sighed from the bottom of her heart, and turned her head to look at Tina with a smile: "Tina, go ahead."

â€

The wedding venue in Yachasha, with a history of nearly 800 years. Full of medieval retro style, like scenes carefully modified in old movies, sacred and romantic.

The wedding was presided over by a priest who was nearly eighty years old, but his body was very strong, his mind was flexible, and his speech was clear.

"Today, we gather here under the watchful eyes of God, and in front of this group of people, to witness the sacred wedding of Karl and Alyssa. This is a glorious momentâ€"

The priest turned his head to look at Karl.

"Are you willing to accept Alyssa as your legal wife in this sacred wedding, and live together under the guidance of God? You are willing to love her, respect her, comfort her, care for her, and be in yours Will you stay loyal to her for the rest of your life?"

"I do."

Karl answered quickly, causing the priest to smile, turning his head to look at Alyssa.

"Are you willing to accept Karl as your legal husband in this sacred wedding, and live together under the guidance of God? You are willing to love him from now on, respect him, comfort him, care for him and in your lifetime do not leave and treat him faithfully?"

Chapter 1244

Alyssa turned to look at Karl.

Karl pressed the corners of his lips slightly, with tension and anticipation in his eyes.

Peter and Clayton roared in the audience.

“Alyssa, in front of God, you must think clearly before answering.”

Karl turned his head and glanced in the direction where they were like a knife.

“I’m willing.” Alyssa reached out and took Karl’s hand.

Karl knows everything about her.

Her heart was with him long ago, and she didn’t need to be so nervous at all.

Finally, the two swear an oath together:

“From now on, I will always have you. Whether it is poor or precious, disease or health, I will love you, respect you and cherish you until death separates us.”

After reading the vows, the two looked at each other and saw flickering tears in each other’s eyes.

For them, this is not just a vow in the ceremony, it is the words that they have firmly engraved in their hearts when they have experienced so many separations and changes.

When Karl k!ssed, Alyssa closed her eyes, tears falling from the corners of her eyes.

They had gone through so many hardships, and passed by with death many times before they waited until this moment.

From now on, live peacefully and happily together.

Only death can separate them.

Those who came to the wedding were all friends who were close to Karl and Alyssa. They knew best what they had gone through, and they couldn’t help but blush.

Alyssa couldn’t stop crying.

Karl k!ssed her tears, his voice was soft and gentle: “Why are you crying.”

Alyssa couldn’t make a sound, just shook her head.

She is just happy.

Didn’t think there was anything before.

Looking back now suddenly, she realized how difficult this route was.

Many times, she thought that she could not go to the end with Karl in this life.

In the audience, Tina with red eyes, attached to Grace’s ear and said, “Go.”

Alyssa cried hard, and Grace also cried in the audience. After hearing Tina's words, she ran up with short legs.

â€¦

at night.

Karl and Alyssa hosted an open-air party in a resort hotel by the sea to thank the guests.

Smith's son, Ervin, is five years older than Grace. He is young and old-fashioned. With Ervin's calm, Grace feels that Ervin's little brother is a bit bored, but the adults are drinking, she can only play with him.

Seeing the two children holding hands and walking up the sand, Alyssa couldn't help smiling.

Karl leaned in and said leisurely: "I think it's good to order a baby kiss."

"Are you still thinking about this?" Alyssa was a little bit dumbfounded, she thought Karl had forgotten about it a long time ago.

"It's better to be taken away by the stinky boy outside than to be with his own family." In Karl's heart, Smith is considered his own family, and Smith's son is also considered his own family.

Alyssa felt that Karl became more and more like an old father who was worried about his daughter.

In matters related to Grace, Karl was more worried than she was.

Maybe this is the true state of Karl fully entering the role of father.

Alyssa comforted him with a warm voice: "The children are still young, so it is best for them to grow up freely, not to interfere too much, not to mention marriage issues, they will have their own ideas when they grow up."

"What are you young couple doing hiding here? You are the protagonist today. Come over and drink!"

Peter came over and pulled them over.

Everyone gathered to drink.

Karl was given a few laps of wine by them, and even Alyssa was not spared.

Three rounds of wine.

They talked about the past and the future.

Chapter 1245

When Tina woke up, she found that she was sleeping on the carpet next to the bed. She was still wearing yesterday's clothes and holding a wine bottle in her hand.

She shook the bottle and found that there was a small half bottle of wine. She slept on the ground at night, but the wine did not spill out.

She is amazing!

Putting the wine bottle aside, she shook her head. When she got up from the ground, she felt sore all over her body. She drank too much at the outdoor party last night and didn't know how she came back.

She moved her hands and feet, walked to the window, and opened the curtains.

The sea-view room she lived in has floor-to-ceiling windows on the whole side. As soon as the curtains were opened, the morning light leaked in.

The sun rises slowly from the horizon, as beautiful as a picture.

Tina greeted the morning light and took a deep breath somewhat intoxicated.

However, she was only intoxicated for three seconds.

The phone ringtone interrupted her imagination. It was the exclusive ringtone of her manager Annie. As long as she heard the ringtone, she knew that Annie had come.

Tina couldn't care about the intoxication, turned around and started looking for the phone.

Not on the floor, not on the floor, not on the sofa.

"Where is it?" Tina looked around with a numb face.

Finally, she found the phone where she entered the room.

She cleared her throat and said softly, "Sister Annie, good morning."

"Woke up." Annie remained unmoved, with an indifferent tone: "When will you be back?"

"As you know, my best friend gets married, and she will only get married this time. I must accompany her well, so—" Tina said, "Give me a few more days off.!"

Annie: "The wedding ended yesterday. What else do you need to accompany her for, are you her husband?"

"I—"

Tina felt that this was the case, and whether Alyssa and Karl were going to spend their honeymoon or to do something, it seemed that it was not her turn.

Suddenly there was a sense of loss of marrying a daughter.

"I will pick you up at the airport tomorrow night." Annie hung up the phone after speaking.

"Ugh."

Tina sighed, forget it, acting like a baby is really useless to Annie.

Fortunately, Annie only needs her to return to Rostenvel tomorrow night, and she can take the plane tonight.

Tina took a shower and changed clothes. Without makeup, she prepared to go out to the restaurant for breakfast.

Anyway, there is no paparazzi here who will take pictures of her. When you don't have to work, you can be more casual and feel comfortable.

She walked out of the door, and the door on the opposite side opened.

Peter walked out of it, dressed casually, his hair was still wet, and there were small drops of water on the tips of his hair.

He's lazy enough, he doesn't blow his hair.

Tina glanced at him, turned and walked forward.

Peter followed, walked by her side, frequently looking sideways at her plain face.

Tina was annoyed by him and turned her head to give a fierce look to him: "What do you look at?"

"No makeup?" Peter had been used to her cold temper a long time ago, and he felt very kind when he was fierce.

Tina: "What is your business."

Peter was choked: "I am your boss, why doesn't it matter to me? You can't give up image management because no one here knows you."

Tina didn't bother to care about him.

Peter really had nothing to say.

Because he found that the number of times he and Tina met was decreasing.

Tina, as if avoiding him deliberately.

Or, simply don't want to see him.

Regardless of the reason, it was enough to make him uncomfortable.

Chapter 1246

Tina didn't want to see him, didn't talk to him, he wanted to talk to her.

Peter kept talking into the elevator.

Tina walked in front, and Peter followed her.

"It's not I said you! why!"

Before Peter finished a sentence, she screamed.

Because Tina thought he was annoying, she kicked him out before closing the elevator door.

When Peter turned around, the elevator doors had closed.

The expression on his face became silent, no longer the appearance of shame.

When Tina arrived at the restaurant, The family was already sitting at the table, and Grace was also there, but she didn't see Alyssa and Karl.

After all, it's wedding night!

"Aunt Tina, sit here." When Grace saw Tina, she gestured towards Tina to sit on the chair next to her.

Tina sat down beside her, and couldn't help but stretched out her hand to pinch Grace's face: "You got up so early."

"Yes." Grace pushed her milk to Tina, "Drink milk."

"I'll just go get it myself." Tina's heart is about to melt, how can Grace be so cute.

After a while, Peter limped towards this side. As soon as he sat down, Clayton also came.

Clayton's gaze swept over him: "What happened to the leg?"

Peter said without changing his face, "Didn't we drink too much last night? Going back to the room and taking a shower, I fell in the bathroom."

When he was speaking, he glanced at Tina.

Tina glanced at him blankly, and continued to eat breakfast as if she was okay.

Clayton nodded, patted his shoulder and said earnestly: "When you get older, you should be careful not to fall."

Peter shook off his hand: "Get off."

Clayton's face lightly let go, but he was still a little confused. It was he who sent Peter back to the room last night. He was as drunk as a dead cow, and he could get up to take a bath.

When the group was about to finish breakfast, Alyssa and Karl arrived late.

"Karl, you got up so early?" Peter smiled meaningfully.

On the other side Tina looked at Alyssa, and whispered: "You got up early."

Alyssa heard the teasing in her tone and gave her a little embarrassed look: "Yes, it's breakfast."

"Alright."

Tina had finished eating, so she told Alyssa about her going back to work.

"The agent called me early in the morning and told me to return to Rostenvel by tomorrow night at the latest."

After listening to it, Alyssa thought for a while, and said in a very serious tone: "There is a time difference between here and in the country. The early morning here is the early night in the country. It is also very difficult for your agent.

"Listen to you, it seems like this is the case." Annie is actually a good person and serious about her work.

Tina returned to the country by plane at night, and Alyssa and Karl took Grace for their honeymoon, so they did not go back to Rostenvel with them.

“See you in Rostenvel.” Tina glanced at Alyssa’s belly: “After honeymoon, maybe three people will become four.”

Alyssa said calmly: “Let’s do it.”

She and Karl had not discussed having another child, but if they had one, they would definitely be four.

Tina smiled: “My mouth is good, I am going.”

They flew directly from a private jet, and there were no other people on the plane. Tina closed her eyes and rested upon the plane.

Not long after, she felt someone sitting down next to her.

As soon as she opened her eyes, she saw Peter with a smile at the corner of his eyes.

Chapter 1247

Tina pursed her lips and asked him, “Didn’t you say you want to spend few more days here before going back?”

“Where can I be? I’m such a busy person who is so busy, and I don’t have time to enjoy.” Peter brushed off the broken hair on his forehead in a cool manner.

Tina curled her lips and continued to close her eyes and rest her mind.

Peter didn’t say anything when he saw it, and quietly took out the tablet to watch a movie.

Tina closed her eyes and fell asleep without knowing it.

Don’t know how long it took, the airplane suddenly felt strong turbulence, and Tina was awakened.

Opening her eyes, she found that she was leaning on Peter’s shoulder, and her hand was also held by him.

“Let go.” Tina looked at him blankly.

The next moment, the plane went upside down again, shaking more severely than before, and Tina was almost a little unstable.

Her expression changed, and she held Peter’s hand instead.

It was pitch black outside, and the plane was shaking so badly, Tina felt a little panicked.

“It’s okay, don’t be afraid.” Peter reached out his hand to embrace her with a calm expression.

Tina felt relieved at once.

She knew that this kind of peace of mind came from growing up with Peter and growing up with the trust accumulated over time.

The stewardess came over at this moment, the plane was shaking badly, and she was not walking steadily.

“The plane encountered strong air currents and it was a bit bumpy. Please fasten your seat belt and it will stabilize soon.”

Peter nodded at her.

After about twenty minutes, the plane stopped bumping and flew smoothly in the night.

Tina also calmed down, pushed away Peter’s hand, pulled the blanket over him, and continued to sleep.

When the plane arrived in Rostov, it was five o’clock in the evening.

Tina put on sunglasses and a mask, and when she stepped off the plane, she left Peter far behind her.

Peter took three steps and two steps, stepped forward and grabbed her wrist: “I will send you back.”

He knew that Tina didn’t like to drive. She definitely didn’t drive over when she came before.

“Mr. Grant, you think my popularity is low, do you want me to get trending searches on the gossip? If you really feel that way, you can notify the Propaganda Department and find a male celebrity in the company to tie up a relationship with me.”

Tina added: “Oh, it’s best to find a small flow of fresh meat, the more handsome the better.”

Peter’s face sank, and he gritted his teeth with anger: “Tina! Do you have to anger me like this?”

He also knew that it was not good to hold her like this in public, but he did not think so much because of habit.

Although he had also thought about it in the dark, let the paparazzi take pictures of his and Tina’s scandal, then he would come forward to admit the relationship, making Tina indistinguishable.

However, following her and petting her for so many years has long become a habit.

Habits carved in the bones.

He has made plans to pester her for a lifetime.

Tina’s thoughts were obviously different from his. Knowing that he couldn’t hear such things, he wanted to say such things to anger him.

“Yes, so hurry up and find a gentle and lovely girlfriend. Don’t waste it with a woman like me who will only fight you to the end and annoy you.”

Tina took her wrist out of his hand, and looked at him up and down: “After all, you are too old. It’s hard to find a girlfriend if you become old bacon.”

Peter snorted, and said without a smile: “If you talk about how young you are, who likes to have me, and have you as an old lady and no one wants us, so you can only follow me.”

Tina let out a cry: "Even if I am old, I am the most beautiful old lady. It is not my turn to dance the square dance!"

Chapter 1248

Peter suffocated his stomach, sneered: "Who is so tasteless and wants to dance square dance with you?"

Tina's small face sank, and then he smiled swiftly, only with an unkind smile.

"Mother Grant knows that you think dancing square dance is a tasteless thing?"

Peter's mother retired from the institute early due to physical reasons. It may be because she was immersed in academic studies when she was young and did not enjoy life. After retiring, she enjoyed life at home and wanted to try everything. Recently, she was addicted to dancing square dancing.

Not only that, she often sends videos of dancing square dances to Peter. Peter always fancy rainbow F@rts and dances to make her happy.

Although he only quarreled with Tina to say so, but it reached his mother's ears and might have to quarrel with him.

Peter felt a little guilty in his heart: "Tina, you can do it."

Tina looked up at him, shook her head solemnly and denied: "I can't."

"Youâ€¦!" Peter became angry, but suddenly stopped when he spoke.

Tina was wearing a mask and sunglasses, but Peter could still feel her pride and arrogance at this time.

Peter curled the corners of his lower lips imperceptibly, while paying attention, suddenly leaned over and k!ssed her lips through the mask.

A k!ss through the mask.

However, Tina's heartbeat accelerated for an instant, and she was stunned on the spot.

Peter stretched out his hand, hooked his slender index finger to the bridge of her sunglasses, and gently pulled it down, revealing her watery eyes that were still in shock, and looked at him straight and stunned.

Peter felt that her heart had collapsed.

That's good.

"Let's go." His voice softened, and he put sunglasses back on her very int!mately.

Peter stretched out his hand to hold Tina, and Tina finally reacted. She picked up her handbag and hit Peter.

"I think you want to die!!!"

How dare to k!ss her!

Peter took two hard hits before starting to hide.

He jumped away and shouted: "You are murdering your husband!"

Fortunately, this is a private airport, and there are no people except the staff.

Annie couldn't wait outside for Tina to come out. When she found her, she saw this scene.

Annie knew that the relationship between Tina and Peter was unusual. She usually didn't ask or care about it, and she didn't have the qualifications.

But this is a public place after all.

Annie walked over with a smile, and first greeted Peter.

"CEO Grant."

Peter cleared his throat: "Annie is here."

"I'm here to pick up Tina." Annie's expression couldn't be more natural, and he turned to look at Tina.

Tina shook her hand: "Then go."

â€

After arriving in the car, Annie began to talk to Tina about the matter.

"Tina, you are now in a rising period, and reputation is very important to you. I know that you are close to Mr. Grant, but you know that if you get photographed by the media, it will have a great impact on you."

Annie is a veteran agent, she has been carrying Tina since she came to AdamPic. She also knows Tina's temperament after getting along for a few years, so she can tell Tina if she has anything.

"It's not just on the trending search, the title will probably not be new, it will probably be written as 'Weber violent beating the boss', directly rude, and directly hit the trending search firstâ€

Annie just glanced at her faintly.

Tina pleased with a smile: "Annie, tell you a serious matter."

"You say it."

"I want to fall in love."

Annie frowned slightly: "With whom?"

Tina sat up straight and asked her with her eyes wide open: "You agreed?"

Chapter 1249

Annie is responsible for all of Tina's affairs. Whether it is life, work, or love affairs, she must talk to Annie in advance.

She thought Annie would disagree, but her reaction was so flat.

Annie raised her eyebrows: "You are not a trending actress, so what is the impact of not falling in love."

"â€¦"

It feels a bit prickly.

Tina opened her arms and motioned for Annie to look at her: "Am I not beautiful enough, or not good enough? Am I not worthy to be a trending actress?"

Annie didn't listen to her nonsense.

"If you want to fall in love, you can tell the name first. I will send someone to investigate and see if there is any dark history. You have been diligent and conscientious in filming dramas over the past few years. You are very popular among people. Many mothers like you very much. You will be 30 years old after two years. Falling in love at this age will not affect your popularityâ€¦"

Tina sighed: "Actually, what I want to do is the house goddess."

â€¦

There were a lot of activities at the end of the year. For the next period of time, Tina kept running the announcements, and there was no time to catch her breath.

Peter was also busy, and the two met again, it was already a month later.

After Karl and Alyssa came back from their honeymoon, they set up several tables in Best Day for dinner.

Tina had just finished an activity, looked at the time, stepped on it, and deliberately went a little late.

But she didn't want to, and she ran into Peter at the door of the box.

Both of them have been busy during this period, and their complexions are not very good, and they look haggard compared to before.

Peter glanced around her, seeing her so thin that her chin was sharp, frowning slightly: "Busy these days?"

Tina hadn't planned to talk to him, but looking at his caring expression, she couldn't help but replied, "A little bit."

"You don't participate in unnecessary activities." Peter wondered in his heart and had to talk to Annie.

What are unnecessary activities for artists?

No.

All activities related to you are necessary to participate.

However, Peter never seemed to be a principled person in front of her.

When she was a child, Peter took her to do homework with his cousin, always stern-faced and said that if she could not finish his work, he would not give sweets.

However, every time she called out “Brother Peter” pretending to be pitiful, let alone Candy, he even helped her write homework.

In two years she will be thirty years old, and in retrospect, it was almost twenty years ago.

But she remembered very clearly.

“Tina!”

Alyssa’s voice pulled her thoughts back.

She glanced at Peter, then turned and walked towards Alyssa.

After a month of absence, Alyssa’s complexion has improved, and she is a little fatter than before, but she is already thinner, so she looks more symmetrical when she is a little fat, smiling, and looks very gentle.

A kind-hearted person will always become more generous and gentle after going through ups and downs.

This sentence was well confirmed by Alyssa.

As soon as she walked over, Alyssa took her to sit down and whispered to her, “I brought you a gift, and I will give it to you later.”

Speaking of gifts, Tina remembered that Karl had wrapped her red envelope, and asked her nervously, “What gift did you buy for me?”

“A bag.” Alyssa bought a bag that Tina had been talking about for a long time but didn’t have time to buy it. Originally, she wanted to surprise her, but she had to tell her if she looked wrong.

Tina was relieved when she heard this.

“That’s good.”

Chapter 1250

“What’s the matter?” Alyssa felt Tina’s reaction a bit strange.

Tina glanced in Karl’s direction, and asked mysteriously, “Do you know what your husband has packed in it?”

“What?” Alyssa was also a little curious.

She really didn’t know what Karl had wrapped in the red envelope.

Since Tina asked that, it was definitely not the money or something.

“Don’t you know?” Tina smiled, and slowly said two words: “Villa.”

After she finished speaking, she waited for Alyssa to show a shocked expression.

A gleam of surprise flashed through Alyssa’s eyes, but she soon showed such an expression: “It’s pretty generous.”

Tina asked cautiously, "Is it too generous?"

"Because he treats you as his own, my friend is also his friend." Alyssa patted her on the shoulder to signal her peace of mind.

Tina was taken aback for a moment, and after thinking for a moment, she also laughed.

When she saw Karl once, she felt that this man was more difficult to deal with than Peter, and she was a little afraid of Karl instinctively.

But over the years, she watched Karl and Alyssa. She knew what kind of person Karl was.

Karl was indifferent on the surface, but in fact he was also a gentle person in his bones. Although his gentleness was only given to Alyssa, he also expressed his friends more directly.

With a market value of 10 billion, AdamPic Media, he gave it to Peter without blinking his eyes.

She heard that Karl had allocated Adams' shares to Smith.

He would generously package her a house, and not only thank her for helping them arrange the wedding scene, he should want to thank her for taking care of Alyssa over the years.

â€¦

After the dinner, the group of men chatted about business affairs.

Tina sounded bored, so she got up and went to the bathroom to breathe.

When she returned, Tina met Karl who answered the phone in the lounge area in the corridor.

It should be a business call, Karl looked indifferent and hung up after saying a few words.

Tina thought for a while and walked over: "Mr. Adams."

When Karl heard this name, he took a look at her and motioned to her to speak.

"The red envelope matterâ€¦ Thank you." Although she felt that this "red envelope" was too expensive, she would definitely not ask for it when she went back to Karl.

Don't ask why.

Asking is the mighty CEO Adams.

Karl's expression remained indifferent: "I thank you."

He and Peter are completely different people. Peter always talks nonsense, but Karl cherishes his words like gold and is not angry with himself.

Tina shook her head and said, "It's not like this."

She fell into the memory, and said with a sigh: "Without Alyssa, there would be no me."

Karl didn't know where the interest came from, and asked about her and Alyssa's high school.

"You and Alyssa met in high school?"

“Yes.”

“What was she like then?”

“To be honest?”

“Ok.”

Tina recalled: “Before contacting her, I heard that she was a very weird person, ugly and stupid!”

Seeing Karl’s complexion getting colder, Tina quickly turned her words: “But she was very brave and smart at that time!”

Karl was satisfied: “Yeah.”

“I will go in first.” It was too dangerous to chat with Karl.

Karl nodded very lightly, and Tina turned and left.

After watching Tina walk away, Karl got up, took two steps forward, and asked Peter, who was lying lazily on the sofa, “Have you heard?”

“Yeah.” Peter’s voice also sounded lazy.
