

Predestined 1461

Chapter 1461

Peter would regret his decision in the past.

But it was the first time, so truly felt what he had missed.

The Hot Pot was churning, dense bamboo sticks exposed outside, and the smoke blurred the faces of the opposite person, and even the expressions of each other became trance under the light.

Tina saw that Peter was just listening quietly, and did not go to the pot to get something to eat, so she said, "You can eat."

After Tina finished speaking, she grabbed a handful of bamboo sticks and picked it up to see if the food underneath was cooked. She picked some cooked ones and handed them to Peter. Peter looked down and took it.

Tina and Peter have good family backgrounds. When they were young, their playmates were in the same circle. Those elder brothers and eldest ladies are used to picky and enjoyment. They go to high-end restaurants and hardly eat such inconspicuous roadsides. Bistro.

Thinking of this, Tina said again: "You don't worry, eat, this is quite clean."

Peter curled his lips when he heard the words, "Am I being so particular?"

"Aren't you paying attention?" Tina poked her chopsticks into the bowl and stared at Peter eating.

Peter put the meat skewers upside down into the bowl, holding the bamboo skewers in one hand and holding the chopsticks in the other hand. From top to bottom, the chopsticks pushed the meat on the bamboo skewers into the bowl of dipping sauce. No drop of oil spilled out.

The strength is just right, unspeakably clean, and pleasing to the eye.

Tina went to film academy. Whether she was in school or after her debut, the good-looking men she met were like crucian carp who crossed the river.

Most people with good-looking skins, men and women, are easy to lose themselves in the Vanity Fair, proud of their extraordinary looks, ambitiously peeping in secret, trying to trade their skins for shortcuts and gain fame.

Of course, there are also people who cherish the simplicity and focus on strength.

However, in these years, Tina has hardly encountered a man like Peter.

When he was a teenager, Peter was mentioned as a dude, except for the face that looked good and the family was rich, he had no advantages.

But this kind of Peter, like a magical person, made everyone like her, including her.

Even after growing up, until now, when people mention Peter, they still say that he is a swinger.

But after so many years, Tina looked back at the past with mature eyes, and gradually understood why she liked him back then.

Because he is Peter.

In the eyes of others, he still be himself.

Being able to do it alone is the greatest charm.

“The taste is not bad.”

Hearing Peter’s voice, Tina regained her senses, and saw that there were several more bamboo sticks beside Peter.

Tina glanced at him, with a slight complacency in her tone: “Of course, when I was in school, I and Alyssa didn’t get tired of eating, so now the boss still remembers me.”

Peter reached out and grabbed food from the pot: “Go on.”

Tina: “What are you talking about?”

Peter looked at her: “Tell me about you when you were in college.”

“Why don’t you tell me about your university?” Tina raised her eyebrows and looked at him, her eyes somewhat meaningful.

Peter paused, and seemed to think about it seriously, then shook his head: “I was boring when I was in college, and there is nothing to say. I was not helping Karl with money or attending class.”

Tina curled the corners of her lips, her tone slowed down, and asked quietly, “Are you going to class with your female classmate?”

Chapter 1462

The eyes of the two met in the air.

Peter was about to go to grab a bunch of hands, and put it back, denying solemnly: “How is it possible.”

The smile on Tina’s face narrowed a little, and she deliberately said, “I saw it with my own eyes.”

After she finished speaking, she fixedly stared at Peter, wanting to see his reaction.

Peter put down his chopsticks.

Is this to start to settle accounts with him?

wrong.”

Peter thought of something fiercely, and looked up at Tina, “Have you been to me?”

Tina smiled, and said softly: “No, I cheated you.”

Peter pressed the corner of his lower lip, his eyes flashed.

This is a manifestation of a guilty conscience.

At that time, Tina wanted to find Peter, but for various reasons, she didn't make it. Although she hadn't seen Peter's life abroad with her own eyes, she knew that there would never be a lack of women around him.

Peter did not get angry because Tina deliberately defrauded him, but instead thought of another thing.

When he first went abroad, Tina often called him.

At the very beginning, Tina was angry. When she called, she lost her temper at him. He remembered that he didn't hang up the phone at the time and waited for her to lose her temper every time. Every time Tina cursed and became angry. She hung up the phone.

She couldn't remember it anymore, he didn't think of anything at that time.

He vaguely remembered that after two or three months, Tina said that she wanted to see him. If he didn't come back, she would not look for him.

and then?

Peter thought of what she had done later, his heart sank to the bottom of the sea, and he couldn't breathe.

After Tina called again, he deliberately found a different woman to answer Tina's call.

After another few months, Tina stopped calling.

After half a year, she stopped looking for him.

At that time, Peter came back to his senses, regretted a little, but did not dare to come back. Until later, he met Karl. After AdamPic took root in the Rostenvel, he returned to the city. Did not dare to find Tina.

"I attended class with female classmates, but not alone, there are other classmates." Peter is not good at explaining this kind of explanation with others. The more he explains, the heavier he feels in his heart.

In the past few years, he has been entangled in Tina, deliberately avoiding the previous things, thinking that it can be regarded as having never happened.

Tina suddenly smiled, "Are you going to say sorry to me next?"

Tina was a beautiful little girl when she was a child, and Peter was also very superficial when he was a child. Only when she was beautiful, he took her to play and where to take.

Now that she grows up, she is still a beautiful woman.

The smile is bright and brilliant, and it makes people unable to move their eyes.

Tina looked at him with relief in her expression, showing a bit of gentleness.

But her relief was like a blunt knife slashing against Peter's heart, and the pain became longer and worse.

Tina can be relieved, but he can't let go of it.

He was a cowardly coward from the beginning.

He thought that he and Tina were destined.

Only now he found out that maybe he was not worthy of her.

After Peter's Adam's apple slipped and swallowed, he said ardently and hoarsely, "Tina, don't do this."

Don't be relieved so easily, don't forgive him so easily.

Although Peter's words are not very clear, Tina understood his meaning from his expression.

For a while, she even thought about taking revenge on Peter, depending on the remorse.

Chapter 1463

What she thought about is now true.

When she really saw Peter's sad and regretful expression, Tina realized that he was not happy either.

She still prefers to look after Peter's stubborn scorn, as if he can go to heaven and earth.

"If you want to say I'm sorry, it should be for me." The calm expression became serious.

She took a deep breath, as if she was doing mental construction for herself.

Tina put her hand from the table to under the table, put it on her lap, and slowly curled up: "I shouldn't lie to you to go to the hotel, otherwise, it won't be like this."

She spoke calmly, as if she was really relieved.

Peter felt that the blunt knife was starting to cut his heart again, and would not delay him forever.

He would rather, Tina had no face to him as before, and speak coldly to him.

She should be arrogant and headstrong before him.

She shouldn't be like this.

Peter realized that some mistakes and misses cannot be made up.

He once indulged and pampered the little girl who grew up, and was crushed by him. She struggled in pain alone until she completed her self-remodeling.

Peter's voice is heavy: "It's not!"

"Peter, listen to me." Tina interrupted him.

Peter swallowed what he had not finished.

She looked into his eyes, smiling at the corners of his lips, and said in an extremely serious tone: "Let's start again."

Without waiting for Peter to answer, Tina said: "I don't talk nonsense, I just need to listen to the affirmative answer."

Where Tina could not see, Peter's fingers were trembling, "Okay."

She was satisfied, and bought a few more skewers for him like a reward: "Eat, hurry home after eating, you have to go to the company to work early tomorrow morning."

Peter originally thought that it was a great gift that Tina could bring him to eat supper.

But unexpectedly, she made the decision to start again.

It used to be Tina taking the initiative, and it is also the same now.

She has never been braver than him.

Peter felt like a despicable villain.

But the future will be long, and he will have a lifetime to make up for the past ten years.

â€

After the two of them had supper, it was already twelve o'clock when they returned.

Tina wanted to drive, but was preempted by Peter.

Tina didn't fight with him, and opened the passenger's door. As soon as she got in the car, Peter came over to buckle her seat belt.

She let him buckle her seat belt, turned her face away, and smiled secretly.

Can't tell why she wants to laugh.

Maybe just because she feels happy.

Peter drove very steadily, calm and a little drowsy.

He turned his head to look at her: "If you are sleepy, you can sleep for a while. I will wake you up when we get home."

"Ok."

Tina replied very softly, leaning back in the chair, turning her head slightly to look at him. Only after seeing that, Peter pressed the corners of his lips, his jaw was also tightly collapsed, and he looked worried.

What's on your mind?

Isn't he happy?

Tina had been watching for a long time, Peter noticed it, and turned his head, in the unclear light, he could still see the gentleness of her eyes.

He asked, "Aren't you sleepy?"

Tina stared at him for two seconds and said, "I was thinking about what to do with the show "My Life and Me". Karl has invested a lot, and Cathy is estimated to be unable to participate now. Cut like this, will Karl kill you?"

Peter raised his eyebrows: "Karl and I have been brothers for more than ten years. Does he care about this money?"

Chapter 1464

Tina said lazily: "Brotherhood is a brotherhood, and money is money."

Peter: "Would you like me to order it?"

She paused, thought about it for a moment, and said, "Then I hope Karl will leave you a whole body."

"Tina, look at the steering wheel in my hand and reorganize the language," Peter said intimidating words, but he didn't move the steering wheel in his hands. The car still drove very steadily.

She didn't know him yet, just because his mouth was cheap.

She whispered: "boring."

Then she closed her eyes and prepared to sleep for a while, too lazy to pay attention to Peter.

She really fell asleep.

When she woke up again, the car had stopped at the gate of the community.

She was covered with Peter's suit jacket, and the window was half high, with a breeze blowing, and the temperature was just right.

Peter was sitting in the driver's seat, and through the dim yellow street light outside the window, she could see him holding a cigarette in his hand, sniffing lightly in front of his nose, staring forward intently, not knowing what he was thinking.

Tina moved, and the suit jacket slid down.

This slight movement also alarmed him. He immediately put the cigarette ball into his hand, turned his head to look at her, his voice was hoarse after a long time of silence: "Wake up?"

"Quit smoking?" Tina's eyes fell on the fist he was holding.

Peter lowered his eyes to look at his hand and smiled: "I thought you didn't see it."

He simply spread out his hand and placed the crumpled cigarette in his hand on the center console.

Then he said: "You told me not to smoke."

She suddenly remembered that once she had finished recording a show before, she saw Peter and smelled the smell of smoke on his body, and advised him not to smoke, which was not good for the child.

Tina corrected him: "I mean father-to-be doesn't smoke."

Inevitably thinking of Cathy, the expression on Peter's face was cold for a moment.

He thought of other things, so he looked at her in his spare time, and said with a smile: "Tina's boyfriend can't smoke."

Tina felt that Peter was a bit inexplicable, and there were quite a few plays.

But soon, she remembered that this was what she had said before.

Peter was two years older than her, and he became an adult earlier than her. When she was young, she was curious and he was very curious too. He had to try everything, drinking and smoking with people, racing cars, and trying everything that he hadn't played before.

Tina thought that after he smoked a cigarette, he would take the cigarette he held in his mouth and throw it away aggressively, saying, "Your cool boyfriend can't smoke."

Although Peter is easy to get along with, he doesn't have a good temper with unfamiliar people. If others were like this, he would have beaten people a long time ago, but it was Tina who threw his cigarette away.

At that time, his connivance with her had reached the point where others were criticizing him. He was ready to sacrifice his attitude for her. One day she will climb on his head.

He didn't care about it at the time, and he listened to it after hearing it. Naturally, he would not get angry with the little thing, and he didn't take Tina's words at ease. He just smiled and took out a box of cigarettes, deliberately in front of her. The cold noodles are lit: "Boyfriend can't smoke, but brother can smoke."

Tina glared at him violently, and he patted Tina's head: "Hey, stop making trouble, I will take you out to play after I finish this one."

The memory came to an abrupt end, Tina was not to be outdone: "Unexpectedly, you, an old man, have a good memory."

Peter narrowed his eyes to look at her: "Isn't that right? You and I were frustrated for two days because of smoking. I didn't dare to smoke in two months."

Chapter 1465

Tina was really strong at that time.

Of course, this cannot be blamed on her, Peter is used to it.

She snorted, shaking the pot to Peter: "You don't rely on me, you don't smoke it yourself."

"I don't smoke it myself." Peter didn't struggle with her, and increased his tone, pretending to be generous, but actually made fun of her.

If the fight continues, it will be endless again.

Tina looked at the phone, it was almost two o'clock, raised her head and said to him, "Go home!"

Peter drove the car into the underground garage. The two lived in the same building. Once they entered the elevator from the underground garage, they took the elevator upstairs.

Tina lived on a lower floor than Peter. When they arrived at Tina's house, she turned her head to look at him, "Would you like to sit in my house?"

Peter's eyes were deep: "Are you inviting me?"

The word "invitation" is completely different when spoken from different populations.

Tina just said casually, but speaking from Peter's mouth, it is more meaningful.

She didn't know whether to be angry or to laugh, hands on hips, looking at him provocatively, "I invite you, do you dare to come?"

The elevator doors opened and closed.

In the end, Peter reached out and patted Tina's head, in a tone like coaxing her: "Goodbye, the actress wants to go to bed earlier."

He thought, but he didn't dare.

Take it easy.

Tina shook her head and shook his hand away with a look of disgust: "Greasy."

After speaking, he quickly stepped out of the elevator.

Peter's furious voice came from behind.

"Tina, try it again!"

But the elevator door was closed and it started to move up. Peter could not go to the cool floor without a room card.

â€¦

Tina thought she would sleep well at night.

But had a night of dreams, all without beginning or end.

Woke up at six in the morning.

Recently on vacation, she went back to her parent's house a few days ago, and there was no food in the refrigerator.

Simply unable to sleep, she was about to go shopping for groceries.

In the morning the food market is very lively, she glanced at the door, first went to the breakfast shop opposite to have breakfast, and then slowly walked into the food market.

The dishes in the morning were very fresh, and she wanted to buy everything when she saw it. Soon, she couldn't carry it anymore.

She drove over, went to the parking lot, found her car, put aside the large and small bags in her hand, and then freed her hand to touch the key in her pocket.

There were footsteps behind, and stopped without a second sound.

Someone stood behind her.

Tina had already touched the car key, she paused and turned her head quickly.

When the people behind saw her turning head, they yelled leisurely: "Tina."

It is Cathy.

This made Tina a little surprised, and at the same time, she felt it was expected.

Surprisingly, Cathy still dared to run around on the street.

Unexpectedly, Cathy had always regarded her as an enemy. In addition, Cathy was not righteous, and this time she was forced to the edge of the cliff again, and it was very likely that everything would be blamed on her.

She has seen a lot of such people, and this woman is one of them.

Tina directly ignored her and took out the car key to unlock it.

Cathy rushed forward like she was crazy, and Tina was shocked and quickly dodged.

But Cathy's goal was not her. Cathy stood in front of her car and prevented her from getting in the car: "Tina, I beg you, can you help me? I have no way to go, you let me see Peter. He loves me so much. As long as he sees me, he will forgive me!"

Chapter 1466

Although Cathy had a pale face in front of her and looked weak and pitiful, Tina had smashed her head in her hands.

Tina stepped back cautiously before saying: "Cathy, if you want to see Peter, you can meet by yourself, don't bother me."

Cathy gradually widened her eyes: "You don't even agree to my simple request?"

Tina sneered: "How close are we? Why should I agree to your request?"

Cathy's expression changed suddenly, no longer as weak and helpless as before, but became extremely resentful: "You don't think I don't know the relationship between you and Peter. You both grew up together, and your relationship is very close. , As long as you speak, he will listen to you! Are you unwilling to help me because you want to be with him? Or are you already together now?"

Tina squinted slightly to look at her. She didn't think it could make any sense to her.

She didn't talk nonsense with Cathy, and directly picked up her phone to call the police: "Hello, is it 110? A woman lost temper and stood in front of my car and refused to leave!"

"What are you doing! I'm not losing temper!" Cathy heard Tina's words and rushed towards her.

Tina had been paying attention to Cathy's reaction and avoided in time.

When Tina avoided it, she told the police again the address.

After hanging up the phone, she looked at Cathy: "The police will be here soon."

Cathy still didn't leave, looking at Tina with weird eyes: "Tell me, are you already together?"

Tina's gaze shifted down and landed on Cathy's lower abdomen, already slightly bulging, and the child was still there.

A complex emotion flashed in her cold eyes, and she slowly said: "The most urgent matter, you should go to the child's biological father. If you want this child, you can give birth to the baby. If you don't, go to the hospital earlier. The child is innocent."

"Do you also know that the child is innocent? Then help me. I want to see Peter. I want to see him! He loves me so much and will definitely forgive me!"

Cathy's eyes gradually became crazy, and it looked abnormal.

It is very easy for a man to really want to lie to a woman.

In order to convince Cathy that he loves her, Peter did many things for her. Whether it is money or face, he can satisfy Cathy with what she wants.

Therefore, until now, she firmly believes that Peter loves her.

She probably doesn't know that the so-called marketing accounts are actually bought by Peter.

Tina looked at Cathy, only feeling sad, hateful, and pathetic.

The poor one was the child she used as a bargaining chip.

Tina did not speak, and Cathy continued talking to her: "I am just pregnant with someone else's child. Peter is just a little angry. How could he not forgive me!"

Tina could hardly believe what she had heard, is Cathy crazy?

What is meant by "just being pregnant with someone else's child"?

Does she even have no moral shame?

At this time, the police came.

"Who reported the case?"

"It's me."

As soon as Tina finished speaking, Cathy turned around and was about to run, but was stopped by the police: "You are the one?"

Cathy shook her head and denied: "I didn't, you just acknowledged the wrong person."

The police are not fooling around randomly: "Acknowledged the wrong person? What are you doing when you stand in front of someone's car?"

Cathy gave a gloomy look at Tina, "I know I was wrong."

The police taught her a few more words before letting her go.

Chapter 1467

Because of meeting Cathy, Tina's good mood all morning was gone.

Although she didn't sleep well last night, she was still in a good mood. She wanted to cook a few meals after shopping for food items, but now she has no thoughts.

Cathy followed her to the food market early in the morning, indicating that she may have been squatting at the small door.

Tina had never thought of breaking her head, but Cathy would come to her and ask her to help.

On the way back, she thought about it and became annoyed.

But Peter sent her a WeChat message at this moment, which was a good morning k!ss and k!ss emoticon.

Tina was in a bad mood, thinking that everything was made by the man Peter, it was inevitable to get angry, so when she waited for the green light, she replied to Peter with a "kick and fly" emoticon.

As soon as the emoticon was sent out, Peter showed that he was typing.

His message came quickly: "Woke up so early?"

Tina drove the car and didn't reply.

Along the way, she was thinking about Cathy.

From Cathy's reaction today, it seems that she is already a little bit paranoid, she won't let it go, and will definitely continue to squat at the gate of the community.

When Tina drove the car in from the entrance of the parking lot of the community, she saw from the rearview mirror that a taxi came slowly and stopped beside the road outside the community.

Tina slowed down and took another look, just in time to see the taxi window lowered, revealing Cathy's face.

Cathy followed her all the way.

Tina frowned slightly, she knew that Cathy would not give up like this.

She did not give extra sight to her, and drove the car straight into the garage.

In the taxi.

Cathy watched Tina drive the car in, still staring at the garage entrance.

The taxi driver felt that Cathy looked a little abnormal, and asked cautiously: "Miss, won't you get out of the car?"

Cathy looked at the driver with a disdainful look: "You don't care if I get off the car? Do you think I can't afford to pay? Even if you use the meter, your monthly salary is not enough for me to buy a bag!"

The driver's complexion changed, but the money delivered to the door was not made for nothing, and he turned his head and said nothing.

After a while, Cathy took out her cell phone.

After the marketing account revealed that she was not pregnant with Peter's child, she was terminated by AdamPic, the agent assistant was gone, and Peter never saw her again.

She tried every means but couldn't see him.

She couldn't get through the phone a long time ago. don't know if Peter blocked her or just changed the phone number.

However, she still has Rubin's number.

She dialed Rubin's phone.

She called with a new number, and Rubin answered the call soon.

"Hello, hello."

"Rubin, there is a sentence for you to tell Peter, if he keeps not seeing me, I will go to Tina and look for her every day."

Cathy didn't give Rubin a chance to react, so she hung up after speaking.

After hanging up, she looked at the driver in front: "Let's go."

â€¦

Peter lay on the bed and stared at the phone.

The screen of the mobile phone showed the interface for chatting with Tina's WeChat. Before Tina sent him a kicking emoji and ignored him.

Are you falling asleep again?

He kept staring at the phone screen for fear of missing the text.

But instead of waiting for her WeChat, he waited for Rubin's call first.

Peter didn't want to answer the phone, which affected him to wait for the WeChat message.

But thinking that Rubin usually doesn't make calls early in the morning, he must only call when something is wrong, so he answered the phone.

Chapter 1468

What's the matter?"

Peter was still lying on the bed, lazily asking Rubin.

Rubin said: "Just now, Cathy called me."

Hearing Cathy's name, Peter couldn't help showing a look of disgust on his face, and slowly sat up from the bed: "Is it necessary to call me for this kind of thing?"

Rubin paused and said, "Cathy said, if you don't see her, she will go to Miss Weber, every day."

Rubin relayed Cathy's original words to Peter.

The phone became quiet, so quiet that one could hear the breath of the other side.

Based on Rubin's familiarity with Peter, he knew that Peter was angry.

Peter doesn't look at the usual way of talking, when he is really angry, it is really scary.

It was early summer, but Rubin felt a bit cold in his back.

He did not continue to wait for Peter's response: "My daughter woke up, I will make her milk powder."

After speaking, he hung up the phone, for fear that Mr. Grant would become so angry that he would also burn him.

This Cathy is stupid and bad, and is completely seeking death on her own.

Others didn't understand, but Rubin knew that Peter didn't kill Cathy completely, just because Cathy looked a bit desolate.

Therefore, Peter still gave her a chance, but he couldn't prevent the woman from committing suicide.

Peter took the phone from his ear, and the phone vibrated at this moment, prompting a new text message.

It was a text message sent by Rubin and sent Cathy's number to Peter.

Peter disliked Cathy very much, and blocked all the mobile phone numbers he used before. Naturally, it was impossible to have Cathy's phone number, let alone remember.

Rubin knew about Peter, so he sent a phone number.

Peter glanced at the number, leaned lazily on the bed, lowered his eyebrows, and his expression was cold.

The number was dialed, and it was picked up after a while.

"Who?" Cathy's voice came from the phone.

Peter's tone didn't make any waves: "I heard you want to see me."

"Peter?" Cathy was surprised: "Peter, you are finally willing to contact me, listen to me!"

"I will fulfill your wish." Peter didn't come to listen to her nonsense, but interrupted her directly: "Ten o'clock, Best Day."

After talking about the time and address, he hung up.

Then he logged into WeChat again and found that Tina still did not reply to him.

About to throw the phone aside, Tina sent a message: "I was driving just now."

Peter asked, "Where can you go out so early?"

Tina took pictures of the vegetables she bought and sent over.

Peter: "Wow, our family Tina actually buys food from the menu, it's great, right?"

Tina sent a voice over, and the time was only two seconds.

When he clicked on it, he heard Tina's disgusting voice: "Insane."

He couldn't help but grin, and after another sentence with Tina, he packed up and went out.

It was around eight o'clock when he went out, and it was around nine o'clock in Best Day.

After eating breakfast and watching a few more news items, it was ten o'clock.

At ten o'clock, the waiter knocked on the door: "Mr. Grant, the person you have arranged has arrived.

Peter didn't move his gaze at all from the phone, and said casually, "Come in."

The box door was pushed open, and Cathy walked in. After seeing that the person sitting in the box was really Peter, all the worries on her face disappeared, and she walked towards him ecstatically.

Chapter 1469

"Peter, you are finally willing to see me." Cathy walked over with a smile on her face and wanted to sit next to him.

However, before she approached, Peter took a step ahead of her and kicked the chair beside him.

The smile on Cathy's face froze for an instant, fear flashed in her eyes, and cautiously said, "Peter, what's the matter with you? Why suddenly?"

Peter just put the phone aside, turned his head to look at Cathy, then pointed to the opposite chair, and motioned for her to sit on the opposite side.

Cathy was reluctant.

How good Peter was to her before, but now suddenly like this, it's like a personal change, and it's chilling.

Cathy is no stranger to Peter who is so cold.

Before she told him about her pregnancy, Peter treated her like this.

Even if he is smiling and talking to people, the pride and nobleness exuding from his bones always make people feel like being watched, so they don't dare to be presumptuous.

And at this moment Peter gave Cathy this feeling.

No matter how reluctant, Cathy didn't dare to disobey Peter, and didn't dare to sit next to him anymore, so he could only sit down to the opposite side of Peter.

After Cathy sat down, he was much more honest than before. She said, "Peter, I am so happy to see you again."

Peter leaned back in his chair and looked at her. There was no expression on his face and no emotion in his eyes. Obviously, he did not touch her words.

Not only did he not touch the slightest, but the corners of his lips pressed slightly, also revealed his impatience and disgust.

“You go to Tina.” Peter did not question her, but a very calm statement.

Cathy couldn’t touch Peter’s thoughts at all, but she still quibbles: “I just want to see you, you know, I love you so much, don’t you love me too?”

Peter twitched the corners of his lower lip, and his expression became more and more deserted: “Who gave you the courage to find Tina? Huh?”

Cathy was taken aback: “Are you blaming me for looking for Tina? If I don’t look for her?”

At this moment, there was a knock on the door outside, interrupting Cathy.

She frowned. Why did an ignorant waiter knock on the door? She still had a lot to say to Peter.

The people outside knocked twice and opened the door directly. Cathy saw the waiter standing at the door at a glance.

Before Peter said anything, she scolded the waiter: “What are you doing? Are there any rules? Did you see that Peter and I were talking?”

The waiter glanced at Cathy, then turned around and asked Peter: “Here is someone, can they come in directly?”

Peter nodded.

Cathy frowned, why did he even date someone else?

Isn’t it Tina?

The waiter said to the people outside: “Go in.”

Then someone came in from outside.

When she saw the person’s appearance, Cathy’s eyes widened, shocked and panicked, and her voice trembled: “Why are you?”

It was a man who came in, his face was a little haggard, and his face was normal. He looked at Cathy and grinned: “Cathy, long time no see.”

Cathy turned her head and glanced at Peter, and hurriedly denied: “I don’t know you! Don’t bark.”

“Henry.” Peter suddenly said, taking out a kraft paper bag from somewhere and threw it on the table.

The man who was still looking at Cathy at first heard Peter calling him by his name, and quickly walked over: “Mr. Grant, this is for me? What is it?”

Chapter 1470

Peter didn’t speak, but glanced at Henry and motioned to him to open it by himself.

Henry smiled flatteringly, rubbed his hands and opened the kraft paper bag.

Henry had no expression at all, but when he watched, his complexion changed, as if he couldn't believe it. He watched and watched, then turned his head to look at Cathy.

Cathy was sitting, and Henry stood by Peter looking at the documents-like things taken out of the brown paper bag. From her perspective, she couldn't see the contents of the paper at all.

However, Henry glanced at her, and suddenly gave her a bad feeling.

He sees what she does!

After a long while, he finished reading, but he was a little uncertain about Peter, and tentatively said, "Mr. Grant, youâ€¦!"

"I'm also pitiful for the innocent child. It can't be born without a father." Peter curled his lips, smiling pleasantly.

When Henry heard the words, the smile on his face increased: "Mr. Grant, you are really kind."

"What kid? What are you talking about?" Cathy had already noticed something, Peter's pleasant smile looked in her eyes, like a signal to death, making her extremely scared, and her whole body was shaking.

Peter said quietly: "You and Henry are togetherâ€¦!"

Having said that, he paused for a while, calculated the time quite seriously, and then continued: "From the time you graduated from high school, you have been together for four years. You must have a deep relationship. Now that you being pregnant with his child, you are together."

Peter's words were extremely mild, but Cathy felt cold all over, and she shook her head hurriedly: "It's not like this, you can't treat me like thisâ€¦!"

The "together" that Peter said is naturally impossible to be together and fall in love, but Cathy was taken up by Henry.

Henry's financial background was very good a few days ago. He has been a small opener in the industry. He has a good vision and makes money easy. Although he is married, he secretly raises a female college student. It's easy.

Cathy was young and charming. Henry liked her, so he kept her for four years. It was not until Cathy graduated and signed to AdamPic that the relationship was gradually broken.

However, the two met at dinner some time ago, and the relationship rekindled for a while, and they got together again, and then she became pregnant.

At that time, Cathy only wanted to hook up with Peter, so she told a big lie.

In fact, these incidents of Cathy are not difficult to find, Rubin helped Peter find out early, but they have never been used.

Henry is not a good thing either. Some time ago, the investment failed, and the money earned like floods was naturally poured out like floods, losing his fortune.

And his wife also knew that he had been raising a mistress outside the past few years, and divorced him, but his wife was a ruthless person, not only divorced him, but also caused Henry to be beaten.

Playing so hard that there is no way to have children in this life.

So if Henry knew that Cathy was pregnant with his child, how could he not want her?

After all, Henry and his wife did not have children before, and both of them were very playful, so they did not have children so early.

In this way, Cathy couldn't escape.

If it hadn't been for Cathy to find Tina recklessly, Peter wouldn't have planned to care about her anymore.

It was she herself who wanted to die.
