

Predestined 1511

Chapter 1511

Peter held a pen in his hand and stared at Tina on the screen intently.

Seeing her staring at the phone screen as if she was looking at something, he frowned slightly, and then his fingers began to move again, obviously replying to a message.

You don't have to guess to know that you are replying to Cody's message.

In front of him, replying to other men.

Peter narrowed his eyes and raised his eyebrows and said, "Tina, you are playing a video with me and are still chatting with other men. Are you not afraid of me being angry?"

Tina raised her eyes to look at him with a smile in her eyes: "What should I do, I have to meet Cody? You are not going to die."

Peter cursed "grass" in his heart, and squeezed out a "kind" smile: "It's all right to chat. It's not necessary to meet, right?"

Tina was noncommittal: "Okay, you are busy, hang up first."

"Not busy." If he hangs up, Tina will go to chat with Cody again.

She lifted her chin and pointed at Rubin who was standing behind Peter: "Rubin has been standing behind you."

Rubin not only stood behind him, but also carried a large stack of documents in his hands.

Peter turned his head leisurely, and flew towards Rubin's body with his eye knives: "Didn't these files have been processed?"

Rubin: "Yes."

Tina wanted to laugh a little: "Okay, hang up first, come back to my house in the evening and tell you something."

"Listen." Peter turned his head and changed his face in a second, with an unusually brilliant smile.

â€

At night.

When he was off work, he carried his coat to leave.

Rubin came in from the outside and saw him looking like he was about to leave. He spent the evening's schedule in his head and said, "Mr. Grant, the meeting has ten minutes to start."

"What's going on? I am going home to see my wife." Peter turned his head and left.

Rubin: "â€"

The closing of the door brought him back to his mind.

Today is also the day he wants to quit his job.

But as a senior assistant's professionalism, it is necessary to handle all emergencies perfectly.

Rubin straightened out his tie and suit blankly, turned, and walked towards the meeting room, announcing with a serious face: "CEO Grant has something to do, the meeting is canceled."

The fewer words, the bigger the matter.

Sure enough, when everyone saw Rubin's serious face, some people asked worriedly: "Did something happen?"

"Mr. Grant will handle it well, everyone doesn't have to worry." Rubin felt that he was becoming more and more bluffing, and it was all Peter who forced it out of him.

Out of the meeting room, he let out a sigh of relief.

Bluffing people succeeded today.

Peter hummed a little song and drove home.

When passing a certain intersection, he turned his head and saw a couple on the road outside. The man gave the woman a bunch of flowers, and the woman looked shy and looked very happy.

Peter squinted his eyes and drove forward. When passing a flower shop, he got out of the car and bought a bunch of flowers.

When he came out of the flower shop with the flowers, he was still thinking, will Tina be happy when she receives the flowers?

He seems to have never given Tina such a gift.

They are no longer in their teenage years and have missed too much time in between.

Looking back, it seemed as if it was a sudden separation and suddenly being together again. Everything was fast, like a dream.

She should be happy.

Peter wanted to concentrate, so he didn't notice the camera sticking out of the car not far away.

After entering the community and stopping the car, he walked quickly towards the elevator with the flower in hand, and couldn't wait to see her.

When he was at the door, he knocked twice.

There was a cool voice: "Who."

Peter said with a smile: "Your husband."

Chapter 1512

Tina opened the door and saw Peter holding a bunch of flowers in his hand.

Peter's eyebrows were smiling: "I'm back."

Tina was not angry, and looked at him with her chin raised: "Can Grant always point his face?"

"Probably not." Peter responded with kindness.

He gave Tina the flower in his hand.

Tina couldn't help but curled her lips: "Thank you."

He entered the door, closed the door with his backhand, and leaned over to approach her: "Some practical thanks."

Tina raised her head slightly, and the two were so close, he could even see his reflection in her beautiful eyes.

Peter's Adam's apple rolled, nervous for no reason.

The next moment, Tina tilted her head, and kissed him on the cheek.

This one?

Peter stared at her with wide-eyed eyes. Tina was a prankster and smiled slyly. She turned around and ran away holding the flowers.

She muttered to find the vase: "You have to put the flowers quickly."

Peter stood by the door for a moment, reached out his hand to touch his kissed face, gave a low smile, and walked slowly in.

Tina had already found the vase, and was seriously putting the flowers he bought into it.

Tina had accompanied her mother to school before arranging flower arrangements. In addition, she has a good aesthetic, and the flowers and plants she played with are naturally beautiful.

"It's pretty good-looking." Peter stood behind her: "If you lose your job in the future, you can open a flower shop."

"Curse me to be unemployed?" Tina picked up a flower in her hand, as if to beat Peter.

Peter looked at her with a grin, and did not hide: "What about the position of Mrs. AdamPic?"

"Think beautifully." Tina put the flowers in the vase.

After hearing Peter talk about this, she remembered that her contract with AdamPic was about to expire.

Like her, Peter thought about this too.

Tina's next plan is to set up her own studio. This matter is already under preparation, and she should talk to Peter.

She turned around, resting her right hand on the table behind him, and said carefully, "My contract is about to expire."

Peter's face turned straight, "Yes."

When it comes to the contract, he thinks of the things that Cathy did at the time, and the folly he did at the time. It is not a good feeling in his heart. Even if he listened honestly, he didn't dare to speak.

Tina looked at him like a quail and couldn't help but smile: "I plan to set up my own studio."

Where did Peter dare to object: "Okay, I'll help you arrange it."

He agreed with what she was going to do.

Even if she goes out to set up a studio independently, he can still give her the best resources, so it doesn't matter whether she renews her contract with AdamPic.

"No, I'm already making preparations myself. It's not difficult." Tina looked at Peter, and she was a little surprised to agree with him without disagreement.

This was different from what she thought. She thought Peter had to persuade her.

He didn't.

Tina was a little relieved, and Peter also had such a sensible time.

Tina refused altogether, Peter choked in his heart, grievingly said: "I am your boyfriend."

He wants to do something for her.

"Boyfriend, let's cook, I'm hungry." Tina stretched out her hand to hold his face and twisted it.

He actually didn't love others to touch his face, so Tina dared to be so presumptuous.

He went to the kitchen to cook, and Tina watched him from the side. From time to time, she helped him pass something. Seeing that he was cooking really well, she secretly took out a few photos with her mobile phone.

Peter suddenly remembered something, and turned to look at her: "You told me something is going on, which means you are going to set up a studio?"

Chapter 1513

Tina was busy taking pictures. Peter turned his head abruptly to look at her. She was taken aback and hurriedly hid her phone: "Ah! you said this!"

Peter tilted his head, his eyes fell on her pocket, with a smile on his face.

Tina just put the phone in her pocket and he saw it.

She coughed slightly, concealing her embarrassment, pretending that nothing happened: "I have something else to tell you."

"You say it." Peter looked at her pretending to be calm, his heart softened and he felt terribly cute.

Even if Tina asked him to pick the stars in the sky now, she was afraid he would pick them off for her without blinking.

But what she wanted to say was not to let him go to the sky to pick stars.

The expression on Tina's face was a little more restrained, and she slowly said, "This is the end of Cathy's business."

Peter was about to take a plate of chopped onions, was stunned when he heard the words, and the corners of his slightly hooked lips were also straightened.

He turned his eyes to look at her with a solemn expression: "She's looking for you again?"

Tina said "end here", he understood, and meant to stop him from letting Cathy and Henry be together.

After he helped Cathy and Henry to register their marriage, he left them behind. Although he didn't pay attention to their affairs, he could still imagine what Cathy had been going through after being with Henry.

He had never thought that she would even dare to come to Tina.

It seemed that he was still being too merciful, so that she had extra energy to find Tina.

Tina smiled faintly: "Forget it, that's enough."

She didn't answer his question head-on, but he knew that he was right.

Peter curled his lips, and said with a gentle expression, "Okay."

He knew the temperament of the little girl who grew up in his palm.

Although Tina had a bit fierce temperament, she was kind-hearted. Otherwise, she wouldn't be so likable, wouldn't she?

Because of this, he couldn't tolerate Cathy even more, stepping on his bottom line again and again.

Tina is kind, but he is not kind.

After Peter finished speaking, he continued on.

Tina approached and looked at him carefully as if she hadn't seen him for a long time: "Are you so good to talk now?"

"When am I awkward to speak? Tina, speak with a conscience." Peter tilted his head, with a dangerous question in his eyes.

She quickly recalled it in her mind.

Since childhood, Peter was indeed responsive to her.

Of course, there are some rare occasions when it is not easy to talk.

For example, she is going out to party with the male classmates in the class!

However, it is best not to mention this at this time.

She blinked innocently, and said with a strong desire to survive: "No, you can talk anytime."

Peter laughed: "Okay, go out quickly, I'm going to cook."

Tina turned around and walked to the door, then looked back at Peter.

Peter saw her wanting to speak but stopped, and said, "You have something to say? Say it all at once."

She cleared her throat: "Cody invited me to meet."

Peter's eyes suddenly changed.

Tina hurriedly said: "You just said that you are good to talk."

Peter just snorted coldly and gave her an expression for her to experience it by herself.

"Always make it clear." Tina pulled out a flattering smile and turned around.

Indeed as she said, this matter must be made clear.

But this does not prevent him from getting angry.

Chapter 1514

So, as soon as Tina arrived and sat on the sofa in the living room, she heard the sound of cutting vegetables exceeding normal decibels from the kitchen.

Peter is sulking all alone.

She leaned on the sofa, glanced in the direction of the kitchen, and sent the secret photo of Peter cooking just now to Alyssa.

Alyssa made a "hahahaha" expression: "Do you think the man who cooks is handsome?"

Tina smiled back: "Of course."

Happy emotions are like overflowing the screen.

Grace, a kid in Alyssa's family, is very punctual and early for dinner. It is already dinner now.

As soon as Karl turned his head, he saw Alyssa smiling with her mobile phone, and asked, "What are you looking at?"

Alyssa handed him the phone.

Karl glanced at it, and a smile flashed across his eyes.

Grace was picking up the rice, looking back and forth on Alyssa and Karl, swallowing the food in her mouth, and then said, "I want to see too."

Karl silently handed the phone to Grace.

"Uncle Grant is cooking?" Grace took a closer look and said, "He's still cooking at a woman's house."

Karl was a little surprised: "You can see this?"

"The apron is pink. Uncle Grant said that fierce men don't like this color."

"â€¦"

Karl was silent, but he was speechless to Grace's words.

When returning the phone to Alyssa, he said in a rather calm tone: "I have never eaten Peter's food."

Alyssa could hardly hear a trace of emotion in his tone.

"Why do I listen to your tone, it seems to be a little jealous?" Alyssa asked him.

Karl picked Grace's most hated vegetable with chopsticks, and then answered Alyssa's question: "I am jealous that he is an older unmarried middle-aged man?"

Alyssa: "â€"

Grace snorted while plucking the annoying vegetables in the bowl, "Uncle Grant is not middle-aged, young and handsome."

Grace is six years old this year, watching cartoons less and less, and loves reading children's books, showing a talent and ability that surpasses her peers.

Although there are still children who are lively and innocent, Alyssa always feels that the previous events still have a super impact on Grace's character, and therefore she is more careful and a little nervous.

don't know what's going on. Grace looks more like Karl the older she grows. When she was a child, she was more like Alyssaâ€ Alyssa was a little depressed.

"Don't think that by changing the subject, you can avoid eating vegetables." After Karl finished speaking, he gave Grace another chopsticks and vegetables.

"Mom, Dad avenged private revenge. I praised Uncle Grant for his handsomeness. He is jealous." Grace acted like a baby.

Where can Alyssa stand it: "Just eat less."

Karl's expression was slightly stagnant: "Grace, youâ€"

Alyssa interrupted him and changed the subject: "Tina said today to find a time to invite us to dinner with Peter. When will you be free?"

Karl: "I'm not free any day."

Every time Grace mentioned Peter, the adjective was "young and handsome", and when she talked about him, he was "the little old man if he frowned".

Recently, she even called him a little old man in a harsh manner.

He didn't want to see the older, unmarried middle-aged man Peter.

Alyssa knew that he was angry, and smiled and said, "Then it will be the weekend."

Karl didn't speak, which was regarded as acquiescence.

Seeing this, Alyssa smiled and lowered her head to reply to the message to Tina, and by the way, talked about eating.

Chapter 1515

Tina and Cody met at a western restaurant.

The restaurant they met was arranged by Cody.

When Tina arrived, he was already sitting in his seat, looking like he had been waiting for a long time.

He probably made a fool of himself after being drunk that day. In order to make himself look more serious, he deliberately dresses very formally, wearing a suit and a tie.

Since childhood, she had never seen him tie a tie several times, so when she sat down, he couldn't help but glance at Cody's tie.

He adjusted his tie, coughed lightly, and said in a very gentleman's tone: "Sit down and order what you want to eat."

Tina couldn't help it, and she laughed out loud, "Mr. Scott, it's not necessary."

Cody's lips twitched, breaking his work in one second, and he rudely tossed his tie: "It is not because of what happened at Best Day that day, I'm afraid it will leave a bad impression on you. Actually, this stuff I can't wear it either."

Tina just smiled gently.

When Cody saw her smile, he was in a good mood, and quickly pushed the menu to her again: "Look, what do you like to eat? I remember you used to like Western food the most."

Tina ordered two dishes and pushed the menu to Cody.

He whispered, "How can you order two dishes?" Then he rolled up his sleeves and began to order.

Tina took a look at his posture and quickly stopped. Before he ordered much, she quickly took the menu and handed it to the waiter: "Enough."

"Are you afraid that I can't afford it?" He raised his eyebrows with an expression of "Are you looking down on me?"

"Too much order is a waste." Tina paused, and added: "Moreover, I don't like western food for a long time."

When she was younger, Tina liked to eat western food.

She thought western food looked more elegant and beautiful.

Later, those who flew around the world preferred to eat Chinese food.

Cody was startled when he heard the words, and then sneered: "I didn't think about it well, I should have asked you in advance."

He probably felt a little uncomfortable and involuntarily took out the cigarette case.

Tina reminded in time: "This restaurant is non-smoking."

He was looking for the lighter's hand, and a trace of embarrassment flashed on his face: "Oh, look at me, I have been abroad for a long time!"

Halfway through, the voice was muted again, seemingly not sure what to say.

Tina saw his expression and movements in his eyes, lowered her eyes slightly, and took a drink from the water glass.

Time is changing, and people are changing.

People are old-fashioned, and you will involuntarily add a layer of beautiful filters to people and objects in the old days to beautify them and make them beyond the meaning of actual existence in your imagination.

Tina is inevitable.

Cody is her old friend. She has an unspeakable trust and feeling of intimacy towards him.

But at this time, she found out.

All will change.

Complicated emotions flooded my mind, and finally, Tina just smiled faintly: "It's okay."

Cody stared at her for a moment, then sighed: "The little girl has grown up."

Then, his expression became more serious: "Tina, in Best Day that day, I suddenly confessed to you that I was a little abrupt. I am here to apologize to you. I did not do this right."

Tina didn't answer, she knew Cody had something to say.

Sure enough, he went on to say: "Although it was abrupt, I am serious, Tina, I really want you to be my girlfriend, even my wife."

Chapter 1516

"Tina, I'm serious, I hope you can seriously consider it, okay?"

Cody thought that he had shown his utmost sincerity, and he thought about the friendship between himself and Tina for many years, she should not refuse directly.

Tina breathed a sigh of relief and raised her head: "But, Cody, what do you like about me?"

From a man's point of view, Tina is undoubtedly beautiful, a beautiful person, and her eyes are particularly moving.

Cody always felt that Tina's eyes were the most beautiful.

He met Tina's eyes, and he was a little distracted. The cold eyes seemed to have not changed over the years, and they were still as clean and pure as before.

Cody was a little irritable for no reason, and then reached out his hand to touch the cigarette case placed aside, thinking of what Tina had just said, he put his hand back again.

"I like everything."

Cody's words are not a lie. There are no secrets in this circle. Even if there are, there will be no eternal secrets. Therefore, Tina has been in the entertainment circle for so many years. know.

Compared with other women, she has almost no shortcomings, and she is a very suitable woman to be a wife.

She laughed: "You don't like me at all."

Cody frowned: "Tina!"

She interrupted him: "Do you know why I have been alone all these years? That's because I haven't met anyone who feels worthy of being together, and my future husband will have to treat me wholeheartedly. It's a unique feeling. I can't rub the sand in my eyes."

Yes, she hasn't been waiting for Peter.

She also tried to find someone she felt worthy of being with, someone she was willing to support wholeheartedly.

But she did not find one.

Tina's words were gentle and seemed to have no offensive power, but it gave Cody a sense of shame to be dismantled.

He didn't think there was any problem with his own thoughts, but at this time, being said so solemnly by Tina, made him feel very despicable.

He didn't think about love or not. He felt that as long as she didn't hate him and his family background was similar, it was appropriate.

Just fit.

Cody thought for a while, but still felt unwilling: "But what if we really can?"

"No, we are not all the same." Tina looked at Cody with a smile.

Cody pursed his lips, held up the water glass in front of him, and poured it clean, looking a little frustrated.

When Tina saw this, she said in a joking tone: "You don't be sad, I will invite you today."

Cody looked at her angrily: "You really make me unable to get angry."

He knew that Tina was not talking about people from the same group, but that they had different attitudes toward feelings, and that they were not from the same group and couldn't get together.

He understood this, but he was still a little angry when he was rejected so mercilessly.

But Tina, this girl, is just too transparent and too smart to make people angry.

At this time, the food they ordered was delivered.

Tina pushed the plate in front of him, and said in a comforting tone: "Eat more."

Cody was not polite.

Halfway through the meal, he suddenly raised his head and looked at Tina: "You won't be waiting for Peter, are you?"

Tina was asked to stop, a bit difficult.

Is it to say that she is already with Peter, or to slow down?

And Tina's hesitation was seen in Cody's eyes, even if it was acquiescence.

Cody: "You're!"

Chapter 1517

And Tina thought about it for a while, thinking that Cody had guessed that she and Peter were together, and a complicated expression flashed in her eyes.

She had already begun to judge in her heart what the consequences would be after telling Cody about her and Peter being together.

In this short period of time, Tina made countless ideas in her heart, but the more she thought about it, the more she realized that after letting Cody know about it, the consequences would be a little unimaginable.

At this moment, he suddenly patted the table, Tina was shocked, and looked up at him.

He looked at her with an expression of hatred for iron and steel, and shook his head repeatedly and said, "Tina, why are you so stupid? Peter is not someone you can wait for results!"

"Waiting for him, it would be better to really consider me. You said we are not the same, but I can try my best to try to be the same with you. It is better than you exhausted your energy and waited for an impossible result. what are you doing?"

The more Cody talked about it, the more worried his expression became, even more than when Tina refused him.

She didn't know for a moment whether she should be happy that Cody hadn't guessed that she and Peter were together, or whether she should be worried about Cody's IQ.

But in the end, Cody was also kind, thinking about her.

Tina smiled and said, "I know it in my heart, thank you."

She is grateful from the heart.

Some feelings may gradually become qualitative with the passage of time, but some of the leftovers are still the original.

This is something that cannot be denied.

Although she felt that Cody had changed, he still thought of her at this time.

This also made her very moved.

Looking at Cody's expression, she guessed that he might still want to talk about Peter, and quickly changed the subject: "Are you still used to it when you come back? The next step is to take over the family business and become the CEO of your family business?"

"Are you making fun of me?" Cody snorted: "What's the situation in our Scott family? You don't know. It's good to be back at the top of your life and have a bite to eat."

"Where is your exaggeration, isn't your family doing well? Didn't you cooperate with the big company in Westberg some time ago?"

Although Tina has not set foot in the business, she occasionally hears some news from others.

The Scott family was also the first group of people to go to the sea to do business, but the business is ever-changing. In recent years, some of the Scott family has not kept up, and some have stagnated, relying on the contacts and relationships accumulated in the early years to maintain the status quo.

To be more popular is to eat your own money.

This is also one of the reasons Cody wants to chase Tina.

The Weber family is steadily fighting, and the foundation is very strong. Although progress has been slow in recent years, it is generally much more stable than the Scott family. Another reason is that Tina and Peter have a good relationship, and Peter is now the boss of AdamPic, and he and Karl has friendship, and with Tina's relationship, she can still help out when the Scott family can't get along.

Although Cody also had friendship with Peter, he always felt that Tina's weight in Peter's heart might be more important.

He shook his head, meaning that he would not continue the topic: "Let's eat, don't talk about it."

After he finished speaking, he picked up his mobile phone and glanced at it. He frowned, and gave a very disgusting "tsk".

"What's wrong?" Tina.

Cody directly threw the phone over: "See it yourself."

Chapter 1518

Tina took the phone with a suspicious look, saw the content on the screen clearly, a flash of surprise flashed in her eyes.

Peter's picture is on the phone screen.

There is no doubt that the photos were taken secretly, with average clarity, but it is still clear that this is him.

Opposite Cody snorted coldly, and said angrily: "This is the man you are waiting for, take a look, take a good look at him yourself!"

In the photo, Peter was walking out of a flower shop with a bunch of flowers in his hand. The expression on his face was cheerful and he looked very happy.

There are more than one photo. The person who took the photo should have been with Peter for a long time. The photo was taken in six consecutive shots. Peter had photos from when he entered the flower shop to when he left the shop, until he got in the car.

A man who happily bought such a large bouquet of flowers revealed a message-he has to pursue a new love.

In the photo, the fresh flowers in Peter's hands are very familiar, and they were bought yesterday when Peter came home.

It's still in the vase in her house.

Tina repeated the photos several times, and the corners of her lips couldn't help but quietly hooked.

An older man just bought a flower and was so happy.

Is he thirty or thirteen?

But soon, Tina thought that there was a person sitting opposite, and quickly pressed the corners of her lips back.

Tina calmed down her smile, coughed lightly, and said, "Peter, this is really red. Buying a flower can make headlines for entertainment. I haven't made headlines for this kind of thing."

Cody is anxious: "Tina, is it time to pay attention to this now? Take a good look, Peter has someone he likes again!"

"Okay, let's not talk about this. Let's eat. I have something to do after dinner." Tina returned the phone to him.

Cody thought that she was a strong face and laughed, so he did not continue to say this.

â€¦

Just after the meal, Peter called.

Tina glanced at Cody: "Then I'll leave first and get together again when I have time."

"Okay." Cody nodded, and then asked her: "Slow down on the road."

Tina got into the car before answering Peter's call.

"Something?" She knew why Peter called, deliberately pretending not to know.

Peter asked her seriously: "What are you doing?"

"I'm watching you, playboy, there is news about your affairs again." Tina said with a smile.

"The news says that I have a new love again. Do you not know if I have a new love? Also, who is the playboy? Don't spread rumors, I am very clean and self-conscious."

Tina: "Oh."

Peter: "â€"

"Just hang up if nothing else," Tina said.

"Cough." Peter cleared his throat: "Have you finished dinner with Cody?"

"How about it?" Tina knew that Peter had called to ask about this, or he had called with a pinch.

Peter said, "Western food is not enough. I know of a newly opened Chinese restaurant. Rubin and his wife went to eat. They said it tasted good. Let's eat together."

Tina's slender fingers pressed twice on the steering wheel, and said faintly, "Did I say that I ate Western food?"

Peter: "â€"

Tina sneered: "Give you one minute and come out by yourself."

It doesn't take a minute at all, and in the next second, there is a car on the opposite side honking.

Tina heard the whistle, raised her eyes and looked ahead, it was Peter's car.

From Peter's car, you can see the location of the restaurant where she and Cody had just eaten.

Chapter 1519

Twenty minutes later.

Tina walked into the newly opened restaurant that Peter mentioned, and walked straight to a box.

As soon as she opened the door, she saw Peter sitting inside.

Peter was sitting at the table in a precarious manner, sitting upright like a primary school student, still the kind of student who can judge three good students.

Tina raised her eyebrows and walked over without any expression.

Seeing her coming, Peter quickly got up, helped her pull the chair away, and said with a smile: "Come on, sit down."

Tina took a long look at him before she stroked her skirt and sat down.

Once she sat down, she kept staring at Peter.

Peter coughed lightly with a guilty conscience, and tentatively handed the menu to her: "Would youâ€ order the food?"

"An actress is also professional to keep in shape. This is what you said, I have already eaten it." Tina deliberately used what Peter had said before to block him.

He choked: "Then I just clickâ€"

After he finished speaking, he slowly buried his head, ordered a few dishes that Tina liked, and handed the menu to the waiter.

As soon as the waiter left, there were only two of them left in the box, so quiet that you could hear a needle drop on the ground.

Tina was a little bit dumbfounded when she looked at him in such an awkward manner.

“Aren’t you going to explain?”

“Ah— that—” Peter curled up his fingers: “I said I was just passing by, do you believe it?”

“Do you think I believe it?” Tina gave him a blank look. Did he think she had no IQ?

Peter was silent for a while, and said quietly, “That kid Cody has the most spooky ideas, I’m afraid you will be fooled by him—”

To put it bluntly, he still does worry.

He didn’t want to follow her secretly either.

It’s just that he felt uneasy in the company, so he just follows along.

After all, Cody also grew up with them, and he also has an emotional foundation. What if Tina can’t stand her heart softened, and Cody thinks he has a chance?

Peter at this time summed it up in one sentence: a serious nonsense.

Tina felt so angry and funny, her tone a little helpless: “I have already made it clear to him.”

“Hey, that’s it.” Peter’s eyes lit up instantly.

After that, he seemed to realize that he was acting too happy, and quickly reduced his expression: “I know, you can definitely handle this kind of thing.”

hypocritical.

That’s not what I said just now.

Tina sighed, “Just tell me if you have anything in the future, don’t be so sneaky.”

“I know, it definitely won’t.” Blame!

Her family, she herself, is so good, maybe many people are staring at her and want to snatch her.

—

Soon, the dishes came.

Peter ordered them all that Tina liked. Tina could not help but ate some more with her index finger moved.

After lunch, both of them were in a good mood.

But in order to prevent being photographed, Tina decided to leave without Peter.

When she came here just now, she came here after letting Peter come over first.

“I go first.”

Tina and Peter waved, and left.

Peter watched her go with a smile on his face. When she turned around, the smile on his face faded.

After ten minutes, he took his long legs and walked out.

Back in the car, his cell phone rang.

He answered the phone, and Rubin’s voice came from the phone: “Mr. Grant, everything is arranged.”

Chapter 1520

Peter’s eyes flashed a vicious look, and he faintly replied, “Okay.”

Rubin was about to hang up, and another thing rang, and said, “Mr. Grant, there is one more thing!”

Peter: “Say it.”

“You have been searching for flowers, do you want to remove them?” Rubin was a little uncertain about this, because he didn’t know it. Peter knew whether he knew.

Peter really didn’t know this.

Buy flowers?

That was when he came home from work yesterday, he bought flowers for Tina.

When Tina ate with him just now, she didn’t mention it either.

The corners of Peter’s lips couldn’t help rising: “Just press it down, you don’t need to withdraw.”

Although he and Tina hadn’t made it public yet, it was just that the flowers were secretly photographed, which gave him a secret joy that he couldn’t tell.

His flowers were bought for Tina.

“Understand.” Rubin just hung up the phone.

!€

In the afternoon.

A topic related to Cathy quietly rushed to the topic list, and suddenly rushed to the top of the list with a tendency to hide from the thunder.

From “new” to “hot”, then to “boiling”, then to “explosive”.

The topic is surprisingly hot.

Tina went to Stephanie in the afternoon. Her contract expired recently, and Stephanie is her agent, so the termination of the contract should be on the agenda.

She was driving, so she didn't have time to read the entertainment headlines on the phone.

When the car was halfway through, Stephanie called.

"Ms. Tina!"

Stephanie's voice sounded a little excited, and Tina asked, "What's the matter?"

Stephanie said: "Quickly go to Twitter and find the trending searches!"

"What's the matter? I'm driving." Tina drove the car and didn't have time to read Twitter.

"Yes," Stephanie remembered that before Tina, she said that she wanted to come to her. She was driving on the road right now.

But it's okay.

As an enthusiastic person who is struggling to troll, she must calm down and eat hot melons the first time.

"It's okay, let me tell you, Cathy is on the trending search again, guess what happened this time?" Stephanie's tone was full of anticipation of "Quick guess, quick guess".

Is Cathy on the trending search again?

It must be something that can make Stephanie so excited, and for Cathy, it is extremely negative.

Tina said, "It's definitely not a good thing."

"Ms. Tina, you deserve to be my goddess. You are too smart. Let me tell you. Someone exposed Cathy's "little movie" on the Internet. There are hundreds of them, only you dare not think about it. Nothing you can't think of!"

Stephanie deliberately increased the tone of the three words "short movies".

Everyone is an insider, and everyone understands things like "short movies".

But Tina hesitated, and asked, "Is it the kind of "short movie?" I think?"

"Yes!" Stephanie answered, and said, "Although the resources have been harmonized, I saw a few screenshots. If it weren't for it, I really can't believe it, Cathy actually did it. After such a thing!"

Tina said, "I'll talk about it when I arrive."

"Okay, I won't disturb your driving." Stephanie was afraid of affecting Tina's driving, so she hung up after speaking.

Tina drove faster, and soon arrived at Stephanie's house.

After she parked the car and got out of the car, she took her mobile phone to open the app.

The number one trending search on Twitter has only the simple word "Cathy", but it is still very popular.

When Tina clicked in and read it, there were people who posted links that marked “500G you know”, but the comments below were basically cursing the blogger, because they were just clicked links, so there is no such thing as five hundred. G’s video resources.