

Predestined 1703

Chapter 1703

Tina answered very concisely: "Yes."

Peter curled the corner of his lips and laughed at himself. What started, has become like this between him and Tina?

He talked to Tina, and Tina was just a business tone.

Peter took a deep breath and pressed down the depression in his heart, but he couldn't help but said:

"Since you're so unwilling to eat with me, why did you agree to it before?"

"I'm not unhappy." Tina raised her head and talked.

Tina didn't have a good face to him before, and it looked the same as it is now, but Peter could hardly see the difference.

The difference was that he didn't like how Tina looked at him now.

Peter didn't open his eyes and didn't look at her at all: "Since you're not unhappy, why can't you speak normally?"

"I think I'm normal," Tina said.

"youâ€¦!â€¦!"

"I have something to ask you, I hope to hear the truth."

Tina interrupted Peter.

Peter turned his head and narrowed his eyes slightly: "You asked me for something, so you agreed to eat?"

His expression was the same as before, but there was an imperceptible vulnerability in his tone.

Tina paused, then nodded: "Yes."

Peter was very irritable, reached out his hand and wiped his own hair, then said, "Let's talk, what's the matter."

No matter what it is, as long as Tina speaks, he never said a "no".

She stared at him fixedly, and slowly asked, "Last time, we had dinner with the Alyssa family. In the small bookstore outside Best Day, what happened on that day?"

Peter's eyes flashed when he heard the words, and the hand placed on the dining table slowly retracted. After falling on his leg, he slowly clenched his hand.

With the cover of the table, Tina couldn't see his clenched hands.

She didn't urge, just waiting for his answer.

Peter raised his eyes and said with a faint smile, "Didn't you say it before? Someone wanted to grab the bag."

You chased him to get the bag back and hurt your head. So you couldn't remember what happened that day. Didn't the doctor also say it?"

Peter said so much, but he didn't get to the point.

What she wants to ask is not the question of amnesia, but what she wants to know is what happened.

She wanted to know what happened in the memory she lost.

Tina came here today with a purpose, so she wasn't so foolish: "Answer my question positively."

"I think I am answering your question head-on." Peter changed his posture and looked at her: "Did you not see that I have a new girlfriend, so you deliberately troubled me?"

Tina moved her lips and was about to speak when she heard Stephanie deliberately raising the volume.

"Miss George, are you back from the bathroom? You wash your hands really fast, have you washed them?"

Tina: "!"

Peter: "!"

The two of them looked at each other and then looked away.

Stephanie was too stupid, even though she knew that Stephanie was trying to remind them that Maria was back, she still felt stupid.

Maria's thoughts are rarely the same as those of the two insiders.

They are all surnamed Grant, so why does Stephanie appear to be mentally incomplete?

But Maria is a face-saving person, and she still has a decent smile on her face: "Fortunately, no queue at the restroom."

Chapter 1704

Maria originally wanted to use the bathroom as an excuse to avoid the embarrassment before.

But she forgot for a while. She was not in the box, and Stephanie might also go out. In this way, it might give Peter and Tina a chance to talk alone.

But now it is too late.

Don't know what Tina and Peter did in the box when she was not there just now.

Maria thought about it, but was already a little anxious.

Stephanie saw that Maria was anxious and deliberately pulled her: "Hey, Miss George, you have so beautiful earrings, where did you buy them?"

Maria was pulled by Stephanie, so she could only stand and talk to her.

"If Miss Stephanie likes it, I can buy a pair for you, but you will have to wait for two days.

I'm afraid it won't work today." Maria just wanted to go in quickly. Although her tone was gentle, she was already a little eager.

"Who wants you to give it to me? I can't afford it. Just tell me where to buy it." Stephanie raised her chin slightly, like a stubborn lady, a little unreasonable, but let her the kind where people can't be angry.

"Of course I don't think you can't afford it. I'm older than you, and I'm your sister. Isn't it normal for a sister to buy earrings for her sister?"

Maria patiently replied.

Had it not been for Peter's cousin, she wouldn't waste time talking nonsense with her here.

She actually felt that Stephanie was annoying.

"I can afford it. You can tell me the place quickly, and I will buy it later."

Stephanie said and took out her mobile phone and opened the memo: "There have been too many things recently, I'm afraid I will forget it later, you tell me, I will write it down!"

Maria glanced in the direction of the box door, and patiently told Stephanie the name of the shop.

Stephanie didn't pester her anymore, squeezed past Maria, opened the box door first and walked in.

In the box, Tina and Peter are still sitting in their previous positions. The atmosphere in the room is also a bit cold.

Don't know what they said in the room, but one can tell from the atmosphere that the communication is not very smooth.

"Peter." Maria sat next to Peter gently and tenderly, then smiled and looked at Tina: "What did you chat with Tina?"

"Nothing to talk about." Peter looked lacking in interest.

When Maria saw this, she didn't ask much.

After a while, the dishes will be served.

Stephanie found that Peter and Tina didn't speak much. She observed the two people, but did not observe anything special.

At the dinner table, only Maria spoke a few words from time to time, and all of them were for Peter to eat more food for this one and more for that one.

Stephanie felt her scalp numb.

Peter is such a big person, he still knows how to pick up food by himself?

"Ms. Tina, eat more too." Stephanie also deliberately increased the volume and gave Tina some dishes.

Tina glanced at Stephanie, with an expression of "what's wrong with you?"

Stephanie was choked for a while, with nothing to say for a while, and simply turned her head and stopped looking at Tina.

“Snapped!”

Peter dropped her chopsticks: “I’m full, there will be a meeting in the evening, I will leave first.”

She didn’t give others a chance to react, so she stood up straight after speaking, picked up the phone, and walked out.

“Peter?” Maria had only time to call his name, and when he reacted, the box door had been closed.

Peter left her like this!