

Predestined 1709

Chapter 1709

Tina suddenly remembered. She remembered that for a while, Alyssa told her that Karl had been thinking about letting Grace and Smith's son kiss.

Of course, afterward this matter ceased.

No one mentioned it again.

Tina deliberately teased Grace, and asked her: "Why does Brother Ervin want to raise you?

He will also get married and have children in the future. He wants to raise his own wife and children."

Grace frowned, Tina's question was beyond her cognition.

Her brows frowned into horseshoe eyebrows, she tilted her head and thought for a while before she said, "But he is my brother Ervin."

She is still too young to understand why she can't be raised after being married.

Tina also felt that she was boring to ask such questions.

"Okay, let's go in first, don't want you to answer this boring question." Tina led Grace into it, but she was still in a wheelchair.

Grace walked beside her at a small pace.

The group had just arrived in the box and sat down. After they ordered the food, someone knocked on the door outside.

Before Tina could respond, the people outside pushed the door and walked in.

"Cousin?" Stephanie was the first to see that the person who came in was Peter.

Peter was wearing a shirt and trousers, and it seemed that he had just arrived from the company.

"Little Grace." Peter walked over and walked towards Grace first.

Grace opened her eyes wide and turned her head to look behind Peter.

"What are you looking at?" Peter also glanced behind him.

"You didn't bring a girlfriend?" Grace asked.

Peter was stunned for a moment. First, he went to see Tina's reaction before answering Grace's question:

"You little clever ghost, how do you know that I have a girlfriend?

Also, whoever tells you that you have to eat all the time with a girlfriend?"

"Oh." Grace lowered her head again and continued to sip her drink.

Peter directly sat down beside Grace.

And Tina sat on the other side of Grace, and Grace sat between them.

There is a small carrot head in the middle, which does not block the line of sight.

Peter looked at Tina, "I was going to take Grace to dinner today, but I didn't expect to be cut off by you halfway."

"Can you take Grace to dinner, but I can't?" Tina glanced at him.

"Of course you can," Peter said lazily.

Stephanie watched these two people come and go and wondered in her heart when they could carry it.

But fortunately, when the dishes came, they couldn't carry it.

With Grace, Tina didn't show Peter's expression.

A meal is very harmonious.

After they had eaten, they drove to drop Grace at Smith's house.

Although Grace also liked Tina and Peter, they had never taken care of the children, so she still had to go to Smith's house at night.

Besides, there is a Third brother in Smith's house, and Grace will naturally go back at night.

"I'll take Grace home first," Smith said.

"OK, bye."

After sending off Grace, Stephanie immediately slipped into the car.

Tina and Peter stood in front of the car face to face.

"That's!" Peter was interrupted by Tina just as he spoke.

"Are you lying to me?" Tina said, blocking everything Peter was about to say.

"What?" Peter raised an eyebrow, an expression that didn't know what she was saying.

But in fact, as soon as he heard the question from Tina, he basically knew what Tina was talking about.

Chapter 1710

Peter knew that Tina asked him the same question before.

What happened in the memory she lost before waking up in the hospital.

He played stupid on purpose.

This matter will be handled soon, he doesn't want Tina to know.

If you can't remember it, you can't remember it, that's it.

It's better not to think of it.

He understands Tina, as long as he pretends to look like enough and there are no flaws, She will definitely have no way of knowing that.

Unless one day she can remember it by herself.

Then wait until she remembers.

"You know what I'm talking about!" Tina's tone was very sure.

The expression on Peter's face froze for a moment, and he was almost fooled by her calm tone.

Fortunately, he quickly woke up, Tina was just cheating him.

This trick has been used countless times since childhood, and he has been caught many times.

Speaking of lies, Tina is actually better than him.

Peter pulled the corner of his lips and smiled: "If you don't make it clear, how can I know what you're talking about?"

If you really want to trouble me, just put it straight. I won't be angry with you, no?"

Peter looked at Tina with a smile, his smile was a bit R@scal.

Tina looked at his expression and knew that he would not want to say it anymore, and it would be of no avail for her to continue.

She turned and opened the door, and walked into the car by herself.

Peter moved quickly, reaching out to pad on the roof of the car for fear that she would bump her head.

Tina didn't even look at him, and went straight to close the door when she got in the car.

Peter's hand was almost pressed by the car door, and he shouted into the car: "My hand is almost broken!"

Tina didn't even look at him, turned her head, and looked to the other side.

Stephanie got out of the car and gave Tina her wheelchair, and looked at Peter's hand by the way: "Have you pressed it?"

"No." Peter's expression faded a bit.

"That's good." Stephanie thought of something again: "By the way, how are you handling the photo issue? When can it be dealt with?"

"It's already handled, don't worry about anything. If you have this kind of thing in the future, tell me as soon as possible."

Peter copied both hands into his pockets: "I'm going now, watch a little bit more recently, don't let her run around.

Don't take too many activities, take good care of yourself, and prepare to join the group."

“If you want to tell me, of course I know.” Stephanie stopped saying more: “I’m leaving.”

On the way back, Tina was in a trance all the way, thinking about what Peter had just said.

Sometimes it is a good thing for two people to know each other too well, but not the best thing at other times.

To know too much is a good thing, but not a good thing all the time.

She couldn’t tell whether Peter was lying to her.

She was like a headless fly now, with doubts in her heart, but only doubts, she couldn’t do anything.

She can only test Peter constantly, she has no evidence.

She thought of that number again.

Taking a look at Stephanie, who was driving ahead, Tina took out her cell phone and dialed the number she had dialed in the morning again.

But this time she dialed it, but it showed an empty number on the other end.

But she only got through this number in the morning, and talked to a strange voice. Why did it become an empty number so quickly?

Tina hung up the phone and frowned.

She felt that there was a mist in front of her.

She can see everything but knows nothing.

“Ms. Tina, here it is.”

Tina didn’t return to her senses until Stephanie’s voice came.