

Predestined 271

Chapter 271

Early the next morning.

When Alyssa woke up, she did not find Karl's figure beside her.

She got up and got out of bed, took her coat and put it on, and walked to the door to find that the door was not closed tightly.

Karl booked a suite, and outside the bedroom was the living room.

Through the cracks in the unclosed door, Alyssa saw Karl sitting on the sofa making a phone call.

Karl deliberately lowered the volume, Alyssa only saw Karl's lips moving, but did not hear what he was saying clearly.

Suddenly, Karl seemed to feel something, and looked up at Alyssa.

Was discovered.

Alyssa simply opened the door and walked out.

Karl didn't hang up the phone, only reached out to take the kettle on the table and poured a cup of hot water for Alyssa and handed it to her.

Alyssa stretched out to take it, he retracted his hand and continued talking on the phone.

At this time, there was a knock on the door outside.

Alyssa glanced at Karl, and Karl said, "I ordered breakfast."

Alyssa went to open the door without any expression.

The waiter walked in with the dining trolley, put the breakfast on the table, and said respectfully: "Hello, this is the breakfast ordered by Mr. Adams. I wish you a happy meal."

"Thank you." Alyssa thanked him and went to lock the door.

At the door, the waiter suddenly turned his head and called, "Miss Alyssa."

Alyssa was shocked, suddenly raised her head to look at the waiter.

The waiter reached out and stuffed a note in her hand and left quickly.

Alyssa quickly reacted and put the note into her pocket.

When she turned around, she glanced warily in Karl's direction.

Karl just hung up the phone and turned to look at her: "What's wrong?"

"It's okay." Alyssa closed the door with her backhand, and walked to the dining table as usual and sat down.

Alyssa didn't know what the waiter had written on her note, but she didn't dare to read it in a hurry. She was absent from eating. She was afraid that Karl would see her abnormality, so she could only keep eating.

After finally eating, Alyssa got up and went to the bathroom.

Locking the door, she took out the note, only glanced at it, and her eyes widened.

The content on the note is just three simple words: "Want to escape?"

The following is a mixture of letters and numbers, which looks like a license plate number.

Moreover, this license plate number looks familiar.

Alyssa only read it twice, and then wrote down the license plate number, then threw the note into the toilet and flushed it away with water.

When she opened the bathroom door and went out, Alyssa looked up and saw Karl's expressionless face.

Karl's tone was bad: "You locked the bathroom door and was studying how to escape again?"

"Yes." Alyssa raised her chin slightly, and said semi-seriously: "After studying it, I found that I could not escape from the bathroom."

Karl's expression turned cold, and he almost squeezed a sentence from his teeth: "It's no good for you to provoke me."

Alyssa said, "It's no good for me if I don't offend you?"

Besides, watching Karl's angry look, she actually felt a little happy in her heart.

â€¦

After breakfast, Karl took Alyssa and left the room, ready to return to Rostenvel.

After leaving the hotel entrance, she did not talk to Karl, and Alyssa was watching the cars parked in the parking space at the entrance.

At a glance, she did not see the license plate number on the note.

what's the problem?

The license plate number is clearly familiar to her, which means that the owner of the license plate knows her and knows her current situation.

It was clear that he wanted to help her.

And the only chance she could escape from Karl was now.

Once in Karl's car, she could only follow Karl back to Rostenvel.

At this time, she noticed a black car appeared on the corner not far away.

The car went back two meters and advanced two meters on the spot.

This weird behavior attracted Alyssa's attention.

She walked two steps forward and saw the license plate of that car.

The license plate of that car is exactly the one written on the note.

Alyssa was a little excited and nervous.

She turned to look at Karl.

Karl was standing two meters away from her. Seeing her looking over, he waved to her and motioned her to pass.

Alyssa's heartbeat was like radium, abnormally nervous.

Now there is an opportunity before her eyes to let her escape from Karl's control, how could she let it go.

She walked towards Karl, and eyes caught a glimpse of the black car coming over here, getting closer!

Alyssa checked the distance from her to the car. If she ran over later, it would take at most half a minute.

It only takes half a minute!

As her thoughts flowed, she had already reached Karl's.

Karl held her hand with a smile in his eyes: "I'll go back to the Rostenvel later."

This smile was very dazzling in Alyssa's eyes.

Although Alyssa's heart was already boiling, she still maintained a calm look on the surface: "Where shall we live after we go back?"

There was a hint of connivance in Karl's tone: "You can live wherever you want."

"really?"

"of course."

Alyssa glanced at the car again, and then looked up and kissed Karl's lips.

Her sudden kiss made Karl stunned. He passively let Alyssa kiss for a few seconds, and then stretched out his hand to support Alyssa's waist as if to react.

Smith and the bodyguard standing next to him turned their backs consciously.

After Alyssa became pregnant, the two did not do it again, and Karl could only rely on hugging and chatting to comfort her.

What's more, Alyssa took the initiative to kiss him, but he couldn't refuse it at all.

When he kissed emotionally, Alyssa suddenly pulled away.

Karl didn't let her go, but he had already relaxed his guard.

Alyssa took advantage of this opportunity and violently pushed Karl back.

Karl, who was unprepared, was pushed by Alyssa and fell directly to the ground.

The moment he fell, Alyssa and Karl looked at each other, and when he saw an incredible flash of his dark eyes, she curled her lips.

Alyssa got free and ran to the car quickly.

The car had already opened the door for her when she started running.

Karl's furious voice came from behind: "Alyssa!"

Alyssa protected her lower abdomen subconsciously, but the steps under her feet moved faster.

Bodyguards also reacted to Karl's roar and started chasing Alyssa.

Just before the bodyguard caught up with Alyssa, she ran to the car, bent over and sat in.

She slammed the door shut, panting and turned to look at the people behind.

The bodyguard ran for a few steps, then went back and drove to chase, while Karl was standing at the back, she couldn't see his expression clearly.

Chapter 272

As soon as Alyssa got in the car, the driver stepped on the accelerator and drove the car fast.

But while he drove fast, he was also unusually stable, which did not make Alyssa feel uncomfortable.

She looked at the driver and found that it was a strange face.

Alyssa asked him aloud: "Who asked you to pick me up?"

"My boss." The driver focused on driving, but when answering her questions, his tone was very respectful.

Alyssa frowned: "Who is your boss?"

The driver still didn't directly say who his boss was, but said: "My boss said, Miss Alyssa knows who he is."

she knows?

She is indeed familiar with the license plate number.

But she really couldn't remember whose license plate number it was.

After thinking about it, Alyssa went through all the people she knew in her mind. Finally, there was a flash of light in her mind and finally remembered who the owner of this license plate number was.

After knowing who was helping her, Alyssa felt mixed.

At this moment, the driver suddenly said: "I will stop the car at the intersection ahead. After Miss Alyssa gets down, she can get into the white car directly."

Alyssa squinted her eyes slightly and saw the white car parked on the side of the road.

Her mood is a bit complicated.

The person who helped her was someone she didn't want to be involved with.

And it was Karl who chased after her. If he chased her, she really couldn't escape.

Fleeing from Karl, owed favors to someone who didn't want to be involved anymore. Obviously, the former was more seductive and confusing.

So, when the driver stopped the car, Alyssa got into the white car without hesitation.

The white car and the car she was sitting in were driving in two opposite directions respectively. When she turned her head, she saw Karl and their car chasing in the direction of the car she had taken before.

Alyssa was stunned for a moment before asking the driver aloud, "Did we dump Karl and his men?"

"It stands to reason." The driver who answered her was still a strange face.

Alyssa already knew who the "Boss" was in the driver's mouth, and was a little surprised at the meticulous thoughts of their "Boss", so she couldn't help asking, "Where is your boss?"

The driver said: "Boss is waiting for you at the airport."

airport?

Alyssa didn't ask anymore.

Several cars were changed in the middle.

The other car she's in, and the car she's in now, will drive in two completely opposite directions.

In this way, even if Karl noticed that there was no Alyssa in the car they were chasing, it would be too late to turn around and chase.

She changed so many cars in the middle of the journey, and they all drove towards completely different places, Karl couldn't find it at all.

Alyssa was a little dazed, with no sense of reality in her heart.

Can she really get rid of Karl like this?

Alyssa didn't recover until the car arrived at the airport.

She was about to open the door and get out of the car, but the door was opened from the outside.

Alyssa looked up and saw the man's smiling face.

He cried affectionately: "Alyssa."

Although Alyssa had already remembered who the owner of the license plate number was, she was still surprised when he appeared in front of her.

"Norris, it's really you."

Alyssa got out of the car and looked at Norris fixedly, as if she had met Norris for the first time.

Norris's smile deepened after hearing her words: "I knew it, you still remember my license plate number."

She knew Norris very early, and at that time she also liked Norris very much.

When one is a teenager, when one likes someone, one would involuntarily remember everything about them, and his license plate number was also written down when Alyssa liked him.

Later, she no longer liked Norris, and gradually forgot everything about Norris.

However, the Norris in front of her was different from the Norris she knew.

Alyssa squinted her eyes and asked vigilantly: "How do you know that Karl and I lived in the hotel? Why do you help me?"

She didn't forget the things Norris and Isabel had done before.

The smile on Norris's face turned away, and his tone became serious: "Karl's villa was burned by the fire, and the media unanimously said that you were killed in the fire. I didn't believe it, so I sent someone to follow Karl."

Following Karl, he naturally hit Alyssa.

The look in Norris's eyes made Alyssa a little surprised.

She said with a cold face: "What is your business if I am not dead?"

Norris took a step forward, curled his lips, smiled deeply, "Of course it's related."

He paused and added: "I will feel heartache."

The tone is half-true and half-false, and it is difficult to distinguish the true degree.

It was really difficult for Alyssa to connect the thoughtful man in front of her with the cowardly and incompetent Norris before.

Alyssa had to take a step back: "Not funny."

"I know you won't believe me, but time will prove everything." After Norris finished speaking, he took out two tickets and said, "We should board the plane."

"Where to?"

The driver who brought her over said before that Norris was waiting for her at the airport.

Norris said: "Go abroad."

Alyssa suddenly stopped.

"Why, can't bear it?" Norris smiled and looked at her: "Have you forgotten how Karl controlled freedom during this period of time, and how you're wronged by Adams' family?"

Alyssa frowned slightly when she heard the words.

It seems that Norris really cares about her affairs.

Karl saw her hesitation, with a bewilderment in her tone: "The water of Adams' family is too deep, this muddy water of Adams' family, if you fall in, even your bones will be eaten by the group of Adams people. Clean, if you leave now and stay abroad for a year or two, Karl will naturally forget about you and you will be able to live your own life!"

Alyssa interrupted him: "Do you know something?"

Norris raised his eyebrows, his expression a little unpredictable: "Everyone has his own secret."

Alyssa didn't plan to entangle Norris on this issue, only asked: "Are you going abroad with me?"

"Of course." Norris laughed again.

Alyssa was naturally guarded against Norris, whose temperament was completely different from before.

From Norris's words, she felt that he seemed interested in her.

If everything Norris did before was disguised by him, then his scheming would definitely not be much worse than that of Karl.

Alyssa will never go abroad with him.

Seeing Alyssa not speaking, Norris stretched out his hand to wrap her shoulders: "The time is coming, let's go."

Alyssa turned around, avoiding his hand.

Norris's complexion changed slightly, but he didn't say much.

"!"

Probably to be unobtrusive, Norris booked economy class.

The two went through the security check and went to the waiting room.

The flight booked by Norris has already begun to board.

Alyssa bit her lip and suddenly squatted on the ground: "My stomach hurts!" I want to go to the toilet!"

Chapter 273

After hearing Alyssa's words, he obviously didn't believe her: "Why do you have stomachache?"

Norris now is much more shrewd than the previous Norris, and he is not easy to deceive at all.

"don't know, maybe it's a bit uncomfortable." Alyssa looked up at him with a "weak" face.

Too many things happened this morning, Alyssa fled from under Karl's eyelids. She was still frightened and worried at the moment, her face was slightly pale, and she did not look very good.

Norris glanced at the boarding gate: "I will accompany you."

“Thank you.” Alyssa stood up and let Norris help her to walk towards the bathroom.

After all, she is “weak” now, and she can only let Norris support her.

At the door of the bathroom, Norris stayed at the door and waited for her.

Alyssa entered the bathroom, her expression on her face became tense, she leaned on the door panel and quietly waited for the time to pass.

She will go out until the last moment of boarding.

But now she has to think of a way to prevent Norris from getting on the plane.

She had a hunch that Norris now would definitely not be any better than Karl.

It wasn't until the radio urged her to take the flight that Alyssa tidied up and went out of the bathroom.

Norris was obviously impatient to wait.

But when he talked to Alyssa, there was still a trace of concern in his tone: “How did you come out? Is it uncomfortable?”

“It's okay.” Alyssa shook her head, walking slowly.

The radio reminded Alyssa that they would stop boarding on this flight.

Norris was obviously a little anxious, because his pace began to accelerate.

At this time, a middle-aged woman walked past Alyssa.

Alyssa's heart made a plan, eyes glanced at Norris, and violently stretched out her hand to grab the boarding pass from him, and touched the middle-aged woman's a$$s.

After feeling it, the middle-aged woman turned her head.

Alyssa slapped Norris's face with her hand, “Why are you so nasty!”

Norris didn't react at all: “What?”

“I've seen it all, you just touched this sister's a$$!” Alyssa turned to look at the middle-aged woman, making a look that hesitated to talk.

This middle-aged woman is not an easy mess either.

After hearing Alyssa's words, she naturally thought that it was Norris who just touched her a$$s.

After all, Norris is also a rich man, and his temperament is much better than ordinary people, but after all he is a man, middle-aged women naturally prefer Alyssa.

The middle-aged woman stretched out her hand and pushed Norris, “Why are you so shameless young man who doesn't look so human?”

Norris looked cold: “I didn't touch you.”

At this time, he still didn't understand Alyssa's purpose.

Alyssa wanted him to be unable to board the plane.

He sneered, and was about to continue talking when he found several tall men approaching.

One of the most burly men asked Norris aloud in a dialect: "You take advantage of our sister-in-law?"

Alyssa was stunned, dare to believe that the middle-aged woman she just touched was the wife of some "big brother"?

Norris didn't bring bodyguards, so he must suffer.

But at this time, Alyssa couldn't take care of that much.

Norris would be beaten at best.

Taking advantage of Norris's surroundings, Alyssa silently said to him: I'm sorry.

Then, she walked quickly to the gate, checked the ticket and boarded the plane.

Not long after she got on the plane, the door was closed.

Her location was not far from the door, and she had been paying attention, but she did not see Norris coming up.

It wasn't until the plane officially took off that Alyssa's tense nerves completely relaxed.

She turned her head and looked out the window. The plane passed through the clouds and moved further and further away from the ground.

There is still some unreal feeling in her heart.

Last night she was ready to follow Karl back, but she did not expect that she was already sitting on the plane to the other side of the ocean.

After a long while, Alyssa warmed her lips and smiled.

Goodbye, Karl.

Karl might have never dreamed of it, she could really escape from his hand.

He must be so angry now that he wants to turn the whole city over.

Alyssa stretched out her hand to cover her lower abdomen, and the smile at the corner of her mouth became much softer.

In the future, she will depend on baby.

â€¦

Airport entrance.

Karl brought a group of people into the VIP channel, and when he found Norris, Norris had already been beaten up.

Karl grabbed Norris's shirt, his voice hoarse and gloomy: "Where is Alyssa?"

Norris had just been beaten and panted twice before he could see that the person in front of him was Karl.

He squinted his eyes and laughed: "You said Alyssa? She is gone. In order to make it easy to escape, I made a fake identity for her. You can't find her."

When Alyssa was burned to death on the Internet, he was planning this matter.

Although he was also angry that Alyssa had thrown him off and boarded the plane alone, but seeing Karl like the wind and rain, he was going crazy by Alyssa's heating, and he was a little balanced.

Karl twisted his eyebrows and threw Norris out.

At this time, when he was dealing with the rage, he started very hard, and after Norris was thrown out, he still slipped out for a long distance.

Norris curled up in pain, unable to say a word.

Karl walked over and squatted in front of Norris, with a harsh voice: "I didn't expect that there are people like you in your Weber family."

He took it too lightly.

He had never put Norris in his eyes, and he did not expect that it was Norris, who he did not put in his eyes, that broke his affairs.

Norris was in pain all over and couldn't say a word, but he forced a slightly distorted smile.

Karl kicked him viciously again.

At this time, the airport security came over.

Karl ignored Norris and said in a deep voice, "Check it out, and find the woman Alyssa after digging three feet!"

He bit every word very hard, almost squeezing the sentence out between his teeth.

Hearing that night, immediately took the bodyguard to check the flight.

However, the results found were not satisfactory.

As Norris said, he gave Alyssa a fake identity in order to make it easy for her to escape. They checked it around and found nothing at all.

Finally, he had to return to find Norris.

As a result, Norris had already returned to Rostenvel by car.

Karl chased him back to the Rostenvel with terrible anger, but from Norris's mouth he forced out the fake identity for Alyssa.

It's just that Alyssa's fake identity is a very popular name. As for the ID number, Norris can't remember it either.

Norris looked at Karl's madness, and was very proud: "Alyssa is abroad, she has a fake identity, and she is so smart, do you think you can still find her?"

Karl smiled with anger: "Do you think your Weber family can survive tomorrow?"

Chapter 274

The plane arrived at its destination after ten hours of flying.

On the radio, the sweet voice of the stewardess reminded passengers that the plane was about to land.

Alyssa turned to look out the window, a blue ocean.

This is the only country in the world that covers an entire continent, surrounded by the sea, and has much unique flora and fauna and natural landscapes.

Coincidentally, this is also the country that Alyssa once yearned for.

On this point, she once mentioned it to Norris.

However, that was a long time ago.

She guessed that Norris would book a ticket to this country, but it was just a coincidence.

As soon as she got off the plane, she felt a heatwave rushing towards her face.

The country is surrounded by the sea, and January happens to be the warmest season here.

Alyssa walked out with the crowd.

She was alone, without any luggage, a beautiful face of an Oriental, conspicuous and lonely in the crowd.

People passing by cast a curious glance at her.

Fortunately, Alyssa was more serious when she went to school.

She took a taxi to the nearest hotel to check-in. After not resting much, she went out and bought a computer.

When she sent Mattie the script before, only the first half was sent. Mattie must have known it now, and she didn't know what her anger had become.

Alyssa logged into her mailbox, and there were several unread emails on her computer.

The first one was sent by Norris, three hours ago, when she just got off the plane.

The second one is Mattie, and the bottom few consecutive ones are from Tina.

She used this email address when she was in school, and not many people knew it. Most of the time, it was used to organize work, but she had few friends and did not apply for a private email address.

Alyssa moved her mouse to the bottom of the unread emails, and opened the email that Tina had sent first.

The bottom email was sent to her by Tina a few days ago when she set the villa on fire.

After she set fire to the villa, she never used her mobile phone. The only way Tina could contact her was to send her an email.

She clicked on the email.

Just reading the first sentence, Alyssa couldn't help laughing.

"Alyssa, where did you-mum go? The villa was burnt clean and the people are gone. That's what you said is reasonable. Contact me when you see the email, or I'll go to Mr. Karl who is about to make an appointment to post you on the Internet Photoâ€¦!"

Tina is actually a bit childish, and when anxious she likes to threaten her with nonsense.

Immediately afterwards, Alyssa opened the second envelope.

"I know you must be alive!! Just say a word if you are alive!! I will post your photo tomorrow!"

Next is the third letter: "Knock Lima, squeak."

Alyssa laughed and replied a very brief email to Tina: "Everything is fine, don't read it."

Then, she opened the email sent to her by Mattie.

"Alyssa, are you giving me a set? What's the matter with you giving me half of the script? You!"

Sitting on the other side of the ocean, across the screen, Alyssa could feel Mattie's anger soaring when she sent this email.

Alyssa replied to her: "Send the contract to me, and I'll send you the rest of the plot."

Finally, Norris's mail.

She met Norris as a teenager. Before the relationship broke down, she occasionally needed learning materials when she was in school, and she would also ask Norris for help.

Therefore, Norris will know her mailbox.

Norris's e-mail resembled a text message, with only word: "Here?"

Alyssa did not reply to him.

She managed to escape from Karl this time because she owed Norris the favor.

Always pay back what you owe.

But she can't afford it now, so just ignore him.

Turn off the email, and there will be a new email reminder, which was sent by Tina.

The content of the email is a series of questions: "Where are you? Do you have money to spend? Is it safe?"

Alyssa was touched, she still remembered her at this time, and only her was cold.

Replying to the email to Tina, Alyssa packed up her things and left the hotel without returning the room.

Karl was too smart. If he wanted to find her, he would find her again sooner or later. In front of him, Alyssa never got lucky.

Alyssa checked a homestay on the Internet. The owners are two old couples. Their children are working in other cities. The homestay is just because they like the excitement.

Alyssa received their warm hospitality.

â€¦

Rostenvel City.

AdamPic Media, President's Office.

When Tina entered the door and saw Karl's face, she wanted to step back.

But the bodyguards guarding the door blocked the cool way.

She had to bite the bullet and walked in.

Karl stood in front of the floor-to-ceiling windows with his back to her, his tall and tall figure seemed to have a deep sense of loneliness.

But Tina didn't sympathize with him at all.

She pretended not to know the purpose of Karl calling her, and asked with a smile, "Big boss, are you looking for me? Is there anything wrong?"

Karl turned around, his eyes were dark, and the inside seemed to be soaked with thick ink that couldn't be transformed, making it impossible to see what he was thinking.

Tina swallowed subconsciously and bowed her head as he watched.

After a while, she heard Karl's slightly muffled voice: "Did she contact you?"

"No." Although Tina was a little scared, she denied it.

"is it?"

Karl smiled without anger, picked up a document on the table and threw it to her.

Tina reached out and took it, and found that the content of the file was exactly the printed email content between her and Alyssa.

She squeezed the document and tightened it suddenly, and said with a tone of freedom: "Yes, she contacted me, what do you want?"

Karl found someone to hack her computer and found the contents of the emails between her and Alyssa, but what about it?

Karl said with a cold face, expressionlessly: "Ask where she is and say you are going to find her."

Tina didn't hesitate at all, so she refused directly: "Impossible."

As soon as the voice fell, she felt a strong sense of oppression from Karl.

She was held up by her family since she was a child and grew up. Although she and Peter had troubles, but Peter never really touched her.

Tina took two steps back, trying to reason with him: "Why did Alyssa run away? Don't you understand the reason? You chased her like this and let her live a life of hiding in mountains. What else can be done besides hard work to keep away from you?"

Karl obviously did not agree with her.

He narrowed his eyes, his tone was dangerous: "Let her come back to me."

Tina said with a mockery: "What can you do if she comes back to you? Is she not a person who is already dead"? She has her own thoughts and is a living person. No matter how many times you find her back, she will still do the same. She will run away!"

Chapter 275

After Tina finished speaking, she realized what she had just said.

Tina also had a little temper, and Peter wouldn't really do anything to her when she was angry, but Karl was not necessarily so.

Karl would not have any pity for her.

Tina gritted her teeth, regretting her mouth quickly.

Sure enough, in the next moment, she heard Karl's gloomy and frightening voice: "You say it again."

Where Tina dares to say it again.

She was really worried that after she said it again, she would be thrown directly from here by Mr. Karl.

At this moment, the door of Karl's office was pushed open with a "bang" from outside.

Tina looked back and found that it was Peter who was sweating profusely.

He seemed to have come in a hurry, his hair was messy, and he was out of breath.

When he saw Tina, he strode over, and directly pulled Tina behind him to cover her, his tone was a little aggressive: "Karl, I know you are anxious when Alyssa is gone, but you have something to say to Weber. What is Tina doing here?"

He knew Karl's temper too well.

As soon as Alyssa left, Karl was now in a state where he would explode at any time, and he wouldn't let anyone offend him.

Tina had a good relationship with Alyssa, so naturally she helped speak from Alyssa's point of view. She speaks straight, and she will definitely provoke Karl.

If he had not heard that Karl had found Tina, he wouldn't know what else would happen today.

Karl looked at Peter with an unclear expression for a while, until Peter's scalp was numb, he lowered his eyes slightly, covering the emotions under his eyes, and said indifferently: "Let her ask about Alyssa."

Peter saw that Karl didn't seem to be very angry, so he became more assertive: "Alyssa is your wife and not Tina's. You have to ask other people about your own wife?"

Peter's words are justified and not unreasonable.

But it made Karl's heart a shock.

It seems he doesn't know much about Alyssa.

Except for Alyssa's information that he asked people to check at the beginning, knowing her family situation, knowing that she wants to be a screenwriter; it seems that he doesn't know anything else.

After a long while, Karl said lowly, "You go out."

His voice is not loud, and there is no obvious emotion in his voice, but it makes people afraid to disagree for no reason.

Peter quickly dragged Tina away.

Tina struggled, Peter not only did not let go, but tightened.

He stuck to Tina's ear and whispered, "Do you want to be thrown from here by Karl?"

Tina glared at him and kicked his calf violently.

Peter grinned in pain, but couldn't take her.

After leaving the office, the two of them leaned against the door and let out a long sigh of relief.

After a long while, Peter turned his head and asked her: "Do you know where Alyssa is?"

"don't know." Tina snorted: "don't know or tell you, men don't have a good thing."

Fortunately, she used to think that Karl was pretty good, but she didn't expect it to be like this in the end.

How could Alyssa admire the old man, she is not a fool.

Tina spread the grievances on Peter: "I said why you men are so self-righteous. If the big boss didn't force her to feel unsafe, would she run away?"

"What makes us men so self-righteous?" Peter turned his head and looked at her with arms around her: "Where is Karl warming up? The Adams' family's affairs are too complicated, and they can't be explained clearly in a while. Even if she doesn't run away, Karl won't let her have an accident."

Tina answered without a smile: "Oh, so Alyssa deserves to block everything about herself on Karl? Because of an unsure "will not let her have an accident?"

Peter has nothing to say.

Tina sneered, turned around and left.

Peter stood there, pulling his hair down anxiously.

Before he knew that Karl had called Tina over, he was so nervous that he was afraid that something would happen to Tina.

It turned out that Tina was okay, and now it was him.

He just wanted to say a few words with Tina, which became a luxury.

“!

In the president’s office.

After Peter and Tina went out, the room was completely quiet.

Karl slowly walked to the sofa and sat down, leaning back on the sofa, his eyes were a little empty, and the whole person looked extremely tired.

Alyssa is a stubborn and persistent person.

She can endure Hunt family for so many years, and can use the same perseverance and patience to play hide and seek with him.

If he keeps looking, she will keep hiding.

She may already be thinking of a new escape route now.

Thinking of this, Karl couldn’t help curling his lips mockingly.

In this regard, he and Alyssa are really a bit like.

Two stubborn and persistent people.

Since this time, the two have been in a stalemate.

Seeing Alyssa unhappy, he didn’t feel well.

It’s just that the matter of Mr. Adams is too deeply involved, even he dare not act rashly, fearing that if Alyssa knows more, she will end up like Mr. Adams.

Once a person has weakness, he becomes fearful.

After Mr. Adams’ accident, he became very passive and could no longer take the initiative to investigate his mother’s affairs, nor could he directly return Alyssa’s innocence.

Perhaps Alyssa’s departure this time was also a good thing.

Let him stop looking forward and backward like that, and do his own thing.

Knocking“”

There was a knock on the door.

Karl sat up straight, the expression on his face returned to his usual indifference: “Come in.”

“Sir.” It was Smith who came in.

He walked up to Karl, nodded slightly, and said respectfully, “I found the young lady.”

Smith thought that when Karl heard that they found Alyssa, he would directly order to bring Alyssa back.

As a result, Karl did not respond for a long time.

He tilted his head and carefully observed Karl’s reaction, and found that Karl did not have any special emotions on his face, as if he was just in a daze.

After a long while, Karl asked quietly, “Where is she?”

“Sydney.” After Smith finished speaking, he added: “But she would transfer to another place soon. If we send someone over now—”

Before he finished speaking, Karl interrupted him, “Don’t disturb her.”

“What?” Smith suspected that he had heard it wrong.

According to his interpretation of Karl, Karl should wish to fly to Sydney now to bring Alyssa back.

However, he heard Karl say “Don’t disturb her.”

Smith confirmed and asked again: “Sir, do you mean that you don’t need to send someone to bring the young lady back?”

Karl said decisively: “No need.”

Chapter 276

Smith couldn’t believe his ears at all.

Although Karl had repeated it twice, Smith still had the illusion of hearing hallucinations.

“Sir—”

He opened his mouth and wanted to confirm from Karl again, but Karl raised his hand slightly and signaled him not to speak anymore.

Smith was stunned for a moment, then turned and retreated.

Peter had separated from Tina before, and then went back, just to see Smith coming out of Karl’s office.

He quickened his pace and walked towards Smith: “What? Have you found Alyssa?”

Smith frowned and nodded: “Found her.”

Peter frowned when he saw Smith, with a worried look, and asked unclearly, “Hey, you found Alyssa. Karl won’t let you bring her back? Or is he going to bring her back by himself?”

Smith shook his head: “Neither, Sir—”

After a pause, he thought of a word to describe Karl.

“I think boss, He is a little abnormal.”

“Abnormal?” Peter twitched the corner of his mouth.

“He neither allowed us to pick up the young lady, nor did he plan to pick her up by himself. He only said that we should not disturb her.”

After hearing this, Peter didn't react much better than Smith.

He froze for a while, and asked: “What's wrong with him?”

Smith shook his head blankly.

Having been with Karl for so many years, most of the time he could still guess what Karl thought.

Only this time, Smith had no clue at all, and felt that he couldn't guess his thoughts at all.

Peter thought the same as him.

â€¦

Although Alyssa moved out of the hotel, she still did not take it lightly.

She stayed at that homestay at night. After dressing up during the day, she quietly ran to a cafe opposite the hotel, chose a position by the window, and ordered a glass of juice to sit all afternoon.

Her purpose for doing this is simple, just to see when Karl's people will find her hotel.

She thought that with Karl's ability, he would find the hotel she had booked the next day.

However, she squatted in the coffee shop for two or three days, until the hotel room she reserved automatically expired, and she never saw Karl's people appear.

Could it be that Karl's people didn't find here?

But as soon as this deviation emerged, she herself denied it.

Impossible, Karl has been able to hide his powers for so many years, and he wouldn't even lack this ability.

She shook the juice in front of her, feeling a little disturbed.

Karl didn't find her, she should be happy, but she didn't feel happy in her heart.

On the contrary, a little lost.

Is it really like what Norris said?

However, it hasn't been a year or two before Karl is too lazy to find her?

Alyssa pursed her lips, took off the wig and hat she used to disguise, and walked out swaggeringly.

She deliberately walked around the door of the hotel before returning to the hotel.

After having dinner with the host, Alyssa returned to the room.

Turning on the computer and logging in to the mailbox, she received the electronic contract document from Mattie.

She took a cursory look and found that there was no problem, so she returned an email to Mattie.

Alyssa herself was not sure if Karl was really too lazy to find her, so early the next morning, she bought a plane ticket to another city and left Sydney.

After leaving Sydney, she called back and asked the old couple, and asked them side by side if any of her nationals had visited them.

But the old couple answered no.

Is Karl really not planning to look for her again?

â€¦

More than a month passed quickly.

The paper contracts she signed with Mattie were all sent back and forth by international express mail, and no one from Karl came to her.

Children who are not loved are always extra precocious, so that she can stay calm and sober most of the time.

At this time, Alyssa knew very clearly that Karl didn't plan to find her anymore.

Since Karl stopped looking for her, she didn't need to hide anymore.

After she got the new number, she contacted Tina again.

Then, she returned to Sydney again, rented a house by the sea and lived there.

She thought about going back to Rostenvel.

But then she thought about it, since all the hard work came out, couldn't just go back.

Besides, even if she returns to Rostenvel, is there anything she can miss there?

And she always had an inexplicable premonition in her heart, she felt that Karl would not just let it go.

Maybe he won't find her now, but that doesn't mean that he will not come to have the child when the child landsâ€¦

In terms of left and right, it is better to stay in Sydney.

â€¦

Mattie likes Alyssa's script very much and often discusses the script with Alyssa on Video.

After all, scripts are written by people's imagination. There are always some illogical and realistic aspects. To make a network drama and put it in front of the public, it has to pass the radio and television review and common sense.

When the script was revised and reviewed, it was already April when it was finally finalized.

And Alyssa's due date is July.

"This is the last chapter. If you have a look, if there is no problem, it will be finalized like this, and then I will have a baby with peace of mind."

Alyssa said, pressing the send button, and sent the content of the last chapter to Mattie.

Then, she stretched her neck and habitually touched her belly, which was bulging like a big ball.

Mattie saw Alyssa's stomach in the video, she hesitated, and asked aloud: "Are you planning to have a baby abroad?"

"Yeah." Alyssa nodded.

In the past few months, she and Mattie discussed the script together, and they often quarreled directly when they encountered inconsistent concepts.

But the relationship between the two has become closer.

Mattie asked her, "Did Karl come to you?"

Alyssa was taken aback and said, "No."

"you guys"

"Okay, let's do this today, I'm a little tired, and I'll contact you if I have something." Alyssa turned off the video without waiting for her to finish.

After turning off the video, Alyssa spent a while at her desk, then opened the browser and put the words "Karl".

Click the search button, and the page jumped, Alyssa's gaze fell on the inconspicuous small print at the top of the page: about 14,700,000 relevant results returned for her.

Below is the profile of "Karl".

Below, is Karl's "latest related news".

Every search result is related to Karl.

Some discuss him, and some discuss the Adams' family.

Karl took over Adams's House, and because he had a hot topic, every little thing was reported by the major media.

It would be too easy for her to want to know his current situation.

Chapter 277

Alyssa moved the mouse, slowly turning the page down.

Many news nowadays mostly use some curious headlines and names to attract people's attention, and the content is mostly similar.

Most of the news related to Karl was business-related.

Occasionally there will be a bit of pink lace news, but most of them are catchy things.

Karl looks handsome, has excellent methods, and is behind the powerful Adams' family, which will naturally attract the attention of many people.

When he did not appear in the public's field of vision before, when people mentioned him, they always mentioned the words "ugly and impotent."

But now, just a search on the Internet, the adjectives added to him have completely changed.

A billionaire business upstart!

The only heir to the Adams' family with thunder's skills!

Pick one of these labels at random, which is an existence that ordinary people can only look up to.

And Alyssa is also one of these ordinary people.

When she lived with Karl before, this feeling was not obvious. The longer the two were separated, the more obvious this feeling became.

Alyssa occasionally thought of the days when she was with Karl, and they all felt like a dream.

Suddenly, she felt the baby in her belly kick her.

Alyssa lowered her head, stretched out her hand to touch her lower abdomen comfortably, and comforted her in a low voice, "Baby, this is your father. He is very handsome, but he has a bad temper!"

While talking, Alyssa suddenly couldn't continue.

She pursed her lips, got up and turned off the computer, ready to go to the kitchen to make something to eat.

When she opened the refrigerator, she realized that there was nothing left in the refrigerator.

As her body is getting more and more cumbersome, she also wants to quickly finish the script with Mattie, but she hasn't gone out much recently.

It seems that she can only go out to eat today.

Alyssa went back to the room and changed her clothes, then went out with her wallet.

!

The temperature in Sydney in April is good, neither cold nor hot.

When Alyssa went out, she found that the door of the house next door was open, and there were some cars parked at the door.

She lived here for a few months and never saw the person next door.

When she passed by, she couldn't help but look inside with curiosity.

At this time, a few sixteen or seventeen-year-old boys, black and white, walked out with their shoulders on their backs, talking and laughing.

Seeing this, Alyssa was taken aback, then turned and left.

The teenagers also saw her.

Oriental faces are not uncommon, but single women with big bellies and with very beautiful looks are rare.

A few teenagers whistling sound came from behind.

There are also some words spoken sounding like “beautiful” and “beauty”.

Their tone sounds unfriendly to Alyssa.

Alyssa ignored them, her steps accelerated, and she quickly walked to the restaurant where she often eats.

She doesn’t usually have a large range of activities. She usually buys and eats nearby. In addition, she is so beautiful that the waiters in the restaurant know her.

As soon as she entered, a waiter greeted her: “Miss Alyssa, you are here.”

Alyssa smiled: “I want a six-inch pizza and a glass of juice.”

“Okay, please wait a moment.” The waiter smiled and placed the order for her, then turned to the counter.

Alyssa was sitting not far from the counter, and the waiter’s low voice could be heard: “That beautiful pregnant woman is here for dinner again!”

This statement sounds a bit strange, but Alyssa knew that she was not malicious.

After eating, she went to the supermarket to buy some ingredients before going back.

When passing by the door of the house next door, Alyssa quickened her pace.

Fortunately, those teenagers are not at home, it seems that they have gone out.

â€¦

Rostenvel City.

It was late at night when Karl came out of the Adams building.

Seeing him coming out, Smith took the initiative to open the door for him: “Sir.”

Karl did not get into the car first, but raised his eyes to look at him.

Smith knows, stretches out his other hand, holding a mobile phone impressively.

Karl picked it up, and was not in a hurry to get into the car. He turned on the phone while standing at the door.

The screen lights up, and it shows a picture of a woman.

The woman in the photo is wearing a thin gray windbreaker with a white loose dress inside, sitting in the restaurant with a big belly and eating.

The person who took the photo probably took the photo from a distance through the shop window, so the woman's face is not very clear.

When she lowered her head to eat, her hair was still hanging down and half of her face was covered, but Karl's eyes seemed to be glued to the photo, and she looked a little confused.

After a long while, Karl said, "She has been eating outside recently?"

His voice was a little hoarse, and it sounded a bit lonely in the night breeze.

Smith replied: "Madam usually cooks by herself, but she hasn't gone out much recently. Maybe she was busy with work and came out to eat when there was no food at home."

"Yeah." Karl replied faintly before he bent over and got into the car.

Seeing him like this, Smith after closing the door for him, couldn't help but sigh slightly.

Before, Karl said not to disturb Alyssa, but Smith thought he was just talking.

Because based on his understanding of Karl, it is impossible for Karl to find Alyssa without picking her back.

Because of the kidnapping case he encountered when he was a teenager, Karl had a somewhat flawed personality, paranoid and suspicious, and it was difficult to hear other people's thoughts.

Therefore, when he heard what Karl said, he didn't take it seriously.

He thought that Karl would change his mind in a few days to catch Alyssa back.

But unexpectedly, he guessed completely wrong.

Not only did Karl not ask anyone to bring Alyssa back, but he also sent someone to Sydney to follow her quietly, and ordered his subordinates to take pictures and send them every day without being discovered by Alyssa.

If Alyssa does not go out one day, even if it is to take pictures of Alyssa's door, he will have to take a picture, send it back.

Peter told Smith more than once that Karl was crazy.

Smith felt the same way.

Smith shook his head, went to the other side and got in the car, and drove towards Karl's apartment.

Alyssa set fire to Karl's villa, and Karl moved to an apartment not far from office, and occasionally stayed at the company.

While driving at night, he was paying attention to Karl.

Karl was looking at Alyssa's photos with his mobile phone in his hand.

There were a lot of photos sent today, and Karl had to look at each one for a long time.

Suddenly, his fingers paused slightly.

In the photo, the background behind Alyssa is a group of teenagers with different skin tones.

Karl, who often sees Alyssa's life photos, can naturally see that the background is near the house where Alyssa lives.

Karl's voice was low, "Who are these people?"

Chapter 278

Just past the traffic lights at this time, he looked around Smith and found that Karl was referring to a group of people standing behind Alyssa in the photo.

At first glance, Smith didn't feel anything unusual.

Smith also said very seriously: "This is a passerby."

Karl raised his eyes and said in a serious tone: "These people, I have never seen them before."

Smith looked inexplicable: "Huh?"

In the past few months, Karl had not been to Sydney. The Alyssa he saw was only the Alyssa in the photo.

Did he remember all the people who appeared in the background of Alyssa's photos when he looked at those photos?

Smith was still a little surprised, and he heard Karl's calm voice saying, "Let me check who these people are, and let them look carefully."

"Yes." Smith responded.

At night, the car drove to the apartment building and stopped.

He watched Karl enter before leaving.

Karl opened the door, and the room was completely dark.

He reached out and turned on the light in the room, and went straight into the bedroom.

The bedroom was covered with pictures of Alyssa.

These photos are all the photos taken by the men he sent to Sydney in the past few months, some are clear and some are blurry.

Even if it was a picture that was blurred and only the outline was visible, Karl was not willing to delete it, but printed it out himself.

Karl took off his jacket, slowly rolled his shirt sleeves onto his forearms, took the cable and walked to the printer, connected the phone to the printer, and started printing today's new photos.

â€¦

When Alyssa slept into the middle of the night, she was awakened by the deafening music.

She opened her eyes in the dark and lay on the bed blankly for a few minutes before she could tell that the sound of music came from next door.

Young people have good energy, she knows, but if they have good energy, they can wake others up in the middle of the night without quality.

Alyssa got up and got out of bed, walked to the window, raised a corner of the curtain, and looked out.

The house where she lives and the house next door are separated by a fence. From her room, one can just see the burning bonfire in the yard next door and the people sitting around.

The fire of the bonfire was very bright, and the distance was not very far. Alyssa recognized a few of them. It was when she was out for dinner during the day, she saw them at the door next door.

She remembered their figure and the clothes they wore during the day.

This area is far away from the city. Most of the people living here are retired old people, and those young people are too conspicuous, so it is not difficult to remember.

There are some of them that Alyssa hasn't seen during the day, some are not, both men and women, and you can see that you are not doing good thingsâ€¦

They made such a big noise that Alyssa was not the only one who was disturbed by the noise, but no one came out to stop them.

This group of people didn't seem to be easy to provoke, and Alyssa was alone and pregnant with a child, so naturally she didn't dare to say much.

She returned to the bed, pulled the quilt over her head, covered herself tightly, and still couldn't stop the loud noise.

It wasn't until the daylight was almost dawn that it gradually became quiet.

Alyssa didn't sleep well Smith, and she had no energy in the morning. She bakes two loaves of bread for herself, ready to boil another egg and just eat breakfast.

While she was waiting to boil the eggs, there was a knock on the door outside.

Alyssa looked back in the direction of the door, frowned slightly, and walked to the door.

Taking a look at the crack of the door, Alyssa opened the door when she found it was a girl.

The girl greeted her first: "Hi!"

"Hello, what's the matter?" Alyssa half-opened the door and blocked the door, not planning to let the girl into the room.

The girl was wearing a pink hooded sweater, and her lower body was too short to hold her a$$ in hot pants, and she did not look very old.

When Alyssa was looking at the girl, the girl was also looking at her.

The girl's gaze fell on Alyssa's stomach, then moved to Alyssa's face again, and said to her, "Can I use your bathroom? My friend's family has too many people, I want to go. I have to line up for a toilet, I'm in a hurry."

Alyssa hesitated for two seconds, and said, "Sorry, my husband is in the bathroom. He is suffering from constipation. If you don't mind waiting for an hour!"

"My God!" The girl made an exaggerated expression of surprise: "I really sympathize with you."

Then, the girl turned and left.

Alyssa followed and closed the door.

However, after closing the door, she did not go back to the kitchen directly, but looked out through the crack of the door.

From the crack in the door, she saw the girl walking out and met a boy.

Not knowing what the girl said to the boy, the boy looked towards Alyssa's door.

Although Alyssa knew that they could not see her, she was still a little frightened.

This group of teenagers is definitely not a good crop.

The girl just didn't come to use the bathroom, most likely to test if she lives alone.

Teens like to seek excitement, and everything can be done.

Alyssa never took the initiative to speculate on others with malicious intent, but the behavior of this group of teenagers was indeed suspicious.

Back in the kitchen, Alyssa didn't even have the thought of eating breakfast.

How many days did she move out first?

The more Alyssa thought about it, the more disturbed she felt.

The group of people next door played crazy all night, last night. They should be sleeping now. If she goes out now, she shouldn't meet them again.

Thinking about this, Alyssa simply packed a set of clothes, carried her bag and went out.

She had no choice but to hide.

She locked the door, looked around for a while, and made sure that there was no one, and then walked forward with a little relief.

However, when she walked out of the yard, she found a person standing against the wall.

He is a blond and blue-eyed local, wearing a red shirt, his face is immature but tall, he is in the developmental stage, so he looks very thin and uncoordinated.

He held the courtyard wall with one hand, curled his lips and smiled evilly: "Hi, beauty."

Alyssa took two steps back subconsciously, nodded slightly to say hello, and turned to go to the other side.

Seeing Alyssa was about to leave, the boy followed directly.

While following Alyssa, he said: "Don't worry about leaving, didn't we just met yesterday? Don't you remember me?"

Alyssa pretended not to hear, and accelerated her pace.

However, the boy was taller than her and his legs were longer. He caught up in three or two steps, and he held her tightly and began to say reluctantly: "I'm talking to you, didn't you hear me? You can't listen? Where do you come from?"

Chapter 279

The boy used brute force, and Alyssa couldn't escape.

She looked up at him and said coldly: "Let go of me!"

Alyssa had a pair of beautiful cat eyes. When she laughed, that smile fascinated the people, but when she came to see people in the cold, the chill can penetrate into the bones.

The boy holding her was still young, and when Alyssa glanced so coldly, the force on her hand could not help but loosen.

Alyssa took the opportunity to withdraw her hand, took two steps back quickly, and looked at him with guard.

The boy was probably irritated by her reaction just now, and cursed: "b!tch!"

With that, he stretched out his hand to catch Alyssa.

A trace of panic flashed across Alyssa's face. At this moment, a sturdy man suddenly jumped out from nowhere, walked directly to her and the boy, and separated the two.

With a fist, the man knocked the boy directly to the ground.

"boom!"

The boy fell to the ground fiercely, holding his stomach pain and unable to make a sound.

Alyssa was a little stunned by the dramatic scene in front of her, and the man who had just stood in front of her turned around and asked her with concern: "Madam, are you all right?"

Only then did Alyssa discover that the man who had just helped her was a national from her country, as obvious from his accent, with a normal appearance, but a strong figure, and a practicing family.

The force value is very strong, she has just seen it.

Alyssa looked grateful: "I'm fine, thank you, my name is Alyssa, what is your name?"

The man seemed to hesitate for a while before he said: "I am just passing by, don't worry about it."

After the man said, he turned and left.

Alyssa looked at his back for a few seconds, feeling that he was a little weird, but thinking about what was just now, she didn't dare to stay any longer and left in a hurry.

Maybe in this world, there are indeed people who do good things and don't want to leave a name.

â€¦

Alyssa went to the city center to find a five-star hotel to stay.

She booked a room for three days and decided to live in first, and then think about the future.

She probably won't live in the place where she lived before, but she still has to go back to get things.

And her due date is approaching, and she can no longer find a house that is not remote. If something like that happens again, she won't necessarily have such good luck again.

Alyssa quickly found an apartment on the Internet that was close to the hospital. It happened that the owner was a from her country, and because of work reasons he had to go to another place, she decided to rent out the house.

The house has a good location, convenient transportation, complete furnishings, and both long-term and short-term rentals.

Alyssa tried to call the host.

After the call was connected, Alyssa spoke tentatively: "Hello, I saw the post you posted on the Internetâ€¦"

The host may be a quick-witted person. Before she finished speaking, she interrupted her: "Yes, my house is going to be rented out. My plane is going to another place at night. If you want to see the house, come over now."

"Okay, I'll be here soon."

Alyssa hung up, confirmed the address, and took a taxi.

The location of the apartment was in a prosperous area, and the two met at the door. In the large courtyard, Alyssa had nothing to worry about.

The host is a middle-aged woman, and unlike on the phone, she herself is very gentle.

As soon as the middle-aged woman saw her, she said directly: "Let's take a look at the house first. It's a bachelor apartment with a complete set of things. It depends on how long you want to live."

When the host finished speaking, she walked ahead and led the way.

Alyssa followed her and said, "I may not live long."

The host smiled and stopped talking.

The two reached the room soon.

The layout and furnishings in the room are similar to the photos that Alyssa saw on the Internet, there is no difference, and it is a little bigger than the photos.

And the rent of the room is not expensive.

Alyssa looked around in the room, and then heard the host ask her: "Is it okay?"

"I think it's good." Alyssa smiled.

"Then do you want to rent? I can give it to you now!"

Without waiting for the owner to finish, Alyssa shook her head apologetically and said, "Thank you for your kindness. This house is very good, but not suitable for me."

After Alyssa finished speaking, she hurried out.

The host said with surprise: "Hey, how could you!"

When Alyssa left the apartment, the expression on her face faded.

When she called the host before, she didn't mention that she was a pregnant woman.

When the host saw her with a big belly, not only did she not ask, she didn't even have a surprised expression.

What does this show?

This shows that the homeowner has the ability to make up a saintly mind, knowing that her tenant is a pregnant woman with a big belly?

No, it only means that the homeowner knew early in the morning that a pregnant woman would want to rent a house like this.

Someone instructed the owner to rent the house to Alyssa.

And this instructor happened to know that Alyssa was about to rent a house right now.

It's just that she didn't tell anyone she knew what happened in the past two days.

Moreover, the area where she is looking for a house is also near the hotel where she lives, close to the hospital.

Many people know that she is pregnant, but how many people know that she lives in a hotel?

Unless the person behind this arrangement has been sending people to pay attention to her.

The results obtained from such an analysis shocked Alyssa.

Who else besides Karl?

This middle-aged woman who wants to rent her house is not a coincidence. What about the man who helped her before? Is it a coincidence?

Alyssa's mind was confused.

Over the past few months, Karl has been a person who has been automatically blocked by her. Except for occasionally searching the Internet for news related to him, he has almost completely lost his life relationship with her.

However, at this moment, Alyssa realized that she was still thinking too simply.

Karlâ€™

What is he going to do?

Did he always send people to watch her every move in secret, or did he act because her due date was approaching and he wanted a child?

Alyssa thinks the latter is very likely.

Karl was domineering and strong. If he really wanted to get her back, he would not tolerate her staying outside for so long.

And he happened to make a move at this time. What else could he do for him besides the child?

A smart person like Karl would not do anything without a purpose.

Alyssa pressed her lips tightly and made up her mind that it was impossible for this child to let Karl bring back to Adams’s house.

Chapter 280

In order to confirm whether Karl had been arranging everything secretly, Alyssa went back to her previous place of residence.

When she approached the gate, she saw the police car and the cordon pulled outside the courtyard door next door.

One of the policemen saw her and frowned and said, “What do you do?”

Alyssa walked over and pointed to the door of the house she rented: “I live here.”

When the police heard that she lived here, they turned around and whispered something to the person beside, then looked up and said, “Madam, we have something to ask you about.”

“OK.” Alyssa was also a little curious about what happened, so she was very cooperative.

The police routinely questioned her, and she answered them one by one.

And Alyssa finally figured out what happened.

The teenagers who lived next to her had indeed committed crimes.

Drag racing to kill people, steal, even abuse-humiliate young girlsâ€™

In fact, the police did not speak so bluntly, Alyssa understood it.

Alyssa thought of the girl who came to her to use the bathroom before.

If she hadn’t paid much attention to it and let the girl into the room, would she still be alive now?

This made Alyssa's back chills, feeling a moment of fear.

Adults are good at weighing, even if they do bad things, they will consider the consequences, while teenagers are different, they will not think so much, and they are more likely to be impulsive and reckless.

Seeing that Alyssa's complexion was not good, the police glanced inquisitively at her stomach: "Your husband is not at home?"

Alyssa paused and said, "He is busy at work."

The police nodded: "I wish you all the best, it is safe here now."

Alyssa smiled and said, "Thank you, you have worked hard."

Although the police said it was safe, Alyssa had no plans to continue living here.

She would choose to live in this kind of place before, just for the peace of mind.

And she is about to give birth now.

Another reason is naturally Karl.

Although Alyssa has lived here for more than four months, she doesn't have many things, and one suitcase can hold everything.

When she came out with the suitcase, the police were still there, and no one noticed her.

After she left, a few sturdy men came out from the other side.

One of the men said in a deep voice, "Call the special assistant Smith."

â€¦

Best Day.

In the box, Peter sat crookedly on a chair, staring in the direction of the door, almost staring at the door.

At this moment, the box door was opened from outside and Karl walked in.

As soon as he saw Karl, Peter stood up quickly, and very diligently helped him to open the chair beside him: "Now I want to have a meal with you, I have to line up to make an appointmentâ€¦"

Karl sat down without saying a word. He didn't even look at the menu. He glanced at Peter faintly, "Is something wrong with you?"

Peter rolled his eyes: "It's okay to ask you to have a meal? The last time I saw you was last year, right?"

Karl pondered for a moment, then gave an accurate answer: "A month ago."

"I'm talking about youâ€¦" When Peter said halfway, the phone rang.

While holding his cell phone, he said, "Wait for me to answer the call first."

He took out his cell phone and found out that it was a call from Smith.

Peter glanced at Karl, then answered the phone: "Why call me here?"

Smith just asked him: "Are you with Boss now?"

"Yeah, we are in Best Day, are you looking for something to do with him?" Peter said, then glanced at Karl.

Feeling Peter's gaze, Karl frowned, "Smith?"

At the other end of the phone, Karl's voice was already heard.

Smith wiped the cold sweat that came out of his forehead. He just received news that Alyssa not only did not rent the house they arranged, but also returned the original house.

This means that Alyssa may have discovered Karl's arrangement.

If Karl knew that the person he sent was discovered by Alyssa, wouldn't he still go crazy?

Smith didn't dare to report this incident to Karl directly, so he wanted Peter to help!

As a result, he didn't expect Peter to be with Karl!

Peter knew nothing about Smith's mental journey, and asked, "Are you looking for something to do with Karl? Do you want to tell him?"

The desire to survive in the Smith is very strong, and the tone is as rigorous and serious as usual: "You don't need to let Boss answer the phone, you can help me tell Boss, that the person we sent there was discovered by the young lady."

Before the ending sound of the last word fell, Smith hurriedly hung up the phone.

Peter put his mobile phone aside, and asked Karl suspiciously: "He asked me to tell you that the young lady found out about the person you sent."

After speaking, Peter felt that this was wrong.

"What young lady?" Peter asked and answered: "Alyssa?"

The "Young Lady" that Smith said was Alyssa?

In the past six months, Peter could count the number of times he saw Karl with one hand.

Because Karl has been very busy.

Busy to participate in various business activities, busy for meetings, busy for business trips!

He was so busy that Peter had to make an appointment in advance if he wanted to see him, so Peter had no chance to ask him about Alyssa.

He was still wondering why Karl suddenly stopped looking for Alyssa, but he didn't expect that Karl had his own trick.

"A bunch of trash!"

Karl's voice suddenly rang, and his cold voice contained suppressed anger.

Peter's mind turned quickly, and he simply stroked it in his heart to figure out what was going on.

Seeing Karl's gloomy face, he deliberately asked, "Alyssa is almost about to give birth now, right?"

Karl didn't even look at him, and stood up while speaking, "The due date is early July."

"You are leaving? We haven't eaten yet?" Seeing him leaving, Peter also stood up.

Karl ignored him.

Peter persuaded him: "The person you sent was discovered by Alyssa. It's not a big problem, right? It's a big deal, you send some more people whom she doesn't know well!"

"No." Karl said blankly: "She is very vigilant. She found out this time. It is very difficult to send someone to follow her."

Peter scratched his head, frowned and said, "Since it's dark, it's clear. You can just bring her back. Anyway, she will be in labor soon."

Karl paused slightly.

Bring Alyssa back?

Do you think he doesn't want to?

He wanted to bring Alyssa back every day.

Then, lock her by his side all the time.