

Predestined 281

Chapter 281

Peter saw that Karl had stopped, thinking that Karl had listened to her, and continued to say, "I miss her then, so I picked it up."

Karl kept his eyes calm, and didn't know what he had thought of, so he opened the door and left.

Peter sighed and said to himself: "You don't need brothers if you have a wife!"

!

Alyssa stayed in the hotel for two days, and had nothing to do except eating and sleeping all day long, so she seemed very idle.

So, when she is fine, she will go out.

Do not buy anything, do nothing, just go around aimlessly.

But her real purpose was to confirm whether Karl really had someone by her side.

She hadn't noticed it before, but it was because she hadn't thought about it. In the past two days, she paid attention to it, but she really found someone following her once or twice.

She is a very professional bodyguard, if she were not always vigilant and deliberately looking for it, it would be impossible to find.

This forced her to start planning to leave Sydney.

However, she hadn't come up with a suitable plan yet, and a sudden appearance disrupted all her plans.

The next morning, she was the same as the previous two days. After getting up to wash, she planned to go out.

When she opened the door of the room and saw a black suitcase at the door, she was taken aback for a moment. Before she could react, a familiar voice rang.

"Sister Alyssa!"

When Alyssa heard the sound, she looked up and saw Luther standing in front of her with a smile on his face.

Seeing Alyssa's delay in speaking, Luther curled his lips in dissatisfaction: "Sister Alyssa, how long I have not seen you since then, you won't recognize me!"

Luther is at the age of growing body. They have not seen each other for four to five months, and the changes are a bit big.

He is wearing a simple white sweater with a pair of blue jeans. He looks youthful and energetic.

Alyssa called out in a daze, "Luther? Why are you here?"

"I'm here to find you." Luther looked at her with a smile, lowered his head to her ear, and said mysteriously: "Tell you quietly, I actually ran away from home again."

Alyssa raised her eyes and said quietly: "Do you think I believe you?"

Luther smiled "hehe": "Take me in, right?"

Although Alyssa did not believe Luther's words, it was impossible not to take him in.

She helped Luther open another room and then took him out for dinner.

Luther grew up in a foreign country. He speaks very slippery and looks good. When the two of them were eating, there was a bold little girl who came to him and asked for his phone number.

These people surnamed Adams, from Karl to Luther, are particularly attractive to the opposite sex.

For these girls who came to strike up a conversation, Luther refused to be familiar with the road.

Alyssa laughed, so she ignored him and only lowered her head to eat the food in front of her.

After a few minutes, Luther who was opposite suddenly called out: "Sister Alyssa."

"what?"

Alyssa raised her head suddenly and saw Luther holding a hand to her.

She frowned: "What are you doing?"

"Take a picture." Luther said, lowering his head and tapping on the phone a few times before putting the phone down.

Alyssa just gave a slight meal and didn't say much.

Midway, Luther got up and went to the bathroom.

Alyssa took his mobile phone.

She opened Luther's WeChat, and the chat message bar at the top of the WeChat message bar was Karl.

Alyssa hesitated, reached out and opened the chat window with Karl.

The time of the latest message sent above is just a few minutes ago, and the content sent is just a small video.

When Alyssa opened the video, she heard a familiar conversation.

"Sister Alyssa."

"what?"

It was taken by Luther secretly just now.

Scrolling further up is the chat history between Karl and Luther.

Most of the messages were sent by Luther.

“Will Sister Alyssa take me in?”

“She won’t just ignore me, will she?”

“Or I won’t go anymore, go by yourself.”

“I have arrived in Sydney, now I will take the car to the hotel where she is staying.”

“â€¦”

Karl’s reply was very few, occasionally replying with the word “um”.

Alyssa glanced in the direction of the bathroom and put the phone back.

Even if she didn’t look at Luther’s mobile phone, Alyssa could vaguely guess that Luther would come to her because he was instructed by Karl.

But before that, she had never seen him at all. With Karl’s temperament, he would find her in such a roundabout way.

After reading Luther’s mobile phone, she confirmed all the speculations in her heart.

Karl knew that she was in Sydney and found her, but he didn’t alarm her. He just sent someone to monitor her. If it weren’t for renting a house, he might not have found her yet.

And just when she tried to get ready to escape again, Luther came.

Karl asked Luther to come to her. This was nothing more than telling her that running was useless?

Alyssa and Luther had a good relationship, so Karl was naturally certain that she would not leave Luther alone.

Karl no longer sends bodyguards to monitor her secretly, but directly sends Luther to guard her upright.

If it wasn’t for being guarded and unable to run, Alyssa would like to clap her hands and praise Karl.

When Luther came back, seeing that Alyssa’s complexion was not so good, he asked with some concern: “Sister Alyssa, what’s wrong with you? Are you feeling unwell?”

Alyssa lowered her eyes slightly: “No, let’s go back when you are full.”

Back at the hotel, Alyssa called Tina.

Tina has made a lot of announcements in the past six months and has been very busy. The two actually did not make many calls, and they often hung up the phone in a hurry.

Tina answered the phone quickly: “Alyssa?”

Alyssa heard tiredness in her voice, and asked aloud, “Still busy these days?”

“Yes, I’m so busy, I think it must be Peter that b@stard deliberately arranged so much work for me, trying to exhaust meâ€¦”

Every time Tina talked about Peter with her, she couldn’t stop, and would keep scolding him.

Alyssa laughed: "He is doing well for you and wants to make you popular."

Tina seemed to not want to continue this topic, and asked: "How are you doing? I asked my friend to help me see a few hospitals in Sydney, when your due date is approaching, you will be admitted directly."

Although Tina was busy, she was still very concerned about Alyssa.

Alyssa moved slightly in her heart, hesitated, and decided to tell Tina that Karl had sent someone to monitor her.

After listening to Tina, she burst into swear words: "Karl is a pervert, isn't he? What does he want to do? If he sends someone to catch you directly, I still feel normal, and send someone over there to monitor you. What's the matter?"

Chapter 282

Alyssa said her guess: "I think he wants child."

But she didn't expect that as soon as she said what she said, she was denied by Tina: "Impossible if Karl simply wants a child, is it so exhausting? How many women want to give him children! you see, He didn't give up at all."

Alyssa fell silent after hearing this.

After a long while, Alyssa continued, "Tina, the most important thing for me now is the child. These things Karl did made me very uneasy."

Karl hadn't given up on this question, she hadn't thought about it, and she didn't have time to think about it.

"How about you run away like before?"

After Tina finished speaking, she retorted her: "You are about to give birth, where else are you going?"

Alyssa listened to Tina's words, but her thoughts had drifted away.

Everything seemed to be back to the original point.

At first, when she thought she managed to escape, Karl stopped looking for her.

Later, when she already thought she could give birth to this child peacefully, she found that she was surrounded by Karl's people.

She didn't understand what Karl was thinking, let alone what he was going to do.

After hanging up in the cold, Alyssa still felt restless after thinking about it.

She simply went out to find Luther.

"Sister Alyssa?" Luther opened the door and saw that it was Alyssa, and quickly stepped aside to let her in.

Alyssa walked in and sat down directly on the sofa.

Luther closed the door and walked in: "Do you want to drink water?"

Alyssa raised her eyes to look at him, with a serious tone: "Call Karl."

"Huh?" Luther was stunned for a moment, and then began to pretend to be stupid: "What are you talking about? My cousin doesn't know I'm in Sydney, he"

Although he was indeed instructed by Karl to come to Sydney, before coming here, Karl repeatedly told him that he could not let Alyssa know that it was Karl who asked him to come.

As a result, he just got dressed on the first day?

Although Luther was a little clever, in Alyssa's eyes, he was just a child.

Alyssa directly ignored Luther's words, with a strong tone that could not be refuted: "Call him, I have something to say to him."

This tone was actually somewhat similar to Karl.

Luther had to take out his mobile phone and call Karl.

After unplugging the phone, he turned on the hands-free and placed the phone in front of Alyssa.

Alyssa looked down at the phone, and the phone screen displayed "Calling", which was still the familiar number.

The hand hanging on her side was clenched involuntarily, and her heartbeat was abnormal for a moment.

At this time, the call is connected.

A familiar voice came from the phone: "What's the matter?"

Karl's voice was low and low, but when it came out of the phone, he seemed even more indifferent.

Alyssa opened her mouth slightly, suddenly she didn't know what she was going to say.

This is the first time she has heard Karl's voice in nearly half a year since she left Rostenvel.

Luther saw that Alyssa was silent and wanted to remind her aloud, but seeing Alyssa look lost, Luther didn't say anything except for pushing her down.

Only then did Alyssa come back to her senses.

She pursed her lips and was about to speak when she heard Karl's voice on the phone ring again: "Alyssa."

The tone was calm and determined.

Alyssa hadn't spoken yet, but Luther on the side became excited: "Cousin, are you a thousand miles long? How do you know that Sister Alyssa called you?"

Karl on the other end of the phone was silent.

Luther touched his nose, and said sensibly: "You talk, I'll go back to my room and sleep for a while."

The room Alyssa opened for him was a small suite, which was relatively spacious, with a living room, bedroom and dining room.

As Luther walked into the room, he listened to what the two said with his ears erected, but he heard nothing.

As soon as he left, the living room became quieter.

Alyssa did not speak, and Karl remained silent, as if waiting for her to speak.

After a while, Alyssa retrieved her voice and said aloud, "What do you want to do?"

Karl did not directly respond to her questioning, but instead asked, "Don't you know what I want to do?" "don't know!" Alyssa's voice was a bit sharp: "I never knew."

Yes, she never guessed what Karl wanted to do.

She couldn't guess his thoughts.

Karl's tone was so calm that there were no ups and downs: "Then raise your baby with peace of mind."

Alyssa sneered: "What then? Are you going to grab the child?"

Karl's voice finally got a thin layer of anger: "It was originally our child."

"Karl, let me tell you, you don't want to take the child back to Adams's house!"

Alyssa knew in her heart that if Karl really wanted to grab child from her, she would not be able to resist.

However, she couldn't just watch her child being brought back to Adams's house by Karl.

As Norris said, there are a group of people who eat people but don't spit bones in the Adams' family.

The matters of Mr. Adams and Karl's mother are inseparable from the Adams' family.

Suddenly, Karl said in a deep voice, "Alyssa, do you believe me?"

Alyssa was taken aback for a moment, but she didn't expect that he would suddenly ask such a question.

Believe him?

And Karl didn't seem to really want Alyssa's answer, and said himself: "Take care of yourself, I will take care of everything, and then take you back."

His tone was the same as when he had told her before, which gave Alyssa the illusion that "the two are not separated".

When she was dazed, Karl had already hung up the phone.

Alyssa looked at the dimmed screen, somewhat confused.

Karl said, take care of everything before picking them back?

they? Refers to her and the baby?

â€¦

Karl hung up and stared at the phone in a daze.

The assistant brought the coffee in. Seeing what Karl looked like, he whispered, "President, your coffee."

As expected, Karl ignored him.

The assistant sighed slightly and was about to turn around. He heard Karl's voice behind him: "Book me a ticket to Sydney."

"Sydney?" The assistant was a little puzzled. He remembered the latest itinerary very well, and there was no plan to go to Sydney.

Just when the assistant was puzzled, he heard Karl say again: "Forget it."

The assistant closed the door and went out, but when the door was closed, he vaguely heard Karl's laughter.

It must be his illusion. He has been here for so long and has never seen the president smile.

Karl opened the phone album, which was full of Alyssa's photos.

He looked at it one by one with a gentle expression, and gently slid his fingertips across Alyssa's face in the photo, a touch of firmness appeared between his brows.

Soon, I will see you.

Chapter 283

After Alyssa and Karl had a phone call, everything seemed to be different.

She seemed to have been caught in an evil spirit, and kept thinking of the words Karl said.

He said to handle everything well, so he picked them up.

Alyssa repeatedly analyzed this sentence in her heart, and finally failed to draw any conclusions.

The people sent by Karl were originally just watching Alyssa in the dark, but after she had made this phone call with Karl, they all stopped hiding.

When she and Luther go out, the bodyguard will drive directly to the door, open the door and say respectfully: "Madam, please get in the car."

She and Luther had dinner, and when she paid the bill, the waiter would always tell her that it had already been paid.

At first, Alyssa could treat them as if she hadn't seen them, and simply ignored them.

But all of them are like brown sugar, wherever she and Luther go, where do they follow.

Alyssa didn't bother to care about them anymore.

They have to drive to pick up and drop off, so she sits, they have to pay, and she lets them buy.

It wasn't until Alyssa reacted one day that she found that she had already lived in the house they arranged, only to find that she had fallen into Karl's trap again.

Alyssa was standing in the hall, a little annoyed that she felt soft-hearted.

The servant's voice sounded from the side: "Young lady, do you think this house is still satisfactory?"

Luther walked over from the side: "I think it's okay, sister Alyssa, what do you think?"

"You think it's okay." Alyssa didn't mean to say more, turned around and walked upstairs.

When Alyssa returned to the room, she received a call from Tina.

After listening to Alyssa talking about recent events, Tina actually agreed: "Originally, you are about to give birth. It should be the big boss who should take care of you. After all, he planted the seeds, so you only need to be alone. Hard work!"

Alyssa was a little bit dumbfounded.

Finally, Tina asked her: "What do you think? The big boss said that he will come and pick you up at that time, do you want to get back with him?"

Alyssa thought for a while and said, "don't know."

She really doesn't know now.

Tina is very sharp: "You are hesitating when you say 'don't know', and hesitating is to follow the big boss back."

If she was cold, Alyssa gradually became sober.

It turned out that, subconsciously, she still wanted to return to Rostenvel.

Alyssa was silent for a long time and said, "Let's talk about it then."

Things you don't understand, please put it aside for now.

!

Alyssa lived the same life as before in Rostenvel.

There are bodyguards on the trip, and there are groups of domestic servants.

However, no one restricts her personal freedom.

The days are so peaceful and peaceful until July.

On the first day of July, the weather was very bad.

The weather has been gloomy since the morning, looking like wind and rain are coming.

But until noon, there was no rain, and the sky was still gloomy and irritating.

Throughout the morning, Alyssa was inexplicably irritable and didn't do everything well.

Luther discovered her abnormality and asked her: "Sister Alyssa, are you uncomfortable in any way?"

Alyssa frowned and shook her head: "No." It was a bit annoying.

Luther took her to sit down on the sofa: "Come on to play a game? This is a puzzle game that just came out recently. I think it's quite fun. Would you like to try it?"

Alyssa took his mobile phone and was about to start playing when there was a thunderstorm outside, followed by heavy rain.

Luther and Alyssa were both startled by the thunder.

Alyssa looked out the window and muttered, "It's finally raining."

Luther got up and walked to the door: "Yes, it's raining heavily, sister Alyssa, when do you think the rain will stop?"

The voice fell, and there was no response from the person behind him, Luther turned his head in confusion: "Sister Alyssa, you?"

When he turned his head, he saw that Alyssa had shrunk and collapsed on the sofa, her slender hands gripping the sofa tightly, and she looked very painful.

Luther's expression changed, and he ran over quickly: "Sister Alyssa, what's wrong with you?"

The pain in her abdomen caused Alyssa to say incompletely, "I'm giving"

"birth?" Luther repeated the words, followed by some confusion.

After two seconds, he reacted fiercely and ran to call someone: "Come on, Sister is about to give birth."

Because Alyssa is approaching the expected date of delivery, there is a doctor on call at home, bodyguards and servants are not short, and the hospital where the baby will be born has been selected early in the morning.

Luther called people, and they helped Alyssa get into the car and drove to the hospital.

The rain is still falling, getting bigger and bigger.

Alyssa was sweating profusely from the pain, grabbed Luther's hand, and squeezed out two words enduring pain: "Phone"

Luther would come over immediately, and quickly took out his mobile phone and dialed Karl's phone.

But Karl never answered the phone.

Luther turned his head and glanced at Alyssa, feeling very anxious.

Cousin, answer the phone soon!

Alyssa was a pale face, biting her lip fiercely, waiting for the call to be connected, but the phone rang until it was automatically hung up and was not picked up.

Luther comforted her aloud: "Cousin may have something to do, so he didn't hear it. I'll call another one."

At this time, Alyssa was so painful that she didn't even have the strength to speak, and she only replied with her breath: "Yeah."

Luther made another call in front of her, but still no one answered.

At this time, the car had stopped at the entrance of the hospital.

They had contacted the hospital before they came, and there was already a doctor waiting at the entrance.

When Alyssa was lying on the hospital bed, she couldn't help looking at Luther.

The expression in her eyes was obvious, but she was asking him if Karl had answered the phone.

Luther tugged at the phone and was very uncomfortable with Alyssa's eyes.

How he hoped that Karl could answer the phone at this time, but he made several consecutive calls, and no one answered the phone.

Karl still did not answer the phone until Alyssa was pushed into the operating room.

The previous plan was for normal labor. Alyssa's physique and condition are in line with normal labor.

Alyssa had also heard of how painful it would be to give birth, but when she really lay on the operating table, she really felt the pain.

It was so painful that she even felt like she didn't want to give birth.

"Come on, work harder, it's already coming out!" The doctor encouraged her.

"Just hold on."

Alyssa was so painful that the bones all over his body seemed to be broken.

Finally at this time, she heard the doctor's smiling voice: "The baby is good, it's a girl, congratulations."

Immediately afterwards, the cry of the child rang loudly.

The doctor held the child to her: "Look at the baby."

Chapter 284

Alyssa squinted at the child in front of her.

It is said that a newborn baby will be crumpled and unsightly, but her daughter does not seem ugly at all.

The doctor on the side couldn't help saying: "It's a rare beautiful baby."

Alyssa pursed her lips and smiled before closing her eyes weakly.

â€¦

When she woke up, it was already night.

The room was bright.

Alyssa was confused for a moment, and then her consciousness completely returned.

Luther, who had been guarding her side, saw that she was awake, and quickly walked over: "Sister Alyssa, you are awake."

Alyssa didn't speak, just looked at him.

Luther frowned: "Cousin has not answered the phone."

Alyssa's eyes darkened.

"Madam, do you want to drink water?" The maid on the side came over.

Alyssa nodded, drank some water, looked around in the ward and found that she hadn't seen the child, and turned to ask the maid: "Where is the child?"

The maid said: "The child started crying just now, so we took it out for fear of disturbing you."

Alyssa frowned slightly when she heard the words: "Let them take her back."

"Yes."

Not long after the maid went out, she carried the child back.

Alyssa leaned against the bed and took the child.

The little baby is asleep, with a big palm, her facial features are wrinkled together, and it looks as if it was different from what she had seen before.

Alyssa looked at the little baby's face carefully, and the more she looked at it, the more she felt that this child was nothing like her or Karl.

After a long while, Alyssa put the child down and said with a pale face, "This is not my child."

"Sister Alyssa, what are you talking about?" Luther walked over and took a look at the baby. Don't all children look like this?

At this time, there was a noise outside: "Where did you get my child? I'm going to sue you, I'm never finished with you!"

Alyssa said to the maid: "Go and see, what's the matter?"

As soon as the door opened, the woman's voice rang again.

To the effect is that her child is missing.

Alyssa glanced at the baby lying on the bed, and found a name tag on the baby's clothes with the baby's name written on it.

"Luther, let that woman in." Alyssa reached out and touched the baby's name tag.

Luther was a little worried about seeing Alyssa so abnormal, but still said, "Oh."

The woman walked in quickly.

Alyssa asked her: "What's your baby's name?"

The woman said a name that was exactly the same as on the name tag, and Alyssa's voice trembled-trembling: "Look if this is your child!"

When the woman came over to see, she cried and laughed and said, "Yes, it's my child. He has a black birthmark on the sole of his feet."

She said, showing Alyssa the child's feet.

Even if she did not say that the child had a birthmark on the soles of her feet, Alyssa knew that this was not her child.

Although she only met once, her feelings can't go wrong.

"Sister Alyssa, could you make a mistake? You!" Luther couldn't help but say aloud when seeing the woman taking the child away.

Alyssa asked instead: "Karl's phone has been unable to get through, right?"

Luther hesitated for a moment, and said the truth: "Yes."

Alyssa laughed low suddenly, and then the laughter became louder and louder, the more desolate she laughed, and tears came out at the end of her laughter.

Is this what he said to believe him?

She was surrounded by Karl's people, and now the child was gone, and she couldn't get through his phone.

Besides being the child taken away by him, is there any other possibility?

Luther didn't know how to persuade Alyssa: "Sister Alyssa, don't be like this!"

The maid on the side urged Alyssa, "Madam, you have just given birth to your baby now, so pay attention to your health."

Alyssa covered her ears and screamed: "Don't call me Madam, it's disgusting!"

At this time, with a "bang", the door was pushed open from the outside.

Alyssa looked up, and when she saw the familiar figure, she was startled for a moment.

The eyes of the two met in the air, but neither of them took the initiative to speak.

Luther turned his head to look, and shouted happily, "Cousin!"

"I said why I can't get through your phone, so you came to Sydney." Luther said as he walked towards Karl.

Karl ignored him and walked straight to Alyssa's hospital bed.

Alyssa's face was pale, her hair was messy, with tears still on her face, she looked very embarrassed.

Karl sat down in front of the hospital bed, reaching out his hand as if to touch Alyssa's face, but Alyssa waved his hand away with a "pop": "Despicable! I will never believe you again! "

Karl's face sank, and his voice was dull: "Alyssa, what are you talking about?"

"Are you still acting in front of me at this time? Where's my child? Give me my child back!" Alyssa had no reason to speak at this time, and while talking, she stretched out her hand to hold Karl's clothes tightly. .

Karl's expression suddenly changed, and he turned to ask Luther, "What's the matter?"

Luther glanced at Alyssa: "Sister Alyssa just woke up and said that she wanted to see the child, but the servant took the child over, and she said that it was not her child, and asked others to take the child away."

Karl's complexion became gloomy and frightening in an instant, and he called out in a calm voice, "Smith."

When Karl came just now, Smith also came with him, but there was no sound, so no one noticed him.

"Yes." Smith knew that Karl had asked him to investigate the child, and went out after receiving the order.

Karl turned his head and saw Alyssa staring at him coldly, with a trace of hatred in her eyes, and his face changed slightly.

Immediately, he stretched out his hand and stroked her messy hair: "I will get the baby back. You will have a good rest now."

Alyssa waved his hand, raised her hand and slapped his face fiercely with a "slap": "If you directly admit that you took the child away, I still admire you as a man."

Luther and the servant on the side were shocked when they saw this scene.

Alyssa tried her best with this slap, and Karl was unsuspectingly slapped his head going to one side, and a red mark suddenly appeared on his white face.

Karl maintained his head tilted, his tone was a bit cold, but he was unusually calm: "You go out first."

"Cousin." Luther was a little worried about them, and stood still.

Karl didn't even look at him, so Luther had to lift his foot and walk out.

Only Alyssa and Karl were left in the room.

Two people who hadn't seen each other for more than half a year, it was like this after seeing each other again.

Karl turned his head and looked at Alyssa's weakness, his voice could not help being softened: "You take a good rest first, and other things, wait until you get better."

Chapter 285

With the child gone, Alyssa didn't have the thought of rest at all.

Moreover, she was very sure that it was Karl who took the child away.

She has no enemies in Sydney, and everyone around her is Karl's people. No one except Karl can take the child away when she has just given birth.

Last moment, she was immersed in the joy of being a new mother. She woke up and found that the child was gone.

Alyssa collapsed: "Karl, I beg you, you return the child to me, she was just born and still so young!"

Karl had never seen Alyssa look like this.

Even if she was bullied so much by the Adams' family before, he never saw her cry.

In his always calm eyes, there was a rare flash of panic.

After a long time, he found his voice: "Alyssa, calm down and listen to me."

"I don't, I only want my child." Alyssa shook her head, tears falling down.

Karl felt like a tuft of cotton in his throat, unable to say anything.

He didn't take the child away, but the child was gone.

Alyssa cried so much that she attracted a nurse.

"What's the matter? Why are you crying after giving birth?"

Karl raised his eyes to look at the nurse. The nurse shrank her neck in fright by his cold look and turned around and went out quickly.

Finally, Karl asked the doctor to give Alyssa a tranquilizer before putting her to sleep.

Alyssa was lying on the hospital bed, there were still tears on her face, even if she fell asleep, her eyebrows were tightly wrinkled.

Karl stretched out his hand and pressed gently on the center of her brows, until her frowning brows finally calmed down, and then he reached out and brushed the hair on her face for her, and leaned over to kiss her forehead.

Alyssa's expected delivery date is actually one week later, so he calculated the time to come forward.

But he didn't expect that she would give birth a week in advance.

Knock!

There was a knock on the door, two soft and regular sounds.

Karl knew that Smith was the one who came.

He glanced at Alyssa who was lying on the hospital bed again before getting up and walking outside.

Alyssa lived in a superior ward, and there was a small hall outside.

The person who came in is indeed Smith.

Before Karl could speak, Smith already said solemnly: "I checked the child with a birthmark on the soles of the feet mentioned earlier. It is indeed not your and mam's child. I checked all the newborns in this hospital today. It's not I didn't find the child."

In the last few words, Smith's volume was obviously lowered.

Karl squeezed his hands, so strong that the blue veins on the back of his hands bulged.

Smith on the side dared not speak, and didn't know what to say.

After a long while, Karl asked in a gloomy voice: "What else?"

Smith glanced at Karl, and bit the bullet and said his guess: "I checked the surveillance and there was no problem. I suspect that the child was dropped from the operating room and stolen. , In other words, someone has been eyeing the young lady very early."

He checked everything he could, and in the end he could only think about the root cause.

Maybe it was in the operating room when the child had already been stolen.

The person who dropped the package for the child deliberately used another child in a hospital to drop the package. The intention was obvious to let them discover that the child was stolen.

When Smith finished speaking, he carefully paid attention to Karl's reaction.

Karl sat there motionless, his whole body tense like a tensioned string, as if it might explode at any time.

But Karl didn't smash anything or speak.

He got up and walked out.

Smith was a little worried about Karl, and went out with him.

When Smith backhand closed the door, he heard a loud "bang" from the side.

Smith turned his head and saw that Karl slammed his fist against the wall, and blood was leaking from his hand bones.

But as if he couldn't feel the pain, he hit the wall with punch after punch.

"Sir."

Smith called him to stop him.

But how could he stop Karl in the rage, only when his hand touched Karl, he was thrown away.

Karl had practiced before, and Smith fell to the ground fiercely. For a moment, he was so painful that he could not move, and simply lay directly on the ground.

Over the past six months, Karl has been working nonstop like a machine. As Karl's special assistant, he naturally turned around like a spiral without stopping to rest.

He originally thought that this time he would come to Sydney with Karl, Karl and Alyssa would reconcile, so that he could also have time to rest and have a better life.

Unexpectedly, not only did it not get better, but it got worse.

â€¦

She did not see her child again until the day she was discharged from the hospital.

From the beginning of losing her mind, Alyssa has completely calmed down now.

In the car.

“When you finish your confinement, we will return to Rostenvel.” Karl’s voice broke the silence in the carriage.

Alyssa leaned back in the chair lazily, and didn’t even bother to look at him: “This is your purpose? To force me to return to Rostenvel, you took my child?”

Karl did not speak.

Alyssa turned her head and looked at Karl as if she was holding back her anger, curled her lips, and said mockingly: “Why, you got angry when I got your idea?”

Not seen for more than half a year, Karl’s temper has not improved, but his patience has improved.

No matter how she angered him or how she angered him these days, he hadn’t angered her.

This is a bit different from the Karl she knew.

However, the more patient Karl was with her, the more Alyssa felt that this was because Karl had a ghost in his heart.

She couldn’t think of anyone besides Karl who would want to take her child away.

After a long while, Karl said blankly: “If you don’t return to Rostenvel, you may not see your child for the rest of your life.”

If such a misunderstanding can make Alyssa willingly follow him back to the Rostenvel, let him continue the misunderstanding like this.

He could see that in Alyssa’s heart, she regarded the child more importantly than him.

If the child was not stolen, they might be reconciled now.

Even if the reconciliation is not as good as before, it will not be so cold.

If Alyssa knew that the child was stolen by someone else, Karl could be sure that Alyssa would never return to Rostenvel with him.

The child has not been retrieved yet, but Alyssa must get back.

He regrets it now, and he shouldn’t let Alyssa run away alone.

Karl’s tone sounded almost cold.

Alyssa was trembling: "Are you finally willing to admit it?"

"Yes." Karl turned to look at her with a cold voice: "You have no choice but to follow me back to Rostenvel, otherwise, you will never see your child for the rest of your life."

Chapter 286

Karl's words shocked Alyssa and she could not react.

After a while, Alyssa asked him blankly: "Didn't you say that you didn't take the child away?"

When she first questioned Karl, Karl denied it.

Alyssa also wavered before and wondered if she guessed wrong.

However, if Karl were to be left behind, she really couldn't think of anyone else who would take her child away.

There were some doubts in her heart, but she didn't want Karl to admit it so directly and threaten her with this.

Karl still had that expressionless look, and his eyebrows were stern: "Of course it is me. Who else will take her away except me?"

Alyssa pressed her lips tightly, and squeezed out two words from her teeth: "Despicable!"

"So, you better listen to me obediently now." Karl said, and reached out to touch Alyssa's face.

Alyssa turned to avoid his hand, with disgust in her eyes.

â€¦

Karl's threatening behavior with the child still worked for Alyssa.

For the next month, Alyssa kept up her body without crying or making trouble.

Besides, she didn't say a word to Karl either.

Although Karl was angry at Alyssa's cooling off, he never really lost his temper with Alyssa.

Alyssa admired Karl's patience.

Early in the morning, while eating, Karl suddenly said, "Tomorrow night's plane will return to Rostenvel."

After hearing this, Alyssa finally said to him the first sentence in this month: "Can I see the child when I go back?"

Karl gave her a noncommittal look: "You have to negotiate terms with me before you go back?"

Alyssa angrily called out his name: "Karl!"

Karl lowered his eyes and cut the eggs on the dinner plate slowly, without a trace of emotion in his voice: "You are not qualified to negotiate terms with me."

Alyssa clenched her hands and stared at Karl, unable to say a word.

The next night, Alyssa and Karl boarded a plane back to Rostenvel.

The plane arrived at Rostenvel International Airport in the early morning of the third day.

The two returned without notice, but they still saw Peter and Tina at the airport.

Tina has been a little busy these six months, her face is tired, but she looks very energetic.

“Alyssa, welcome back.” Tina walked over and gave Alyssa a hug.

Alyssa reached out and patted her on the back.

After Tina let go of her, she looked at Alyssa carefully and said, “How do you look thinner?”

She remembers that before Alyssa gave birth, when she and Alyssa were in the video, Alyssa’s spirit and complexion were good.

She gave birth to a child, and Karl sent someone to take care of her. How could it be possible that the thinner she took care of?

Alyssa curled the corners of her lips and asked, “Really?”

Tina also found that Alyssa’s expression was a bit wrong, and there was no joy in being a new mother between her eyebrows.

She thinks that she recently called Alyssa and said to watch the baby in a video, but Alyssa went over it in a concealed manner.

“What happened? What about the kid?” Tina said as she looked around.

Behind Karl and Alyssa warmed up, a group of bodyguards followed, but there were no children at all.

No one answered Tina’s question.

Because no one can answer.

Karl frowned slightly, stretched out and took Alyssa’s hand and walked out.

Alyssa resisted and wanted to break free, but Karl’s hands were too strong. The more she made, the tighter she pinched it. The force was so strong that her hand bones were broken.

Until she was forced into the car by Karl.

As soon as he got in the car, Alyssa said coldly, “Karl, why didn’t you dare to tell Tina that you took the child away? Do you know your guilty conscience?”

Karl was completely unaffected by her, his face was pale, without sadness or joy.

If the two were not sitting next to each other, Alyssa would doubt that Karl might not have heard what she said.

No matter what she said, Karl did not respond.

In the end, she got tired of talking and fell silent.

The car drove to a high-end residential area in Rostenvel.

Most of the people who can afford to live here are either rich or expensive.

Alyssa now only wants to see the child, and can only accept Karl's arrangement.

Karl took her to his apartment.

There is not much furniture in the apartment, except for the necessary sofa and TV, there is not even a dining table, and the room is not popular at all.

"Sit." Karl pressed Alyssa on the sofa and turned to pour her a glass of water.

Alyssa took the water and asked, "When will you let me see the child?"

Karl stared at her for a long time, and then said aloud: "If I don't let you see the child all my life, you want to talk to me like this for the rest of my life?"

"Yes." Without any hesitation, Alyssa directly gave an affirmative answer.

Karl's expression suddenly became very gloomy.

In Alyssa's heart, children are more important than him?

Karl sneered: "Then you don't want to see him."

Although Karl had a good heart, but more often, he was a cruel person, and Alyssa didn't doubt the authenticity of his words.

"Karl, don't do this, can we speak well?"

Alyssa was really scared, and even her voice became hoarse: "I have come back now, I will not run away, but the child is too young, she is only one month, she should be by her mother's side, growing up, you let me see her and let me take care of her, okay?"

Speaking of the back, her voice had begun to choke, her eyes were red.

Alyssa felt extremely uncomfortable.

As long as she thinks about her one-month-old daughter, she doesn't know where and what kind of person is holding her, and she feels uncomfortable.

Will they take good care of her like her biological mother?

Will she be annoyed by someone because she loves to cry too much, and then neglect her?

People say that just being a mother is just a!

However, there are many people who are strong and vulnerable.

As long as Alyssa thought of these, she couldn't help but feel sad.

Her daughter is so young a!

Seeing Karl not speaking, Alyssa stretched out her hand to hold her hand, begging with a full face, "Well?"

There were tears in her red eyes, as if it would overflow from the eyes in the next moment.

Karl glanced at it, then turned to look away.

His throat slid hard, and swallowed the words abruptly.

He even hoped that he could think of using such a despicable method to force Alyssa back.

At least, when Alyssa is so sad, he can return the child to her and make her happy.

But now, he can only watch her so sad.

Chapter 287

Karl kept silent, and Alyssa's expression faded bit by bit.

She took a deep breath and stretched out her hand to cover her face, covering her tearful face.

Karl reached out and held her in his arms without saying a word.

Alyssa punched and kicked him, but he did not let go.

The two of them had just returned from a long-distance flight, and they were a little tired. After Alyssa and Karl had been making trouble for a long time, they fell asleep too tired.

Karl carried her into the bedroom and placed her on the bed.

He slept in this bedroom for half a year, and now he finally has a mistress.

Karl looked at Alyssa by the bed for a while, then got up and went to the bathroom to get a towel and wipe her face.

Alyssa has cried before, and there are still tears on her face. If she doesn't wipe it, she may feel bad for a while.

As soon as he wiped Alyssa's face, Karl's cell phone rang.

He quickly took out his phone and turned off the sound.

Looking up at Alyssa, he found that she had no signs of being quarreled, so he got up and went out to answer the phone with his mobile phone lightly.

The call came from Smith.

In Sydney this month, he was busy investigating the child's affairs, but he found nothing.

After all, it's a newborn baby, it's too hard to find.

Karl walked to the French window, answered the phone, and asked in a deep voice, "Is there any progress?"

Smith said, "There is a little clue, but it is not certain. For the time being, there is a direct connection with those in the Adams' family!"

Smith also couldn't explain clearly on the phone.

Karl groaned for a moment, and said, "Come and talk."

Time and night came quickly.

When he entered the door, he respectfully yelled: "Sir."

Karl glanced at him and motioned to him to speak quietly.

Later, he told Smith: "You go to the study first."

Smith nodded clearly, and went straight to the study.

Karl went back to the bedroom and took a look. Seeing Alyssa sleeping peacefully, he closed the door and went to the study.

The bedroom door was closed, and Alyssa, who was still asleep in bed, suddenly opened her eyes.

When Karl wiped her face before, she woke up, just pretending to be asleep.

Karl has never let her see the child, which is very strange.

Although he was indifferent, he was really good when it came to her, so he still insisted on not letting her see the child, which was a little weird.

She lightly got up and got out of bed, opened the bedroom door and walked out.

Before, she heard a heavy door opening and closing outside, which should be the sound of the apartment door, so she could feel it in the bedroom.

Alyssa walked to the hallway and took a look, and she saw a pair of men's leather shoes belonging to Karl.

The man who can come to find Karl at home, except Peter, is Smith.

Peter is a noisy person, if he comes to the house, he will not be so quiet.

Then, the person who comes can only be in the night.

Alyssa glanced at the entrance of the study, and leaned in lightly.

The door of the study is made of wood, and the sound of her turning the handle to open it is very small.

Through the crack in the door, she saw Karl and Smith standing face to face talking.

Smith gave Karl something similar to the information in his hand: "Sir, this is the abnormal situation of Adams' family's funds I found recently. Among them, Mr. Elder has a sum of money transferred to foreign accounts. I think this may have something to do with the disappearance of the little lady."

Karl didn't say anything about this, and he was silent for a while and said aloud, "Where are the other people in the Adams' family?"

Smith closed the information, shook his head and said: "Others have not found any abnormal capital flow for the time being."

The two began to talk about other things, Alyssa didn't understand.

She closed the door, a little confused in her mind.

The "Mr. Elder" in Smith's mouth, she knew it was Gerald.

So, the "little lady" Smith said refers to her and Karl's daughter?

Isn't it true that Karl secretly sent someone to take the child away?

But what does the disappearance of her daughter have to do with Gerald?

After discovering that the child had disappeared, her first reaction was to feel that Karl would take the child away, because she could not think of anyone else who would take the child away except Karl.

If Gerald sent someone to take the child away, what would Gerald do?

Just to fight against Karl?

If it was Gerald, how would he treat her daughter?

Chill jumped in from Alyssa's limbs, little by little, until she shivered.

If Karl took the child away, he could at least guarantee the safety of the child.

But if it is really Gerald!

Alyssa staggered, stretched out her hand to support the wall, and barely stood firm.

She couldn't imagine how Gerald would treat her daughter!

Feeling the voice of the people inside ringing by the door, Alyssa suddenly realized that she was still standing by the door and hurried forward and ran back into the bedroom.

There was no need to pretend to be asleep, so she sat on the bedside with her mobile phone, pretending to be playing with her phone just after waking up.

When Karl pushed the door in, what he saw was Alyssa sitting on the bedside playing with her mobile phone.

Karl sat down by the bed, "You woke up."

Alyssa didn't look up, "Yes."

Although she had been staring at the phone, her corner was quietly paying attention to Karl's reaction.

Karl raised his hand slightly, as if he wanted to touch her head, but after only raising it for a few seconds, he put it back.

Then, she heard Karl's calm voice: "Are you hungry? What do you want to eat?"

Alyssa raised her eyes to look at him: "You can cook?"

Karl didn't seem to expect that Alyssa would ask this, or he didn't expect that Alyssa would talk to him so peacefully. He was taken aback for a while, coughing slightly and said, "I won't, I asked Best Day to send it over."

Alyssa said, "Is there any food in the refrigerator? I'll make it."

Karl shook his head.

"Let's go out and buy together." Alyssa lifted the quilt and got out of bed.

Karl stood up quickly without any movement, but his eyes were staring straight at Alyssa.

Alyssa actually wanted to go out with him to buy ingredients.

Although this wasn't a big deal before, after such a long period of cold treatment, Karl was a little flattered.

Alyssa put on slippers, saw him still standing still looking at her, and asked aloud: "What's the matter? I can't go out."

Karl didn't speak, only led her to walk outside.

Karl drove her to a nearby supermarket.

Alyssa knew what Karl liked to eat, so she didn't have to ask him about the ingredients, she took it and put it in the shopping cart.

Karl pushed the shopping cart behind her in silence. He was obviously a tall and cold-looking man, but he looked like a tamed lion.

Chapter 288

The customers passing by couldn't help but cast curious glances at Karl and Alyssa, with a hint of envy in them.

Alyssa and Karl didn't care at all about the eyes of others.

One picks vegetables, the other pushes the shopping cart.

However, this originally harmonious atmosphere was broken by a sound.

"Alys?"

There was a hint of surprise in the familiar and unfamiliar man's voice.

Alyssa turned her head and looked over after hearing the sound, and she saw an equally familiar face of a man.

After she saw the man's appearance clearly, the volume was raised unconsciously, "Gerald?"

"Long time no see, it's rare that Alyssa remembers me." Gerald walked towards her, his tone as gentle as ever.

Because Alyssa had overheard the conversation between Karl and Smith before, she didn't look good when she saw Gerald.

Her impression of Gerald was already bad enough, but now she has no good feelings about him because of the child.

Alyssa just sneered. Before she could speak, Karl, who was walking behind her with the shopping cart, stepped forward to block her, separating her and Gerald from the sight.

"Karl is here too. What a coincidence, shopping for vegetables?" Gerald saw Karl's smile deeper and deeper.

Karl said nothing, pulling Alyssa to leave.

"Gerald, you are here, I have been looking for you for a long time."

Alyssa, who was about to leave, couldn't help but stop when he heard this voice.

When she looked back, she saw Isabel cuddling next to Gerald.

As if sensing her gaze, Isabel also looked towards her.

When Isabel saw Alyssa, her eyes widened: "Alyssa? Aren't you dead?"

Alyssa curled her lips: "I let you down."

It's really an enemy on a narrow road, and you can meet Gerald and Isabel when you come back.

Gerald glared at Isabel pretentiously and said, "How do you say it, those media just like to talk nonsense, you don't know."

"That's right, this little thing isn't a big deal at first, and feigning death to escape crime is not uncommon. I thought I was in jail, but you didn't get out." Isabel smiled sweetly.

Alyssa clenched her hands and took a deep breath to calm herself down.

At this moment, Karl, who had been silent for a while, said quietly, "Gerald, take care of your own woman."

Isabel quickly hid behind Gerald and said softly, "Gerald, I'm so scared."

Karl sneered, with a gloomy breath between his eyebrows: "Do you know how much it will cost to kill someone now? More than one million can buy a life, isn't it very cheap?"

When Isabel heard Karl's words, she was taken aback, her eyes flashed with horror, she hid behind Gerald and dared not speak any more.

She still remembered how Karl dealt with her back then.

She knew how perverted Karl was, and he would say that. Maybe it was really possible to buy someone to kill her.

What Karl had done to her before had taken root in her heart, making her feel scared when she thought of it.

Seeing that Isabel was so afraid, Karl also sneered, pulling Alyssa and left.

â€¦

On the way back, both of them were silent.

Alyssa thought about the conversation between Karl and Smith.

If her daughter was really taken away by Gerald, and Gerald is still messing with Isabel now, Isabel hates her so muchâ€¦

Alyssa's complexion suddenly turned pale.

Karl on the side had been paying attention to Alyssa, and he easily noticed Alyssa's abnormality.

Karl stopped the car on the side of the road and asked her aloud, "What's wrong? His face is so ugly."

"Tell me, was the child taken away by Gerald?" Alyssa turned her head fiercely, and stretched out her hand to grab the corner of his clothes, as if she grabbed the last straw that saved people.

Karl's face was stagnant, it turned out that she had heard the conversation between him and Smith.

He held Alyssa's hand and said with a certain tone: "It's not Gerald."

Alyssa shook her head and said, "Don't lie to me anymore. I want to listen to the truth. What can I not bear now?"

At first, she thought it was Karl who took the child away.

After returning to Rostenvel, she found that things were not that simple, and heard him mention Gerald.

She had prepared for the worst now, and she couldn't bear to be deceived by him again.

"I didn't lie to you." Karl explained to her earnestly: "It was only found that the funds transferred abroad belonged to Gerald's account, but it does not mean that he did it. He did not do this. I don't think he has the ability."

It is definitely not Gerald's ability to steal his child from the operating room without knowing it.

Alyssa nodded.

She believed Karl's words.

Moreover, no matter how strong Gerald is, it is impossible to beat Karl.

She completely believed in this.

"Who is that?" Alyssa asked him quietly, "Who on earth stole the child?"

Karl couldn't answer this question.

It's been a month and there is no eyebrows at all.

However, Gerald was found here.

And Gerald can be regarded as half of the Adams' family.

The clue points to Gerald, which means it points to the Adams' family.

In the past six months, in order to thoroughly find out what happened to his mother back then, he made a big move.

While he was investigating, some people were obstructing him in secret.

If the Adams' family did this time, it must have something to do with his mother back then.

It is not clear whether they are warning him or threatening him.

Alyssa was not a fool, and soon thought of the same place with him.

Alyssa looked at Karl's silent expression, and then said quietly, "It's related to the Adams' family?"

The story of Karl's mother back then was related to the Adams' family. The story of the old man falling down the stairs six months ago was related to the Adams' family. She was framed as the person who pushed the old man down the stairs and was also related to the Adams' family.

Alyssa asked incredulously, "What are they trying to do?"

"No matter what they want to do, I won't let them succeed. I will get our children back." Karl looked down at her with an unusually firm expression.

Alyssa loosened the corner of his clothes: "That's not yours alone, that's also my child."

The two returned to the apartment, Alyssa didn't have the thought of cooking, and the two of them finally let people deliver food from Best Day.

But they didn't eat much.

It's already afternoon after dinner.

Alyssa didn't bring many things, and after a simple tidying, she called Karl in.

When Karl saw her packed suitcase, his expression sank, "What are you going to do?"

Chapter 289

Alyssa pursed her lips, took a deep breath and said, "Let's live separately for now."

Karl narrowed his eyes slightly, his eyes a little dangerous: "What do you mean?"

Compared with Karl, Alyssa seemed to be much calmer: "We're not a legal husband and wife. We don't need to live together. I have to wait to find the child and talk about everything."

During this time, she was already exhausted.

It took Karl a month, and there was no news about the child.

And she stayed here, besides endless waiting and suffering, what else can she do?

As for the matter between her and Karl, she didn't have any extra energy to deal with him before the child was found.

Karl is very stubborn: "We can become a legal husband and wife at any time."

On this matter, Alyssa did not compromise either: "Either you let me go, or you just lock me with the bodyguards on the inner and third floors as before."

She is a mother who can't even protect her children.

Every time something happened, she was completely passive.

She didn't want to do this anymore.

Her words seemed to anger Karl.

His expression became abnormally gloomy in an instant, and Alyssa's heart sank slightly.

Will Karl agree to separate?

However, Karl said aloud at this moment: "Okay."

Alyssa was a little surprised, she had never expected that Karl would really agree.

But soon, his last sentence made her heart sink again.

Karl added: "But I have one condition."

"What condition?" Alyssa looked at him warily.

A smile seemed to flash across Karl's eyes, his lips lightened, and he said word by word, "Get the marriage certificate."

Alyssa's eyes widened: "What?"

She almost wondered if she had heard it wrong.

Is it because she doesn't understand enough, or is there a problem with his understanding?

Alyssa couldn't laugh or cry: "You say it again."

Of course, Karl didn't say it again, but said, "How can I register my child without getting married?"

Alyssa was stunned.

â€¦

Alyssa never thought that she would receive a marriage certificate with Karl for this reason.

On the day the two got the certificate, they went to apply for the registered permanent residence for the child.

There are three in the household register.

Karl, the head of the household.

His wife Alyssa.

Daughter Grace.

Seeing her fascinated by her the document, Karl said aloud: "This name was thought of early in the morning."

Alyssa stretched out her hand and gently stroked the word "Grace".

The daughter she only met once was named Grace.

As if thinking of something, she suddenly raised her head to look at Karl.

She found that Karl, like her, was staring at the word "Grace" on the account book in a daze.

Alyssa said, "When she was born, she was very beautiful, like you."

She had seen Grace, although only one glance.

But Karl hurried over all the way, but didn't even see her.

Karl was indifferent, but not cold-blooded.

If the child is gone, he should also feel uncomfortable.

Hearing this, Karl raised his head and glanced at her, before nodding slightly dumbly after a long while: "Yeah."

â€

Alyssa moved out on the same day.

The house she rented is a bit far from the high-end community where Karl lives.

But the wind is clean and the environment is good.

In the evening, she and Tina made an appointment for dinner together.

Tina didn't know about the child.

Alyssa thought for a while, and felt that Tina would know about it sooner or later, so she told her.

"Gone?" After hearing her words, Tina reacted as fiercely as she imagined: "Damn, are these lunatics? Are they inferior to animals and beasts, so what do they steal from such a small child? Is there humanity? !!!"

Alyssa lowered her head and said nothing.

The story of Karl's mother back then, and the story of Mr. Adams later on, are enough to explain that they are impotent.

Tina was about to cry with anger, Alyssa stretched out her hand and poured her a glass of water: "I believe she has a natural outlook, and we will find her."

Although Tina was not comforted, she knew that Alyssa was definitely more uncomfortable than her.

Tina drank a glass of water, "What do you plan to do now?"

"I'm separated from Karl temporarily. Look for my child, and life will continue." She wants to find the child more desperately than anyone, but the reality is that even Karl is helpless.

She is not a flower in a greenhouse. She has tasted bitterness and bitterness since she was a child, and nothing can defeat her.

Tina didn't know what to say for a while, so she changed the subject: "Well, did you start filming the script you signed with Mattie before?"

"It's still in the final preparation period, it should start soon." Alyssa herself is not very clear, because she has not contacted Mattie since she revised the script for the last time.

Tina reminded her: "Then you can contact her, then you can go to the scene to have a look, maybe you still need guidance or something?"

Alyssa nodded.

She really needs something to do now.

But she hadn't taken the initiative to find Mattie for the accident that made Alyssa.

Mattie had already taken the initiative to find her.

The next day, she received a call from Mattie.

Mattie was not polite at all when she said: "I heard that you have returned to Rostenvel? You won't find me when you come back. You won't recognize people if you get the money, right?"

Alyssa rarely had the thought of joking with her: "You know you still call me?"

Mattie smiled extremely angry: "Alyssa, are you arrogant?"

Alyssa narrowed a smile and said seriously: "Don't dare, I will ask you to have coffee tomorrow?"

"Okay." Mattie agreed very happily.

The two met in a remote cafe.

The place is not easy to find. When Mattie arrived, she said angrily: "You are looking for such a ghost place. I searched for such a ghost place for half an hour, and I was all around the place!"

"It's a big deal, I'll buy you two glasses." Alyssa said, and called the waiter.

Mattie really ordered two cups of coffee.

Alyssa is a little speechless, this lady is really a little naive sometimes.

Mattie added sugar to the coffee while saying: "You just came back. The filming of "Lost City" will start the day after tomorrow. You will also go to the opening ceremony when the time comes.

Alyssa nodded: "Yeah."

It was her first script to officially start filming, of course she would go.

Mattie seemed a little surprised to see her answer so simply: "You were a topical figure before, and you may be besieged by the media at that time. You must be psychologically prepared."

Alyssa said half-jokingly and half-seriously: "Isn't this just right? It just happens to create a topic for "Lost City", preheat it in advance, maybe it can be fired before it broadcasts."

"Bah!" Mattie glared at her: "It is gold that will shine sooner or later, so who is rare to use this method to create a topic!"

Chapter 290

After having been in contact with Mattie for a long time, Alyssa had some understanding of Mattie's personality.

Mattie is the only daughter in the family, and her family background is solid.

It might be precisely because she knew too much about the atmosphere in the circle that she was not assimilated.

Mattie is very serious in her work, and she has a stern look, which is a bit of style.

Seeing Mattie taking it seriously, Alyssa corrected her face and said, "This is inevitable. As long as you enter this circle, you will stand in front of the public and let them judge."

Seeing her saying this, Mattie didn't persuade her too much: "Okay, you know it yourself."

â€¦

On August 6, "Lost City" started shooting.

The weather in August is still very hot.

In order to facilitate the movement, Alyssa did not wear a skirt, but a set of extremely simple shirts and black trousers.

She is beautiful, with a good foundation, simple black and white, and can be worn out by her.

She and Mattie agreed to meet in the city and then go to the shooting location together.

Mattie saw her neatly dressed up, shook her head and said, "Although you are the Adams' daughter-in-law now, you don't have to be like this. You came out without makeup? Can you respect our crew?"

"I put on light makeup." Alyssa explained as she opened the door and sat in.

She wears makeup, but it is very light and simple.

I just hooked my eyebrows and put on some lipstick.

"We have to compare our heroines without makeup." Mattie continued to tease her.

Alyssa smiled faintly, without speaking.

The opening ceremony was held in the first scenic spot, in an abandoned middle school building in an old city.

It takes about an hour to drive past the city.

As a producer, Mattie is the most authoritative existence in the crew.

Therefore, when she arrived, the crew had basically arrived.

The heroine is a student selected from the film academy. The actor is said to be a bit famous. Mattie only mentioned it to Alyssa once, but Alyssa did not know who it was.

As soon as Mattie passed by, she asked, "Is Robin here?"

Alyssa, who was following her, heard the word "Robin", and she was dazed.

She was a little impressed by the name Robin.

The main reason is that when Mattie pretended to be a maid and mixed into Karl's villa, because Anya mentioned this name, she had a fight with Anya.

That one was fought hard.

It was also because after the fight, Mattie asked to leave.

Robin is an old drama player with very positive reviews in the entertainment circle. He is very popular and has many loyal fans.

There are not a few big hits in his works, but each one is very well-reviewed. He has worked with many big-name directors, and the mainland's first-line actors have not had to run.

Therefore, the value is naturally not cheap.

But today is the day when "Lost City" starts, Mattie asked Robin as soon as he arrived, which made Alyssa wonder.

Isn't it about making web dramas?

Web dramas are clicks, so they are generally not big productions. Web dramas will hire second- and third-tier actors, or directly invite newcomers.

And Robin's payâ€¦!

Alyssa pulled Mattie and asked her, "The male lead you are looking for is Robin?"

"Yeah." After Mattie finished speaking, a trace of embarrassment flashed on her face, and after looking around, she pulled Alyssa into the corner and said, "The last time I had a fight with Anya, don't let Robin know."

Alyssa was taken aback for a moment: "Okay."

"Miss Adkins."

"what's up?"

Alyssa wanted to ask Mattie something more, but she was called away.

Alyssa is really curious now, how much investment Mattie has made to make "Lost City".

At this time, Mattie's assistant poured a glass of water for Alyssa: "Miss Alyssa, drink water."

"Thank you." Alyssa took the water.

After a while, when Mattie was done, she came back to find Alyssa.

"It's too hot." Mattie turned her head and said to Alyssa after drinking the water, "But it must be done before winter, so that it can be broadcast during winter vacation."

Alyssa thought about it and asked, "How much investment did you make and what is the estimated funding?"

Mattie didn't lie to her, and said directly: "50 million."

"50 million?" Alyssa was surprised by this number.

50 million is a big cost for a web drama.

"If 50 million is not enough, I can still increase the investment." Mattie's tone was very relaxed.

Alyssa brushed the hair on her forehead and asked softly, "Aren't you afraid that you won't make it back?"

Mattie seemed to think for a while, and said, "What if I can't make it back? It's a big deal, I won't cooperate with you in the future."

After she finished speaking, she stretched out her hand and patted Alyssa's shoulder: "Just kidding, I haven't done it yet. Regardless of whether you make money or not, if you do everything, you have to think about the result again."

Alyssa nodded: "That's right."

Mattie stood up: "Let's go, let me introduce you to the crew."

There are a lot of staff in the crew, and Alyssa can't recognize them all.

But it can be seen that Mattie speaks heavily in the crew, because it was Mattie who introduced Alyssa to them, and they were very kind to Alyssa.

When a few of them heard her name, there was a hint of inquiry in their eyes, but they didn't ask much.

After recognizing a circle of people, Robin also came.

Robin was tall, with sharp short hair, a little stubble, handsome eyebrows, and wheat-colored skin that made him look masculine.

Because it is not the same as the young meat on the screen that the public appreciates nowadays, Robin can only play acting, and the acting path is also very narrow. Most of the roles he has played are hard and sweaty.

When Mattie saw him coming, she called out, "Robin."

"Something?" Robin walked over, gazing across Mattie.

Mattie stretched out her hand and put her hand on Alyssa's shoulder: "I will introduce you to Alyssa, the screenwriter of "Lost City"."

Robin looked at Alyssa, a flash of surprise flashed in his eyes, but soon he staggered his eyes very politely: "Hello, Miss Alyssa."

Alyssa smiled: "Hello! I've seen your movie before."

Robin is the protagonist, so he will be more busy, and after a few words with them, he was called away by the director.

â€¦

The opening ceremony went smoother than expected.

It went so well until Alyssa returned home and was not besieged by the media.

It's not going well.

Alyssa thought for a while and called Karl.

The person on the other end of the phone seemed to have been waiting for her call, and was picked up after only one ring.

"Alyssa."